FIRST BALL to be thrown after the opening of the new automatic pin setters. Loren Kottner, Union director, rolled a gutter ball in the excitement.

SU Alleys, Pin Setters Are in Use

The Student Union bowling alleys reopened at 3 p.m. yesterday with ceremonies celebrating the installation of the new automatic pin setters.

"Most college Unions have waited at least five years to install automatic pin setters so we are really fortunate," said Loren Kottner, Student Union director, during the opening ceremonies. He introduced some of the people present who helped make possible the purchasing of the intricate equipment estimated to be worth over $60,000.

Those persons who were introduced were Dan Beatty, college business manager; Case Bonebrake, of the physical plant; Walt Smith, accountant; and Jim Smith, Union games manager.

Kottner pointed out that the Endowment association was responsible for most of the help in acquiring the pin setters.

The event was highlighted by free bowling until 6 p.m. for students, faculty, and college officials.

Don Mach's Essay Wins Swift Contest

"Economics of a Palatable Food," an essay written by Donald Mach, AH Soph, has been chosen the winner in the 1958 Swift essay contest in Kansas, according to D. L. Mackintosh, professor in the Department of Animal Husbandry.

The annual competition sponsored by the meat packing firm provides for a winner at each state agricultural college.

Mach, along with winners from other states, will receive an all-expense-paid trip to Chicago April 27-30 for a four day marketing school. They will visit the stockyards with company buyers, follow the animals

Stith Thompson, Educator-Folklorist, To Give Lecture Thursday, Danforth

"The Contributions of Folklore—Literature of the Unlettered" will be the subject of a lecture by Dr. Stith Thompson, internationally recognized educator and folklorist, in Danforth Chapel, Thursday at 4 p.m. Dr. Thompson will be here April 10-12 under the auspices of the Graduate Seminar and Lecture series.

He will present two seminars for graduate faculty and graduate students of English, sociology, history, and modern languages. A lecture on American folklore will be at 3 p.m. Friday in room 15 of Eisenhower hall. The other seminar will be at 10 a.m. Saturday in Eisenhower 208.

Thompson will be guest of honor at a reception at 4 p.m. Friday in the Union art lounge.

Dr. Thompson is the former dean of the Graduate school of Indiana university and now is guest teacher of folklore at Kansas university. He is the author of several definitive works on world folklore and the American Indian.

In 1953, he was the first Indiana university faculty member to be awarded the highest academic rank there, that of distinguished service professor. He is a former president of the American Folklore society and is an honorary member of folklore societies in several other countries.

In 1957, Dr. Thompson published a revision of his "Motif Index of Folk Literature," a six-volume work which can be found in the Library. His latest work is "Oral Tales of India," which was released by the Indiana Press last month.

Tonight—Jazz by Ellington

Duke Ellington

Duke Ellington and his band will play at a concert in the College auditorium tonight from 7:30 to 9:30. Tickets will remain on sale at the Union information desk today, and will be sold at the door for $1.50.

Mr. Ellington arrived in Manhattan early this morning, and will be speaker at a coffee hour in the main lounge of the Union at 4 p.m. today.

No admission will be charged for the coffee hour, and the public is invited. Refreshments will be served.

Nearly 20 performers will be included in Ellington's group tonight, including one vocalist.

Ellington's music has been famous for many years. He has visited countries in Europe twice, and both times astounded the citizens on that continent with his type of music. His engagements in the United States include nearly all the famous night spots. He performed in Chicago before coming here.

This will be the last big name performance by a musician here this semester sponsored by the Jazz club.

The KMAN radio station has made arrangements with Ellington for a radio interview at 3:30 p.m. Shel Smith will conduct the interview.

Ellington band members are expected to arrive in Manhattan from St. Louis at 6 p.m. Ellington and his band will leave for South Dakota after the performance tonight, according to Ollie White, the Union program director.

KU Charges Half a Dollar For Parking

A 50-cent fee will be charged motorists using the University of Kansas Student-Union parking lot, effective this summer.

Coin-operated automatic gates will admit motorists to the lot as a result of recent action by the University administration. The machines are scheduled to be installed during the spring recess.

Money from the parking fees is to be used for the creation of new lots and improvement of present ones. It is hoped the new arrangement will relieve campus parking congestion, according to the University newspaper, The Daily Kansan.

Students use the Union but it is also the main guest parking lot on campus.

The University also charged persons using the parking lot at the Allen field house during the NCAA regional basketball tournament March 14 and 15. The fee—50 cents. Parking lot attendants were employed to collect the charge as each car entered.

KS Civic Orchestra To Present Concert

The KS Civic orchestra will present a concert Sunday at 3 p.m. in the College auditorium, under Leavengood conducting. There will be no admission charge.

On the program will be the first two movements of Beethoven's "Symphony No. 7 in A Major" and two orchestra sketches, "The Plains" and "Prairie Schoner" by Anthony Donato.

Judith Young, Tpt. II violinist, will play Mozart's Concerto in A Major, No. 5 with the orchestra.

Robert DeCou, MEI Jr, will play the "Concerto No. 1 in E-flat Major" by Strauss, on the French horn.

Program Council Opens Sub-committee Positions

Applications for Union Program council sub-committee positions on all Union committees may be filled out in the Union activity center until 5 p.m. Monday, April 14, according to Jack Hamilton, BA Jr.

KU Friends Come Up With Parking Solution

WELCOME BACK . . . and happy hardy hitting of ye ol' books. Since, with only seven weeks left, that's what you're planning, isn't it—or is it? Even if time doesn't, we're sure grades will tell!

NOTICING THE SOLUTION that our friends down the Kaw have for the parking problem, we're about to decide that perhaps K-State isn't so bad off after all. At 50 cents a day, students might even be tempted to walk—although we're sure there are a few of us who might be able to buck such charges.

It might be instructive and quite informative if the results from the new program are passed around—since obviously the parking problem besieges many nearby campuses!

The success of such a system might well point toward a new trend—parking meters in every campus lot. The money from the program could go toward new and better lots, and that left over would of course be donated to the Athletic department. (There's no reason here, of course—but, as in most schools—the department really doesn't need a reason!)

DUKE ELLINGTON on campus—honest, we've never seen such an array of talent as has been provided Staters this year! Brubeck, Armstrong, Kenton, Flanagan—makes an impressive list, and if you add those musicians who've been offered by the Artist Series, K-State has done quite well in broadening the musical capacities of its students. Orchids to those responsible, and we hope K-Staters are taking advantage of the opportunities to see some really good performances.

SOOOO—the election is over. Now the winners can find out how much toil and trouble that bubbling pot can bring them! Congratulations to those who played the winning game—and our sincere best wishes that they refrain from playing a game with student government.—Sue Goss

Screen Scene

Film Version of 'Brothers Karamazov' Impressive In Spite of Emphasis Shift, Romanticized Ending

With the exception of romanticized ending, an impressive version of Dostoyevsky's classic is brought to the screen in "The Brothers Karamazov" at the Campus theater.

Those unfamiliar with the book will find the movie a dramatic recreation of one of Russia's most famous murder cases.

To a point the film moves below the surface with Dostoyevsky to probe the concern of the four brothers Karamazov with the question of God's existence, a difficult task for the screen.

Authentic landscaping, excellent photography, and striking color-lighting (sometimes overdone) add impact to the long picture.

Viewers more familiar with the book will be bothered by the movie's shift of emphasis to Dmitri (Yul Brynner) as the main figure rather than the devout Alexey, as in the novel.

Lee J. Cobb does a commendable job of bringing to life the father of the Karamazov family,

Ike Not Expected to Recommend Major Tax Cut in Near Future

Compiled from United Press

Washington — Evidence was mounting today that President Eisenhower believes the administration's anti-recession program is taking hold and that the time has not come to recommend a major tax cut, particularly in income taxes.

The chief executive was expected to indicate his position at his weekly news conference today.

The spring pickup in the economy has not developed as much as the administration had hoped. But unemployment figures for March, announced yesterday, were not as bad as they had been expected to be two weeks earlier. This was encouragement enough for the President to continue his wait-and-see policy on tax reduction.

He said in a statement yesterday the March job statistics "indicate a slowing up" of the recession.

Geneticist Blasts Bomb

Kansas City, Mo.—A geneticist charged last night that the U.S. is willing to risk the lives of 200,000 children to perfect the H-bomb it wants.

Dr. Irwin Herskowitz, associate professor of biology at St. Louis university, said that hundreds of thousands of innocent people throughout the world will suffer because of H-bomb tests.

"If the government thinks continuing H-bomb tests will eventually save millions of lives, then the lives of 200,000 children mean nothing. It's a calculated risk," Herskowitz said.

But he said the tests will not wipe out the human race, "All-out war will do that."

He said officials should tell the world that H-bomb tests will bring from 100,000 to 200,000 leukemia cases plus untold numbers of cancer cases through indirect radioactive fallout in the next 10 to 30 years.

"To ignore that fact is the crime the government and many in the medical profession have been committing," Herskowitz said.

Cuban Uprising Spreads

Havana — Guerrilla warfare was reported today to have spread from rebel-infested Oriente to two more of Cuba's six provinces—Las Villas and Camaguey.

The Army announced that four rebels were killed and a soldier and a policeman injured "when a Communist-led group seeking to alter public order" tried to burn several homes at Quemado De Guines in Las Villas.

Atom Study Advances

Washington—The Navy believes it is "on the verge of a breakthrough" in efforts to convert heat directly into electricity. If it is, cheap atomic power is on the horizon and the existing conventional power industry faces a revolution.

In testimony before a House appropriations subcommittee Rear Adm. A. M. Morgan of the bureau of ships said:

"We are on the verge of a breakthrough apparently in conversion of heat to electric power through thermoelectric couples." Morgan added that "we should have something definite on this in a matter of three years."

Higher Taxes Forecast

Topeka—Higher taxes will be inevitable in the road construction picture ahead for Kansas, a state official warned yesterday.

State Highway Engineer Walter Johnson told a Legislative council committee that "we can get by" this year without having the upcoming special session of the Legislature find more road revenues.

"But eventually," he said, "we'll have to have more money" if the state matches all federal road aid monies made available.

Congress' new anti-recession highway measure gives Kansas $11.7 million, which must be matched by one-third the amount in state money.

Majority of Students Questioned Favor Dead Week for K-State

By Wesley Shoup

STUDENT OPINION appears to be, for the most part, in favor of establishing Dead Week preceding final week. Out of 10 students interviewed, 8 agreed that it is basically a good idea.

Answers and reasons students gave when asked "Should K-State have a Dead Week preceding final exams," varied but were mostly favorable to the idea.

J. R. BOEGE, Geo Sr—"Yes, if it is run efficiently. They should cut out testing and knock off social activities."

GARFIELD SCHMIDT, Ch Jr—"Yes, club meetings and social functions should be excluded, but instructors should use their own judgment in giving tests that week. If they want to give a test, they should without any hindrances from the students."

JOE HOLBERT, TJ Soph—"No, I feel Dead Week is useless. If a person needs to study he will make time for himself."

JAMES E. MATSON, Agr Soph—"Yes, I think it would be a good idea because it gives a person time to review on his own outside of class."

CHARLES WILKIN, IE Jr—"No, I don't think it's necessary. If people are going to study they will, if not, they won't."

BILL MARTIN, IE Sr—"Yes, providing they make arrangements to keep on giving the one hour and lab course tests that week. If those tests were given during final week, it would be too much."

BILL HARRISON, NE Sr—"Yes, to dispense with social functions would be fine, but academically, no. It is too difficult to change present methods and I don't believe people would use it to their full advantage."

Cat Netmen Drop Match To Colorado University

Colorado university defeated K-State, 6-1, in a dual tennis meet here Saturday. K-State's only win came in the No. 1 doubles match, as Winston Tilzey and John Bird of K-State defeated Joe Wright and Bob Latta, 2-6, 6-3, 6-4. The Cats now have a 1-3 season record.

Singles results:
 Jim Landin (CU) defeated Winston Tilzey (KS), 11-9, 7-5.
 Bob Wright (CU) defeated John Bird (KS), 6-1, 6-2.

Ron Latta (CU) defeated Keith Andler (KS), 6-1, 6-0.
 Bart Green (CU) defeated Ed Frankel (KS), 6-4, 7-5.
 John Whistler (CU) defeated John Stone (KS), 6-1, 6-4.

Doubles results:
 Tilzey and Bird (KS) defeated Wright and Latta (CU), 2-6, 6-3, 6-4.
 Whistler and Landin (CU) defeated Andler and Frankel (KS), 6-4, 6-3.

KS Tracksters Set To Depart For Louisiana

Coach Ward Haylett and 12 K-State tracksters will leave early this evening for the Southwestern Louisiana Relays in Lafayette. The relays will be this weekend. Coach Haylett put much point-emphasis on the various relay events as the Wildcats will compete in the mile, two-mile, sprint medley, and distance medley relays.

The meet will feature schools from the Southwestern, Southeastern, Big Eight, and Southern conferences.

Cats Will Not Announce Future Football Recruits

The names of high school football players who have been recruited by Kansas university and K-State will no longer be announced. This is in accordance with a pact between the two schools agreeing not to reveal the names of high school players who have decided which school they will attend.

Recently KU coach Jack Mitchell, unaware of the pact, announced the names of several players who have said they plan to enroll at KU next fall.

K-State coach Bus Mertes then announced a few of his recruits for next year.

School officials feel it better not to release the names of the boys, for no official scholarship can be given a boy until he graduates from high school, and sometimes after the announcement he may change his mind as to which college he wishes to attend.

The five players named by K-State who have indicated to Mertes that they will enroll at K-State next fall are Ralph Oringer, center and guard from Dodge City; Fred Scott, halfback and quarterback from Kansas City, Mo., East high school; Don Goodpasture, full back from Wichita East; Stanley Bruns, tackle and end at Dighton; and Bob Robbins, tailback from Oskaloosa.

Goodpasture was named to the Sporting News High School all-America last season, and Oringer was on the Topeka Daily Capital all-State team last season.

Have Attic, Will Not Sublet -Is Message of KS Sororities

By GARY SETTLE

Memo to vagrants:

Only four of K-State's 10 social sororities have attics. Thinking the male population might be interested in the local sorority attic situation after last week's discovery of an attic intruder in the Gamma Phi Beta house at KU, the Collegian made a spot check of K-State sororities' attics.

The four sororities that have attics don't seem to know much about them other than that they're probably there.

"I'm pretty sure we have an attic," said Kathy Hueftle, Psy Soph, of Alpha Chi Omega. "It has a trap door from the inside of the house, but I don't think anybody's ever been up there."

According to Alpha Delta Pi President Caroline Harkins, SED Jr, "We have a small attic, but I don't think anybody ever goes up there. I'm sure there aren't any men up there."

Clovvia President Beverly Sims, ChW Jr, said, "We have an attic, but I think it's just empty. I don't believe it has any outside windows or doors."

Delta Delta Delta has a large attic. According to President Dee Oberg, Eng Jr, "It runs the full length of the house, but we don't use it for anything."

Women contacted by the Collegian in the other six sororities didn't think their houses had attics. Said Gamma Phi Beta President Linnea Brown, Ar 04, "We have a flat roof—no attic." According to Chi Omega Pam Bowman, BMT Jr, "We don't have a real attic—just a place for storage and clothes, and I don't think anybody is up there." Pi Beta Phi President Carolyn Eby, BA Jr, said, "I don't think we have an attic, but I'm not sure."

Well gentlemen, you now have the general lowdown on the unoccupied (we think) attics among the sororities at K-State. And, ladies, may be you'd better make an occasional check upstairs.

Activities

Engineers' Meet Planned

Students from six colleges and universities will be at K-State April 28 and 29 for the annual spring meeting of the student section of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers.

The six schools are K-State, Kansas university, Oklahoma university, Oklahoma State university, Arkansas university, and Nebraska university.

There will be two technical sessions and a banquet, at which Howard T. Hill, former head of the K-State Department of Speech, will give an address.

Two K-State students will present papers: Clyde Sprague, ME Sr, on "Experimental Determination of Rocket Performance," and Darrell Hosler, ME Jr, on "Effect of Tail Fins on Automobile Stability."

Agriculture Education Club

The annual Agriculture Education club banquet was April 1, at the Student Union. The banquet honored Prof. A. P. Davidson, head teacher trainer of the Agriculture Education department at Kansas State college.

The banquet, planned and organized by ag education seniors, was decorated with a mural which depicted four stages of Professor Davidson's life. He was presented a silver tray on which was inscribed "To Prof. from Agriculture Education club."

Parr Committed to Hospital After Nervous Breakdown

Jack Parr, BPM Jr, 6' 9" basketball star, was taken to Topeka State hospital last night from Riley county hospital following a nervous breakdown and almost 35 hours of confinement. Parr arrived at Topeka at 9:20 p.m.

Tear gas was used following

an episode about 1 p.m. yesterday when Parr refused any sedative from Dr. Donald F. Cooper, Student Health physician, and had to be barricaded in his room to prevent further violence.

While police, College officials, and County Attorney Dick Rogers tried to verbally calm him, Parr tore a metal chair in his room apart and used one leg of the chair as a weapon. Parr broke all the windows in his room, slashing his own wrists with the shattered glass, and violently tearing up the room, according to Dean of Students Herbert J. Wunderlich.

Following a plea outside his window from Rogers, Parr threw down his weapons and came out of the room, staggering down the hall. He was taken to surgery immediately so doctors could sew up his wounds, and appeared to be quite lucid. Wunderlich said Parr appeared quite apologetic on the trouble he had caused, and had seemed quite calm before the ambulance left for Topeka.

The incident followed a mental outburst on Wednesday, which began about 1 p.m. Parr's landlady, Mrs. Charles Musil, called Dr. Cooper after Parr had left the house issuing threats and stating he was going to go buy a gun.

Cooper, after checking pawn shops and verifying her story, called campus police, E. Jerry Phares, assistant professor in the Psychology department and clinical psychologist who had been working with Parr, and Dean Wunderlich.

Phares and Harry Perkins, campus patrolman, arrived at Parr's room before he had returned from town. As Jack entered through the back entrance, he saw the two men and attempted to load the gun, a .38 pistol. Perkins wrestled with him, getting the gun, and Phares took the clips from Parr.

Soon after Wunderlich arrived, Parr was taken by car to Riley County hospital, where he was kept in the seclusion ward. Wunderlich commented that he had visited him late Tuesday afternoon and Parr had been quite composed and showed little sign of the emotional disturbance evident earlier. Phares and Cooper had been working with Parr in connection with his depressive state.

Wunderlich said the fact that he was taking 18 hours plus 6 hours correspondence had weighed heavily on his shoulders. Oklahoma newspapers had accused Parr of being a segregationist in connection with the Louisville tournament. A rumored dispute between he and Bob Boozer, ArG Jr, had bothered Parr, too, according to Tex Winter, K-State basketball coach.

Industry Relations Subject of Confab

"Wage-Price Policy and Economic Stability" will be the topic for this year's Industrial Relations conference which will be on Thursday, April 24, in the Union main ballroom.

The conference is primarily for students of junior and above classification at K-State, but any student wishing to attend the all-day conference may do so.

Labor and management representatives from throughout the state will be available for discussion. David M. Molthrop, a private management consultant and public relations representative in Toledo will speak on "Wage-Price Policy and Economic Stability: A Management View." Stanley H. Ruttenberg, research director of AFL-CIO in Washington, D.C., will present "Wage-Price Policy and Economic Stability: A Labor View."

The College committee in charge of the program consists of E. S. Bagley, professor of economics; D. A. Trumbo, instructor of psychology; S. T. Keim, professor of business administration; J. E. Kitchens, coordinator in the Continuing Education department; G. A. Sellers, professor of industrial engineering; and W. B. Nelson, associate professor of economics, the committee chairman.

Tickets for both a luncheon and dinner are available. The luncheon will be at 11:50 a.m. in banquet room B of the Union, and tickets can be reserved by calling the Economics department, extension 324. The price is $1.30 a person. Dinner tickets are $1.53, and may be purchased in room 327A, Waters hall, room 106, Extension barracks, room 201, Holton hall, and room 211, Engineering shops. The dinner will be at 6:30 p.m. in the main ballroom.

New Senate Takes Over Next Week

Thirteen K-State staff members have been elected to three-year terms on the Faculty Senate, and one has been named for a two-year term. They will take office Tuesday at the Senate's next meeting.

Those elected for a three-year term: Associate Prof. Milton L. Manuel and Associate Prof. Paul Sanford, School of Agriculture; Prof. T. D. O'Brien, Prof. S. T. Parker, Prof. Fritz Moore, Assistant Dean G. O. Ebberts, Associate Prof. M. F. Hansen, School of Arts and Sciences; Assistant Prof. E. C. Lindly and Prof. W. H. Honstead, School of Engineering and Architecture; Harry Anthony, School of Veterinary Medicine; Katharine Lackey and Associate Prof. Leonard F. Neff, extension; and Prof. William Baehr, Library.

Prof. W. G. Amstein of the Extension division was elected for a two-year term.

Correspondence Courses Used by Many Students

"If home study courses are to be equivalent to the ones on the hill the resident faculty must write and teach them," says Arthur S. Krival, co-ordinator of home study in the Department of Continuing Education.

Last year 2,451 students enrolled in almost 100 different courses by correspondence at K-State. Most of these students were from Kansas, but some were from as far away as Germany.

Home study consists of a series of lesson assignments. They are assigned readings, studies, problems, and investigations, together with a list of questions. They are based on a text and have directions for a written report.

Courses taken through the correspondence program can be credited toward an undergraduate degree at K-State. Most institutions do not credit home study for graduate credit.

KSC Judging Team Will Be Given Medals

Thirty-eight men will receive judging team medals at the Agriculture seminar today at 4 p.m. in the Auditorium. New officers of the Agricultural association will also be elected.

Candidates for the council are:

A full house took advantage of the first night of the smorgasbord in the Union main ballroom, according to Loren Kottner, Union director. "About one hundred persons were present," he said.

Kottner said that there is room for more reservations for tonight's smorgasbord. Persons wishing to attend should call the Union information desk for reservations. Tonight is the last night for the smorgasbord which will be from 5 p.m. until 6:30 p.m.

'Crowd Great,' Says Duke, 'We Were Communicating'

DUKE ELLINGTON'S DRUMMER, Sam Woodyard, blasted a driving solo during "Skin Deep" at the Jazz club-sponsored concert in the College auditorium last night. Woodyard plays two bass drums with his feet and occasionally uses an elbow on a tom tom.

The Duke Ellington band played to a three-fourths capacity audience at a concert sponsored by the Jazz club in the Auditorium last night. In spite of rainy weather and the fact that the band arrived an hour after the scheduled 7:30 p.m. start of the concert, the jazz lovers who were there got to hear the famed Ellington sound played by top-grade musicians.

With leader Ellington at the piano, the band played most of its more famous numbers in the two-hour concert, including "Mood Indigo," "Take the A Train," "Perdido," and "The Mooche." Drummer Sam Woodyard unleashed an especially furious barrage during the band's hit of three years ago, "Skin Deep."

After the performance Ellington said, "The audience was great—really stimulating. We were communicating all the time. They seemed to dig everything we played. You know, blowing a concert is just like talking with words. If everybody understands the language they get along okay."

Misunderstanding, Distortion, Ignorance Add Most Regrettable Aspect to Campus Tragedy

A TRAGIC INCIDENT has happened at Kansas State, and one of the most regrettable aspects arises from the misunderstanding, from the distortion, and from absolute ignorance on the part of the public.

Jack Parr attained national recognition as a basketball player. He was an important member of the team which brought Kansas State national fame. He is guilty of nothing but playing his best, attempting to carry a total of 24 hours, trying to make grades, and living down vicious rumors which were started, apparently, by those very people for whom he was playing basketball.

Jack Parr is sick. He is sick just like a million other people are sick—some physically, some spiritually, and still others mentally. Unfortunately, Jack falls in the latter category, and therefore must stand strongest against vicious innuendos and gossip at a time when he is least able to be strong.

The blame now is nonexistent. Parr has blamed no one. He only asks why he is accused of segregationism, of single-handedly losing the NCAA tournament, and of other equally absurd actions. We doubt that any of us can imagine the amount of mental pressure which has been Jack's during these last few weeks—and we know of few people who would be willing or brave enough to withstand such barbs.

EVEN MORE APPALLING is the fact that Parr's own popularity, his own fame, is hurting him most now. Few large newspapers would be anxious to front page a story about Joe Doaks—but the name Jack Parr means something. Again, circumstances add to the forces surrounding him.

Mental illness is no longer shameful. We can only regret that there is no quick, sure-fire prescription or serum which will make Jack well immediately. Regrets are a poor substitute for a man's mental well-being, however. There are always those few who are willing to add fuel to the basic fact that Jack Parr is simply mentally sick and pass it on to any who will listen.

We've printed the facts, hoping to squelch some of those wild, unfounded rumors. We offer our best get-well wishes and most sincere prayers to Jack Parr. We hope he'll come back to K-State soon.

EXPRESSIONS OF SYMPATHY throughout the campus are extended to the family of the late Prof. F. W. Atkeson. Those of us who were fortunate enough to know the professor realize how meagre our tributes stand beside the vocational and personal accomplishments of this man, who headed K-State's Dairy department for the past 23 years.

For those of you who did not know Professor Atkeson we can offer equal amounts of sympathy, if not more.

Oregon State Is Likened to Russia By Rival School Oregon University

By Jerry Ratts

THE RIVALRY between Kansas university and K-State must take a back seat to the feud between the two state schools in Oregon, Oregon university and Oregon State college.

In a recent issue of the Oregon Daily Emerald, OU's school paper, Oregon State is likened to Russia.

"After all, they are largely a group concerned with agriculture and the 'lesser' areas of intellectual life (although we find ourselves alarmed at their advances with engineering and science)," says the Emerald concerning the relationships of the two schools.

"Then too, our Corvallis friends, like the Russians, seem to have it in for us propaganda-wise. That's where that horrible 'country club' appellation came from," continues the Emerald.

These comments do ring a bell, don't they?

From the Rocky Mountain Collegian, Fort Collins, Colorado, came an interesting dissertation on that most honorable of all buildings—a library. "A campus without a library would be like a swimming pool without water. Let go of your coffee cup long enough to count up the different obligations a library must fulfill. It must, to begin with, be an awe-inspiring building containing a vast number of volumes. Tell the visitors it contains 1,273,845 books; they will be properly impressed and won't stop to count them anyway.

"Secondly, the whole caste system of the college would be disrupted if someone was to suddenly uproot the library. Where would the 3-pointers and bookworms hang out? They surely wouldn't fraternize with the doughnut-dunking crowd.

"The library has other good points, too. The eyeballing is usually fair, there are usually some magazines with pictures lying about, and it is a wonderfully quiet place for sleeping. And Small consolation that it now may be, knowing him was an honor and a privilege.

PROF. EARLE DAVIS, a well-known figure around K-State and a delightful after-dinner entertainer with his ballads, recommends that Stith Thompson's performance at 4 p.m. today in Danforth chapel should be both entertaining and informative.

Recognizing Thompson as the world's greater authority on folklore, Davis said his program could hardly help being worth K-Staters' time. We not only will applaud those responsible for Thompson's visit to the campus, but will go along with Dr. Davis on encouraging students to attend. And those of you unfortunates who are unable to attend today's lecture might drop in the art lounge at 4 p.m. tomorrow—where a reception will be given in Thompson's honor.—Sue Goss

Cuban Rebels and Government Claim Victories; 'Total War' Continues with Bombings, Threats

Compiled From United Press
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Havana — Bomb explosions jarred Havana last night and early today, the second day of the rebels' long-threatened "total war" against President Fulgencio Batista's government.

Both the government and Fidel Castro's rebels claimed victory in yesterday's "first stage"—a flurry of violence in which at least 15 persons were killed (unofficial estimates reaching New York placed the nationwide toll at more than 30 dead).

Two powerful bombs exploded last night in suburban Vigora, where the 5th Infantry regiment has its headquarters. A third was set off in Regla, across Havana bay, where the Sinclair and Shell oil refineries are located.

Observers here were waiting to see whether rebel threats to fire on any shop that remained open and on any bus or truck using Cuba's highways would make Castro's "revolutionary general strike" effective.

Some squares and government buildings had been blocked off, and heavy guards were stationed at other key points. Unconfirmed reports said the Grand Masonic lodge of Cuba is under heavy police guard.

Most establishments not directly affected by yesterday's outburst of violence in Havana continued to do "business as usual." Eusebio Mujal, secretary of the powerful CTC Union federation, predicted late in the day that there would be no general strike.

Ike Plans Fight

Washington — President Eisenhower intends to take his case for Pentagon reorganization to the American people in at all-out fight against congressional opposition to the plan.

The President, who usually tries to avoid open clashes with Congress, left no doubt at his news conference yesterday that he is in a fighting mood and will use every means at his command to put his plan over.

In unusually blunt language, he said he didn't "care how strong . . . or how numerous" his congressional foes might be. He said his defense reorganization proposals "will go swimmingly once people really understand" them.

To achieve that end, he said, he would appear on nationwide radio and television broadcasts as often as possible to win public support for Pentagon "modernization" that he called "necessary" for the nation's safety.

Paris Mission Fails

Paris—Failure of the Anglo-American "good offices" team to end the Franco-Tunisian dispute and a rising tide of labor difficulties brought new threats today to the government of Premier Felix Gaillard.

Conservative deputies put Gaillard on fresh notice they would overthrow him at the first sign of "appeasement" in trying to end the Tunisian stalemate even though the National Assembly Easter recess does not end until April 29.

Student Urges Cards for Parr

Dear Sue,

As you know Jack Parr is in the hospital with a nervous breakdown. I for one was very sorry to hear this, and I feel that I'm not alone in feeling this way, but this does Jack very little good unless he knows about the way we feel. So would the Collegian please start a card shower for him.

Rodney K. Vincent, Ag Fr.

(Editor's Note: We're proud that Kansas State boasts such students as Mr. Vincent, and will be pleased to encourage such a plan. Drop coffee three times today, dash to the nearest store, and send a post card, get-well or we-miss-you greeting to: Jack Parr, c-o Topeka State hospital, Topeka, Kansas.)

Diplomatic observers and newspapers wrote off the Anglo-American good offices mission as a failure, and most blamed the failure on the Tunisians. The leftist newspaper Liberation said the British and American diplomats would have been sorcerers if they had succeeded.

The peace mission appeared to have foundered on Tunisian President Habib Bourguiba's refusal to accept a French proposal for neutral control of the Algerian-Tunisian border. France charges that Tunisia has sent aid across the border to the Algerian rebels.

Lana's Story 'True'

Hollywood — Beverly Hills police today backed up Lana Turner's story on the knife-slaying by her daughter of Johnny Stompanato in the movie queen's home.

"Lana's story is true," Police Chief Clinton H. Anderson said.

Anderson said every phase of the events leading up to the knifing of the former Mickey Cohen bodyguard had been checked and rechecked. He said all principals had been questioned repeatedly and all flaws had been eliminated.

Police support of Lana's version of the slaying was made known on the eve of her appearance at an inquest.

Tax Deadline Near

Topeka—Kansans have until next Tuesday to pay state income taxes without penalty.

State Revenue Director John Kirchern said after the deadline Tuesday, April 15, a 10 per cent penalty for the first 60 days will apply to all delinquent state income tax returns, plus 1 per cent each month.

That would mean an 11 per cent penalty for April 16 and thereafter. The penalty goes to 25 per cent, plus 1 per cent a month, for persons filing after June 16.

K-STATE'S BOB GRAMZOW, highest scorer in Wildcat gymnastics history, will compete in the NCAA championships at East Lansing, Mich., tomorrow and Saturday.

Netmen To Meet Ichabods

K-State's tennis team meets Washburn university here at 2 p.m. today. The Cat squad will be trying to improve a season mark of 1-3.

Coach Karl Finney will use the same performers as he has in the past meets this season. They are Winston Tilzey, John Bird, Keith Andler, Ed Frankel, and John Stone in the singles, with Tilzey and Bird teaming up for No. 1 doubles, and Andler and Frankel pairing for the other doubles team.

If the weather is unfavorable the match will be played in Ahearn gymnasium, and will start at 1:30.

The Wildcat netmen's lone win was over Southwestern college of Winfield, while they have lost to Wichita university, Oklahoma State university, and Colorado university here last Saturday.

Spring Grid Drill Could Draw 65

Coach Bus Mertes is expecting approximately 65 football candidates to turn out for K-State's first spring drill tomorrow afternoon.

The practice sessions, which were scheduled to start Wednesday, were delayed two days so they would end on May 16, when the K-State grid staff is hosting a clinic for Kansas high school coaches.

Mertes said the final spring drill would be under lights on the practice field as part of the clinic. The annual varsity-alumni football game is still slated for May 10, Mertes added.

Cage Feed Postponed

K-State's basketball awards banquet scheduled for tomorrow evening has been postponed indefinitely, according to H. B. (Bebe) Lee, K-State athletic director.

"Jack Parr has meant so much to K-State basketball for three seasons that we want to reschedule the banquet when he can attend," said Lee.

Cat Gymnast To Compete In Nationals

Bob Gramzow, captain of the K-State gymnastics team, left this morning with Coach Frank Thompson for the NCAA Gymnastics championships at Michigan State university in East Lansing tomorrow and Saturday.

Gramzow will represent K-State in the free exercise event. He qualified for the nationals by winning the event at the all-college meet at Lincoln, March 8.

He has a total of 135 points so far this season—an all-time team record. The old record was 72 points, held by last year's captain, Richard Rood. The gymnastics team has two more meets scheduled this year in which Gramzow can better his record.

The next meet is the Southwest AAU championships at Dallas, April 18 and 19. K-State took second in this meet last year. The final meet is the Illinois Invitational championships at Western Illinois State university, May 2 and 3.

Cat Matmen To Meet For Rules Discussion

K-State's varsity and freshmen wrestlers will meet in the wrestling room of the Field House today at 4 p.m. to elect a team captain and to discuss wrestling rules, according to Coach Fritz Knorr.

Wildcat Golf Team To Play at Wichita

K-State's varsity golfers left Wednesday afternoon for a three-day road trip which consists of a match with Wichita university at Wichita today, Oklahoma State university at Stillwater Friday, and Tulsa university at Tulsa Saturday.

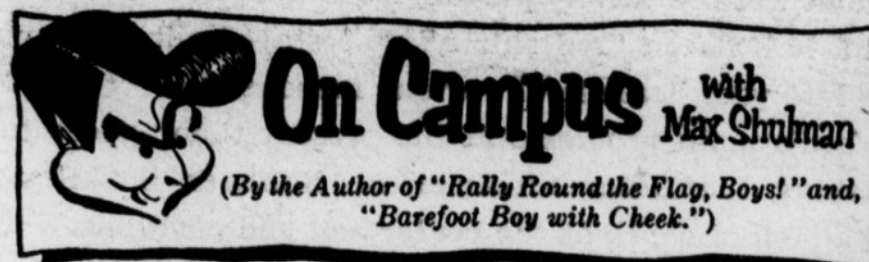

Seniors Dave Smith, Jerry Smith, Joe Downey, and sophomore Charles Hostetler, who comprise Coach W. W. Harvey's traveling team, were to have made the trip, according to the coach.

The Wildcat golfers started out the season in the win column by beating Washburn university, 11-4, at Topeka last week. Harvey said that the scores could stand some improvement, and he expects them to do so as the season goes on.

The next action for the golf team will be Tuesday, April 15, when the Wildcats travel to Lawrence for a match with Kansas university.

The Cats then have three matches in succession at home. The team hosts Washburn university April 19, Nebraska university two days later, and Omaha university April 25.

SCIENCE MADE SIMPLE: No. 3

Once again the makers of Marlboro Cigarettes, bless their tattooed hearts, have consented to let me use this space, normally intended for levity, to bring you a brief lesson in science.

They are generous, openhanded men, the makers of Marlboro, hearty, ruddy, and full of the joy of living, as anyone can tell who has sampled their wares. In Marlboro you will find no stinting, no stinginess. Marlboro's pleasures are rich, manifold, and bountiful. You get a lot to like with a Marlboro—filter, flavor, flip-top box, and, in some models, power steering.

The science that we take up today is called astronomy, from the Greek words astro meaning "sore" and nomos meaning "back". Sore backs were the occupational disease of the early Greek astronomers, and no wonder! They used to spend every blessed night lying on the damp ground and looking up at the sky, and if there's a better way to get a sore back, I'd like to hear about it. Especially in the moist Mediterranean area, where Greece is generally considered to be.

Lumbago and related disorders kept astronomy from becoming very popular until Galileo, an unemployed muleteer of Pamplona, fashioned a homemade telescope in 1924 out of three Social Security cards and an ordinary ice cube. What schoolboy does not know that stirring story—how Galileo stepped up to his telescope, how he looked heavenward, how his face filled with wonder, how he stepped back and whispered the words heard round the world: "Let them eat cake!"

Well sir, you can imagine what happened then! William Jennings Bryan snatched Nell Gwynne from the shadow of the guillotine at Oslo; Chancellor Bismarck brought in four gushers in a single afternoon; Enos Slaughter was signed by the Hanseatic League; Crete was declared off limits to Wellington's army; and William Faulkner won the Davis Cup for his immortal Penrod and Sam.

But after a while things calmed down and astronomers began the staggering task of naming all the heavenly bodies. First man to name a star was Sigafos of Mt. Wilson, and the name he chose was Betelgeuse, after his dear wife, Betelgeuse Sigafos, prom queen at Michigan State from 1919 to 1931.

Then the Major Brothers of Yerkes Observatory named stars after their wives, Ursa and Canis, and Witnick of Harvard named one after his wife, Big Dipper, and soon all the stars were named.

Astronomers then turned to the question: is there life on other planets? The answer was a flat, unequivocal no. Spectroscopic studies proved without a doubt that the atmosphere on the other planets was far too harsh to permit the culture of the fine tobaccos that go into Marlboro Cigarettes . . . And who can live without Marlboro?

Spring Sports are Here . . .

If any team is going to knock Oklahoma university off the Big Eight football pedestal—a position which it has held for 11 years—Colorado university would seem to be the logical team to do it.

Buffalo coach Dal Ward has the bulk of one of CU's greatest freshman teams, plus an outstanding group of lettermen from which to build his 1958 team.

Despite the fact that Colorado tied for third place in the conference last season with a 3-3 league record, the Buffs finished as the No. 1 rushing team in the nation.

Spring drills began Tuesday for CU and included in the turnout were 28 varsity players from last year, 45 freshmen, and a half dozen "red shirts," who stayed out of competition last year because of various reasons.

Ward's main problems at the present time appear to be replacing the Buffs' all-American halfback Bob Stansky and a lack of depth at the center and end positions.

Ward is not as bad off as it would seem, however. He has a capable replacement for Stransky in Howard Cook, a two-year letterman, and there are many strong candidates for the center slot and both ends.

Next to Oklahoma's Bud Wilkinson, Ward probably has the easiest time digging up grid prospects in the Big Eight. And why not? He has one of the best recruiters in the business working for him—the Rocky Mountains.

The Boulder campus has the Rockies as a backyard playground, thus offering a top incentive for prospective CU students. The normal college student who believes in the old saying "All work and no play makes John a dull boy," can find ample relief from the drudgery of study by hiking, skiing, and the like at Colorado.

Of the 75 players listed on the Buff spring grid roster, 30 are native Coloradans while 45 came from 18 other states from coast to coast.

Ward hasn't been very nice to his neighbors when it comes to football recruiting. Seven players from Wyoming and six from Kansas are on the CU squad. In fact, the cream of his backfield talent is from these two states. Cook, Quarterback Boyd Dowler, and Fullback George Adams are from Wyoming and Ellwin Indorf, Buff extra point ace, is from St. Francis, Kans.

KU track coach Bill Easton will unwrap his much-heralded sophomore, Cliff Cushman, for the first time since November Saturday when Kansas sends a full corps of entries into the Arkansas Relays at Fayetteville.

By BILL BIDWELL

Gone is the excitement of a tense and thrilling basketball season. Gone also is the crisp fall atmosphere of the gridiron season which seems far behind us. It's spring now, and between frequent April showers, all eyes are focused toward spring sports.

K-State's baseball team will open a 21-game Big Eight season Friday when the Wildcats play Oklahoma State university at 3 p.m. at Griffith field. Under the Big Eight scheduling system, the Wildcats will play three games each weekend—one on Friday and a doubleheader on Saturday.

All games this weekend will be with Oklahoma State. The two Saturday games will be seven-inning affairs.

Coach Ray Wauthier's nine was busy working out under the roof of Ahearn fieldhouse Wednesday afternoon because of a chilly spring rain falling outside.

Also forced inside because of the spring rain was Coach Ward Haylett's track team, which left Manhattan late Wednesday afternoon for Lafayette, La., to participate in the Louisiana relays Saturday. The Wildcats opened the 1958 outdoor track season at the Texas Relays at Austin, March 28 and 29, placing third. K-State's only home meet this season is a dual with Kansas university May 3.

The golf team, coached by Col. W. W. Harvey, left Wednesday for Wichita where they will oppose Wichita university today. The golfers will go on to Stillwater for a match with Oklahoma State Friday, and to Tulsa on Saturday for a match with Tulsa university.

The golf team opened the 1958 season with an 11-4 victory over Washburn university at Topeka last week.

Coach Karl Finney's varsity tennis squad ushered in the spring sport season when it opened with three recent road matches. Wichita beat the Wildcats, 5-2, Oklahoma State defeated Southwestern college, 6-1. Colorado university later defeated K-State, 6-1. The early season record now stands at 1-3 for the Wildcats.

The tennis team opposes Washburn university today in the Wildcats' second home match. K-State will again meet Oklahoma State in a match here Saturday.

On the intramural side, softball play will begin Monday, according to Frank Myers, director of intramurals. The schedule for Monday:

City park—Pi Kappa Alpha vs Phi Kappa Tau, 4:15 p.m., southwest field; Phi Kappa vs Beta Theta Pi, 4:15 p.m., northwest field; Acacia vs Alpha Tau Omega, 5:15 p.m., southwest field; Tau Kappa Epsilon vs Farm House, 5:15 p.m., northwest field.

Military field—Beta Sigma Psi vs Delta Sigma Phi, 4:15 p.m., west field; Alpha Kappa Lambda vs Phi Delta Theta, 4:15 p.m., east field; Sigma Nu vs Sigma Phi Epsilon, 5:15 p.m., west field; Alpha Gamma Rho vs Kappa Sigma, 5:15 p.m., east field.

Tentative date for beginning outdoor intramural track, according to Myers, is May 12 and 13. The track meets will be at 4 p.m. both days, with events to be run in this order:

100-yard dash, 88-yard dash, 440-yard relay, broad jump, shot put, 110-yard low hurdles, 440-yard dash, 880-yard relay, pole vault, and high jump.

Aside from the varsity and intramural aspect of spring sports, there is another.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian classified.

... And Students are Active

Now that the K-State basketball season has closed, sports fans are turning to the spring collegiate sports, baseball, track, golf, and tennis. The varsity squads have been working out whenever the April shower weather permits. K-Staters who are not on varsity squads are organizing intramural leagues for the spring sports. And, of course, sports enthusiasts find a partner and grab the nearest tennis court or stand in line at the golf course.

Vacationing Staters Return From Washington D.C. Trip

It was ten days crammed full of travel, education, and fun. This is the way that 24 K-State students describe the recent Washington-UN Seminar in which they participated.

The purpose of the seminar, which was sponsored by Wesley Foundation, was to visit and observe the United States government and the United Nations in action, to study socio-cultural problems of New York city.

Highlights of the trip included attending the Cherry Blossom Festival pageant, a luncheon with Kansas Congressmen, and a briefing and discussion sessions at the State department and the United Nations.

A four-day stay in Washington, D.C., included visits to many national shrines and areas of interest. On Palm Sunday the seminar group attended services in Washington cathedral.

The group attended the Cherry

Blossom Festival pageant at the Jefferson memorial, where the Cherry Blossom queen was crowned by His Excellency, Ambassador Koichiro Asakai, of Japan.

Other activities in Washington, D.C., included visits to a Franciscan monastery, the National Archives, the National Gallery of Art, the House and Senate office buildings, and sessions of the House of Representatives and the Senate. A tour of the capitol was climaxed by a visit with the Kansas congressmen and a luncheon with them in the Vandenburg room of the capitol.

Remaining points of interest that the seminar group visited in Washington included the White House, Federal Bureau of Investigation, State Department, Bureau of Printing and Engraving, Arlington cemetery, Iwo Jima monument, Pentagon, Lincoln memorial, Mount Vernon, and a boat ride up the Potomac river.

From Washington, the group went to New York. The stay there was highlighted by an all-day session at the United Nations building. The UN session was led by Dr. Charles F. Boss, executive secretary for the Methodist Board of World Peace. The session included a guided tour of the UN building, attendance at a meeting of a UN agency, and talks by members of the Yugoslav and United States missions to the UN.

A socio-cultural tour of New York included a talk by a missionary to China on the problems of Chinese immigrant neighborhoods and Chinese culture, a trip to a Puerto Rican neighborhood in East Harlem, a visit to Chinatown, and a tour of the Bowery.

Other activities included sight-seeing up the east side of the Hudson river to Washington Irving and Sleepy Hollow country and a visit to the national headquarters of the Fellowship of Reconciliation. Boat trips to the Statue of Liberty and around Manhattan Island, visits to Rockefeller Center and the Empire State building, and attending the theater and the Radio City Music hall completed the activities of the group in New York.

The educational director of the Midwest territory of the International Association of Machinists will be on campus Tuesday and Wednesday speaking to various classes and the Political Science club on different aspects of labor.

Milo Himes, an economics and sociology graduate of the State University of Iowa, will be here two days talking to economics and sociology classes.

"Labor and Politics" is the topic of a speech Himes will give before the Political Science club Wednesday at 8 p.m.

Wednesday noon he will be present at a faculty luncheon given in his honor.

Astronomy Club

Astronomy club will meet at 7:30 p.m. tomorrow in Willard, room 101. A recently released film, "Challenge of Outer Space," will be shown.

YMCA Meeting

Elin McCandless, HDA Sr, Kansas State's 1957 International Farm Youth Exchange delegate, showed slides and discussed her trip to France at the YMCA meeting at 7:30 p.m. yesterday.

This weekend, members of both the YM and the YWCA will be attending the Kansas District Spring conference at Pittsburg to plan and work out details of the two organizations. The theme will be "Jacob Jokin'." Members of both clubs from all junior and four year colleges of Kansas are invited to attend.

Kedzie Hall Addition

A group of faculty members will go to the state architect's office in Topeka Friday to examine the final plans for the addition to be built onto Kedzie hall. Going to Topeka are Paul M. Young, dean of the School of Arts and Sciences; R. F. Gingrich, superintendent of the Physical Plant; Ralph R. Lashbrook, head of the Department of Technical Journalism; Vincent J. Cool, assistant professor in the Department of Architecture; and Case Bonebrake, of the Physical plant.

"Bids will be let for the addition to Kedzie hall sometime in the last part of May," said Gingrich.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian classified.

The Air Force pilot or navigator is a man of many talents. He is, first of all, a master of the air—and no finer exists. In addition, he has a firm background in engineering, electronics, astro-navigation and allied fields. Then, too, he must show outstanding qualities of initiative, leadership and self-reliance. He is, in short, a man eminently prepared for an important career in the new Age of Space. As a college graduate, you will be given priority consideration for the Air Force Aviation Cadet Program. While openings are limited, you will be tested and advised immediately of qualification status. Find out if you measure up. Paste the attached coupon on a post card and mail it now.

DOTTIE NEWTON, DIM JR., can't make up her mind on which hat to buy as she looks over the selection at a local department store. The white cloche, renovated from the 1920s, would look fine with a new chemise dress, but always popular is the hat with the broad-brim. Dottie models a big black straw design with large pink flowers. She also likes another straw hat with a big turned down brim and long feather.

Stylish Cloches, Sailor Hats Bring Memories of the Past

By JOYCE RECTOR

Hats, hats, hats. Broad-brimmed, and no-brim. Plain, plaid, striped, and flowered. Streamers, bows, and ribbons. All these ingredients go into making this season a fine one for hats.

Hats seem to fall into three classes—broad-brimmed, or picture; no-brim, or cloches; and everything in between.

More coeds seem to be going in for the cloches, renovated from the 1920s, than ever before. The sack and chemise dresses have done this, along with more suitable hairdos. One K-Stater went all-out and retrieved her mother's cloche, an actual 1920 creation of black straw. She is now wearing it proudly with her chemise.

Stores are featuring the cloche in small, gay prints. A scarf of the same material, sold with the hat, can make a plain dress striking.

Beige seems to be a popular hat color this year. It is found with varying shades of brown, or with white. One hat, a modified cloche, has alternate rows of beige straw and light brown grosgrain ribbon.

Tall girls seem to favor the broad-brimmed picture hats. One girl pulled out a huge black one, which, she said, "cost quite a bit, but boys don't like it." White picture hats, bedecked with flowers or bows, are popular. Quite often they are the type with well-behaved brims, but some feature a different twist.

Sailor hats are coming back into style. A new spring hat for one girl was a white straw sailor hat, with a long white ribbon down the back. Others are found in blue and black, with various trim.

The in-between hats, with small brims, called "pillboxes" by some, and "just plain hats" by others, have probably the largest class of subscribers. While other styles, such as the cloche, come and go, there is always a market for the small-brimmed hats.

Most of the spring hats are made of straw, with a bit of decoration—perhaps a long, thin feather or a flower or bow. They can be found in almost any color. More unusual hats are also found made of man-made fur or even pique.

As for veils, most of the hats have them, but they are mostly used draped over the brim in some artful fashion. Few are worn over the face.

Weekend Meetings Slated for KS Frats

Lambda Chi Alpha

The K-State chapter of Lambda Chi Alpha will host a Great Plains conclave tomorrow and Saturday. Approximately 150 Lambda Chis, representing 14 chapters in the Great Plains area, will attend. Friday evening, V. D. Foltz, faculty adviser to K-State fraternities, will speak to the group.

Following business sessions Saturday, members will attend a banquet and a dance in the Union ballroom.

Tau Kappa Epsilon

Members of TKE fraternity will travel to Kansas City, Mo. this weekend for a conference leadership school at the Hotel President. Ronald Reagan, motion picture star, is expected to be at the convention. Reagan is an alumnus of the fraternity. National officers will also be present.

Theta Xi

The K-State Theta Xi chapter will host a regional conference tomorrow and Saturday. Chapters from Oklahoma university, Nebraska university, Colorado university, and Colorado State university will send delegates.

Senior Honors Info Due Next Tuesday

All questionnaires for Senior Leader honors must be returned to the Dean of Students' office by Tuesday, says Assistant Dean of Students Charles Jacot, chairman of the Senior Leaders committee.

Any senior with an 1.75 grade average may obtain a questionnaire in the Dean of Students' office if he has not already received one. The committee needs a completed questionnaire from any senior who wishes to be considered for these honors.

The 1958 Senior Leaders will be recognized at the annual Leadership assembly in May.

Young Republicans

Collegiate Young Republicans will meet tonight at 7:30 in the Union Activity Center. This will be a general meeting to discuss the newly proposed constitution.

Mu Phi Epsilon

A recital featuring music by American composers will be presented by members of Mu Phi Epsilon, women's honorary music fraternity, next Thursday, at 8 p.m. in the college auditorium. Each woman in the group will give a vocal or instrumental solo.

Two women have been chosen by the honorary to represent K-State at its national convention in Detroit this June. The business delegate will be Kay Reboul, MEI

Jr. The chapter delegate is Donna Turner, MEI Jr.

Faculty Firesides

Anyone who signed up to attend one or more of the Faculty Firesides, which will be in the homes of faculty members April 14, 15, and 17, must register again in the YWCA office on the second floor of Anderson today or tomorrow if they wish to attend. Anyone else who is interested can give up also.

Religious Council

Applications are open for chairman of Religious Co-ordinating Council committees. Positions available are Hospitality chairman, Serving Group co-ordinator, Publicity chairman, and Classrooms and Faculty Relations chairman. Applications are being taken in the Religious Activities office in All-Faith chapel, and must be in by Tuesday.

Music Club

Audition applications are being accepted for the Manhattan Music club scholarship. Anyone between the ages of 18 and 25 may apply before May 3.

Applications must be mailed to Mrs. W. J. Clark, 2029 Todd road, Manhattan.

The scholarship includes payment of fees in the K-State Music department for one lesson per week for each semester, and may be either vocal or instrumental.

Quartets to Offer Music

Mugs, mustaches, and music will be featured at the Barbershop Quartet Contest spring show at 3 p.m. Sunday in the Student Union main ballroom.

Seven quartets, including five K-State groups and one each from McPherson high school and Topeka high school, will participate in the sing, sponsored by the Union Harmonizers committee.

Quartets participating Sunday will also appear on WIBW-TV at 11:15 a.m. Friday in a short program. Dan Bowzer will emcee both the Friday and Sunday shows. The Manhattan Barbers alliance purchased trophies and will give 1st, 2nd, and 3rd prizes Sunday.

On the program side of the evening will be five groups, including one duo piano comedy team and four quartets.

The BMA Gamboliers, from Kansas City, Mo., will be featured on the program. The Gamboliers are present district champions of the SPEBSQSA, Society for the Preservation and Encouragement of Barbershop Quartet Singing in America.

The Five Foot Twos, a ladies' quartet sponsored by Sweet Adelines, Inc., will also be featured. It is also from Kansas City.

The Four Hands of Harmony, another Kansas City group, is the comedy team.

High schools will be represented by the Harmonettes, a girl's quartet from Chapman high school.

Representing K-State in the program will be the Chiodettes. Making up the group are Marsha Legg, MGS Fr; Delores Kranz, EEd Fr; Paula Lehmann, EEd Fr; and Mary Jo Cochran, SED Fr.

MUGS, MUSTACHES, AND MUSIC will set the stage for the Barbershop Quartet Contest spring show in the Union Sunday. Seven quartets, with five groups from K-State, will contribute to the vocal entertainment. These K-Staters harmonizers from left: Mert Stoneking, BAA Fr; Jim Mears, Sp Fr; Lee Lazarus, GA Soph; and Dave Blanchard, Geo Sr.

Parr's Doctor Advises Cards Be Sent Later

Dr. Donald Cooper has requested that all students planning to send cards to Jack Parr, BPM Jr, who is presently confined to the state hospital in Topeka, wait until later to do so.

Dr. Cooper said he thought it would be better if all the students should wait until a later date and try to send all the cards in at one time. An announcement will be made at a later date when he thinks it more advisable to send the cards.

Spanish Club Observes 'Fiesta de las America'

Members of the K-State Spanish-speaking group, Club Cervantes, will dance, sing, and eat the South American way this Saturday evening at their annual Fiesta de las America (Pan American Day).

"Observance of Pan American Day on the Kansas State campus began in 1946 when a student from Argentina decided to start an annual program," said Prof. Manuel D. Ramirez of the Department of Modern Languages.

Professor Ramirez is the faculty adviser for the Club Cervantes. "The day is an annual commemoration of the founding of the Pan American Union in 1890. It is designed to bring about a mutual understanding and appreciation of problems between American countries," Ramirez said.

The dinner was an officially College-sponsored occasion until 1950 when the Club Cervantes started managing the banquet and festivities.

Club Cervantes is an organization for students and faculty members interested in the Spanish languages and Hispanic civilization.

The Saturday night program will include Miss Juanita Silva, a popular singer of Latin American ballads, Leo Silva and Miss Ernestina Vera will dance Mexican folk dances. Also on the program will be folk songs sung by Prof. and Mrs. Juan Soto Ramirez of the University of Concepcion (Chile).

Club Cervantes' adviser Professor Ramirez said anyone desiring a good Latin American meal and Spanish entertainment will be welcome at the Fiesta de las America in the Student Union Saturday evening.

Kenney Ford Speaks to Seniors in Home Economics, Explaining Purpose, Function of the Alumni Association

KENNEY FORD, executive secretary, discusses the program of the Alumni association with Home Economics seniors Thursday afternoon in Calvin hall.

Kenney Ford, executive secretary of the Alumni association, spoke to senior women majoring in home economics yesterday, explaining the association.

Ford said "The KSC Alumni association looks to a future of ever increasing membership." He explained the projected alumni program of the association, which includes both functions it now performs and functions it would like to perform in the future.

It plans continued improvement of The K-Stater, national award-winning alumni magazine edited by Helen P. Hostetter, professor in the Department of Technical Journalism. Ford describes the magazine as "the communicative link between the College and alumni everywhere."

The association hopes to provide adequate student loan funds for needy and worthy students and to supplement inadequate budget allowances from the College. It proposes establishing special awards and grants.

The association plans to continue sponsoring alumni homecoming and commencement week-ends for class reunions and wants to bring alumni back to the campus for consultation on College development.

If it had the necessary funds, the association would like to send out K-State films, speakers, and displays to Kansas communities. They would assist the College in recruiting outstanding students and the Athletic department in attracting outstanding student athletes.

The association would like to start a national alumni club program to keep graduates better informed of college developments and to continue college friendships.

British Admit Planes Scrambled For Iron Curtain Investigations

Compiled from United Press

By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

London — British warplanes have "scrambled" several times recently to investigate unidentified planes along the iron curtain, the London News Chronicle reported today.

The paper said Prime Minister Harold MacMillan will be asked to disclose in Parliament whether American H-bombers based here also have been sent on the iron curtain investigation missions.

The report followed disclosure in an exclusive dispatch from Omaha, that radar alerts have been sent planes carrying nuclear bombs toward Russia from U.S. bases in North America.

The paper said Royal Air Force fighters have been scrambled several times recently from bases in this country and Germany to investigate unidentified aircraft and objects along the iron curtain.

It said the fighters were armed with cannon and air-to-air guided missiles. "But," the newspaper report added, "no laden (British) H-bombers have been sent toward Russia, as has happened along America's Arctic Defense line."

Rebellion Fizzles

Havana—Loyal troops, striking back at insurgents whose hit-and-run attacks caused nearly 100 deaths this week, have isolated the "main rebel body" in the mountains of eastern Cuba, the Army announced today.

A communique said "many" rebels have been taken prisoner by troops pursuing them into the Sierra Maestras where insurgent leader Fidel Castro has been hiding out for 16 months.

A government spokesman said the "all-out attack" threatened for this week by the rebels has fizzled out, making their eventual defeat certain. He said loyal troops probably will be able to wipe out the last vestiges of resistance within two months.

Kansas Top Grower

Topeka—Kansas apparently is heading back to the top as the nation's top wheat producing state with a crop estimated this year to be double last year's low production.

The estimate would put Kansas ahead of North Dakota, which outproduced farmers in "The Wheat State" in 1957.

Quad Doing Well

San Francisco—The last—and tiniest—of quadruplets born to a young Scotsman and his 19-year-old wife was "holding his own" today at Mary's Help hospital.

Little Raul McGraw, who weighed only two pounds one-half ounce at birth, was the last survivor of the quads born Tuesday to Mrs. Gladys McGraw.

The only girl died shortly after delivery. The first boy died Wednesday and the second Thursday.

Top Ten Tunes

Laurie London Finds Favor with Disc Buyers; 'Whole World in His Hands' Jumps to Top Spot

By Don Veraska

"HE'S GOT THE WHOLE World in His Hands" by Laurie London, a record which wasn't among the top 10 tunes last week, jumped to the No. 1 spot in Manhattan record sales this week. The disc is No. 4 in jukebox plays. It replaced "Tequila" by the Champs, which dropped to the No. 5 spot in record sales, but which remained in the top position in jukebox plays for the fourth consecutive week.

"Lollipop" by the Chordettes regained the No. 2 position in record sales after a drop last week to No. 5. The record is No. 3 in jukebox plays.

Five records are new in the top 10 list. Laurie London's No. 1 song; "Oh, Lonesome Me" by Don Gibson; "Believe What You Say" by Ricky Nelson; "Maybe, Baby" by the Crickets; and "Don't You Just Know It" by Huey Smith are the newcomers.

THE TOP 10 RECORDS in Manhattan sales this week:

1. "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands" Laurie London
2. "Lollipop," the Chordettes
3. "Billy," Kathy Linden
4. "Oh, Lonesome Me," Don Gibson
5. "Tequila," the Champs
6. "Believe What You Say," Ricky Nelson
7. "Maybe, Baby," the Crickets
8. "It's Too Soon To Knock," Pat Boone
9. "Oh, Julie," the Crescendos
10. "Don't You Just Know It," Huey Smith

THE TOP 10 TUNES on Manhattan jukeboxes this week:

1. "Tequila," the Champs
2. "Who's Sorry Now," Connie Francis
3. "Lollipop," the Chordettes
4. "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands" Laurie London

5. "Twenty-Six Miles," the Four Preps
6. "Are You Sincere," Andy Williams
7. "Billy," Kathy Linden
8. "It's Too Soon Too know," Pat Boone
9. "Goodbye to Rome," Roger Williams
10. "Maybe, Baby," the Crickets

NEW RECORDS that are coming up fast in both jukebox plays and record sales are "Witch Doctor" by David Seville, "Tumbling Tumbleweeds" by Billy Vaughn, and "Twilight Time" by the Platters.

Duke Ellington, who appeared here in a concert Wednesday night, has recently recorded a suite based on Shakespeare, "Such Sweet Thunder." The album includes the title song, "Sonnet for Caesar," "Sonnet to Hank Cinq," "Lady Mac," "Sonnet in Search of a Moor," and "The Telecasters." The tele-

Parr's Record—Past, Future—Is Inspirational Says K-Stater

To the Editor,

Illness has stricken a prominent member of the college community. While attention is thus focused, now is a good time to consider many aspects of the situation.

The ignorant and uninformed who are eager to castigate Tex Winter and his team, now have something else to bray about. In the latest turn of events, they will read the answer to K-State's unfortunate ending of a splendid season. Let us consider some facts.

The Wildcats of 1957-58 were not considered championship caliber before the season. Jack Parr played a significant role in their success. As a season ends, it is increasingly difficult for any coach to keep the mid-season edge of a team that has played a rugged schedule. This team needs no excuses and owes no apologies.

Tex Winter has risen to new personal heights in his refusal to alibi and his steadfast support of his players against gossip-mongers. This might be his finest hour. His handling of a difficult situation bespeaks his stature. His greatest distress must have been that one of his finest young men was suffering and he could not help enough.

As for Jack Parr, his illness is neither uncommon nor without hope. It is something that might happen to anyone in today's scheme of living. His great capacity for work and study are well known; we trust that his potential for constructive and valuable service will be realized. As his past records have been inspirational, so will his recovery be to many others afflicted with this illness that mechanical America has been all too slow to recognize.

Meanwhile K-State, to whom Jack Parr has given so much, should pause long enough to support him with its hopes and prayers.

K-State will be host to the National Extension Training conference Tuesday, April 15 through Friday, April 18. Approximately 100 persons from 33 states and the Federal Extension service plan to attend. This is the first time the conference has been at K-State.

The conference is sponsored by

Firm Gives Grad Award To Van Horn

Jack Van Horn, DH Sr, has received an $1,800 fellowship for graduate study in dairy chemistry. Van Horn intends to do his graduate study in dairy cattle nutrition here at K-State.

The announcement was made by R. C. Morton, educational director at the Ralston Purina company in St. Louis. Ralston Purina awards ten fellowships to outstanding undergraduates studying in various fields of agriculture and veterinary medicine.

Van Horn also received the Borden Dairy award this year for the agricultural student with the highest grade average who has carried two or more dairy courses. During his first three years of college Van Horn has maintained a 2.87 grade average.

COMPLETING DUAL ATHLETIC ROLES—Seniors Wally Carlson and Roy DeWitz are finishing dual-role athletic careers for K-State with participation in baseball. Carlson, first-string catcher, as a football mainstay, and DeWitz, first-team shortstop, was an all-conference basketball selection.

Baseballers To Open Against OSU Aggies

K-State's varsity baseball team opens its 1958 season against Oklahoma State university today at 3 p.m. The game will be played on Griffith field. The Wildcats complete a three-game series against the Cowboys with a doubleheader Saturday at 1 p.m. The single game is a nine inning tilt, with each game in the doubleheader scheduled for seven innings.

Last season, K-State's base-

Missouri Gridders Hampered by Rain

Columbia, Mo., (U.P.) — The Missouri Tigers yesterday warmed up for another "first" full-scale intra-squad football game. Several other "firsts" have been rained out in spring drills.

Coach Dan Devine scheduled the game for Saturday afternoon and hoped two injured stars will be able to see action. All Big Eight Guard Charley Rash suffered a severe sprained right ankle and Glen St. Pierre, first string fullback, got a charley horse in the left thigh in yesterday's defensive scrimmage.

Cat Netmen Take Match From Blues

K-State's tennis team defeated Washburn 7-0 here yesterday in a dual meet. The meet was played in Ahearn gymnasium due to poor weather. The win gives the Cats a 2-3 season record.

Jim Holwerda, made his first performance for the Cat netmen this season, as he teamed with Keith Andler to defeat Mike Riesner and Vrej Keotunian of Washburn, 6-0, 8-6, in a doubles match.

Oklahoma State will be here tomorrow for another dual meet. The Cowboys defeated K-State 7-0 earlier this season, but Cat coach Karl Finney feels his performers will give a better showing this time. The addition of Holwerda, who didn't compete in the earlier OSU match, will help considerably Finney feels.

Holwerda will also see action in singles against O-State tomorrow. He will play number four man. The other singles performers in tomorrow's meet are Winston Tilzey, John Bird, Keith Andler, and Ed Frankel, in that order.

Tilzey and Bird will compose the number one doubles team, and Andler and Holwerda will again team for the number two unit. The meet is scheduled to begin at 2 p.m.

Washburn meet results:
Singles: Winston Tilzey (KS) defeated Bob Hardeman (W), 6-2, 6-4; John Bird (KS) defeated Mike Riesner (W), 6-2, 6-2; Keith Andler (KS) defeated Vrej Keotunian (W), 7-5, 6-1; Ed Frankel (KS) defeated David Junge (W), 6-1, 6-2; John Stone (KS) defeated Bill Gates (W), 6-4, 6-4.
Doubles: Tilzey-Bird (KS) defeated Hardeman-Junge (W), 6-3, 6-0; Andler-Holwerda (KS) defeated Riesner-Keotunian (W), 6-0, 8-6;

Cats' Cage Mentor Pneumonia Victim

Tex Winter, K-State basketball coach, has a slight case of pneumonia.

Winter had X-rays taken Wednesday morning, and the illness was revealed. According to his wife, Winter was bothered by bronchitis during the last two weeks of basketball season, and the condition grew worse.

Winter is resting at his home, and is under doctor's orders to remain in bed for a week.

Football Drills To Start For 'Green' Cat Squad

Approximately 65 football candidates, one of the biggest turnouts in K-State grid history, will launch spring drills for the Wildcats today at 3:45 p.m. on the practice field north of the Field House.

"This is probably one of the youngest squads K-State has ever had," said Coach Bus Mertes in appraising his Cat material. "We lost a lot of experienced boys off last year's squad, but, with considerable practice, we can have more depth than we have had in the past."

Mertes, who has 17 lettermen returning, expects to rely on but nine seniors in forming his first three teams, filling the rest of the positions with juniors and sophomores.

Spring drills will be extremely important for the Wildcats, according to Mertes, as they will determine how soon K-State's green manpower can pick up needed know-how for next season.

Mertes feels that Wildcat inexperience will be overcome by enthusiasm.

He chose not to point out any specific players for recognition until he found more about his prospects from practice sessions.

The Wildcats will practice Mondays, Wednesdays, Fridays, and Saturdays.

"Jockey brand underwear made me Phi Beta Kappa!"

"'Amazing scholarship', said the Dean. 'Cheating!' cried my fellow students. But I knew the real reason for my becoming an honor student. My tailored-to-fit Jockey brand briefs were so comfortable that naturally I found it easy to study better and get straight A's."

"'If your brand is Jockey, you won't need any ponies', I tell my friends. It's true, too. You see, Jockey—and only Jockey brand—uses thirteen separate pieces to provide a perfectly smooth fit. You feel better—and you study better—when you wear comfortable Jockey briefs."

Jockey briefs are the most copied underwear in the world. Be sure you get genuine Jockey brand—they're tailored to fit.

Cat Thinclads To Compete In Louisiana Relay Events

K-State's track team will participate in four different relay events at the Southwestern Louisiana Relays in Lafayette Friday and Saturday. Coach Ward Haylett is concentrating on these events with only three individual tracksters making the trip.

The four relay teams, the mile, two-mile, sprint medley, and distance medley, will be composed of nine runners. Larry French, Dave Burton, Jim Vader, and DeLoss Dodds will make up the Wildcat mile relay team. This foursome placed third at the Texas Relays behind Texas university and North Texas State. Both of these schools will be competing at Lafayette. Texas' winning time at the relays, 3:10.4, was only one second off the national collegiate record of 3:09.4.

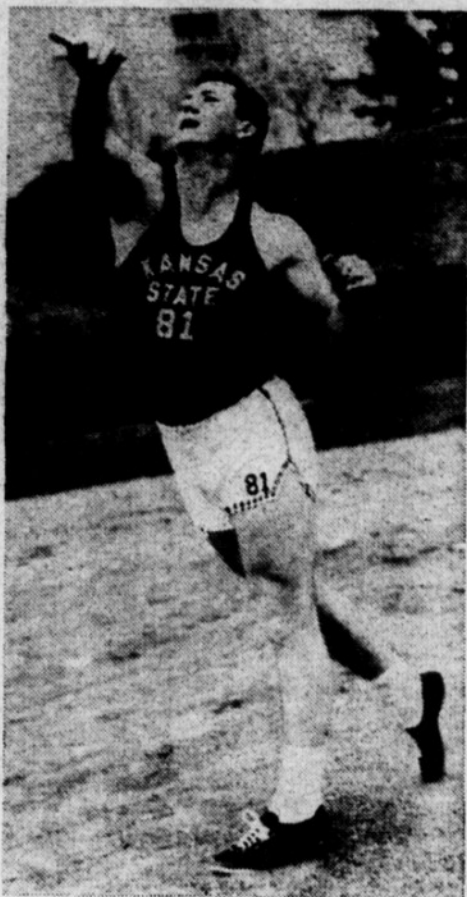

DUANE HOLMAN, K-State distance runner, will be competing on the Cat two mile relay team at the Southwestern Louisiana Relays.

The same foursome will make up the sprint medley relay. The two-mile relay team will be composed of Duane Holman, Jesse Unruh, Tom Rodda, and Gene O'Connor. This will mark the first meet for O'Connor since the Colorado Invitational indoor meet when he pulled a muscle during a race. He will not compete in any other event.

K-State's distance medley relay unit will be composed of Charles Carl, Unruh, Holman, and Rodda.

The three Wildcat individual participants are Jim Cain, shot put; Steve French, high jump; and Ralph Willard, javelin. French tied for fourth at Texas while Willard captured a fourth place in his speciality.

Three Big Eight schools will be represented at the meet. They are K-State, Oklahoma, and Oklahoma State. The meet will also feature teams from the Southwestern, Southeastern, and Southern conferences.

JIM CAIN, Wildcat shotputter, will be one of three individual participants for the K-State track team at Lafayette, La., this weekend.

Captain Named By Swimmers

Tom Coblentz has been elected captain of the Wildcat swimming team for next season.

Coblentz was elected by squad members and succeeds James Nolen who captained the team this year.

Cards, KC To Battle For 'Mizzou' Crown

By UNITED PRESS

Missouri's two major league baseball teams play their annual Governor's Cup Series in Kansas City this weekend in the last games for both before they open their regular league schedules next Tuesday.

The Kansas City Athletics and the St. Louis Cardinals will meet in a single game Saturday and a doubleheader Sunday. Starting time both days is 1:30 p.m.

A's Manager Harry Craft has nominated pitchers Alex Kellner, Ralph Terry and Jack Urban for the Series while Cardinal Skipper Fred Hutchinson will counter with Sam Jones, Frank Barnes and Larry Jackson.

Last year Gov. James T. Blair, Jr. donated a trophy for the state supremacy series which is now in the hands of the Redbirds as a result of a

It will be the last time the rival league teams will play this year unless pre-season predictions are far wrong and they emerge in the World Series.

The Cardinals have been picked to roost near their second place finish in the National League last year while the A's fight it out with Baltimore for sixth place.

The Cardinals will open the league season at home Tuesday against the Chicago Cubs. The A's will open on the same day at Cleveland and will play their first home league game Friday afternoon against the White Sox.

Ex-Wildcat Cagers To Play in Benefit

Former members of K-State and Kansas university basketball teams will square off Saturday night at Great Bend for a benefit cage tilt. The game is sponsored by the State High School Panhellenic group for scholarship benefits next year. Game time is set at 7:30 p.m. in the Great Bend high school gymnasium.

Howie Shannon, assistant K-State basketball coach, will manage the Wildcat alumni as Tex Winter will not make the trip because of illness. Dick Harp, KU head basketball coach, will handle the Jayhawk alumni squad.

Three K-State seniors, Don Richards, Dean Plagge, and Hayden Abbott, will participate under Shannon. Larry Fischer will be unable to play due to a recent operation, and all-Big Eight selection Roy Dewitz will be out of the lineup because he will be playing on the Wildcat baseball team Saturday.

The remainder of the Wildcat squad will be composed of Gene Wilson, Jim Smith, Bob Smith, Gene Stauffer, Ed Head, and Jerry Jung.

The KU squad will be centered around a nucleus of Bill Hougland, Gene Elston, Ron Johnston, Gary Padgett, and John Keller.

DSF Plans State Retreat April 26, 27

The Disciple Student Fellowship organization is planning a spring retreat April 26 and 27 at Bonner Springs. DSF organizations from other colleges in the state will also attend the retreat.

In addition to their spring retreat, DSF will sponsor a work camp this spring. Volunteers will help in the building of a church in Kansas. The organization also sponsors a work camp during the summer and one during the Thanksgiving vacation. DSF meets each Sunday night in the First Christian church. At 7:30 a.m. each morning DSF has 15 minutes for devotions in Fellowship hall, called "Morning Watch."

Officers of DSF are Don Argabright, AH Sr, president; Dick Skelton, PrL Soph, first vice president; Patricia Cary, BMT Jr, second vice president; Barbara Barnett, HEN Fr, secretary; and Mary Lou Murray, TxC Sr, treasurer. Dr. Virgil Hinds is the minister for the students.

One of the projects of DSF is serving Christian churches within a 100-mile radius of Manhattan which have no regular minister, or those whose minister is absent. A gospel team of three or four members of DSF are in charge of ministerial duties for these churches.

A college choir was recently organized by DSF. This choir presents special numbers during worship services at the First Christian church.

Blood donation to Riley county hospital is another project sponsored by DSF. The service crew is in charge of blood donations.

Foreign Student Picnic Sponsored by KSCF

"Over 50 international students attended our annual foreign student picnic this year," David Mugler, AEd Sr, Kansas State Christian Fellowship president, said. "One student said it was the largest gathering of foreign students he had ever seen at a social affair at K-State."

A picnic for foreign students is only one of the several activities KSCF sponsors each year. Other activities include sponsoring two conferences each year with other KSCF groups, fellowship camps, missionary conventions, and weekly prayer meetings.

The KSCF is the K-State chapter of the interdenominational Inter-Varsity Christian Fellowship. The national organization has chapters on most of the major campuses in the United States and Canada. K-State's chapter was founded in 1946.

About 50 members attend the regular meetings each Tuesday and Friday. The group includes not only students, but members from Manhattan and Ft. Riley. The purpose of the group is to "know Christ and make Him known," Mulger said.

Each fall and spring, the K-State chapter of KSCF meets in Topeka with chapters from other schools.

Every three years the chapter sends students to the International Missionary convention at Urbana, Ill. Twenty K-Staters will attend the conference this year.

For relaxation at Christmas and Easter, members of the organization adjourn to the Rocky mountains, where they work and relax at Bear Trap ranch.

Ag Ed Department Gives Banquet for Davidson

"Working with the Future Farmers of America has been a highly gratifying experience—an experience I value greatly," said Prof. A. P. Davidson of the Agricultural Education department in a speech at a banquet given in his honor Tuesday.

About 160 friends, guests and members of the K-State Ag Education club gathered to honor the man who has spent more than 40 years in the vocational education field.

"The principles of FFA are sound, and if we use them without exploitation, the organization will continue to serve as a potent tool in the development of rural youth," Davidson said.

He was presented a silver platter as a token of the work he has done for vocational education students at K-State. Jim Macy, AED Sr., made the presentation.

Professor Davidson was recently honored at the Central Regional Vocational Education conference at Chicago for his leadership and work in vocational education training.

Jr. AVMA Auxiliary

Virleen Mach is new president of the Jr. AVMA Auxiliary, according to Rosemary Sherman, publicity chairman. Other new officers are Martha McCreary, vice president; Lois Carnahan, secretary; Connie Parker, treasurer; and Mitzi Torrence, parliamentarian.

Commencement exercises for the senior wives will take place at the next meeting on May 7. Plans are being made to secure a commencement speaker.

Art Club

Election of officers of the Art club will be Thursday, April 17, at 4 p.m. in Anderson 207, according to Carolee Fox, HEA Sr., president.

Geology Scholarships

Roger Bruton, Geo Gr, and Cloyd H. Scott, CE and Geo Sr, have been awarded scholarships in recognition of their outstanding academic work, according to Max

W. Milbourn, chairman of K-State's general scholarship committee.

The scholarships were awarded by the Garvey Drilling company and are valued at $230 each. The scholarships are to be used during the remainder of the current school year.

Student Activities Board

The only action by the Student Activities board Monday was the approval of a semi-formal dinner-dance at Skyline club April 18 for House of Williams.

Newcomers club

Mrs. F. D. Farrell, wife of the past president of Kansas State and originator of the College's Newcomers club in 1929, and Mrs. James A. McCain were guests of honor at the year's last meeting of the Newcomers club last night at 7:30 p.m. in the Union.

Dr. John Robson, associate professor of speech, gave readings from plays at the meeting program. Mrs. McCain poured at a coffee period after the meeting.

Chem Profs Attend California Meeting

Four chemistry professors will attend the National meeting of the American Chemical Society in San Francisco Sunday through Friday.

Dr. Thomas D. O'Brien, head of the Chemistry department; Dr. Philip Nordin, assistant professor of chemistry; Dr. Donald Kundiger, associate professor of chemistry; and Dr. I. G. Hisatsune, assistant professor of chemistry, will go to the meeting.

A paper entitled "A New System of Compounds in Organic Chemistry" will be presented by Dr. Kundiger. Dr. Nordin will present a paper on "The Minor Carbohydrate Components of Sorghum Grain." Dr. O'Brien will be a counselor.

C. PEARS WILSON, director of the School of Agriculture, was in Washington, D. C., this past week as a consultant on the 1960 farm census. Wilson attended the meeting as a representative of land grant colleges and universities.

In the last census the definition of a farm was a unit of three acres or more which had produced $150 or more of farm products. The definition being considered for the 1960 census is a minimum of 10 acres on which sales of farm products exceeded $50, or a unit of less than 10 acres if products sold exceeded $250.

Two staff members of the Home Economics Art department have work on display at various exhibitions around the country.

Miss Alice Geiger, assistant professor, has a sterling pendant on display at the 28th annual exhibition at the Springfield Art Museum at Springfield, Mo.

John Hannah, instructor, has received honorable mention for a print that he has on display at the Midwest Fifth Biennial exhibition at the Joslin Museum at Omaha drawing at the Fourth Annual exhibition at the B. State Teachers College art gallery, Muncie, Ind.

Prof. R. M. Kerchner, head of the Department of Electrical Engineering and a K-State staff member since 1922, has been invited to prepare a 2,000 word article for a new 11-volume Encyclopedia of science and technology to be published soon.

Profs Speak At Firesides Tonight at 8

The first two of the Faculty Firesides, jointly sponsored by the YWCA and YMCA, will be tonight at 8 p.m.

Waldon Hastings, assistant professor in flour and feed milling, will discuss summer experiences, religion, and life at one of these firesides tonight in his home at 1719 Fairchild. John Davis, EE Soph, is the student leader.

The other fireside will be at the home of Mrs. Louise M. Langford, assistant professor of family and child development, at 541 Edgerton. She will discuss topics of general interest. Colene Henson, EEd Soph, is student leader for this discussion group.

Other firesides are scheduled for later in the week. One is planned tomorrow night and the second for Thursday. Faculty hosts, student leaders, and the topics for discussion will be announced later.

Promptness Urged For Job Seekers

It's the time of year many students begin thinking seriously about job-seeking, but students who want and have not yet found summer employment should act soon, according to Don Parks, graduate assistant in charge of the Placement Center's summer program. He warns that fewer students will be employed this summer than in the past.

Parks gave reasons for the urgency of seeking jobs soon:

1. There is relatively little job-seeking time left before classes end for the semester. In fact, only six weeks remain.
2. Most non-local employers prefer to arrange for summer help early. Many of them will complete their hiring at least a month to six weeks before classes end.
3. The number of available opportunities is decreasing. Students from colleges and universities all over the country are seeking employment and are being hired to fill summer vacancies.

K-State Coed Chosen Queen Of KU Relays

Emily Mohri, EEd Soph, has been chosen to reign as queen of the Big Eight conference at the KU relays in Lawrence next Friday and Saturday. The relay queen was chosen at Kansas university yesterday afternoon and will be crowned at the relays next Saturday afternoon.

Miss Mohri is expected to arrive in Lawrence Wednesday to begin her duties as queen of the annual track and field carnival. She will be present at the pre-relay banquet Thursday night, at the relays Friday and Saturday, and at a parade Saturday morning.

Kay Winegarner, Kansas university's queen, and Miss Mohri will award gold watches to relay event winners.

College-Civic Concert Features Two Solos

Solos by two K-State students highlighted the College-Civic Orchestra spring concert yesterday afternoon in the College auditorium.

Judith Young, TC Fr, drew a big round of applause from the audience with her solo of Mozart's "Concerto for Violin and Orchestra in A Major."

Robert DeCou, MEI Jr, played a difficult solo in Strauss's "Concerto for French Horn and Orchestra Number One."

The concert, one of two performed every year, was attended by almost 250 people. Besides the Mozart and Strauss, Director Luther Leavengood, head of the K-State Music department, presented the old and the new in the "Symphony in A Major" (the Seventh) by Beethoven, and "The Plains" and the "Prairie Schooner from Two Orchestral Sketches" by Donato.

Sports Car Club Prepares For Unique Match with KU

K-State Sports Car club members practiced Sunday afternoon for their competition with the KU Sports Car club April 27. This will be the first intercollegiate amateur sports car competition in the Midwest, according to Don Wester, GA Sr, club president.

The KU meet will consist of a sports car rally from Wamego to Topeka and a gymkhana on the state fairgrounds in Topeka. A gymkhana is a timed obstacle course designed to test the maneuverability of sports cars and the drivers' skill.

A gymkhana course is marked off by rubber pylons arranged to guide the drivers in serpentine courses, into garage-like areas, and spiral turns.

Approximately 15 sports cars met for the practice yesterday.

Club members expect to have about 20 cars entered in competition against the KU club. The clubs plan eventually to make the meet a regular affair, once or twice a year. A traveling trophy will be originated to go to the club with the best showing in the competition. An award will also be made for the best individual performance.

Council Will Hear Committee Review

This year's outgoing Student Council will review all SGA committees for the newly-elected Council at its regular meeting in the Union this evening.

Council members will review work accomplished by the different committees with which they are affiliated, tell of the work that has been accomplished during the year, go over personnel, and make recommendations for the coming year to the new Council. There are approximately 30 committees and boards in the SGA-Council structure which will be gone over for the new SC members.

The Council will also consider recommendations to fill seven positions on Union Governing board. UGB has interviewed almost 20 applicants, and is expected to submit its recommendations to the Council this evening.

Next Monday evening, both Councils will take part in a banquet meeting. The old Student Council will officially leave office, and the new will be installed.

Topeka Four Places First In Sing Race

The Four Chords, a Topeka High School quartet, won first prize in the barbershop quartet contest, sponsored by K-State's Union Harmonizers, at the Student Union yesterday.

Second place was taken by a K-State group, the Four Deltas. The quartet includes George Rood, ME Jr; Larry Foulke, NE Jr; Lowell Novy, VM Soph; and Max Bishop, ArE Soph.

The Teen-Tones, from McPherson High School, placed third.

George Roggendorff, VM Sr, Harmonizers head, estimated that over 400 people attended the Sunday afternoon affair.

"I think that everyone was quite impressed by the show," he said. "We think it was a terrific success, and we're planning to have another sing next year."

Refreshments were served at the "afterglow," and guest quartets and the three winning quartets performed.

K-State groups entered in the contest besides the Four Deltas, include the Sigma Phi Epsilon quartet, The Playboys, The Ivy Aires, and the Kappa Sigma quartet.

Trophies for first, second, and third places were donated by the Manhattan Barber's Alliance. The Alliance had 100 percent participation in donations for the trophies.

Frosh Dorm To Sponsor KS Carnival

A carnival to raise funds for a scholarship award will be Saturday from 7:30 p.m. to 11:30 p.m. in the recreation room of Northwest hall.

Booths, including a ghost house and a jail, a movie, and a cakewalk, will highlight the carnival.

This is the first year a carnival has been used by Northwest to raise the money for the annual award. The scholarship will be for a sophomore girl for the 1958-59 school year. Only girls who have lived in Northwest are eligible.

The scholarship candidates are nominated by a committee in the dorm and the recipient will be selected by the Scholarship committee. The nominees are chosen on the basis of their contributions to Northwest hall as well as grades.

Admission tickets may be bought from residents of Northwest and will go on sale at booths in the Union and Anderson beginning tomorrow. They will also be sold at the door.

Scientists Believe Sputnik Down; Satellite Up Over Five Months

Compiled from United Press
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Cambridge, Mass. — Russia's dog-carrying Sputnik II apparently disintegrated in a fiery plunge over the Caribbean at about 9 o'clock last night, the Smithsonian Astrophysical observatory said today.

What was believed to be a fragment of the satellite, probably a rocket engine, was sighted as an "orange-red glow" over Denver, 17 minutes later.

No further sightings had been reported up to 3 a.m. (CST).

A blazing fireball with "a long tail of fire like a comet" was seen by hundreds of residents of Barbados, British West Indies, at 7:53 p.m. (CST). The flaming trail was visible for about a minute. One witness said it looked like "rockets falling through the air."

In the sea south of the Virgin Islands, three minutes later, the crew of a Dutch tanker saw a "fireball with a trail of sparks and smoke" falling toward the sea. The captain of the tanker Mitra radioed: "Presumably it was Sputnik II."

A few minutes earlier the glowing satellite had been spotted by five moon-watch teams in the Northeastern United States. Two spotters said the satellite was beginning to show signs of a fiery tail, an indication of its approaching end in the friction of the earth's atmosphere.

Sputnik II had a maximum altitude of 1,025 miles when it was launched, and traveled around its orbit in 103.7 minutes. By yesterday it had dropped to an observed altitude of 110 miles and was completing its narrowed orbit in 88 minutes.

The Russians had predicted a five-month life for the Sputnik; it lasted just 10 days longer than five months.

The dog passenger had been dead since November 12, when its food and air was consumed. Soviet scientists said it died painfully when its oxygen was exhausted.

The dying satellite had glowed like a bright star throughout the last of its more than 2,300 circuits. In all it travelled about 70 million miles—the equivalent of a round trip to Mars.

Crashes Mar Weekend

A series of weekend military plane crashes, one of them involving the Air Force's newest and biggest transport, has claimed a heavy toll of lives.

At least eight servicemen were killed in the outbreak of flaming wrecks yesterday from coast to coast.

Four men were killed when a C-133 super cargo plane crashed in flames in the Ellendale State Forest near Georgetown, Del. The new four-engine plane, costing an estimated $3,400,000, plunged to earth about 10 minutes after taking off from Dover Air Force base.

A Kansan, T/Sgt Marvin A. Aust, 29, of Hays, was listed by the Air Force as one of the victims of the crash.

Near Tacoma, Wash., three men were killed when their C-47 Air Force plane crashed during a practice landing at McChord Air Force base. Observers said the craft cart-wheeled and crashed during a landing approach and burst into flames.

An F-100 jet plane crashed and exploded in an alfalfa field near Blanchard, Okla., killing the pilot.

Results of Limited Survey Show Student Opinion In Favor of Optional Attendance by Slim Margin

By John Shirley

CAMPUS OPINION seems to be slightly in favor of optional attendance according to a limited survey recently conducted. Results show optional attendance for all class groups above the freshman level is slimly favored 9 to 7. However, many of those for the proposal said their answers were dependent on such factors as grade average, ability, and a student's willingness to accept responsibility.

The question asked: "Do you favor the plan for optional attendance after freshman year?"

JOHN CAIN, DH Fr—"It would be all right if the student had a high enough grade average. The student would know if he should go to class."

LOUIS ZANELLA, Zoo Sr—"Opposed. A lot of kids are here because they have to be. They wouldn't use the time wisely."

ROGER HAMMOND, EE Jr. "Yes, but if all classes were made optional without regard to grade average they would have to stiffen school attendance requirements for minimum performance. Optional attendance would make some instructors get on the ball if they came to class and found it poorly attended. A good lecturer would have a good attendance."

JIM MARSHALL, GA Jr—"Yes, after a student goes one year he should know what he wants, and will assume responsibility to complete his education."

KEITH WANKLYN, ME Soph—"No, because too many kids are up here for fun; they'd just take advantage of it and never go to class."

DALE KAUFMAN, EE Jr—"Yes, when someone comes to college he should be able to supervise himself. It's up to the individual to decide what he wants to do with his time in school. If anything is needed it is more student responsibility."

JOE HERR, IE Jr—"If a man comes up here to spend his wife's money, he ought to go to class."

H. V. BETSWORTH, EE Jr—"Yes, if a person will spend the class hour on books in a favorable environment he will profit. It works at the University of Chicago."

CECIL SCHRAEDER, BPM Soph—"It would be all right. If you can make the grades and not go to class, fine. We have optional attendance now, but I believe the teachers have something to offer."

JOE CLARKE, AE Sr—"Yes, if students don't want to go to class and get their money's worth, that's their business. Those who are going to class will go regardless of any legislative action by the Student Council."

JOHN WILLIAMS, BS Sr—"How can you get anything out of class without going?"

MARILYN MOLONEY, SED Soph—"Yes, I think I would get a lot more out of some courses. It would be nice to be able to choose."

LANNY WILSON, Gop Jr—"No, if people want to cut they will cut anyway. But I think you get more from going to class."

Screen Scene

Suspenseful Submarine Chase, Gable, Lancaster Cover Inadequate Plot in 'Run Silent Run Deep'

"Run Silent Run Deep," showing at the Wareham, is another suspenseful submarine chase, and most viewers will probably overlook the flimsy plot if they like submarine chases and/or Gable and Lancaster.

Half the alleged plot revolves around a U.S. navy submarine captain (Gable) who has one ambition—to sink the Japanese navy's top destroyer, which had sunk a sub under his command a year ago.

The other half has to do with Gable's second-in-command (Lancaster), who is done out of the captain's job because his superior wrangled the position in order to realize his ambition.

The biggest part of the show is spent on the submarine's attempts to get the crack Jap ship, and it develops that both Gable and Lancaster have this goal at heart. The film is somewhat similar to the recent "Enemy Below."

Even though the outcome is never in doubt, the chase is exciting and holds the viewer's interest.

The American sub is something akin to a Hollywood western hero as it survives plane bombings, depth charges, and repeated headlong rushes into apparent suicide, only to emerge in good shape with an impressive list of kills.

Gable and Lancaster are typically Gable and Lancaster in tough-guy-with-soft-spot roles. The crew pulls out the stock repertoire of humor stops, plus maintaining morale by patting the posterior of a girlie calendar as it goes to battle stations.

The movie ends rather depressingly to the notes of funeral Taps as one of the main characters bows out, but it still manages to classify as a "happy ending."

If you don't like submarine chases or Lancaster or Gable there's a Tweety Bird cartoon with the feature.—Gilmore

Cat Relay Teams Shine In Louisiana Track Meet

K-State and Oklahoma university accounted for seven new meet records Saturday in the 30th running of the Louisiana Relays at Lafayette, La. The Wildcats set new standards in the sprint medley relay and mile relay.

The Wildcat sprint medley unit won its specialty in the record time of 3:24.4, breaking the old mark of 3:31.5, while the mile relay team was victorious with a 3:13.6 clocking. The record was 3:16.9. DeLoss Dodds, Dave Burton, Jim Vader, and Tom Rodda made up the sprint medley foursome, and Larry French, Burton, Vader, and Dodds completed the mile relay team.

Oklahoma took six first place honors while setting five new meet marks. The Sooners broke records in the distance medley relay, pole vault, discus, shot put, and two-mile relay. Oklahoma's Larry Neeley, winner of the pole vault with a 14-foot effort, was selected as the meet's outstanding field man.

OU's Don Irwin toppled one of the oldest marks on the meet's books when he hurled the shot 54-8 to better the 1934 record of 53-6 set by Torrance of Louisiana State. Another Sooner, George Church, got off a record toss of 157-4 3/4 in the discus, breaking the mark of

Golfers Pasted On Road Trip

K-State's golf team met disaster on a three-match road trip over the weekend as the Wildcats were pasted by Wichita Thursday 17 1/2-1/2, Oklahoma State Friday 11 1/2-1/2, and Tulsa Saturday 11 1/2-6 1/2. The K-State season record is now 1-3.

Wichita results: Tom Vickers (W) (74) defeated Jerry Smith (82), 3-0; Duke Evans (W) (76) defeated Dave Smith (77), 3-0; Tommy Schmitt (W) (76) defeated Joe Downey (87), 3-0; Tony Amend (W) (81) defeated Charles Hostetler (89), 3-0; Evans-Vickers (W) defeated Smith-Smith, 2 1/2-1/2; and Amend-Schmitt (W) defeated Hostetler-Downey, 3-0.

Tulsa results: Jerry Smith (KS) (75) defeated John Hyden (80), 2 1/2-1/2; Jerry Jones (T) (77) defeated Charles Hostetler (79), 3-0; Phil Snyder (T) (78) defeated Joe Downey (81), 2 1/2-1/2; Larry Casey (T) (71) defeated Dave Smith (73), 2 1/2-1/2; Smith-Smith (KS) defeated Hyden-Casey, 2 1/2-1/2; and Jones-Snyder (T) defeated Downey-Hostetler, 2-1.

Netmen Plastered By OSU Cowboys

K-State's tennis team lost to Oklahoma State here Saturday 7-0 to bring its season record to two wins and four losses. It is the second time this season that OSU has defeated the Cats.

Jim Holwerda came closest to winning a match for K-State as he pushed Don Cate to 6-4 and 7-5 sets before losing.

Singles: Mike Poinsner (OS) defeated Winston Tilzey (KS), 6-1, 6-1; Ron Rammimg (OS) defeated John Bird (KS), 6-0, 6-3; Harry Taylor (OS) defeated Keith Andler (KS), 6-0, 6-4; Don Cate (OS) defeated Jim Holwerda (KS), 6-4, 7-5; Max Prewitt (OS) defeated Ed Frankel (KS), 6-2, 6-1.

Doubles: Poinsner and Rammimg (OS) defeated Tilzey and Bird (KS), 6-2, 6-1; Cate and Taylor (OS) defeated Andler and Holwerda (KS), 10-8, 6-3.

Baseball Is Opened With Throw by Ike

The 1958 major league baseball season got underway in Washington, D.C., today when President Eisenhower threw out the first ball for the American league game between Washington and Boston. A crowd close to 28,000 is watching the game.

This is the only game being played today with the rest of the teams opening tomorrow. Clear and sunny skies are predicted for the West coast version of the Dodger-Giant rivalry, when the two teams clash at San Francisco tomorrow.

Wildcat Nine Is Stopped By Good Aggie Pitching

Allowing K-State's baseball team a total of only five runs in three games, Oklahoma State university's pitching led the Cowboys to a sweep of a three-game series here Friday and Saturday. The scores were 5-4, 3-1, 5-0.

In Friday's single game, Oklahoma State jumped off to a 5-0 lead by the seventh inning, but a home run by shortstop Roy DeWitz with Paul Bader and Gene Keady on base in the Cats' half of the seventh cut the lead to 5-3. A single by DeWitz, two groundouts, and a single by relief pitcher Mel Kopf gave the Wildcats a ninth-inning run, but Oklahoma State's hurler, Joe Horlen, struck out third baseman Al Thiemert to preserve the win.

AWS To Install Officers In Little Theater Tuesday

Associated Women Students will install its new officers at 8:15 p.m. Tuesday in the Union little theater. All K-State women students are invited to attend the installation, which will be followed by refreshments in the Union's main lounge.

Margaret Lahey, associate dean of students will give a short talk at the installation on the purposes and strengths of AWS and the challenges it offers to the College campus.

Special guests invited to the installation, according to AWS President Patsy Garner, EEd Jr, include sorority housemothers and presidents, and the presidents and sons of several womens' campus organizations.

The installation will be preceded by the regular meeting of the Women's council at 7 p.m. Tuesday in Union 208.

Book Editor

Kingsley W. Given, professor in the Speech department at K-State, is the editor of a new book, "Story of Second World Metallurgical Congress," published by the American Society for Metals in Cleveland.

The book contains pictures and reports of the ten simultaneous two-week study tours of American metals operations arranged by Professor Given and conducted last October by Thomas Cook and Sons, Inc. for 250 metals engineers from abroad.

It also contains reviews of the special events and international panel discussions arranged and conducted under Given's supervision at the Congress in Chicago last November.

Council Appoints UGB, Reviews 50 Committees

Appointment of seven to Union Governing board and review of the Student Council committees shared the spotlight at last night's Council meeting.

Those appointed are Max Bishop, ArE Soph; Larry Edwards, PST Sr; Lynn Mechesney, Gvt Jr; Lowell Novy, VM Soph; Gary Rumsey; Neil Scott, Soc Sr; and Sam Strong, VM Sr. The Board was chosen with a variety in class, school, and interests under consideration.

The new Student Council met with the outgoing Council in last night's meeting. The old members made evaluation reports and gave suggestions for next year.

The Public Relations committee reported that during the year it had published a brochure giving information about K-State student government.

The National Students association announced that it had sent delegates to the national convention for two years. K-State has been invited to join the organization several times, although Council refused to approve membership.

The International Relations board stated that much had been done to acquaint foreign students with campus activities. The Board cited the Student Union exhibits, International coffee hours, International Relations Weekend, and organized house dinners. It strongly recommended that the Board be considered for a standing committee.

League Art Meet Recognizes Stater

Margaret McKnight, Art Sr, received honorable mention in the first annual Big Eight Conference Art competition conducted by the University of Kansas, with her oil painting on burlap, "Transition."

The competition was organized by the KU Museum of Art to encourage the study of painting, print-making, and sculpture in Big Eight conference schools.

The prize money comes from private funds held by the KU Endowment Association.

Robert S. Edmiston, a University of Oklahoma student, won the first prize of $250 for his forged steel head-and-shoulders sculpture titled "Woman."

The $150 second prize went to Michael Smith, a University of Nebraska student, for his "Still Life in Red," a large oil painting.

James H. Hales, University of Colorado, took the $100 third prize with his welded steel sculpture, "Ancient Warrior."

Two other Big Eight students besides Miss McKnight were awarded honorable mention.

Twenty art pieces were submitted for the competition and may be seen in the gallery of the Music and Dramatic Arts building at KU through May 18. Entries were received from all league schools except Iowa State.

Apportionment Positions Now Open to Applicants

Student Body President Chuck Wingert announced that positions for the Apportionment board are open. Students interested may pick up applications in the Union Activities center.

Stater Is Awarded Tuxedo In Playboy's Party Contest

David Linstrum, Ar 01, won first prize in the national Playboy Formal Party contest, it was announced today. Linstrum was selected from other college students around the United States by three of the magazine's "Playmates."

Linstrum's prize, a tuxedo and white dinner jacket, was sent to the Collegian office, where Sue Goss, Collegian editor, presented it to him last night in a short ceremony.

The contest was among national campus social groups which had Playboy Formal parties during the fall semester. Delta Tau Delta had its party in November, and Linstrum, social chairman of the fraternity, submitted pictures and a written report to the magazine.

The party was given with decorations furnished by "Playboy." The Deltas donned tuxedos, while their dates showed up in their best "playmate" attire—pajamas and other outfits.

SC's Myriad Committee System Unfolds Before New Members

WE UNDERSTAND the new Student Council watched the old Council unfold the myriad committee system last night, "to explain purposes, functions, accomplishments, and suggestions for improvement" for the new members.

And—surprisingly enough—the meeting ended at the usual time.

We're utterly amazed that in only 120 minutes explanations this complex, entangled, and confusing could be given in full. We know campus residents who've been studying SC's committee system for three or four years now and still haven't figured out its purpose, let alone its accomplishments.

WE'RE NOT DENYING that accomplishments have been made—it's just that they are so well hidden under red tape and funny little games that few people have the time or the energy for that much work. We've heard suggestions that someone could almost do a Master's thesis on the intricacies—and uselessness—of student government, not, of course, that we'd endorse all this. . . .

So—our new Council members are enlightened. Let's just hope they neither hide the light of their committee under their own bushel of red tape, nor continue to aid and abet the complexities of an already idiotic situation.

AND WHILE we're viewing government—we expect great things of Union Governing board. For those of you who happen to be new around these parts, we'll point to the most austere collection of old-time politicians we've ever seen: Scott, Rumsey, Novy, to name an outstanding threesome.

This brings to mind an adage about old politicians never dying—And for those of us who remember that far back, we'll pass on that another well-known campus politician, who left our school for law study at Kansas university, is now running for KU's council, on apparently the most popular ticket. Jim Graves is the aspiring young man of whom we speak—a student body president candidate some time ago.

To return to our own governing board, however, we're expecting great things with such leaders, at least a performance in line with their past records.—Sue Goss

KU Sorority House Attic Roomer Goes Home—Sentence Suspended

By Jerry Ratts

THE RECENT male roomer in the attic of the Gamma Phi Beta sorority house at Kansas university, L. F. Johnson has returned to his home in Oklahoma. He was fined $100 and was sentenced to 30 days in jail on each count of vagrancy and resisting arrest. The jail sentences were suspended, and he was put on probation for a year.

Johnson admitted he cut holes in the attic floor "one summer" when the house was vacant so he could view the shower room below.

It was determined by a polygraph test that he had been making periodic visits to the house where he was found April 1.

A RECENT ARTICLE in the Minnesota Daily, notes that the Minnesota branch of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People (NAACP) will decide within the near future whether to bring a taxpayers suit against the University of Minnesota.

Basis for the suit will be University recognition of organizations with written discriminatory clauses.

Robert Peak, president of the NAACP chapter on the Minnesota campus said the group was aware of the progress made by the University with the groups that have had discriminatory clauses, and because of that progress the focal point of its activities has not been on these groups.

THE RECENT CONCERN over inadequate educational facilities for the upcoming large enrollments at K-State seem small when you compare them to the University of California's problems.

The estimated full-time student enrollment at the University for 1970 is 100,000, and to meet this a minimum of 9,345 new teachers must be recruited between now and then, according to the Daily Californian.

A report, "The faculty of the University, 1958-70," was released by the 13th all-University faculty conference in Santa Barbara April 2-4.

The report recommended the University be prepared to pay a salary ranging from $7,500 a year for instructors, and to $20,000 a year for full professors.

AN ORGANIZATION on the Indiana university campus that gives the students a chance to participate in governmental affairs is the Little United Nations assembly. Government professors at the university are advisers for the assembly, and it is modeled after the real UN assembly. The Indiana Daily Student said the characters in the assembly are learning to play their parts realistically, as the delegates from Russia are now forming a strong block to any U.S. action.

The SMU Campus, newspaper for Southern Methodist university, reports an excerpt from a speech by Dr. Willis Tate, SMU president: "A committee is a group of the unable appointed by the unwilling to do the unnecessary."

Castro Vows 'Fight to the Death' Against Batista's Tyranny; Rebel Spirits Reported Not Dampened by Failure of Total War

Compiled from United Press
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Havana—Rebel leader Fidel Castro vowed last night that his followers will "fight to the death" to overthrow President Fulgencio Batista's "tyranny."

In an unprecedented broadcast over the Rebel radio, Castro said the past, present, and only aim of his movement is to overthrow the Batista regime.

As the Rebel leader spoke, figures circulating here indicated that the 24-hour toll of Castro's six-day-old revolt would amount to about 140 dead.

More than 100 persons were reported killed in Sagua La Grande, where loyal troops battled a rebel landing force. Thirty-one persons—30 "outlaws" and one worker—were reported dead in Oriente province, and three rebels were shot down in the Havana area.

The rebel leader said in last night's broadcast that the apparent failure of his efforts at "total war" has not dampened the spirits of his followers.

He charged that leading officials of the Batista regime have stolen $1 billion. Batista's personal fortune was estimated by Castro to amount to about $300 million.

Trading Stamps Out

Topeka—Trading stamps became illegal in Kansas today.

The 1957 Legislature passed a law forbidding the stamps and in the interim until today's effective date, most Kansas stores discontinued stamp plans for premiums.

Many chain grocery stores have been running advertisements in recent months warning patrons to cash in their stamp books.

The stamps were redeemable for the most part in merchandise prizes. The new law does not forbid boxtop premiums.

Natives Restless

Johannesburg—South Africa's white citizens go to the polls tomorrow to elect a new Parliament and Africans will stage a protest strike against their inability to vote.

Only 1,579,000 of the 3,500,000 whites are registered voters and entitled to vote for the 156 seats of the House of Assembly, South Africa's lower legislative chamber. The total population of South Africa and Southwest Africa is 15 million.

The strikers are protesting not only the principle of apartheid but more specifically the restrictive by-laws which forbid Africans to move freely around the country, and other apartheid legislation.

Border Well Guarded

Algiers—French officials said today that 770 Algerian rebels had been killed in battles throughout Algeria during the week of April 5-12.

An army communique said 11 other rebels were wounded and 145 captured. French losses were not given. The communique said every rebel attempt to slip into Algeria from Tunisia past the electrified fence sealing the border was intercepted.

Labor Rackets Checked

Washington—Chairman John L. McClellan of the Senate Rackets committee brought forth a new labor reform bill today with an assertion that union racketeering could lead to a "gangster-dominated economy."

The Arkansas Democrat planned to introduce his proposal in the Senate a short time after his committee opened a new investigation of alleged corruption in the Teamsters union.

The bill would require labor unions to register with the labor department and file financial reports and other statements which would be open to public inspection.

Grid Scrimmage To Start

K-State's football squad, with three days of fundamentals and conditioning drills under its belt, will begin scrimmage tomorrow in preparation for the May 10 Varsity-Alumni game.

Coach Bus Mertes has set up a tentative schedule by which the Wildcats will scrimmage three days a week, Monday, Wednesday, and Saturday, with light drills being conducted on Friday.

No teams have been picked yet and the scrimmage sessions will be pointed toward giving everyone on the squad a chance to show what he can do.

"The squad is very enthusiastic," said Herb Cormack, K-State assistant coach. "Sixty-eight men reported for the opening practice and only three have dropped since. However, now that scrimmage is starting, there will naturally be quite a few checking in."

The Wildcats have 17 spring practice sessions remaining, the last one set for May 16.

The Cats first game will be September 20 against Wyoming university at Manhattan. K-State will also play Utah State, Missouri university, Kansas university, and Iowa State at home.

KU To Host Cat Netmen

K-State's tennis team plays Kansas university at Lawrence today at 2 p.m. Coach Karl Finney's team will be trying to improve a season record of 2-4.

Both KU and K-State met Oklahoma State last week, and both teams lost to the Cowpokes by 7-0 scores. Another common foe for the Cats and Jayhawks this season was Wichita university, and on both occasions the Wheatsocks defeated the Big Eight schools.

Finney plans to use the same line-up he has in past meets, with Winston Tilzey, John Bird, Keith Andler, Jim Holwerda, and Ed Frankel playing singles matches. Tilzey and Bird will team up in the doubles as will Holwerda and Andler for the Cats.

IM Softball Begins As Pitchers Shine

Three shutouts, including a no-hit game, highlighted the first day of intramural softball. Eight games were played, all in the fraternity division.

John McComb of Sigma Phi Epsilon pitched a no-hitter against Sigma Nu, the Sig Eps winning, 13-0. Dick Scrogin hit a home run for the winning team in the second inning with two men on base. Beta Sigma Psi beat Delta Sigma Phi, 5-0, with Melvin Scheller going all the way for the win, and Beta Theta Pi shut out Phi Kappa, 14-0, with Bill Laude pitching. Jerry Hess hit a home run with two men on in the second inning, and Gordon Taff had two doubles and a single for the Betas.

In other action, Pi Kappa Alpha beat Phi Kappa Tau, 10-1, Acacia defeated Alpha Tau Omega, 8-5, and Tau Kappa Epsilon whipped Farm House, 15-5. Alpha Kappa Lambda edged Phi Delta Theta, 6-5, and Alpha Gamma Rho downed Kappa Sigma, 6-2.

Today's games:

City park—Sigma Chi vs Theta Xi, 4:15 p.m., southwest corner; Sigma Alpha Epsilon vs Delta Tau Delta, 5:15 p.m., southwest corner; Jr. AVMA vs the Hobos, 4:15 p.m., northwest corner; House of Williams vs Agriculture Economics club, 5:15 p.m., northwest corner.

Military drill field—Rho Alpha vs Kasbah, 5:15 p.m., west field; Westminster foundation vs Alley Rats, 5:15, east field.

East campus—Sigma Phi Nothing vs DSF, 4:15 p.m., and YMCA vs 357 club, 5:15 p.m.

KS Golf Team Will Meet KU

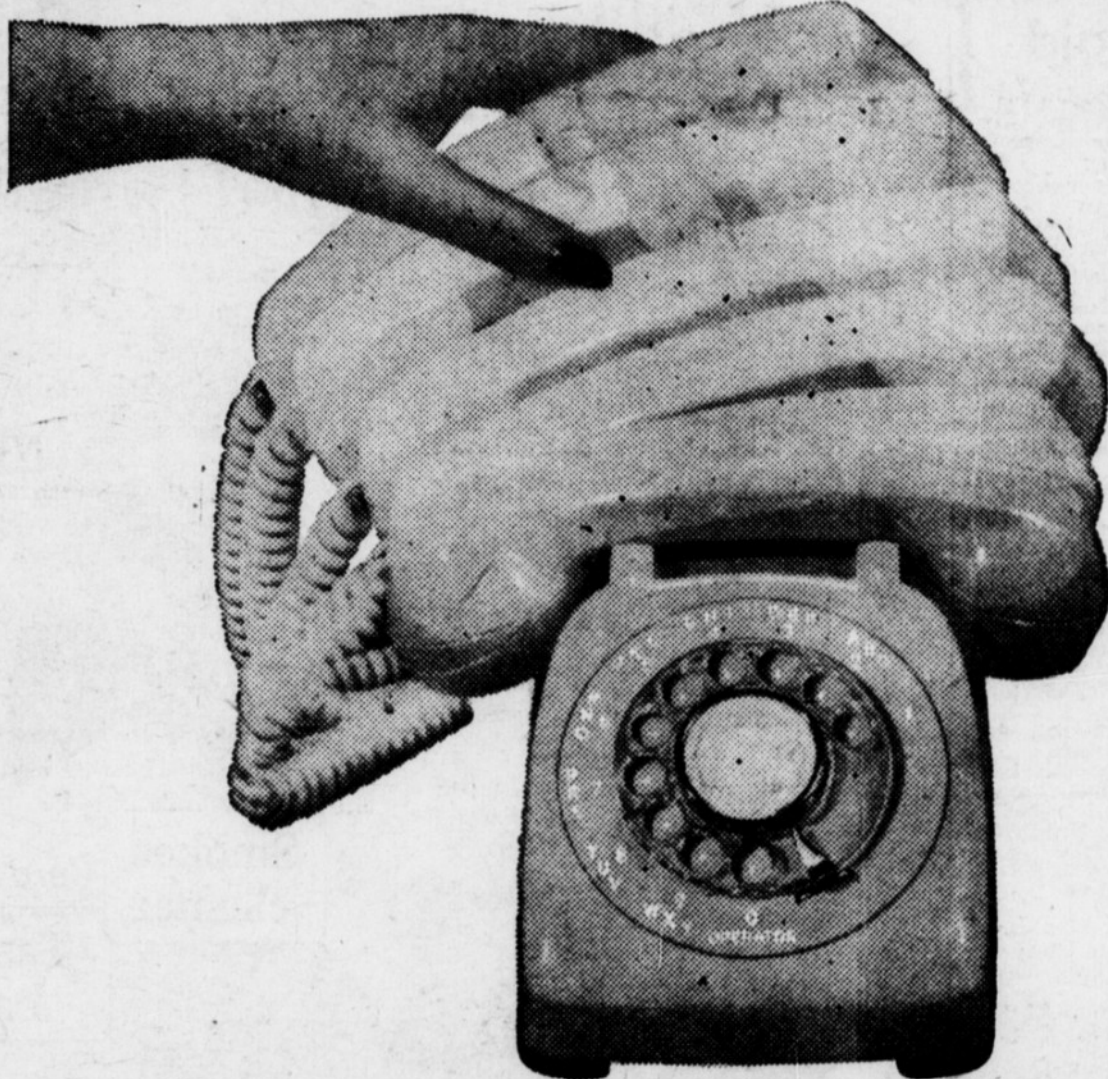

K-State's golf team travels to Lawrence to meet Kansas university at 1 p.m. today. Five men will be used in the match instead of four as have been used in recent matches.

The five men who will compete for the Cats are Dave Smith, Jerry Smith, Charles Hostetler, Joe Downey, and Jerry Hendricks.

The Wildcats, who have defeated only Washburn, will be trying to improve their 1-3 season record.

There are more ways than one to be a leader

AS OUR NAME clearly indicates, we are in the telephone business.

We own and operate 1,696 central offices in 30 states.

We manufacture telephones, switches, relays and other communications equipment, for our own use—and for the 4,400 other "independent" telephone companies in the United States.

And while — by the yardstick of size — we cannot claim to be the leader, we find ample opportunity for leadership in other ways.

Take the telephone pictured here as an example. It is our own design.

At first glance, it may look quite a bit like other modern telephones.

But you will find three important differences.

The surfaces just above the dial on each side are contoured to guide the mouthpiece-receiver or "handset" into place unerringly.

An extra quarter-of an inch is added to the tapered mouthpiece and earpiece.

And the cradle which receives the "handset" is lower in front than in the rear.

The result: It is almost impossible for an "off-the-hook" interruption to service to happen.

This is, as we said, one example of how we seek to do whatever we do better than it has been done before.

And this same ambition guides every phase of our operation, from the development of better equipment for telephone central offices, to the courtesy-training of the people who represent us in dealing with our customers.

MILO HIMES, educational representative for the International Association of Machinists, explained "The Role of Labor in Politics" at a Political Science club meeting last night.

Labor's Role in Politics Explained by Milo Himes

"The Role of Labor in Politics" was the subject of the talk by Milo Himes, an educational representative for the International Association of Machinists, to the Political Science club last night in the Union.

In telling why labor was involved in politics, Himes simply explained, "Labor is in politics because laborers are citizens belonging to a democratic government. Regardless of a man's incidental position, all of us are in politics."

"There is an inference, and there's much to be said for it, that labor has been forced into politics. Actually, labor began to move into the political arena most aggressively with the New Deal."

"Labor is in politics as individual citizens are," Himes said. "There is a false impression that a labor boss can pull a lever which will automatically register the votes of five or six million workers. This is definitely untrue."

One of the basic problems of political education, according to Himes, is the indifferent feeling of citizens who don't think their votes are important. He cited several examples of recent elections in which the winner received only about 50.1 per cent of the votes.

Pre-Enrolling Period Starts Next Monday, Closes May 2

Pre-enrollment will last from next Monday through May 2, according to the early assignment schedules for students returning to Kansas State next fall, released by E. M. Gerritz, director of admissions and registrar.

Two changes have been made from last year's early assignment procedure. All students presently enrolled may be assigned early this year, and corrections in assignment may be made on the floor of the Field House during the regular enrollment period, Gerritz explained.

Students are scheduled according to the first letter of their last name and in order of classification. Juniors, seniors, graduate students, and third, fourth, and fifth year architecture students enroll in the earliest group. Sophomores and second year architects enroll in the second section, with freshmen and first year architecture students in the last group.

The schedule, according to letter group:

H-O—Monday, April 21; Thursday, April 24; and Tuesday, April 29; P-Z—Tuesday, April 22; Friday, April 25; and Wednesday, April 30; A-G—Wednesday, April 23; Monday, April 28; and Thursday, May 1.

Reassignment or rescheduling may be made on any day between May 5 and September 1, at the request of the student with approval by a faculty member.

Payment of fees is scheduled during the regular registration period, September 8, 9, and 10, when students will also be required to fill out personal information cards, according to Gerritz.

Gerritz urged students to make sure that the 50 per cent rule be obeyed before they have their faculty adviser sign the proof ticket. The rule states that no more than 50 per cent of the hours of each full time student assignment may be scheduled for Monday, Wednesday, and Friday mornings.

Miles To Speak Here At Conference Dinner

Richard Miles, head of the British Information service in New York City will be the guest speaker for the 1958 Industrial Relations conference banquet Thursday, April 24, in the Student Union main and west ballrooms. His subject will be "Controlling the Economy by Monetary Measures: Recent British Experience."

The day-long conference is restricted to students only. The evening banquet is open to anyone interested and reservations for the dinner are now being accepted, according to W. B. Nelson, associate professor of economics and sociology, and chairman of the conference committee.

Banquet tickets are on sale at the Union information desk, according to Warren Keegan, Ec Gr. Approximately 15 day reservations are left.

Before he assumed his new duties in January, Miles spent ten years as press officer and spokesman for His Majesty's Treasury in London. During World War II, he assisted at the Bretton Woods conference, and from 1946 to 1948, he was attached to the United Kingdom delegation to the United Nations and represented Sir Alexander Cadogan at meetings at Lake Success to consider the Baruch Plan and the counter-proposals of the Soviet Union.

Tom Shackelford Created 'New Look' In Campus Landscaping Architecture

By WESLEY SHOUP

K-State's campus began to take on a new look when Tom Shackelford became K-State landscape architect in 1956.

"Public demand created this job," he said. The job of grounds maintenance belonged to the Horticulture department, but was later assigned to the physical plant, and supervised by the building and grounds section.

"It's easy to look at the campus and say what should be done," said Shackelford, "but it takes money, equipment, planning, and man-power. We haven't got much of any of these things, but I am in the process of establishing a well proportioned and well organized maintenance program."

"I am looking at the present maintenance situation and am also looking ahead to ten years from now. The expansion plans are tremendous. Within the next two years new wings will be added to Seaton hall, Kedzie hall, and Eisenhower hall. The new Home Economics building, the proposed student hospital, and men's dormitories will be major projects in themselves. The married students housing area will be tripled in area," he said.

Shackelford said he is working on plans to establish about eight good athletic practice fields, a baseball diamond, and a golf course. He believes the present fields will soon be construction sites.

"When planning, you have to keep a constant eye to the future," he said.

"I think we have loads of potential, and with a little cooperation, and good planning, we can be one of the best looking colleges in the United States."

Creativeness of Big Eight Action Is Pleasant Contrast to Athletics

WE WERE PLEASED to note in yesterday's paper a rather surprising story: an award to a student from the Big Eight Conference Art competition—the first annual affair. It's highly commendable that the conference should act along such creative lines, rather than ones entirely concerned with such student activities as basketball and football.

We're particularly pleased to see that it is to be an annual affair, and perhaps someday we may be able to point toward further development along this badly neglected line—emphasizing college interaction and exchange of ideas, talents, etc., more on an educational level.

Whereas 20 exhibits were displayed this year, we may view twice that number in the next year, and with a steady increase in interest, students can look forward to further activity—broadening, enlightening, and maybe inspiring—in those fields to which they assign themselves.

Applaud is due KU—the sponsoring school—and a special congratulations to Margaret McKnight, who brought honor to herself, her professors, and her school.

ATTENTION SHOULD be paid regulations in regard to pre-enrollment (page one)—since serious consideration is being given to the worth of the present program. We can't blame those who question the program, with the number of re-assignments which have been necessary in the past. Evaluation is in order—and we students might as well realize that our full co-operation is at least one step in the direction of continuing the present system, with only minor changes.

Unless, of course, you'd rather fight the 7,000 next fall?—Sue Goss.

Traffic Appeals Board Gives Student Opportunity To Appeal Tickets Pertaining to Traffic Violations

By PAT ROBERTS

"The Student Traffic Appeals board gives the student a chance to bring in any traffic appeal that he wants to make pertaining to campus traffic violations," according to Dick Payne, student Traffic Appeals Board chairman.

Payne went on to say that the Traffic Appeals board is composed of five members selected by the Student Council. Members of the board are selected through the interview system. The Traffic Appeals board comes under the jurisdiction of Student Council and under present organization, the Board is a part of Tribunal.

The activities of the Traffic Appeals board are best illustrated by following a typical case.

A KSC student who receives a traffic ticket goes to the traffic office behind Anderson hall to appeal. At the traffic office the student fills out an appeal form and awaits notice from the Traffic Appeals board as to when his appeal will be heard. The board usually meets on Tuesday at 4 p.m. in the Student Union.

The student appears before the board and has five minutes to give his appeal in his own words. The Board is allotted five minutes in which to ask the student questions pertaining to his case. The voting is done by ballot and the judge, a member of the board, reads off each ballot. A majority vote constitutes a decision and the decision is final; the student is either guilty or not guilty.

"Our policy is based strictly on the traffic regulations. When a student breaks one of the regulations he is usually judged guilty. There are, of course, exceptions when the student has a legitimate excuse," said Payne.

Excuses such as car trouble, running out of gas, illness, or other similar occurrences are usually considered valid. However parking violations involving tardiness to class, late papers, or ignorance of the regulations don't carry much weight, according to Payne.

"One thing we have to do is think of the future in all of our decisions. If we let one student off for a specific reason can we let off many others? Unless an emergency or a legitimate cause is involved we have to uphold the ticket," said Payne.

Under the present system one parking ticket serves as a warning to the student, two involves a $2 fine, three jumps the price to $4, four costs the student $8, five tickets total to a $16 fine, and each one after that keeps adding $16 to the total amount.

Strict as the Board is, there is one pleasant aspect. For the last two weeks the Traffic Appeals board has had no action.

Western Allies Agree To Open Presummit Diplomatic Talks; Meeting Scheduled in Moscow Tomorrow if Russians Agree

Compiled from United Press
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

London—The Western allies handed notes today to the Soviet Foreign office agreeing to open presummit diplomatic talks in Moscow tomorrow.

A spokesman for the British Foreign office said the notes were handed to the Soviet Foreign office in Moscow this morning. The notes were believed virtually identical.

Representatives of the United States, Britain, and France agreed yesterday on the texts of the notes after winning approval the day before from the NATO Council of Ministers in Paris.

Moscow had suggested only last week that ambassadors of the Western "Big Three" meet in Moscow tomorrow for preliminary talks leading to a meeting of heads of state sometime this summer.

Sir Patrick Reilly, British ambassador to Moscow, returned to the Soviet capital today after a final conference with Foreign Secretary Selwyn Lloyd.

The American and French ambassadors are in Moscow, and

Composer's Life Tale Told in 'Blues' Movie

For an evening's entertainment of blues music, "St. Louis Blues," currently playing at the Co-ed theater, is recommended. The story is pretty fuzzy but Nat "King" Cole, Eartha Kitt, Mahalia Jackson, and Ella Fitzgerald, although they can't act, can cut loose with the blues.

The movie is based on the life story of W. C. Handy, composer of "Beale Street Blues," "Yellow Dog Blues," "Harlem Blues," "Careless Love," "Morning Star," and "St. Louis Blues."

Nat "King" Cole plays the part of W. C. Handy who is torn between the "devil's music" and the "Lord's music." Cab Calloway plays the part of the minister-father who forbids Handy to play the blues. The result—Nat has a big emotional problem. First, he composes a blues tune, and then in remorse, composes a hymn. Eartha Kitt and Ella Fitzgerald sing his blues while Mahalia Jackson and Pearl Bailey sing hymns.

After many frustrating scenes between Handy and his father, his father warms up and recognizes his son's type of music when a symphony orchestra honors Handy at a concert.

KS Relay Team To Face Best

The mile relay event at the 33rd annual Kansas Relays this weekend at Lawrence will feature some of the finest baton units in the country.

K-State's mile relay team, holder of the varsity indoor and outdoor mile relay record, will be pitted against the only foursomes to defeat them during this year's competition. Texas university and North Texas State beat the Wildcat relay team at the Texas Relays, and Nebraska university edged the Wildcats early in the season at the Michigan State Indoor Relays.

The Wildcat mile relay team, composed of Dave Burton, Larry French, Jim Vader, and DeLoss Dodds, turned in its best time last Saturday at the Southwest Louisiana Relays with a 3:13.6 clocking. This set a varsity and meet record.

Despite the fact that this year's mile relay team is the finest in K-State history, the foursome must overcome fast Texas and North Texas State relay teams. Texas just missed the national collegiate mile relay record of 3:09.4 by one second at the Texas Relays. North Texas State finished second behind Texas in 3:13.4.

Olympic silver medal winner Eddie Southern anchors the crack mile relay team from Texas. Southern, who placed second in the 400 meter hurdles in the 1956 Olympic games, was clocked in a 45.3 quarter while leading the Longhorns to a win in the mile relay at the Texas Relays. The present 440-yard dash world record is 45.8 by Jim Lea.

Supporting Southern on the Texas mile relay team is Wally Wilson, 1957 440-yard dash champion, Drew Dunlap, and Tom Holt. Wilson's best time is 47.5.

Dodds owns the best time for the Wildcat relay team with a 46.2 quarter while Vader owns a 48.4, French, 48.7, and Burton, 49.0.

Cat Golfers Lose to KU

Kansas university's Jayhawks defeated the K-State golf team, 10-5, at Lawrence Tuesday, giving the Wildcats a 1-4 season record. K-State's Dave Smith was the medalist with a score of 72.

The Wildcats will host Washburn university's golfers on the Manhattan Country club course Saturday in the second match between the two schools. K-State previously defeated the Ichabods, 11-4, in the season opener at Topeka. Resuming conference play, K-State will oppose Nebraska university Monday, April 21, and will meet Omaha Friday, April 25. Both matches will be played on the Manhattan Country club course.

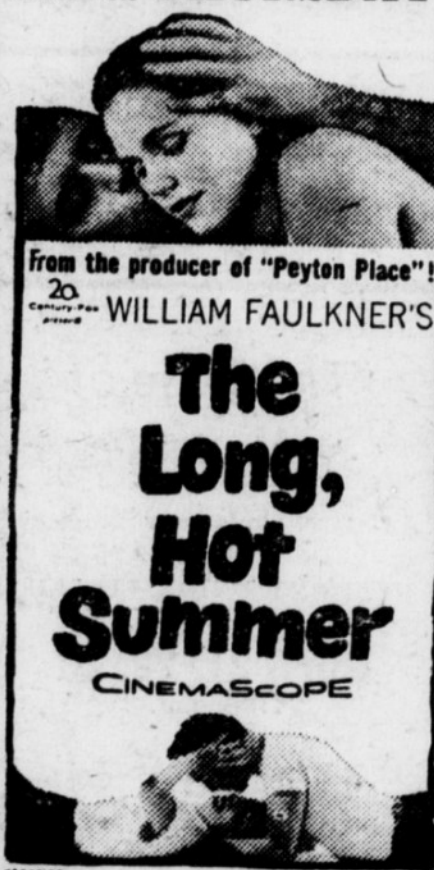

Net Team Wins

K-State defeated Kansas university 4-3, yesterday in a dual tennis meet at Lawrence. The Cats won 3 singles matches and one doubles match in posting their third victory of the season against four defeats.

Activities Board Chooses Group to Revise Book

Student Activities board yesterday created a committee of three to go over the Student Council's recommendations concerning the revision of the K-Book, the publication sent to freshmen each year. The book has not been revised in three years.

"This will give the K-Book editor something solid to work on," said Board Chairman Pat Loyd, BA Sr. Members of the committee are Max Bishop, ARE

In the only other business, the board turned down a request by the AFROTC dance band for recognition as a student organization on the basis that the group's only activity is playing as a band, and that they could do that as well under the auspices of the AFROTC department.

Fulbright Awarded To KS Instructor

Jack C. Durgan, instructor in architecture and allied arts, has been awarded a Fulbright scholarship for a year of graduate study at the Royal Academy of Fine Arts, School of Architecture in Copenhagen, Denmark.

Durgan and his wife will sail from New York City aboard the Swedish liner, Gungsholm. The scholarship covers all transportation, books, tuition, and subsistence.

Dr. Finis Green, head of the Education department; Col. Charles H. Wilkins, professor of air science; and Capt. Oliver M. Smith, assistant instructor in air science, attended a three day joint meeting of institution officers and staff of the Air Force ROTC at the Headquarters of AFROTC, Maxwell, Ala., last week.

Maurice D. Woolf, professor of English, has presented a paper for the reading section of the American College Personnel association meeting in St. Louis. The paper was titled, "Personality Traits and Reading Disability." Woolf has been elected chairman of the section for next year. He will conduct two reading workshops this summer. One in Derby, and the other at Chadron Teachers college, Nebraska.

NUMBER 126

Philharmonic, Vocalists Top Next Artist Series

The St. Louis Philharmonic orchestra and the Robert Shaw Chorale will be two of the top Manhattan Artist series attractions in 1958-59.

Luther Leavengood, series manager and head of the Music department, released the series schedule for next year today.

Completing the four-number series will be Sarah Fleming, soprano, and Paul Badura-Skoda, Viennese pianist.

Miss Fleming, first attraction, is scheduled for November 10. Badura-Skoda plays on January 13, the Robert Shaw Chorale will perform February 21, and the St. Louis Philharmonic will close the series March 10. The orchestra is appearing in Manhattan as part of a tour through nine midwestern states.

Reservations for the 1958-59

Artist series are being accepted in the Music office in the Auditorium. All seats will be reserved. Leavengood said seat reservations for past subscribers would be held until June 1. Season tickets are $7.50, $6, and $3.

Roman Verhaalen New Senate Prexy

The new president of the Kansas State College Faculty Senate is Roman J. Verhaalen, head of the Department of Continuing Education.

Verhaalen, representing the extension service on the Senate's executive committee this year, succeeds former Faculty Senate President Glenn Beck, director of the Agricultural Experiment station.

Embert Coles, assistant professor in the Department of Pathology, has been named vice president of the Senate.

The Senate's executive committee for the coming year: Professor Milton Raville, head of the Department of Applied Mechanics; A. B. Cardwell, professor in the Department of Physics; Marjorie Hemphill, assistant professor in the Department of Institutional Management; John A. Johnson, professor in the Department of Flour and Feed Milling Industries; and Professor William Baehr, head of Farrell library.

Stan Cowan Arranges Suite for KS Concert

A K-State student's arrangement of two movements from "Little Suite," written by Roy Harris, will be featured by the concert band at its spring concert Sunday afternoon in the College auditorium.

Arranger Stanley Cowan, Chm Sr, has been in the band all four years of college. He has been first chair tuba player for two years. Cowan is also an accomplished piano player.

In addition to the numbers by the concert band, the K-State varsity band will perform three numbers. The two bands will join together in a combined program to close out the concert.

The concert band is directed by Jean Hedlund, assistant professor of music, and the varsity band by Warren D. McCawley, graduate student in music.

Critics Study 'Transition'

HONORABLE MENTION in the first annual Big Eight Conference Student Art competition went to Margaret McKnight, Art Sr, for her oil painting on burlap, "Transition." Admiring her painting are Dr. Patrick Kelleher, curator of American and European art for the Nelson gallery in Kansas City, Mo.; and Dr. Edward A. Maser, director of the KU Museum of Art.

K-STATE BRIDGE CHAMPS Ron McKinnie, AEd Sr, center, and Larry McDonald, PrL Sr, right, hold certificates they received after placing ninth in the National Intercollegiate Bridge tournament. Their names will be inscribed on the plaque held by Bill Harrison, NE Sr, chairman of the Union Games committee.

Bridge Duo 9th In '58 Tourney

Top K-State teams in the National Intercollegiate Bridge tournament for 1958 are Lawrence McDonald, PrL Sr, and Ronald McKinnie, AEd Sr, playing north-south, and Fred Hatcher, EE Soph, and Bob Hodgson, EE Sr, playing east-west.

The McDonald-McKinnie team was also ninth in the entire country. The national champions are from the State University of Iowa, which was in the same zone as K-State.

The K-State winners will receive certificates and their names will be inscribed on a permanent plaque in the Union.

Looby's Essay Top In National Contest

George Looby, VM Sr, has been selected the grand winner of the Moss essay contest, sponsored by the American Animal Hospital association.

Prizes were also offered to the top three winners at each school entering. Hal Sinclair, VM Sr, was second at K-State, and Edward York, VM Sr, was third.

All senior students in veterinary medicine at the 19 colleges offering such a degree in the United States and Canada, were eligible to enter the contest, which called for an essay on veterinary public relations.

As grand winner, Looby has been invited to attend the annual meeting of the AAHA in Chicago April 21-26 with all his expenses paid.

Presidents To Discuss Housing, Financial Aid

Organizational presidents, both new and old, will meet tonight in the Union room 208 at 7:15 p.m. to discuss a long-term educational program for K-State. Inadequate housing and need of financial aid, with scholarship housing offering a possible solution, will be discussed, according to Patsy Garner, EEd Jr, Chimes president.

Foreign Students Nearing End of Study To Modernize Yugoslavia's Agriculture

"With the knowledge and opportunities the United States has given us, we know we can return to Yugoslavia and make its agricultural program work," concurred two Yugoslavian agriculture officials who have been studying at K-State.

Pavlo Bozic and Borivoje Pusic, members of a 5-man team attempting to modernize their homeland's agriculture, are about to wind up the collegiate part of their United States study.

Bozic was formerly chief engineer of the water community in Sombor, and Pusic was head of the drainage and irrigation section of the Institute of Agro-Ecology at Zagreb.

"Agricultural engineering for Yugoslavia. It is very good and very effective; Yugoslavia needs men who have a broad understanding and background in many phases of it," said Pusic.

"Even after World War II our methods were primitive, but five years ago we began to develop our agricultural program," he continued. "Now we need more specialists to solve the technical problems arising."

Two other members of the team are studying at Oklahoma State university and the fifth is at a California university. The group is under the auspices of the International Co-operation administration.

"Yugoslavia is a country about 10 per cent larger than the state of Kansas, but it has about 10 times as many people," Bozic said. "We are striving to increase our food yield to feed our people and we must develop a more modern and economical program."

The K-State pair will make a tour through the South shortly to study various projects such as TVA and flood control projects before going to Washington, D.C. to review their program of study with Department of Agriculture officials.

The entire team will compile a joint report covering their fields of study before leaving July 27 for Yugoslavia where they will present plans for the streamlining program to their Department of Agriculture.

Bozic and Pusic explained that there are many small farms in Yugoslavia, and each farmer is ineffective as a single food-producing unit. They have joined in a co-operative organization for better land management where each farmer owns his own land but works as part of a unit in food production.

"By paying into the co-operative they may use the modern machinery and new methods provided by the organization," Bozic said.

Average Student Poorly Informed on AWS, According to Majority of Women Questioned

Telegraphic Tabloids

By UNITED PRESS

By Marlene Smith

WITH THE INSTALLATION of the new Associated Women Students officers this week, it seems a good time to determine the value of the organization to the women on campus.

The majority of the women questioned felt that women are not well informed on the workings of AWS. There was a difference of opinion in regard to the benefits from the organization.

The question asked: "Do you feel that the average girl on this campus is informed on the workings of AWS and gets any benefits from the organization?"

CONNIE CLARY, EEd Soph—"We ought to know what AWS does. They tell us enough about it at the dorm. I certainly enjoyed the All Women's Day that AWS sponsored."

LAURA SCHMIDTLEIN, Psy Jr—"I think the average girl does know what AWS does. I don't think we benefit from it because all it can do is pass rules as strict or stricter than the ones set by the dean of women."

VIRGINIA EATON, Sp Sr—"AWS is a good thing. I'm glad someone is interested in working in the organization. The average girl, however, doesn't seem to understand what AWS is doing."

BEVERLY RICHARDSON, HT Soph—"I don't think we benefit as much as we could. We might benefit more if we knew what it was doing."

SUE FRANKHOUSER, BMT Soph—"Right now AWS is revising some of the rules that have needed changing for some time. Women should be interested enough to find out just what AWS is doing."

JANET SCOTT, HT Jr—"AWS is doing some good and helping the women on campus, but I don't think the average girl is aware of exactly what is being done."

MARCIA EDDY, EEd Sr—"I wonder if AWS is really necessary."

MARILYN DUFFORD, HT Sr—"I don't benefit from AWS now that I am married. Last year I did feel that I benefited from the organization. Our AWS representatives in the dorm kept us informed on AWS doings."

KAYDENE DASHEN, EEd Soph—"I probably don't know everything that AWS does, but I do feel that I have benefited from its work."

JANICE FORBES, HEA Fr—"Our AWS representatives inform us on what AWS is doing during the house meetings at the dorm. I think the girls benefit a great deal from AWS."

CORRINE WRIGHT, HT Jr—"I think we're informed of its general functions, but not of the real problems it handles. All girls probably benefit indirectly."

KATHERINE SMRHA, Hm Soph—"I know what AWS is, but I don't know what goes on in the meetings. I might have benefited from AWS but I don't know of it."

LYNN YANDELL, Psy Jr—"I personally don't feel I have benefited from AWS. The average girl doesn't know what AWS actually does."

PHYLLIS MYERS, BA Soph—"I certainly felt that I benefited from the talks at Career Day that AWS sponsored. It doesn't seem that the average girl knows exactly what AWS is doing, however."

JANICE CLARK, EEd Soph—"I don't know very much about AWS. The average girl does not benefit from the organization."

VIRGINIA BERGSTROM, HE Fr—"The orientation program AWS sponsored was certainly helpful. All girls do not know what it does however."

JOVITA REDDING, His Soph—"The only time we ever hear about AWS is when it is amending something. If I have benefited I don't know how."

BARBARA STARNES, DIM Sr—"No, I don't think most people are aware of the functions of AWS. If I have benefited from AWS I don't know of it. If it is doing something for women it should inform the girls."

CHRISTINE BERGSTROM, HEJ Soph—"All we know about AWS is what our representatives tell us in house meetings. There may be unseen benefits, but I don't know of any way I have actually benefited."

VERA POLEHNA, PrV Soph—"I enjoyed All Women's Day, but I am not very well acquainted with the policies of AWS. It just seems as though everything is railroaded through AWS without consulting the majority of women about it."

Belgium Opens Six-Month World's Fair Today; Russian Rivalry Threatens Co-operation Ideal

Compiled from United Press
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Brussels—Belgium opened its $650 million World fair today, its cherished ideal of world co-operation apparently a casualty of the cold war and U.S.-Russian rivalry.

Blandly disclaiming any "spirit of rivalry, Russia wrapped its mighty glass and aluminum pavilion in a last-minute outdoor phalanx of heavy farm equipment and bulldozers in an obvious effort to overwhelm the neighboring, graceful American exhibit.

The Russians have been cramming in the heavy exhibits for days. By the time the first gates were thrown open to the public at 8:40 a.m. today (1:40 a.m. CST), their pavilion was by sheer mass the most impressive area in the fair.

Whether it is the most effective, the 40 million visitors expected in the next six months will have to decide.

But in the lovely round American building there was every confidence that the United States would make at least as much impact with its intelligent expenditure of $13 million as the Soviet Union has with a budget of $50 million or more.

Consulate Bombed

Algiers—A bomb exploded today in the entrance of the U.S. consulate here. First reports said one Moslem was injured.

The bomb was described as a tripwire grenade placed at the fire exit of the building housing the consulate on Rue Michelet, one of the principal thoroughfares in Algiers.

The device exploded when a Moslem charwoman opened the door. She was reported seriously injured and was taken to a hospital for treatment.

No Americans were believed inside the building at the time.

Informed sources speculated that Algerian Nationalists were behind the bombing.

Professor Gets Money

Albany—The State Legislature and Gov. Averell Harriman have come to the aid of an absent-minded professor.

Under a special bill signed yesterday, Dr. John Hastings, 82, noted mapmaker and retired professor of City College, New York, will be permitted to cash 23 pay checks, totaling nearly $5,000, he forgot to turn in for money between 1936 and 1942.

A state law outlaws city checks after six years, requiring the special bill.

Garcia Approves Bases

Manila—President Carlos P. Garcia today gave his approval for the establishment of United States nuclear missile bases in the Philippines.

He said the Philippines were ready and willing to face the wrath of the Communists if such bases were set up.

"If missiles are needed for the defense of this area, I think some agreement can be worked out," Garcia said. "The wrath of the Communists is to be expected. The Philippines are firmly allied with the United States and the free world."

Family Digs for Gold

Dallas—Inspired by fragments of rotted wood or leather, men of the Gaytan family went back into the pit beneath their house today to unearth what they believe may be a fortune in Spanish gold.

The fragments were found last night near three chunks of limestone, which candy-maker Eugenio Gaytan and his sons and sons-in-law hope are directly over the "treasure."

The family tore up a bedroom floor and started digging for gold two weeks ago after amateur treasure hunter Miguel Rodriguez, 58, deciphered markings on a flat stone outside the elder Gaytan's house.

Rodriguez thinks gold, "in three deposits," was buried in a tunnel below the house by Luis De Moscoso De Alvarado, a lieutenant of Hernando De Soto, the explorer.

Extension Awards Given

Twenty college students preparing for county extension agent positions are on the K-State campus today to receive $250 scholarships. The students are all former 4-H club members.

The students, college juniors from all sections of the nation, received their scholarships at this mornings session of the National Conference on Extension Training. The conference is running from Tuesday until tomorrow.

The students were honored at a luncheon hosted by the sponsors of the scholarships. They will attend the Collegiate 4-H meeting tonight.

Heintzelman Will Lecture In Wichita Art Exhibit

J. Cranston Heintzelman of the Department of Architecture and Allied Arts will lecture and conduct a workshop at the Decorative Arts and Ceramics exhibition in Wichita today.

In the the morning Heintzelman will demonstrate the methods of carving directly in stone with emphasis on what the sculptor's objectives should be. Illustrating with examples of his work to show various approaches to the medium, he will speak on aspects of contemporary sculpture in the afternoon session.

Heintzelman, professor of architecture and sculpture, is director of the state Federation of Art. His work is in the permanent collection of the Wichita Art association, sponsoring organization of the Wichita exhibition.

Judging Contest

F. W. Bell, professor of animal husbandry, will be the head judge of the 33rd annual Better Livestock day junior judging contest, today at J. B. Hollinger's Wheatland farms, eight miles southeast of Chapman.

Bell has acted as head judge for 32 of the contests 38 years of existence. He will be assisted by Don Good, associate professor of animal husbandry, and coach of K-State's judging teams.

C. Peairs Wilson, director of the School of Agriculture, is one of the principal speakers. His topic will be "The Opportunity for Farm Youth."

The event is the oldest and largest Angus field day in the nation. Last year it had 938 junior participants in the judging contest. There were 49 boys 4-H teams, 26 girls 4-H teams, and 30 FFA teams competing.

Mathematics Teachers

At the joint meeting of the Kansas Association of Teachers of Mathematics and the Kansas section of the Mathematical Association of America held last Saturday at College of Emporia, assistant professor Stanley Wearden of the Department of Mathematics presented a paper on "Statistical Analysis of 90 Years of Western Kansas Rainfall Data."

Associate Professor Janes of the same department presented a paper entitled "Calculus—A Modern Approach." Numerous other members of the K-State Mathematics department attended.

Beta Sigs Toss 'Cool' Party

BERMUDA SHORTS and knee socks were definitely in style at the Beta Sigma Psi house last Saturday night when the fraternity gave its annual Bermuda Shorts party. Beta Sigs and their dates enjoyed a hamburger fry, followed by an evening of dancing.

The Social Whirl...

Delta Delta Delta gave its annual Firebug party Friday night. All decorations were in red, including flames painted on the windows and mirrors, red light-bulbs, and a big crepe-paper firebug (with a television set for a body).

Although dates for the party are usually picked up in a fire truck, this custom had to be abandoned at the last minute due to engine trouble. As usual, however, guests entered the house by the fire escape.

Alpha Delta Pi sorority's Diamond banquet and ball was Saturday evening in the Union west ballroom. Mrs. Zillah Dunagan, Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Langford, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Doremus, Caroline Harkins, Bob Kidd, Barbara Parret and Roy DeWitz were in the receiving line.

Music for the dance was furnished by the Five Guys.

Honored at a scholarship dinner at Van Zile hall recently were 15 girls with a grade point average of 2.5 to 3.0 and 23 girls with a grade point average of 2.0 to 2.49. Special recognition was given to Betty Ade, EEd Jr; Mary Jo Kidd, HT Soph; Janice Lilly, PrV Soph; and Janet Scott, HT Soph, who had 3.0 grade averages for the first semester.

Alpha Gamma Rho celebrated Founder's Day at the chapter house Saturday with a dinner. Bill Duitsman, head of the agricultural experimental station at Hays, spoke on the future of agriculture.

Theta Xi hosted a regional conference at the chapter house Friday and Saturday to discuss social, rush, financial, and alumni relation problems. Chapters from the Universities of Oklahoma and Nebraska attended.

A district conclave of chapters of Kappa Sigma fraternity will be at the Kansas university chapter house April 25-26. Officers and other representatives from K-State will attend.

Alpha Xi Delta sorority's Pink Rose formal was Saturday evening at the Country club. Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Hill and Mr. and Mrs. A. D. Miller.

Delta Sigma Phi entertained Delta Delta Delta with an indoor picnic Thursday at the Delta Sig house. Dancing and cards followed dinner.

The alumnae and patronesses of Kappa Delta sorority had a luncheon at the Country club Saturday for new initiates.

Alpha Delta Pi and Lambda Chi Alpha had a picnic at Sunset park Tuesday. After the picnic the group went to the Alpha Delta Phi house for bridge.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon will have a rush weekend Saturday and Sunday. A barbeque and house party are planned to entertain the rushees Saturday evening.

Veteran service checks play a vital part in the lives of many K-Staters, who receive government allotments to assist them in getting an education. Wendell Kerr, head of Veteran's Service at K-State, explains a form to Tillman Trestwood, IT Soph, who is one of 1,370 veterans receiving all or partial support. Korean veterans, whose checks arrive the 20th of every month, comprise the largest number, 1,370. Disability and World War II checks are sent to 18 and 2, respectively.

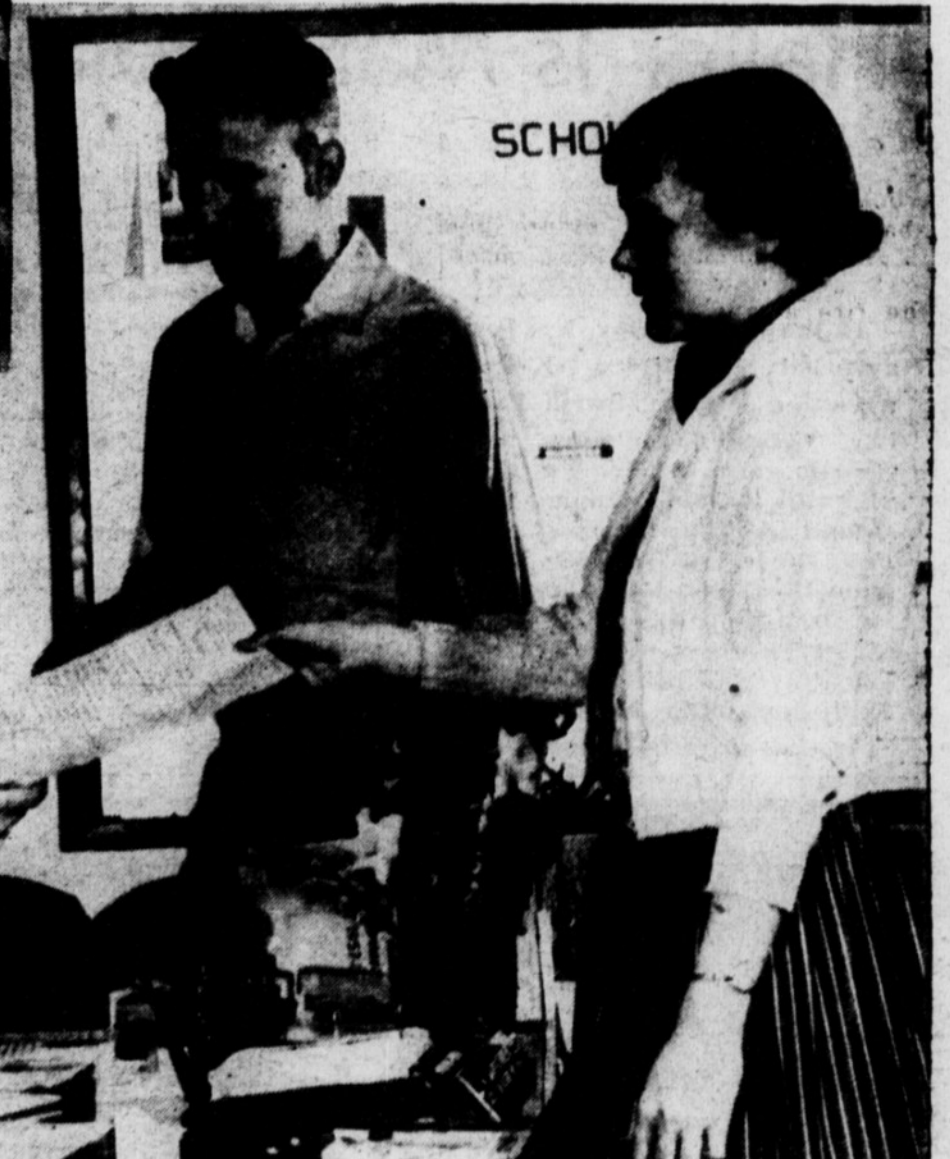

Staters Seek Help From Funds, Family

Student loans often come in handy . . . and Robert Myers, ChE Soph, fills out an application under the direction of Assistant Dean of Students Chuck Jacot, chairman of the Student Loan committee. Students borrow from $5 to $100 from the fund, repayable in 30 days and not extended beyond the end of a semester. Interviewing trips, medical bills, room and board costs, books and fees, and various other expenses often warrant students' use of the fund. The Alumni Loan fund, also administered by the committee, offers long term loans to upperclassmen who near graduation and are allowed to repay them.

Darryl Heikes

Margaret Gantenbein, secretary to the assistant dean of students, checks over scholarship forms with Lanny Brent, ME Fr, and Sally Shellhaas, Eng Jr. Brent has a general scholarship and Miss Shellhaas has a general and a Delta Delta Delta-sponsored scholarship, two of 286 awards now being used by students at Kansas State college. These scholarships, primarily awarded on scholastic abilities and need, total $71,000 in use for College expenses. Most of these are for one year only, but some are renewable, if the students maintain adequate grades and evidence continuing need.

"Dear Dad, I'm fine. Please send money." So goes the story of family funds which are so vitally important to many a student at K-State. Students such as Martin Kay, ChE Fr, with insistent creditors and several bills, are frustrated when the empty-billfold situation faces them . . . so once again the same old, familiar story. And who has not discovered, in the midst of studies, exams, assignments, and, of course, social life, that the dear checkbook, which he reveres so highly, is of no use to him, since suddenly the bank has found his account depleted! 'Scuse us . . . "Dear Dad, I'm fine, but . . ."

How do K-State students finance their college education? Kansas State College, itself, does its part in helping struggling college students. The number of K-Staters employed on campus fluctuates monthly between 980-1000. The College also comes to the rescue by making student loans and scholarships available to the needy and deserving. Aggieville and downtown Manhattan merchants hire Staters both summer and winter with extras during vacations. Some are lucky enough to still have a reserve from last summer's job or depend on Mom and Dad or Uncle John in Timbuktu. In desperation, there are always the many pawn shops found in the surrounding area. And so goes his life—this borrower-budgeter-buyer student. The question arises in each case: will the system last four years?

K-State's Ward Haylett In 42nd Coaching Year

By TERRY KNOWLES

K-State's head track coach, Ward Haylett, who is entering his 42nd year as a track coach, has handled some of the nation's top performers during the past years, which include numerous Olympic stars. On four different occasions, Haylett has coached all-American amateur track squads making trips abroad.

His latest trip overseas came during the past summer when he took a team to Spain, Italy, and Portugal. He later returned with a team for the International University meet and International Invitational in Rumania.

Haylett has been the Wildcat track coach for the past 30 years. During this time he was also the head football mentor here in 1942, 1943, and 1944. He spent seven years as a high school track coach and five years coaching track at Doane college before coming to K-State.

In 1948, Haylett coached the decathlon, shot put, and broad jump entries for the United States in the Olympic Games in London. In that same year, he was in charge of a U.S. track team on a post-Olympic tour of Europe.

K-State's track coach was a member of the 1948 track and field Olympic committee and was reappointed for the 1960 Games. The committee, which irons out the problems of travel, expenses, and the like, is composed of 15 track representatives from all over the nation.

Since Haylett was one of the Olympic coaches of the past, he is a member of the Olympic family, which permits him to travel with the squad at his expense. He attended the 1952 Games at Helsinki and he plans to be present for the 1960 Olympic Games at Rome.

Haylett first made a track trip abroad in 1938 when he completed a 10-week tour of Europe with an all-star track unit. He headed the U.S. team in 1937 during the Pan American games, which included all of the South and Latin American countries.

During his 30 years at K-State, Haylett has turned out some top-notch tracksters. The Wildcat two-mile relay team was national champion in 1935 and 1936. The team was composed of Bruce Nixon, Myron Rooks, Lloyd Eberhart, Robert Dill, and Justus O'Riley over the two-year span.

Also in 1935, the Wildcat shuttle hurdle relay team set the world's record. Lawrence Schmutz, Dougal Russell, Oren Stoner, and Joe Knappenberger made up the shuttle relay unit.

Haylett has also coached such noted tracksters as Elmer Hackney, two-time national shot put champion; Knappenberger, conference indoor and outdoor high and low hurdle champion; Harry Hinckley, conference high hurdle champion; Virgil Severns, national high jump champion; Herb Hoskins, all-American broad jumper; Thane Baker, 1956 Olympic dash man; and Rolland Prather, all-American shot and discus thrower.

Out of this group Haylett listed Hackney as the outstanding field man that he has coached and Baker as the outstanding runner.

Haylett's track experience centers around the shot put and the pole vault, although he participated in some ten or more events while attending Doane.

WARD HAYLETT, now in his 42nd year as a track coach, gives tips to Jim Cain, who holds the K-State varsity record in the shotput with a heave of 53' 9 3/4".

Desire and Effort Determine Cain's Shotput Improvement

By JOYCE RECTOR

"If Jim Cain improves in proportion to the development he has shown this year, he'll be one of the national leaders next year," said Ward Haylett, K-State track coach, in appraising the Wildcat shot-putter. "His development has been one of the high spots in track season this year, and he has the great desire and puts forth the effort to obtain success."

Cain has already broken one record. In the Colorado Invitational track meet, he threw the shot-put 53' 9 3/4", to break the K-State varsity record as well as that of the meet.

Beginning in high school, Cain figures that he has improved his throwing distance at least five feet each year. He hopes to keep the improvement up next year, when he will have a good chance of standing with the national champions. Only three men have ever thrown better than 60 feet.

"I like shot-putting," Cain said, "because it's individualistic. When you're shot-putting, the results are all up to you."

Another motivation for Cain was to see just how good he could become. "Those early marks weren't too good," he admits, "and I wanted to see how far I could get." To keep in condition, Cain does a lot of weight-lifting, both in and out of track season.

Haylett said that to be a good shot-putter, co-ordination, quickness, size, strength, are all needed. Cain, a 19-year-old sophomore, who stands 6' 3" and weighs 218 pounds, seems to have these qualifications.

Haylett, however, posed some difficulties. As Cain tries for more distance, he pointed out, the going will be harder. It's much easier to go from 35 to 40 feet than from 55-60 feet.

Haylett also said the league has more shot-putters, and good ones, than any other league in the nation. Someone in the conference could be very good, and still not the best.

As Haylett stated, however, one of the qualifications a shot-putter must have is desire, and Cain admits to having plenty of that.

Athletics To Play 'Cousin' Cleveland

Cleveland (U.P.)—The high-flying Kansas City Athletics tackle their "country cousin" Cleveland Indians here again today before moving to Kansas City for their home opener tomorrow.

The A's, with left fielder Bob Cerv driving in five runs, downed the Tribe, 9-4, yesterday for their second-straight win. The A's won their season opener from the Tribe, 5-0, Tuesday.

Cerv had two doubles and a homer, one double coming in the first inning when the A's scored five times against Ray Narleski and his relief, Steve Ridzik.

He doubled home two more runs in the sixth against Clarence Churn and homered with one man on in the ninth when Dick Tomanek was pitching.

Only four A's faced Narleski in the first frame, three getting singles and one walking. Ridzik yielded Cerv's RBI double and a single before retiring the side.

The Indians used four walks and a single to score twice in the fourth off starter Ralph Terry. They finished Terry with two more runs in the eighth. Tom Gorman relieved and pitched a scoreless ninth.

Letters Awarded to 24 Cagers

Twelve varsity basketball players from the 1957-58 Big Eight champions have been approved as lettermen by the K-State Athletic council and the same number of freshmen were okayed for numerals for the past season's play.

Varsity players, student manager John Stone, the Wildcat coaching staff, and trainer Lawrence Morgan will also receive gold basketballs in recognition for winning the Big Eight crown.

Frosh nominated numerals are

Richard Anderson, Gove; Wayne Brent, Alton; John Bryant, Tampa, Fla.; Larry Comley, Kansas City; Dean Larson, Ada; James Messer, Olathe; Paul Sangster, Springfield, Ill.; Jack Whittier, Kansas City; Ced Price, Ft. Worth, Tex.; Fred Boone, Manhattan; Sharon Knorr, Ellsworth; Terry Leek, Great Bend and Manager, Don Ungerer, Marysville. The freshman letter winners are subject to meeting scholastic requirements.

Ping-Pongers To Meet WU

K-State's table tennis team, sponsored by the Union Games committee, leaves at 5 p.m. for a match tonight with Washburn university at Topeka. K-State beat Washburn last year, 7-0.

Members of the team are Don Veraska, Paul Petrossian, Ray Eaton, Gary Vacin, and C. Y. Wang. The doubles teams are Veraska-Petrossian and Vacin-Wang. Five singles and two doubles matches will be played.

USDA Men To Lecture Veterinary Med Students

Veterinary Medicine students have the opportunity to hear outstanding men lecture this spring, according to E. E. Leasure, dean of the School of Veterinary Medicine.

Dr. Daniel DeCamp, chief poultry inspector for the USDA Marketing Research Service, Washington, D.C., will speak on "Poultry Inspection and Regulations Apparent There To" April 24. Dr. DeCamp will speak to the senior class in the morning, the sophomore and junior classes in the afternoon on the problem of "Summer Employment With the Marketing Service."

Dr. Louis H. Smith, Inspector in charge of USDA Agriculture Research Service at Topeka, was on the campus April 16 and demonstrated the proper techniques of brucellous testing in cattle. He will return to the campus to record the results of the tests April 19.

Meat Judging

A meat judging contest, sponsored by the Block and Bridle club will be conducted in Wichita May 9. The contest will be in a meat packing plant, beginning at 9 a.m.

Prizes will be awarded to the best judges, with the winner receiving a knife carving set valued at $30, said Darwin Francis, AH Sr, contest chairman.

Workouts for all interested persons will be today and April 21, 24, and 28, May 1 and 5 in the old meats lab in East Waters.

The contest is limited to K-State students, and Francis expects close to 60 contestants to enter.

Graduate Seminar

The third visiting scholar on the Graduate Seminar and Lecture Series will be L. M. K. Boelter, dean of the College of Engineering and chairman of the Department of Engineering, University of California, Los Angeles.

The seminar for graduate students and faculty will be at 10 a.m. Monday, in Seaton hall, room 126. Dean Boelter will speak about heat transfer and related topics.

At 2:30 p.m. Boelter will meet with a committee to study curriculums in engineering science, appointed by M. A. Durland, dean of the School of Engineering and Architecture, and will submit his recommendations to the committee.

Boelter will address the general faculty in Danforth Chapel auditorium at 4 p.m. on the subject "Ten Years of Progressive Experience with an Integrated Single Degree Curriculum in Engineering, and Inferences Pertinent to Schools of Arts and Sciences."

Art Exhibits

Angelo Garcia, assistant professor in the Art department, is showing two pieces of pottery in the 13th National Decorative Ceramics Art Exhibition in the Wichita Art Association galleries.

He will accompany a group of art students to the exhibit Saturday.

Those attending are Barbara Alt, HEA Soph; Paula Colliatie, HM Fr; Ruby Landon, HE Fr; Jill Strahan, HEN Fr; Carol Greer, HEA Sr; Virginia Garrison, HEA Jr; Otto Wu, ME Gr; Dorothy Hemphill, HEA Soph.

John Hannah, instructor in the art department, has had a print accepted for showing at the 16th National Exhibition of Prints in the Library of Congress, Washington, D.C.

The Art department also is showing an exhibition of serigraphs by artist members of the Western Serigraph Institute of North Hollywood, Calif. The display is on the second floor in Anderson hall.

AIA

Thirty students from the Department of Architecture and Allied Arts will attend a lecture by Frank Lloyd Wright, famous architect, at Oklahoma university tonight. The lecture is scheduled to begin at 8:30 p.m.

Mr. Wright's appearance is being sponsored by the Oklahoma university chapter of the American Institution of Architects.

Dairy Club

The Dairy club will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m., according to Jack Van Horn, DH Sr.

Plans for the spring steak fry and judging contest will be made, and officers for the fall semester will be elected.

Faculty Firesides

The last of the Faculty Firesides, sponsored jointly by the YWCA and YMCA, are scheduled for tonight.

Firesides scheduled for tonight: Dean of Students Herbert Wunderlich, 7:30 p.m., 415 Oakdale; Dr. W. H. Sill, Jr., assistant professor of botany, 8 p.m., Route 1, Village Acres; Roy C. Langford, associate professor of psychology, 8 p.m., 1101 Claflin road; Assistant Dean of Students Charles Jacot, 7:30 p.m., 1945 Hunting; Mr. Thornton Edwards, housing director, 7:30 p.m., 717 Bertrand; Prof. James C. Carey, history and government, 8 p.m., 332 North 15th street; and Miss Dorothy Barfoot, head of the Department of Art, and her housemate, Mrs. Bessie B. West, 7:30 p.m., 815 Sunset.

Plow and Pen

Lawrence Odgers, AgJ Sr, was elected president of the K-State Plow and Pen club, an organization for agricultural journalists.

Chester Peterson, DH Jr, was named vice president and Loren Henry, AgJ Jr, secretary-trasurer. Harold Poland, AgJ Soph, was elected Ag Council representative. Elbert Macy, instructor in journalism, will be the faculty adviser for the fall semester.

The organization will have a spring outing April 29.

YMCA

New officers of the YMCA are Boyd Burhood, PrV Soph, president; Wayne Stewart, EE Sr, vice president; Jim R. Moore, ArE Fr, secretary; Max Peterson, ME Fr, treasurer; and Dick Brantingham, BA Soph, and Billie Cowell, Ag Fr, student members of the advisory board.

Plans have been made to have a joint picnic with the YWCA on April 29.

LA Dean Here Monday To Speak to Engineers

L. M. K. Boelter, one of the nation's leading engineering educators and dean of the College of Engineering of the University of California at Los Angeles, will speak and meet with students and faculty members Monday.

Dean Boelter will make two addresses, one before a joint luncheon of the engineering experiment station and Faculty Research committee of the Bureau of General Research at noon, and another at 4 p.m. when he will address the general faculty.

His noon address will be "The Place of Research in a Technical Institution," and his faculty address will be "Ten Years of Progressive Experiences with an Integrated, Single-Degree Curriculum in Engineering and Inferences Pertinent to Schools of Arts and Sciences."

Boelter will conduct a seminar at 10 a.m. on heat transfer and related topics. In the afternoon he will meet with a committee which is studying the curriculum in engineering science.

His appearance is sponsored by the graduate seminar and lecture series. The UCLA engineering head holds the Lamme award, highest recognition given by the American Society of Engineering education.

Theme Contest Begins For 1958 Homecoming

Students have an opportunity to win $5 by submitting a winning theme for the 1958-59 homecoming decorations. Entries should be adaptable to both house decorations and floats.

Students may get entry blanks at Union games desk, and return them by May 3.

Concert Scheduled By Mu Phi Epsilon

An "all American" concert will be presented by Mu Phi Epsilon, national honorary for women in music, at the College auditorium, 3 p.m. Sunday. Each member will present a solo by a contemporary American composer.

Playing the organ will be Donna Turner, MEI Jr., "Baroque Suite," Seth Bingham; Karen Peterson, MGS Sr., "Prelude," Everett Titcomb; and Jane Thompson, MGS Sr., "Epilogue," Langlais.

On the piano will be Nancy Irvine, MIE Jr., "Preludes I and II," George Gershwin; Betty Larkin, MEI Soph., "Rush Hour in Hong Kong," Chasins; Kay Reboul, MEI Jr., "Tango American," Carpenter; Rebecca Dudley, MEI Soph., "Clog Dance,"

Matt Betton Will Speak At Banquet

Matt Betton will speak on the "Importance of Music in the Schools" at the annual Future Teachers of America banquet at 6:30 p.m. Monday in the main ballroom of the Union. Tickets are $1.25 each and must be purchased by tonight, according to Betty Childs, ChW Sr, FTA president.

Music will be provided by the Manhattan high school dance band. New officers of FTA will be introduced.

Four scholarship awards will be given at the banquet. Two students will receive $62.50 awards from the K-State FTA chapter. Two $100 Holton scholarship awards will be presented.

Howard Hanson; Jeannine Williamson, MEI Sr., "Concord, Mass.," and Yvonne Hodges, MEI Jr., "Scherzo Opus 6 No. 3," Charles T. Griffes.

Singing will be Carol Korinek, MGS Soph., "Little Elegy," and "The Bird," John Duke; and JoEllen Cooley, MGS Soph., "Heavenly Grass," Paul Bowles.

Picnics at Sunset park are all the rage now, as students crowd out to the shelter and picnic tables to partake of the sunshine and warm weather.

Also taking advantage of warm weather are classes. Once more the engineers are out in full force, surveying a campus which has been surveyed each fall and spring as long as anyone can remember.

Art students are sprinkled all over the campus. Favorite spots are the meadow in front of Anderson and a big spreading tree south of the Mathematics building. The artists sprawl on the ground, looking quite Bohemian, and enjoy the envious glances of their fellow students.

The Reed Marionettes, nationally known traveling puppeteers, will present "Aladdin and His Lamp," in two performances, at 10 a.m. and 2 p.m. Saturday in the Student Union little theater.

The Union movie this weekend will be "Gentleman's Agreement," in the little theater Friday, Saturday, and Sunday at 7:30 p.m.

The newly-selected Union Program council met with out-going council members in the walnut dining room yesterday afternoon. Final date for applications for Union committee subchairmanships was 5 p.m. yesterday and interviews will be next week. The council carried out a mock interview and discussed interviewing procedure.

Loren Kottner, Union director, stressed the importance of subchairmen to the success of a committee and urged chairmen to interview thoroughly.

Bill Harrison, NE Sr, Games committee chairman, reported that his committee is planning a date night for the games area. Harrison asked that another committee volunteer to sponsor an event in the Union for the same night.

Best of all, from the students' point of view, is the sudden excuse of spring fever. For as Student Health loses patients, classes lose participants. Those who have been faithfully attending classes throughout the winter suddenly find that they have some cuts coming, and those who haven't been so prompt about attendance, well, let's just forget that!

Many of those who are attending classes regularly seem to gaze out the window as if contemplating the approaching long, hot summer.

And undoubtedly a few are completely unaffected by the change of seasons.

'58 Chariot Relays On Tap Tomorrow

The Fourth Annual Chariot relays, sponsored by Lambda Chi Alpha, will be at 1:30 p.m. in Memorial stadium tomorrow.

There will be 20 chariots entered in the competition, the largest number since the relays started in 1955. The competition is open to any fraternity or organized house.

Eighteen chariots have been entered for speed, and the remaining two have entered in a special bracket for the "most original" trophy. They are Phi Kappa and Kasbah.

There are eight traveling or speed trophies presented each year. Each of the first three placing chariots and their riders receive a trophy. Last year Kasbah, an independent entry, won the most original trophy for the third year in a row, thus becoming the first house to keep one of the trophies permanently.

The races are run over a 440-yard course and each chariot has two relay teams, each going 220 yards. The fastest mark was posted in 1956 by Sigma Chi with a time of 51.9 seconds.

Pi Kappa Alpha won the first place trophy last year. Tau Kappa Epsilon was second, and Beta Theta Pi placed third.

Proceeds from the relays are put into the open scholarship fund, known as the Lambda Chi Alpha scholarship. This scholarship is presented by the K-State Endowment association to anyone the fraternity designates. This year two door prizes have been added.

KS Leaders Discuss Scholarship Housing

Fourteen presidents of campus organizations interested in the scholarship house program discussed ways students could help in this movement last night in the Union.

Kenneth Heywood, director of the Endowment association, gave background of how the program will be financed and similar setups in other colleges.

Buzz groups discussed various ways students could drum for the program for the remainder of the semester. Some of the ideas discussed:

1. Have a campus drive informing students of the program.
2. Individual students presenting the program to hometown clubs and organizations.
3. Presidents of campus organizations and organized houses enlisting the help of their members.

A men's scholarship house will be opened next fall and will house 45 men. The students will be expected to work three-five hours a week and the total operating costs will be divided by the men at the end of each month. The bill is not expected to exceed $40.

The Georgiana Smurthwaite scholarship house for women is in the planning stage. Women in the home demonstration units in Kansas are raising the money.

It's Evident Spring Is Bustin' Out All Over Campus In Changed Way Staters Walk, Talk, Attend Classes

By JOYCE RECTOR

Spring is bustin' out all over, and at K-State it's quite evident by the way students walk and talk, dress, work, and play differently.

This year the buds on the trees were the first signs of approaching spring, but hard on their heels was the sudden blossoming of Bermuda shorts and bathing suits.

Picnics at Sunset park are all the rage now, as students crowd out to the shelter and picnic tables to partake of the sunshine and warm weather.

Also taking advantage of warm weather are classes. Once more the engineers are out in full force, surveying a campus which has been surveyed each fall and spring as long as anyone can remember.

Art students are sprinkled all over the campus. Favorite spots are the meadow in front of Anderson and a big spreading tree south of the Mathematics building. The artists sprawl on the ground, looking quite Bohemian, and enjoy the envious glances of their fellow students.

Sunbathing is popular—the girls take the baths and the fellows watch. Freshmen in front of the dorm and the girls on sorority row soon get used to the sudden influx of slowly moving cars past them.

The tennis courts are suddenly filled with near-pros, and those who would like to be. Baseball diamonds are already losing their spring coat of green in exchange for dust.

Best of all, from the students' point of view, is the sudden excuse of spring fever. For as Student Health loses patients, classes lose participants. Those who have been faithfully attending classes throughout the winter suddenly find that they have some cuts coming, and those who haven't been so prompt about attendance, well, let's just forget that!

Many of those who are attending classes regularly seem to gaze out the window as if contemplating the approaching long, hot summer.

And undoubtedly a few are completely unaffected by the change of seasons.

SUNBATHING, ANYBODY? Well, sunbather, or not, you'll have to admit this is some body—Cherie LaFromboise, TxC Soph., takes advantage of the days of sunshine, and gets an early homestead on the lawn out back of Northwest. The grassy acres fill quickly with untanned coeds.

Chimes Makes Initial Move Toward Worthy Program

CHIMES, junior women's honorary, has taken an initial step in a worthwhile project, which was publicly initiated by the meeting of organization presidents last night.

We didn't expect great things from last night's meeting; any group will require so long to get its feet on the ground, and we're more than willing to give these students ample opportunity to prove themselves.

They are attempting one of the most worthy programs we've seen inaugurated at K-State in a long time: that of dealing with financial aids, educational developments, and similar means of attracting good students, keeping their interest, and continuing a long-term intensified educational program.

BASICALLY, this is a great plan. We hope that those of you who take part will be equally great. If we let this—an important step in campus improvement—evolve into a committee-appointing, political game, we've automatically killed it.

We can't help but believe that among the various organization presidents there is some real leadership material, that these students honestly hope to improve and enlarge the scope of Kansas State. If student organizations, student government, and student planning continues to become a farce, in the steady trend which it now takes, these students are going to quit.

Okinawan Scrap Collectors Feared Killed in Explosion; Officials Believe Sunken Vessel Loaded with Munitions

Compiled from United Press
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Naha, Okinawa—Thirty-two Okinawa scrap collectors were feared to have been killed in a sunken munitions ship explosion off North Kadena yesterday.

The blast is believed to have occurred on the U.S. vessel Canada Victory, sunken since the Okinawa battle and lying a mile off the coast of Toyaku village.

North Kadena airbase witnesses reported seeing four canoes around the area shortly before an earthshaking explosion, then a water column and white smoke surging upward.

Screen Scene

Title of 'Long, Hot Summer' Misleading, But Acting, Scenery, Music Are Superb

There's a good movie on at the Wareham theater. It goes under the misleading title of William Faulkner's "Long, Hot Summer"—but if you'll forget the author, the title, and the book (if you've read it), you'll enjoy some excellent acting.

We can't remember seeing a more capable array of actors and actresses—including Paul Newman, Joanne Woodward, Anthony Franciosa, and Orson Welles. They did a tremendous job in an un-tremendous plot, for there's just a little too much Hollywood entangled in most of the scenes.

And, speaking of the scenes, there are some nice ones. Woodward would make nice scenery any place, of course, and all of the background, spiced by delicious music, is easy on the senses.

But as we mentioned, you needn't expect to see Faulkner's plot. It's there only vaguely—and it certainly isn't the highpoint in its hashed-up form. Appar-

You can't ask people of top caliber to play games forever, you know.

AND, UNFORTUNATELY, many of those students who are on the front row of every meeting are simply there because they want to be known as "front-rowers"—as political wheels, as campus royalty, as BMOCs and BWOCs.

We urge those of you who earnestly want to do something to improve the College to attend these meetings, to do all you can to aid and abet those planning programs which will add to the educational aspects of Kansas State. We know Patsy Garner, president of Chimes, would be happy to have your interest and your support—and its not fair to let the Patsy Garners of Kansas State carry the whole load.

Those of us who sit back and gripe about the "front-rowers" have an obligation now—to attend such meetings and do our part in fighting the mockery which some would make of such planning.

WE ALMOST HATE to leave K-State this spring—with the excellent Artist Series program to be offered next year. Both the St. Louis Philharmonic and the Robert Shaw chorale are well worth hearing, and the programming committee can well be proud of its choice.

Too bad that all the outside activities planned at Kansas State aren't of this quality.—Sue Goss.

Presummit Plans Begin

Moscow—The first round of presummit ambassadorial talks ended today without apparent progress toward setting up an Eisenhower-Khrushchev conference.

French Ambassador Maurice DeJean met today with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Gromyko and announced as he left: "The real talks have not begun."

DeJean was the last of three western envoys to see Gromyko. British Ambassador Sir Patrick Reilly met with Gromyently the producer has taken another one of the four books in Faulkner's novel, "The Hamlet," and put it on film with another book's title—hence, "Long, Hot Summer." The book characters are almost obscured by the Hollywood version—and the accused fire-bug, Ben Quick (Newman), just barely registers as Faulkner's Flem Snopes. Oh, well—forget the book; enjoy the acting.

Apportionment Body Directs Distribution of Activity Fees

By PAT ROBERTS

"The Apportionment board determines the basic allocation of student activity fees which in essence means the nature or extent of extracurricular activities sponsored by Kansas State college," said Dean Herbert J. Wunderlich.

Dean Wunderlich said that if the Apportionment board wanted to double its investment in one activity some one of the other organizations would have to suffer.

"This is why it is very important to have an educational philosophy in deciding what activities are truly worthwhile," said the Dean. Dean Wunderlich then outlined a criterion that the Apportionment board tries to follow when allocating funds for different activities.

1. Is the activity a student activity?
2. Does it serve the whole student body?
3. What is its intrinsic value?
4. What is the number of students participating?
5. What are the other sources of money available to the activity?
6. What is the student opinion?
7. What is the amount to be apportioned?
8. What is the history of the activity and the future promise of the group?

The physical structure of the Apportionment board is set up as follows:

The Apportionment board recommends allotment of funds set aside as recreational fees. It consists of seven members—three members of the study body, three faculty members, and the president of the study body as chairman. The faculty members of the committee are appointed by the President of the College, the student members upon nomination by the Student Council. The Board meets within the first three weeks of the fall semester to apportion available funds with the current allotment being made public as soon as possible.

The funds available for the Apportionment board stem from the fee paid by each student enrolled in six credit hours or more. The fee is $16.50 for each semester and $5 for each summer session. Final approval of allocations is given by the President of the College.

In 1957 student publications topped the Board's allocations with approximately $62,000. The Athletic department was a close second with approximately $61,000, while the Student Union was allotted around $56,000. The trend has been a gradual increase in allocations with each passing year.

Five Seniors in Dietetics Get Intern Appointments

Five dietetic and institutional management seniors have accepted internship appointments for next year, according to Grace Shugarf, head of the Department of Institutional Management.

Eva Cheung will intern at the University of California; Patricia McShane, University of Iowa; Madelon Neff, University of Washington; Corinne Smith, Baylor University at Dallas; and Barbara Starnes, Massachusetts General Hospital in Boston.

Four of these internships will be in hospitals. The University of Washington offers an administrative internship. Miss McShane has also been accepted into the Graduate School at the University of Iowa.

These seniors applied for two internships before March 1. The replies to their applications were mailed to Mrs. Shugarf.

The seniors did not read the letters until after a breakfast at 7:15 a.m. last Tuesday morning, prepared by them. This is done at colleges on the same day throughout the country. The students then had 48 hours to accept or reject an internship appointment.

Faculty Roundup

Prof. Painter Lecturing At Cornell This Week

Reginald H. Painter, professor of entomology and authority on resistance of crop plants to insects, is lecturing at Cornell University, Ithaca, N.Y., this week.

He is giving three lectures, "Insect Resistance in Crop Plants," "The Bases of Insect Resistance," and "The Study of Resistance to Aphids in Crop Plants." Painter plans to spend a day of study in New York City at the American Museum of Natural History.

Agriculture Directors

Director of the School of Agriculture C. Peairs Wilson will be chairman of a meeting of the directors of instruction at land grant colleges in the North Central region April 24 and 25 at South Dakota State college.

Minnesota Conference

Arthur H. Brayfield, head of the Psychology department, was one of the speakers for the 16th annual Industrial Relations conference at the University of Minnesota yesterday. He spoke on "What Employees Want from Jobs."

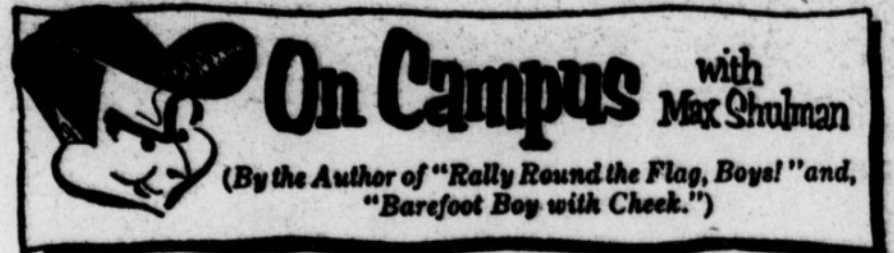

Brayfield holds a National Science Foundation faculty fellowship, and is on Sabbatical leave this year to study engineering psychology and manpower utilization at the University of California at Los Angeles.

Rev. Warren Rempel, associate director of Wesley Foundation, has received a $1,000 scholarship for graduate study to prepare for professional leadership of Wesley foundations, which are Methodist student centers at state and independent colleges and universities. The Rev. Mr. Rempel will work toward a Doctor of Philosophy degree at Boston University.

The scholarships, for the 1958-59 school year, are the annual Bishop James C. Baker graduate awards. Funds for the awards come from contributions made on Methodist Student Day.

THE POSTMAN COMETH

I have recently received several letters from readers which have been so interesting, so piquant, so je ne sais quoi, that I feel I must share them with all of you. The letters and my replies follow:

SIR:

Maybe you can help me. I came up to college eight years ago. On my very first day I got into a bridge game in the student union. I am still in the same bridge game. I have never gone to class, cracked a book, or paid any tuition. All I do is play bridge.

To explain my long absence and keep the money coming from home, I told a harmless little lie. I said I was in medical school. This made Dad (my father) terribly proud. It also enabled me to keep playing bridge. We were both very happy.

But all good things must come to an end. Mine ended when I came home for Christmas vacation. I arrived to find that Sister (my sister) was in the hospital with an ingrown spleen. Dr. Norbert Sigafoos, the eminent ingrown spleen surgeon, was scheduled to operate, but unfortunately he was run over by a hot-food cart on the way to the scrubbing room.

"Oh, never mind," chuckled Dad (my father). "Harlow (me) will fix Sister (my sister)."

Well sir, what could I do? If I told the truth I would make a laughingstock out of Dad (my father) who had been bragging about me all over town. Also I would get yanked out of school which would be a dirty shame just when I am beginning to understand the weak club bid.

There was nothing for it but to brazen it out. I got Sister (my sister) apart all right, but I must confess myself completely at a loss as to how to put her back together again. Can you suggest anything? They're getting pretty surly around here.

Sincerely,

Harlow Protein

Dear Harlow:

Indeed I do have the solution for you—the solution that has never failed me when things close in: Light up a Marlboro! Knots untie as you puff that fine rich tobacco. Shade becomes light as that grand flavor comes freely and friendly through that splendid filter. Who can stay glum when Marlboro gives you such a lot to like? Not I. Not you. Not nobody.

SIR:

Just off the campus where I go to school there is a lake called Lake Widgiwagan. Thirty years ago when my father was an undergraduate here he went fishing one day in Lake Widgiwagan and dropped his Deke pin in the water. He dived for days but never found it.

Just yesterday—thirty years later, mark you!—I went fishing in Widgiwagan. I caught a four-pound bass. I took the fish home, cut it open, and what do you think I found inside?

You guessed it! Two tickets to the Dempsey-Firpo fight.

Sincerely,

Willis Wayde

CONTINUOUS DAILY DIAL 8-2233

RALPH WILLARD, K-State javelin thrower, is one of 23 K-State tracksters who will compete in the Kansas Relays at Lawrence this week end.

Track Team To Participate In 33rd Annual KU Relays

A 23-man K-State track team left early this morning for the Kansas Relays at Lawrence this afternoon and tomorrow. Coach Ward Haylett is taking relay teams for the mile, sprint medley, four-mile, distance medley, and two-mile relays.

K-State's mile relay team will be composed of Dave Burton, Larry French, Jim Vader, and DeLoss Dodds while the sprint medley relay team will be made up of Dodds, Vader, Burton, and Tom Rodda. Terry Turner, Arlan Stackley, Jesse Unruh, and Duane Holman will run in the four-mile relay; Charles Carl, Chuck Burgat, Lawrence Bradley, and Holman in the distance medley; and Burgat, Holman, Unruh, and Rodda on the two-mile relay team.

The Wildcats will be well represented in the various field events with Jim Cain, shot put; Steve French, high jump; Jerry Hess, pole vault; Dick Johnson, broad jump; Sonny Ballard, broad jump and high jump; Ray Winegardner, discus; and Ralph Willard, Lowell Renz, and Al Hamilton, javelin.

The Cat track team's next competition will be next weekend when Haylett will split his forces for the Colorado Relays at Boulder and the Drake Relays at Ames. K-State's only home meet will be May 3 when Kansas university will be here for a dual meet.

K-State's track captain Gene O'Connor will be shooting for a triple crown in the 400 meter hurdles in the Relays meet. O'Connor won the event during his freshman and sophomore years but he was edged by Jayhawker Cliff Cushman who turned in a record performance last year in the time of 51.9.

Two other Kansans, Al Oerter and Kent Floerke, will also be attempting triple wins at the relays in the discus and hop-step-jump respectively. There is little doubt as to whether Oerter, the 1956 Olympic discus champion, will add the third jewel to his studded crown. Oerter completed a triple at the Texas Relays and already has two legs toward a Drake Relays slam.

Floerke faced the same situation as O'Connor, being dethroned during his junior year after winning the hop-step-jump in his freshman and sophomore year. Houston's Jack Smyth sidetracked Floerke with a record leap of 49-0. Smyth will be present for this year's relays and will compete in the broad jump. His best jump is 24-0.

Two K-Staters are listed among the present ten triple winners at the relays. Thane Baker, a 1956 Olympic member, and Eimer Hackney, national shot put champion for two years, are the two Wildcat triple winners. Baker won the 100-yard dash in 1951, 1952, and 1953. Hackney was victorious in his specialty in 1938, 1939, and 1940.

O'Connor will be attempting his first hurdle race since the Colorado Indoor Invitational March 15, when he suffered a severe muscle pull. O'Connor competed on the Cat two-mile relay team last Saturday at the Southwestern Louisiana Relays.

Delts Maul Kappa Sigs In IM Action Yesterday

Intramural softball yesterday featured one no-hitter, one tie game, and a spectacular score in another, in the eight games that were played.

The no-hitter was pitched by Sigma Alpha Epsilon's Bob Smith in a 9-1 victory over Sigma Chi.

Delta Tau Delta mauled Kappa Sigma, 22-1, with Jack Robbins the winning pitcher. Jon London and Dick Jennings each had home runs for Delta Tau Delta.

The Agricultural Economics club tied Jr. AVMA, 10-10. No playoff is scheduled.

In other games, Delta Sigma Phi edged Phi Delta Theta, 5-4. Bob Goodin was the winning pitcher and Gayle Kay drove in three runs. Alpha Kappa Lambda beat Sigma Nu, 6-2. Alpha Gamma Rho defeated Theta Xi, 1-0, with Joe Regier hitting the winning home run in the last half of the last inning. House of Williams downed Sigma Phi Nothing, 1-0.

Today's schedule:

City park—Kasbah vs YMCA, 4:15 p.m., southwest corner; 357 club vs Alley Rats, 5:15 p.m., southwest corner; Rho Alphas vs Westminster Foundation, 4:15 p.m., northwest corner; and South Jardine vs West Stadium, 5:15 p.m., northwest corner.

Military drill field—Vets vs AIA 4:15 p.m., west field; OK House vs Newman club, 5:15 p.m., west field; Phi Kappa Tau vs Acacia, 4:15 p.m., east field; and Delta Upsilon vs Pi Kappa Alpha, 5:15 p.m., east field.

Schurle 'Dresses' Gridders For Wildcat Practices, Games

By BILL BIDWELL

Maintaining a football team requires the combined efforts of many persons. Without the coaches, the cheerleaders, band, fans, and many others, a team would accomplish little. No less important is the job of the football equipment manager.

Mert Schurle has been fulfilling this task since last July when he came to work at K-State. Countless items, ranging from football shoes to shoulder pads, line the room in which he works adjacent to the locker rooms below East stadium. Upon beginning his duties, he took inventory of all the equipment.

It is Schurle's responsibility that every football player is equipped with a locker and the proper uniform. That may sound like an easy job, but it isn't.

For example, he not only issues game uniforms but also regularly cleans and repairs the equipment. Bad weather on the gridiron certainly doesn't keep a uniform clean, and to keep the entire team's uniforms looking spic and span is no easy job. In addition, football may sometimes be "rough" on equipment, making repairs necessary.

Currently, a shoemaker assists Schurle in repairing shoes, shoulder pads, and helmets on Saturdays.

Schurle launders practice and game uniforms each day, and it is necessary to clean an estimated 200 football helmets twice a year.

Keeping a file of all equipment on hand in the equipment room, he instantly knows "where to find it" during practice sessions or home games. It takes him only a short time to locate a pair of shoes or uniform of the proper size for an athlete.

Student managers co-operate closely with Schurle. The varsity squad requires three student managers, and the freshman squad requires two. One of them will work with Schurle at the check-out window during busy moments.

Schurle's duties also require him to prepare a proposed budget each year for replacement of worn-out equipment.

With these various responsibilities, he has no season to his work. To be sure, he'll be busier come football season next fall, but the job of football equipment manager is a full-time duty.

KEEPING THE KNIGHTS IN ARMOR—It is Mert Schurle's job to keep the K-State football equipment in good condition throughout spring practice and the regular season.

Gymnasts To AAU Meet

The Southwestern AAU championship gymnastics meet today and tomorrow at Dallas will be the last full-team competition this season for K-State's gymnasts.

Medals will be given in the first three places in 10 events. Trophies will be awarded the best all-around performer and team trophies will be given to teams placing first, second, and third in team competition.

The meet will mark the end of team competition for two K-State seniors, Bob Gramzow and Allen Olsen. Gramzow holds the all-time cat scoring record with 135 points. Olsen has 70 points to credit.

Events and entries:

Free exercise—Robert Gramzow, Mike Dziura, George Ouye, and Roger Cudney.
Rope climb—Ted Bare, Harold Loomis, Don Krasko, Allen Olsen, Dziura, and Ouye.

Parallel bars—Ron Leslie, Bare, Dziura, Ouye, and Olsen.
Hi-bar—Roger Pine, Bare, Loomis, and Krasko.
Still rings—Loomis, Dziura, and Gramzow.
Long horse leaping—Bare, Dziura, Gramzow, Loomis, Cudney, and Leslie.
Side horse—Cudney, Olsen, Leslie, and Ouye.
Tumbling—Gramzow.

K-State Will Play Buffs In Three Baseball Tilts

K-State's varsity baseball team is in Boulder today for a three-game series with the Colorado Buffaloes. One game will be played at 2:30 p.m. (cst), and an afternoon double-header will begin tomorrow at 1 p.m.

The Wildcats have played three games this season—all here against Oklahoma State university—and have dropped all three. The scores were 5-4, 3-1, and 5-0.

The Buffs have compiled a record of two wins and five losses. They lost three to defending NAIA champion Texas State, won over New Mexico A&M, and dropped two out of three to Oklahoma university at Norman in their conference openers.

Wildcat Coach Ray Wauthier has not yet announced who will pitch in the three-game series.

Golfers To Meet Ichabod Linksmen

K-State's varsity golf team, hoping to better a 1-4 season record, will play Washburn university at 10 a.m. tomorrow on the Manhattan country club course. Coach W. W. Harvey will use five men in Saturday's match—the second match between the Wildcats and the Ichabods this season. K-State's lone victory was over Washburn, 11-4.

K-State's tentative lineup consists of seniors Dave Smith, Jerry Smith, Jerry Hendricks, Joe Downey, and sophomore Charles Hostetler.

Harvey said the four seniors will probably be used Monday when the Wildcats oppose Nebraska university here.

Wildcats To Host Wichita Net Team

K-State hosts Wichita university tomorrow at 2 p.m. in a dual tennis meet. The two teams have met once before this season, with Wichita winning 5-2.

Coach Karl Finney will go with the same line-up he has used in the past meets as he tries to improve a 3-4 season record.

This line-up will be Winston Tilzey, John Bird, Keith Andler, Jim Holwerda, and Ed Frankel in singles, with Tilzey and Bird combining for one doubles match, and Holwerda and Andler playing the other one.

Stater Finds College Teas Baffling, To Say the Least

By GARY SETTLE

With spring here, the time for social teas has arrived. Many K-Staters will soon be attending college teas for the first time and may be a bit in the dark as to proper etiquette. In an effort to keep its readers informed, the Collegian publishes this pertinent information about teas, written by a student who has attended several of them here.

As soon as you get to wherever they're having the tea, you'll have to go through the receiving line. You don't really receive anything, but you just shake everybody's hand and tell them hello and your name. Don't try to shake hands with a woman unless it's her idea. The guy next to her might be her husband.

The highlight of a tea is when the refreshments are served, since that's what everybody came for. At the serving table, someone asks you, "Which would you prefer to drink, coffee or hot chocolate?"

Don't ask them "Where is the tea?" If they didn't offer you any, they probably don't have it.

Be sure not to offend the server by refusing what he offers, even if you don't like coffee or hot chocolate, because after all, they invited you over to their tea. Just because they don't serve tea is no reason for you to be disappointed.

Pick one of the beverages and say, "I'd like hot chocolate, please—with a little sugar and no cream."

Somewhere else on the serving table will be some dishes of cookies, nuts, or jelly beans or something. Take a little of whatever you choose, but not a whole lot of everything. It doesn't look good for a fellow at a tea to pile his plate with a piece of cake, three cookies, a brownie, 17 nuts, and half a dozen jelly beans. After all, this solid stuff is only secondary to the beverage, supposedly tea, which they don't have.

Holding your hot chocolate in its cup and saucer, and your plate or nuts or jelly beans in one hand, pick up a spoon and a napkin in another hand, scratch your nose shake the hand of somebody that just introduced himself to you, pull up a chair, and sit down. The worst is over.

Set the jelly beans on one knee, the cup of hot chocolate on the other, and put the napkin in your lap so it falls down between your legs on the floor. Take the spoon out of your pocket, stir your hot chocolate, lick the spoon off good so it won't drip, and lay it carefully across your saucer. It will probably fall off three or four times, but try to ignore it.

If the tea has been well planned, a host or hostess will be stationed within earshot to make conversation. The talk generally centers around the last day it rained, or the last day the sun was out, or how many people are in Student Health, or if you think the golf team will take the Big Eight.

While you're talking, be sure to mention your hometown because the other person is almost always certain to know somebody from there you didn't know, or somebody else who moved away when he was three.

When the conversation is over and you're out of hot chocolate and jelly beans, it is okay to get up with your hostess and start to leave.

Be sure to thank the hosts and hostesses for the hot chocolate and stuff and tell them that you enjoyed your conversation, and that you were glad to meet them, and that you thought their living room had very pretty walls.

Don't seem the least bit resentful because they didn't have any tea.

Seminar Planned

A "Mr. and Mrs.-To-Be" seminar series is being sponsored by Kansas State's Westminster Fellowship in the ladies' lounge of the First Presbyterian church. The first meeting was April 13. Two more are scheduled, April 20 and 27, at 8 p.m.

The seminar is being planned and conducted by Dr. E. I. Abendroth, sponsor of the group. The series is being conducted as a group counseling experience for couples planning marriage in the near future. The first session was a description of the nature of love adequate for marriage.

The second discussion, Sunday, April 20, will be on the nature and meaning of sex in marriage, including a description of the Christian understanding of the place of sex in the life of individuals and the family.

The third session will be a discussion on the various resources for a happy marriage.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian classified.

Baptist Group To Get New Student Minister

"The Roger Williams fellowship is looking forward to the coming of the Rev. Dale Turner, present minister of Christian education at the First Baptist church in Arkansas City, on August 1 or possibly sooner," Mrs. Nora Lee House, present student director of the fellowship, said.

Rev. Turner will be the new student minister replacing Mrs. House. This will give the Baptist church's student program the status of a full-fledged ministry for the first time.

Rev. Turner is a native of Kansas and a former president of the State Baptist Youth fellowship. He graduated from both Ottawa university and Andover Newton seminary in Boston and attended the Central Baptist seminary in Kansas City, Mo.

At present the Roger Williams fellowship is studying "Campus Life in the Christian Faith." Dr. Emerson I. Abendroth, student minister of the local Presbyterian church, began the series by speaking on "Books, Brains, and Bachelor's Degrees" Sunday.

The fellowship plans to have the Rev. Roy Turner, a student minister of the local Episcopal church, speak on "Campus Wheel—Service or Success" in the near future in the second of a series.

The fellowship is also expecting the Rev. Ronald V. Wells, associate executive secretary of the division of Christian higher education of the American Baptist convention, to visit the fellowship April 27. He will speak at the regular Sunday morning church services according to Mrs. House.

One of the bigger events scheduled is the retreat in May, when the students will meet to plan the activities for the coming year.

Besides the morning church services, the college students' coffee class meets at 9:30 a.m. with Dr. Paul Young, acting dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, and Prof. Floyd Sloat, assistant professor of mathematics. Coffee and doughnuts are served to class members. Then at 5 p.m. each Sunday the Roger Williams fellowship meets for recreation, supper, and worship.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian classified.

Betas Take Chariot Run

Beta Theta Pi won the 4th annual Chariot relays, sponsored by Lambda Chi Alpha, Saturday at the Memorial stadium, edging out Sigma Chi in the final heat, and in doing so, became the first organization to win the first place trophy twice. They also won in 1955.

Winner of the trophy for most unique entry was Pi Kappa Alpha, with a chariot designed as a bathtub. Patricia Elsrode, Northwest hall, was in the PiKA chariot. Kasbah had won the most unique trophy three years in succession.

Joanne Taylor, Chi Omega, rode the winning chariot, which was timed in 53.8 for the 440 yard course. Sigma Chi was second in 54.1 and Sigma Alpha Epsilon was a close third in 54.2. Marilyn Taylor, Alpha Xi Delta, rode in the second place chariot, and Carolyn Pickens, Clovia, was in the SAE entry.

Members of the winning team were Gene Porter, Dick Anderson, Gary Lafferty, and Jerry Wurster. Second place team members were Steve Clint, Wayne Campbell, Stan Prevees, and Ron Blaylock.

Sigma Chi had the best time of the race—52.1—but it was in the semi-final heat.

There were 19 entries this year—the largest number in the event's history, according to Jim Whitford, publicity chairman for the relays. Last year there were 15 entries.

Profits from the relays go to the K-State Endowment association.

Top Six Bowlers Enter Tournament

K-State's six top bowlers, all chosen from the student leagues, participated in the fifth annual Intercollegiate Bowling tournament Friday, according to Jim Smith, Union Games director. The event is sponsored by

UGB Approves 1959 Budget, UPC Members

Seven new members for the Union Program council and the budget for the Union for next year were okayed Friday by the Union Governing board.

The budget must now be sent before the Apportionment board for final approval. Program council, headed by Larry Foulke, NE Jr, will plan all activities for the Union next year.

Both the old UGB members and the newly installed board were at the meeting. The old board explained the workings of the Union to the new one.

The next meeting of the UGB is scheduled for tomorrow evening with a report on the outcome of and suggestions for Y-Orpheum up for discussion. The combining of the efforts of YMCA and the Union will also be discussed.

CONDUCTING THE CONCERT BAND is Jean Hedlund, assistant professor in music. The band played in a combined spring concert with the varsity hand Sunday in the College auditorium.

Spring Band Concert Draws 400 Listeners

Nearly 400 people attended the K-State Spring band concert yesterday afternoon in the College auditorium.

The concert band, under the direction of Jean Hedlund, assistant professor of music, and the varsity band, directed by Warren McCawley, Gr Music, played separately and as combined bands.

The varsity band presented "Etude," Opus 10, Number 3, by Frederic Chopin; "Sarabande and Bourree," by G. F. Handel; and "Tioga March," by Leonard Meretti.

The concert band featured the special arrangements of a K-State student, Stan Cowan, Chm Sr, of two movements of a piano number, "Little Suite," by Roy Harris. The band also played four movements from "Sinfonia No. 1 in E-flat," by Johann Christian Bach; and "High School Cadets," by John Philip Sousa.

The two bands combined in the final part of the program. They performed Sigmund Romberg's "Overture to Student Prince," Edwin Frank Goldman's "Golden Gate March," Roger Britton's "Danish Patrol," and Frank Erickson's "Black Canyon of the Gunnison."

the Association of College Unions Games committee.

Students bowling were Richard Gordon, ChE Jr; Gerald Backman, TA Jr; Don Huxman, ME Jr; Jack Slutker, BA Soph; Don Dunster, EE Soph; and John Lair, AH Sr.

The Union bowling team, representing K-State in the Intercollegiate Bowling tournament, turned in 843 as a team total for their highest score for four games bowled, according to Gordon.

The other scores were 821, 722, and 715. All scores were sent in to the University of Washington in Seattle where they will be compiled by the tournament director.

The teams from each of the schools played on their own campus under the supervision of their campus tournament director. Ray Wauthier, assistant professor in men's physical education, was K-State's bowling tournament director.

Wauthier sent in the total scores to the University of Washington in Seattle, where they will be compiled by James J. Overlock, director of the tournament.

The tournament ended April 19, and winners will be announced about April 25.

Awards will be made to the first three places in the categories of high team, match score, high team game, high individual series, and high individual game.

New SGA Regime To Assume Reins

The newly-elected Student Council takes over officially from this year's Council at a dinner meeting in the Union this evening.

Tribunal chancellor Bill Patton, VM Jr, will swear in new student body president Chuck Wingert, His Jr, and administer the oath of office to the new SC members. The new Council will then begin its first official meeting. Election of a Council chairman, vice chairman, treasurer, corresponding secretary, and parliamentarian will probably be the first item of business.

Play Tonight Uses Music By K-Stater

Bob Sanders, EE Soph, has written seven musical numbers for the K-State Players' latest production, "Time of Your Life," to be presented tonight, tomorrow, and Wednesday at 7:30 in the Student Union little theater.

Sanders has written original pieces for many vocalists and orchestras, as well as singing and arranging for the Nitecaps. All the lyrics and music in "Time of Your Life" have been written by Sanders. Various members of the cast will do the singing and Sanders will accompany them at the piano.

The William Saroyan musical-comedy is "a story of our times." Set in San Francisco, it follows a day in the lives of the main characters, Joe, played by Doug Moore, Ar 03; Kitty Durval, Nancy Lange, EE Sr; and Tom, Bob Lincoln, Sp Fr.

Saroyan says "In the Time of Your Life" live—so that in that good time there shall be no ugliness or death for yourself or for any life your life touches. Seek goodness everywhere and let it be free and unashamed."

Before the new Council is installed, the old Council will take up old business and will submit any reports necessary. After the new Council has officially taken over, the former Council members will leave the meeting. The dinner meeting begins at 6:15.

Applications Open Today For Directory

Applications will be taken for the position of student manager of the 1958-1959 Student Directory from April 21 to 28, according to the Campus Industries committee. Application forms are in the Student Governing association office. This is a paying job on a commission basis.

Campus Industries has also discussed the development of a unique design for an official Kansas souvenir. Members of the committee are going to Larned Friday, and present the ideas and plans of Campus Industries to the Promotion Council of the Kansas Chamber of Commerce which is promoting the project.

Northwest Hall Carnival Grosses Goal For Scholarship Awarded To Resident

Between 250 and 300 people attended the Northwest hall carnival Saturday evening in the residence hall's recreation room.

The carnival, which was between 7:30 p.m., and 11:30 p.m., grossed at least the $100 goal, and probably more. The money is being used for a scholarship which the dorm gives each year to a woman who plans to return to the dorm the next school year.

The women charged 25 cents admission to the carnival, and 5 cents, 10 cents, or 15 cents for each booth. Featured were such booths as a jail; a marriage booth (and next door a divorce booth); a can-can booth in which rings were thrown onto legs with the promise of a kiss (candy, that is) as a reward; a movie on K-State activities; a cake walk featuring cakes the dorm girls made themselves; and a dime-a-dance.

Activities chairman Carole Manka, PsP Fr, and Northwest council member Sue Hiebert, BPM Soph, were in charge of the carnival. Margaret Lahey, associate dean of students, was guest of honor.

HERE'S WATER IN YOUR EYE! Sharon Bailey, HE Fr, and Meredith Brink, MGS Sr, found that Northwest hall's carnival visitors were not as good at putting out the candles as they were at hitting them in the face.

McCain Says Emotional Maturity Needed for Optional Attendance

By DON VERASKA

"If we had the same standards of admission as European universities, I think optional attendance at K-State would certainly be justified," stated Pres. James A. McCain.

When asked to compare optional attendance which is now in operation in European universities, to proposed optional attendance at K-State, the President explained, "You really can't compare the two, because universities in Europe aren't comparable to colleges and universities here."

"The average high school graduate in Europe has a better liberal arts education than the graduate of an average American liberal arts college," McCain observed.

"Europeans prize the privilege of going to a university. All school children have a comprehensive test at 11 years of age. The top 18 to 20 per cent go to high school. The second weeding-out comes at the end of high school. This test cuts down students entering universities to about 6 per cent of the total people their age. In addition, many students passing the test study for up to two years before actually entering the university."

"In Kansas, however, we have to accept everyone who has a high school diploma. This is why the two cannot be compared."

President McCain stressed the problem of emotional maturity in relation to optional attendance.

"Some students can get along with optional attendance and some can't. People have different maturation rates. Some students may be mentally two or three years ahead of their age group when they enter college, but behind several years emotionally. These people may catch up somewhere along the line."

"Therefore," the President continued, "if we think that mandatory attendance can inculcate in the student a sense of maturity, then we feel that the College has an obligation to do that."

President McCain said he was sure that the percentage of students graduating would drop if a system of optional attendance were adopted at K-State. "If we graduate 40 per cent of the students enrolling as freshmen now, and only 25 per cent, for example, with optional attendance in effect, many of the students included in that 15 per cent difference are the students who were not mature when they got here, but who matured in college. And we need graduates of colleges and universities too badly in this country not to graduate them," McCain added, "We think the percentage that aren't emotionally mature when they enter college is large enough to be significant."

When asked if he thought optional attendance would be a good way to weed out the poor students, the President replied "I don't think that is the right way to weed out the poor student. It has taken time from the student who fails to make the grade, and it costs both the student and the state money."

Offering a solution to the problem of optional attendance at K-State, President McCain suggested, "If we had entrance requirements at K-State to weed out poor students before they got in college, and made sure that more qualified students who don't go to college do so by means of more scholarships, I feel that optional attendance wouldn't be an issue."

Unification of Women Is Main Idea of AWS

By JOYCE RECTOR

"Feet on the ground, eyes to the future, the women of today face tomorrow." This slogan of the recent AWS National convention exemplifies the purpose and goal of K-State's Associated Women Students' organization, says AWS President Virginia Taylor, SED Soph.

AWS has been on the K-State campus only three years. Last year it became an official member of Intercollegiate AWS. During its three years, however, the group has initiated many ideas to college life, and has many more.

As a women's organization, Miss Taylor feels that AWS has several purposes. The main idea of AWS is that it be an organization for the unification of women students. Also it is used as a clearing house for ideas, to promote the interests of women, give opportunities for leadership, raise the academic and cultural aspects of college life, give the women a chance to speak as a whole, and raise the standards of K-State women.

So far, Miss Taylor noted, most of AWS's works have been of intangible benefit to the campus. This year the group concentrated on the All Women's Day, and freshman orientation. But other activities have been engaged in and Miss Taylor hopes that as AWS grows, its field of endeavor will grow also.

"The Dead Week idea, now spreading around campus, was originally thought of by AWS. And work is always being done to cut down on the time-consuming activities a student may become embroiled in."

AWS has seven committees, each participating in a different field of work.

The Standards committee sets up the social code for coeds, including conduct and fashions. This year the committee published a fashion chart, giving "We Do Wear," and "We Don't Wear."

The Orientation committee is in complete charge of the orientation of freshmen in the fall. It also sponsors a tea each February for those students entering K-State between semesters.

The Conference committee is, of course, in charge of all AWS conferences at K-State. Last fall AWS sponsored a district convention with KU, Washburn university, and Wichita university participating.

In charge of the money-making projects is the Ways and Means committee. This year, as last year, the committee is sponsoring a car wash.

The Service committee takes care of service projects. A clothing drive was carried out recently, and soldiers at Ft. Riley hospital are visited once each month.

Publicizing AWS is the Publicity committee. The committee has sent out news letters and news sheets this year, explaining the functions of AWS.

The Publications committee prepares and edits all AWS publications. This year the main business of the committee has been to revise the "Sally Sophomore" booklet, sent out to all freshman girls. The committee is also planning an AWS handbook, giving the rules, regulations, and activities of AWS.

"A strong group comes with experience and age," Miss Taylor said, "and I think we are definitely on the right track."

Teen-age Girls Stricken with Food Poisoning at State Conclave, Recovering Today after Hospitalization; Conditions Not Serious

Compiled from United Press

By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Crawfordville, Ind. — All of the about 600 teen-age girls stricken with food poisoning at a convention of the Sunshine Society for Girls were recovering today.

Authorities said a few of the girls, who were stricken Saturday, still were hospitalized, but their conditions were not considered serious.

Dr. Fred N. Daugherty, Montgomery county health officer, said the Sunshine girls, a charitable group, suffered the food poisoning from eating tainted ham salad sandwiches at a state convention of the society.

"The girls all looked pretty washed out when they left here," Ralph Haas, administrator of Culver hospital, said. "They looked like anything but Sunshine Girls."

The girls were hit by nausea about three hours after a luncheon in the Crawfordville high school cafeteria. About 1,000 girls ate in the cafeteria, authorities said, and about 1,400 other girls ate at restaurants in the city and were not affected.

Ambulances, buses, police cars, and private autos were pressed into service to rush the sick to hospitals. A traffic jam developed around the high school, and police roped off a three-block area to keep out the curious as aid was sent to the sick girls.

A school employe told authorities the ham salad was prepared in the morning, but the salad dressing was not added until just before the luncheon was served.

'Quiet Man' Arraigned

Doylestown, Pa. — Louis Felipe Marrero — A quiet man — will be arranged here today for extradition to Trenton, N.J., for shooting three nuns and two other persons in a shotgun rampage in a convent.

Marrero told reporters he went on his spree Saturday night to "get even" with a priest who had not approved of Marrero's version of the Bible.

The 24-year-old laborer said he had been planning the attack for three weeks. However, he changed his mind later and told a reporter, "I only meant to scare them, but then something clicked in my mind."

"I'm sorry about it," Marrero said. "I might as well get what's coming to me."

Marrero, married and the father of two children, said he was also mad at the Catholic church for not baptizing his Protestant mother Emma—who has been a patient at the Norristown, Pa., State hospital for the last eight years.

French Seek Premier

Paris — George Bidault, twice a postwar premier, set out today to form a new French cabinet but his unyielding "hard" policy on Algeria was believed to have doomed his efforts in advance.

Bidault, a member of the Catholic Popular Republicans (MRP), is considered pro-Western. But he would hold on to Algeria even at the cost of a rift with France's NATO partners.

Bidault, 59, was chosen yesterday by President Rene Coty to make the first try at solving what appears to be the greatest political crisis in the postwar history of France.

If he gets past the initial hurdles of his political consultations today he is expected to go before the National Assembly later this week and seek approval. If the assembly votes him down, Coty would have to name another candidate.

Bidault led the right which ousted Premier Felix Gaillard six days ago in a burst of anti-Americanism by the right-wing coalitions. However, Bidault himself did not take part in the onslaught against American policy in North Africa.

Motor Test Set

Washington — The United States will test major parts of an atomic rocket engine in Nevada this fall, it has been disclosed.

Col. Jack L. Armstrong, deputy director of the Atomic Energy Commission office of Aircraft Nuclear Propulsion, said the nuclear reactor and "necessary parts" of the Rover rocket engine will be tested at the atomic proving ground in Nevada.

The Rover, which needs no air, could be used as a light-weight long-range motor for space ships.

Simultaneously Rep. James T. Patterson (R-Conn.), a member of the joint Congressional Atomic Energy committee, called on the Navy to step up its development of the "Subrock" missile. He said the Subrock could, if pushed, be in operation a year before the Polaris. He said it could be fired through torpedo tubes of existing submarines, travel "many miles" under water and then fly through the air to coastal installations "many hundreds of miles away."

Defense Plan in Danger

Washington — Sen. Styles Bridges (R-N.H.) has predicted that Congress will "water down" President Eisenhower's defense reorganization plan before granting its approval.

Bridges, a high-ranking member of the Senate Armed Services committee, said yesterday he expected the final measure will be a combination of some of the President's requests and some features of the so-called Bridges-Mansfield bill offered by himself and Assistant Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield (Mont.).

The House Armed Services committee will begin hearings on the President's plan Tuesday, with Defense Secretary Neil H. McElroy as first witness.

Mafia Checked

Washington — The Senate Rackets committee expects to delve deeper into alleged activities of the Mafia or "Black Hand" society of racketeering in the labor-management field, Sen. Irving M. Ives said yesterday.

The New York Republican, committee vice chairman, said some of the racketeers who have "muscle" into labor-management relations already have "appeared to be connected with the Mafia, commonly known as the Black Hand of two generations or so ago."

Red Technique Poor

Pasadena — A California Institute of Technology satellite expert said today that Russian Sputniks failed to stay in orbit because of poor technique.

"They had a lot of power behind them, but the guidance systems apparently weren't very good," said Dr. Henry L. Richter Jr., Caltech Research Group supervisor, International Geophysical Year co-ordinator and satellite tracking chairman of the nearby Temple City Tracking station.

"The Sputniks weren't in very good orbits," Richter said. "Their weight—184 and 1,170 pounds—probably helped them stay up longer. There's a lot more to putting a satellite into orbit than just power. The Explorer and Vanguard satellites are better orbits than the two Suptniks were."

Richter said that as IGY co-ordinator he had been expecting the Russians to ask for tape recordings made locally of Sputnik radio signals which supposedly were sending back space data on temperature, cosmic rays, and micrometeorites.

Cat Mile Relay Team Loses To Record-Breaking Texas

K-State's mile relay team ran its fastest race in the school and conference history Saturday, but it wasn't enough to beat Texas university in the 33rd annual Kansas Relays. Texas, sparked by a 44.6 anchor 440 by Olympian Eddie Southern, set an intercollegiate mile relay record of 3:09.1. This time bettered California university's record of 3:10.4, set in 1941.

The Wildcat foursome, Dave Burton, Gene O'Connor, Jim Vader, and DeLoss Dodds, finished second with a time of 3:10.4.

O'Connor, Wildcat track captain, completed his triple crown by winning the 400 meter hurdles for the third time in four years. O'Connor set a new relay's record with a 51.3 time. The senior hurdler won the event during his freshmen and sophomore years but finished second in last year's meet.

Al Hamilton and Jim Cain, K-State field men, placed fourth in their respective events, javelin and shot put. Hamilton threw the javelin 210-4, and Cain the shot 53-10.

K-State's golf team, fresh from a 14-1 victory over Washburn university Saturday, will host Nebraska university at 1:30 p.m. today on the Manhattan Country club course.

The victory Saturday was the Wildcats first competition at home and gave K-State a 2-4 season record. Both wins were over the Icabods.

Pacing K-State were sophomore Charles Hostetler and senior letterman Jerry Hendricks. Both had 72's over the par 70 course in blanking their opposition.

Dave Smith had a 73 for K-State while Jerry Smith fired a 77. Both also scored shutout wins.

The lone Washburn point was scored by John Morrison, who shot an 85 in losing 2-1 to Max Richardson's 82.

The results:

Dave Smith (KS), 73, defeated Bill Anderson, 77, 3-0.

Jerry Smith (KS), 77, defeated Art Proctor, 80, 3-0.

Charles Hostetler (KS), 72, defeated Dave Buckley, 77, 3-0.

Jerry Hendricks (KS), 72, defeated Bill Fowks, 85, 3-0.

Max Richardson (KS), 82, defeated John Morrison, 85, 2-1.

Wildcat Nine Wins One Against Buffs

K-State's baseball team lost two games at Colorado university—one Friday and the first game of a doubleheader Saturday—but then managed to pick up a 7-5 win, its first of the season, in the second, with Mike Lair pitching a two-hitter for the Wildcats. K-State's league record now stands at 1-5.

K-State lost in the single game Friday, 12-11, and the first game Saturday, 9-2. But in the second game, Lair didn't allow a hit until the fifth inning. Both hits off him were by Buffalo right fielder Gene Lederman. One was a two run single, and the other a two run homer.

Colorado won the first game

Two No-Hitters Thrown In Friday's IM Contests

OK House defeated Newman club 1-0 behind the no-hit pitching of Jerry Ross, and Hector Puig accompanied the same feat as AIA defeated the Vets 7-0 to highlight intramural softball action Friday.

Two games were postponed. The Phi Kappa Alpha-Delta Upsilon contest was postponed because of the Pi Kappa Alpha formal that night, and the Kashbah-YMCA contest was not played because of a lack of players for Kashbah.

In games that were played Accacia defeated Phi Kappa Tau 11-4, West Stadium won over South Jardine 7-2, the Rho Alphas defeated Westminster foundation 3-1, and the Alley Rats-357 club contest end in 5-5 tie as the 45 minute time limit ran out.

Today's schedule:
City Park—Beta Theta Pi vs Tau Kappa Epsilon, 4:15 p.m., southwest field; Lambda Chi Alpha vs Phi Kappa, 5:15 p.m., southwest field; Beta Sigma Psi vs Phi Delta Theta, 4:15 p.m., northwest field; and Sigma Phi Epsilon vs Alpha Kappa Lambda, 5:15 p.m., northwest field.

Military field—Delta Sigma vs Sigma Nu, 4:15 p.m., west field; Alpha Gamma Rho vs Delta Tau Delta, 5:15 p.m., west field; Theta Xi vs Sigma Alpha Epsilon, 4:15 p.m., east field; and Kappa Sigma vs Sigma Chi, 5:15 p.m., east field.

Gymnasts Triumph

K-State's gymnastics team captured the team trophy at the Southwestern AAU meet at Dallas over the weekend with 56 points. Baylor university was second with 40. The Wildcats' Bob Gramzow took individual honors with 20 points.

KS Water Safety Instructors School Next Week

Gilbert Gribble of the St. Louis office of the American Red Cross will conduct a water safety instructor school April 28 through May 2 here, according to Katherine Geyer, head of Women's Physical Education department, and chairman of safety services for the Riley county chapter of the Red Cross.

Only persons who have passed the senior lifesaving test are eligible to attend the school. Those who do not have current water safety instructor ratings or who are taking the course for the first time must pass a preliminary test before the school begins.

Those interested in registering for the instructor school may do so in room 101 of Nichols gym. The preliminary test will be given at 7 p.m. April 21 and 24. Persons participating will have to furnish their own towels and suits.

Phi Delta Kappa

The Alpha Delta chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, national men's education fraternity, entertained 41 high school seniors planning a career in teaching at a Future Teachers recognition dinner in the Union Thursday night.

Seniors from Bonner Springs, Junction City, Manhattan, and Lucky high schools attended the dinner with two sponsors from each school.

Dr. Ruth Stout, vice president of the National Education association, was the speaker. Musical entertainment was provided by the K-State Singers under the direction of William Fischer, associate professor of music.

Philosophy Club

Oriental philosophy will be discussed tonight at Philosophy club. Kimi Hisatsune, instructor in library, will lead the discussion in room 206 of the Student Union beginning at 7:30 p.m., according to Cecil Miller, professor of philosophy, club adviser.

Miniwanca Club

Members of the Miniwanca club will meet at 5 p.m. Monday in 206 of the Student Union to select two students to represent Kansas State at Camp Miniwanca, Mich. this summer, according to Barbara Wenger, Eng Soph, president of the club.

Household Physics Class

Amalia Miller, public relations assistant for a Chicago firm, will speak to the household physics classes today in Willard 101. According to Madalyn Avery, associate professor of Physics, all interested persons are invited to hear the talk and see the safety film, "Danger Sleuth."

DIM Dinner

The Institutional Management department staff will honor all dietetics and institutional management seniors and graduate students with an Indian Curry dinner tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the Union.

Bacteriologists Meeting

The twentieth anniversary meeting of the Missouri Valley branch of the Society of American Bacteriologists met last weekend at K-State.

The branch includes Kansas, Nebraska, Missouri, and Oklahoma. All bacteriologists from colleges and universities, research laboratories, public health laboratories, and other such places of this area were invited.

Following registration Friday afternoon, Dr. J. B. Clark, University of Oklahoma, president of the society, opened a scientific session in Williams auditorium, Umberger hall. Dr. A. F. Borg, professor and head of K-State bacteriology, gave the welcome. Scientific papers of bacteriologists from this area were presented at two sessions.

'Time of Your Life' Isn't

By JOYCE RECTOR

"It must get better 'cause it can't get worse," seemed to be the heart-felt wish of those in attendance at the K-State Players' production last night.

"Time of Your Life," after an extremely slow start, did get a few laughs in the fourth and fifth acts from the basically unenthusiastic audience of 150. The play still has two more nights to run.

What William Saroyan intended to be musical comedy was saved from complete disaster by the original music of Bob Sanders—and even this was overshadowed by the singing of Bob Lincoln. Sanders' music smacked of Gershwin at times and was refreshing.

Unfortunately, there were lyrics. "My Make Believe Family and Me" was more than make-believe—it was unbelievable.

The high points in "Time of Your Life"—few and far between—centered around one person, Kit Carson, played (admirably, I'm delighted to say) by Glen Rhea.

There were two women in the play. Both gave way to an inclination to play the ham.

Scenery for the play was good. Sending the players down the aisle to make their entrances put the production on a more intimate basis.

Unhappily, the K-State Players' usually high quality of acting seems to have taken a temporary tumble. But, to keep you in your seats through the play—the fourth and fifth acts make up for the first three. They have all the laughs.

The William Saroyan comedy was presented in the little theater by the K-State Players.

Senate Recommends Having Faculty Day

Recommendations for a Faculty Day next September have gone from the Faculty Senate to the Administrative council. The Senate suggested September 5,

Men's Dorm Bids Will Be Opened

Bids have been called for Thursday on the College's first men's dormitory.

Bids for the 600-man unit will be opened at 2 p.m. at the purchasing director's office in Topeka, according to A. Thornton Edwards, K-State housing director. Also to be opened at the same time will be bids for a two-story cafeteria and kitchen building which will serve the dormitory and another similar one to be built on the same site later.

Cost of the dormitory and kitchen-dining unit has been estimated at $2,200,000. Edwards said construction will be started as soon as possible, with the dormitory to be ready for occupancy by the fall of 1960.

At the present time K-State is the only Big Eight school without a men's dormitory. The unit will be a major step in College plans to provide dormitory housing for all freshmen single men.

just prior to registration, for the day.

Purpose for the day as explained by the Senate is to present the most recent developments in educational programs and curriculums and to introduce long-range administrative plans to faculty members.

Discussion on professional development and opportunities for such is also planned. Orientation sessions are scheduled for new faculty members. Those who join the staff in the fall will be introduced at a social event climaxing the day's activities.

The Senate recommended the day as culminating the work which has been in progress, for some time.

Panhe Establishes Four Scholarships

Four $50 scholarships have been established by Panhellenic council to be given next year to a freshman, sophomore, junior, and senior girl. The organization will put an additional $25 into the scholarship house fund.

Plans for Panhellenic Day on May 3 were completed at Monday night's meeting of the council.

New Council Elects French Chairman

The new Student Council elected Larry French, BA Sr, its chairman for the 1958-59 school year at its first official meeting last night in the Union.

The old Council met with the new in a dinner meeting, and officially relinquished responsibility, leaving new student body president Chuck Wingert, His Jr, and the predominantly United States Council to carry the load next year.

Tribunal chancellor Bill Patton, VM Jr, swore Wingert in before both Councils, and the new Council took office. Its first official act was to elect French chairman.

Other officers elected were Gene Westhusing, EE Jr, vice chairman; Kathy Schultis, HEJ Jr, treasurer; Tom Cour, ChE Jr, parliamentarian; and Anne Pederson, BPM Jr, corresponding secretary.

That was the only action the Council took. Wingert appointed Miss Pederson and Lynne Martin, EEd Soph, to investigate the possibility of fund-raising at K-State for the Eisenhower library in Abilene.

The Council plans to interview applicants for Student Activities board, Traffic Appeals board, Apportionment board, and Traffic Control board within the next four weeks, Wingert said. He also said that chairmen for most Student Governing association committees would be appointed at next week's Student Council meeting.

Dale Norris Sextet Shares Top Spot at Jazz Festival

The Dale Norris sextet, representing K-State, tied for first place in the first annual Big Eight Jazz Festival at KU Sunday night.

The Don Conrad quartet from KU, which appeared on campus for the Big Eight Talent show, was the other group sharing first place honors.

There were four groups in the festival, the others coming from Oklahoma State and the University of Missouri.

Each group was rated on a 20-minute performance taking into consideration the musicianship, originality, feeling, blend, and each group's original arrangement of the song titled, "A Foggy Day."

The members of the K-State group include the leader, Dale Norris, MEI Sr, baritone sax and piano; Keith Peters, ChE Fr, tenor sax; Glen Axelson, MEI Soph, bass; Owen Sherman, Sp Fr drums; Steve Cox, Soc Jr, and Art Hobson, Phy Soph, trombones.

The two winners and a group from Emporia State Teachers college will play a concert for Jazz club members and guests Sunday at 2:30 p.m. in the Union main ballroom.

Staters To Face Tribunal Decision

After spending almost five hours hearing testimony and in debate, Tribunal last night postponed decision on a case against two K-State students. Further discussion is scheduled Monday.

The men are Don Miles, ME Soph, and Gene Meier, PEM Jr, who were involved in a disturbance at the Northwest hall carnival Friday evening with house-boys Laurice Margheim, AE Soph and John Hassler, Chm Jr.

Stories varied, but action seemingly centered between Miles and Margheim.

Miles and Meier said after having a beer, they stopped by the dorm and glanced in on festivities. When the houseboys noticed the men looking in the window, Hassler said he pulled the curtain shut and Margheim pinned it.

Meier and Miles entered the basement area and Miles questioned Hassler as to why the curtain had been closed. The houseboy said he felt unnecessary roughness was used at this time. Meier joined the twosome; this brought the second houseboy to the scene.

Margheim was knocked to the floor twice, according to three of the four statements given by participants. The accused stated that this happened when Margheim grabbed them by the arms and attempted to move them outside — without identifying himself. The houseboy said he was shoved out of the way by the two men.

While Hassler called campus police the fracas moved outside the dormitory, where Miles and Margheim again exchanged blows. Margheim told Tribunal that Meier hit him outside and that he received the worst treatment outside the dorm.

Both Meier and Miles are first string guards on the K-State football team and on athletic scholarships. Meier was put on disciplinary probation following an incident occurring in his sophomore year.

Upperclassmen Enroll

Juniors, seniors, graduate students, and third, fourth, and fifth year architecture students with last names beginning with letters P through Z may pull class cards for pre-enrollment today.

Completed proof tickets may be turned in at the Registrar's office between 1 p.m. and 4:30 p.m. today.

Students with last names beginning with letters A through G in the same classification as above will pre-enroll tomorrow.

Disney Man Will Narrate Wildlife Film

Cleveland Grant, Walt Disney photographer, will narrate a premiere showing of a motion picture on wildlife in "The Land of Early Autumn" tomorrow at 7:15 p.m. in Williams auditorium.

Grant, who is one of the outstanding wildlife photographers in the country, photographed many scenes for Disney's recent film "The Vanishing Prairie."

The colored motion picture which will be shown tomorrow night contains shots of wildlife in the Great Plains area, Montana, Canada, and Alaska.

The movie features waterfowl, moose, elk, deer, grizzly bears, mountain sheep, goats, caribou, and coyotes. Scenes of autumn in the Canadian Rockies and on the tundra of Alaska are also included.

Tickets may be purchased at the Zoology departmental office or at the door Wednesday night, according to George Halazon, wildlife specialist at K-State. Proceeds will be used to aid development of Rock Springs 4-H ranch near Junction City.

High Judicial Board Handles Case Nicely

TWO MEN FACED rather serious charges last night before the College Tribunal, and we were quite impressed at the way the highest judicial board on campus handled the entire situation.

Several problems arose: 1. stories conflicted seriously; 2. the two accused are athletes—No. 1 players for next year's football team; and 3. both of those accused have been involved in previous conflicts or disturbances.

COMMENDABLY, the two asked for—and got—an open trial, in order that the campus as a whole—via the Collegian—might get both sides to insure a clear picture. Tribunal sessions are usually closed to the press, except in such cases where those accused feel it would be to their benefit if the entire story was made known.

We saw no evidence of any mishandling, biased judgment, or inconsistencies in treatment of those questioned. To the contrary, the court had a single purpose: to find the truth.

UNFORTUNATELY, the "truth"—if we can assume there is such—is as yet unknown, and can only be known in the minds of those who participated. The action postponed by Tribunal must come only from factors which are known and were up for consideration, and requires lengthy consideration—the testimonies themselves took until 12:20 a.m.—and the discussion lasted until after 1:30 a.m.

Whether or not we will agree with Tribunal's decision is strictly a personal judgment, but we can't help feeling that the decision will fit the situation. We can't remember when we've been more pleased at seeing a campus group in action—unfortunately all SGA bodies don't work with the same thoroughness, accuracy, and efficiency.

ANOTHER ITEM came to light last night in the session—that of what consideration is to be given athletes. We heard one student say they should not be labeled because they are athletes, and then remark that they had been trained to react, not to think, which should be considered.

Obviously, a discrepancy results here, although it didn't happen to come in the testimony of those who are accused.

WE FIRST OF ALL refuse to admit athletes deserve special treatment. They're human beings, they eat, sleep—yes, and drink—just like the rest of us. We can't believe that they are outcasts nor that they have any worse manners or morals than many of those nonathletes on campus. It's neither fair nor reasonable to convict an entire group for characteristics of a few—any more than it would be fair to acquit these same individuals on a charge simply because they play ball.—Sue Goss.

Soviet Union Suffers Propaganda Defeat in Security Council; Ambassador Withdraws All Charges in Face of Losing Vote

Compiled from United Press
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

United Nations—The Soviet Union suffered a major propaganda defeat of its own making in the UN Security Council last night, and the big question today was why.

Diplomatic quarters said the Soviets, in accusing the United States of "provocative" flights by nuclear-armed bombers, must be trying to block an East-West summit conference for unknown reasons. Until now Russia has led the cry for summit talks.

Soviet Ambassador Arkady A. Sobolev announced he would air the propaganda charge in the Security Council—although a Soviet motion to censure the United States faced sure defeat. He withdrew all charges last night rather than put the issue to a losing vote.

CAA Investigates Crash

Las Vegas—Civil Aeronautics investigators pieced together in the desert today the burned and twisted evidence that may tell why an Air Force jet and an airliner came together in an aerial collision that killed 49 persons yesterday morning.

The key question appeared to be whether the Air Force F100 fighter-trainer was falling out of control when it crossed the path of the United Air Lines plane or whether its instructor pilot simply failed to see the silver airliner during a controlled descent.

In the former, the accident was a "one-in-a-million freak," a CAA spokesman said.

Billboards May Go

Topeka—Kansas claimed a first yesterday when a bill to take federal funds providing no billboards will line interstate highways, gained approval by a House committee.

The House Roads and Highways committee voted unanimously in favor of the bill, bringing it to the House floor for debate.

Walter Johnson, Chief Engineer of the State Highway department, said Kansas would receive $2 million by enacting the plan.

come acute for certain basketball games, especially.

Under the present plan, every student must pay the activity fee, which includes admission to all athletic events. Under the new plan, only those students who wish to would buy football or basketball tickets. This, it is argued, would mean the Athletic department would know exactly how many student seats to reserve and how many would be available for sale to the general public.

Scott said the board has received and considered budgets from 28 different campus groups asking activity fee allocations adding up to approximately $226,000. The only new group which has asked to share in the activity fee income is Chancery club, a prelaw students' organization which originated here and now is a national group. Its application has not yet been passed on and will not be until the new Apportionment board takes over.

Applications now are being taken for the three student positions on the new Apportionment board. Deadline for applications to be filed may be set at tonight's Student Council meeting. The board is composed of three students named by Student Council, three faculty members, and the president of the student body.

The present board will meet "once or twice" with the new board to fill in background on apportionment requests and recommendations before the new board makes its tentative allocations for the 1958-59 school year, according to Scott.

"It looks considerably better this year than last," Scott said in regard to the apportionment situation. Last spring the board had to dip into its reserve fund for $6,000 to meet a tentative apportionment of $211,383 against requests totaling more than $230,000. This spring, with total requests at about $226,000, the outlook is for some $213,000 being available, Scott said.

Major requests, he said, are approximately $65,000 for the Student Union operating fund, $60,000 for Student publications, and $40,000 (plus the income from season football and basketball tickets) for athletics,

Dear Editor,

If you can't get the news right, why print it at all? Why, why, why must you consistently insist on attributing feats of scholastic, athletic, and other genius to the wrong individuals, or organizations?

I was very surprised to learn (from reading your illustrious publication) that the judges had reversed their decision and awarded the most unique chariot award to Pi Kappa Alpha in last Saturday's chariot relays.

I wouldn't expect you to never make an error, but it would be nice if you'd attempt to achieve some higher degree of accuracy—say 5 or 10 per cent.

Ernie Elsrode, BA Jr.

P.S. I hope, if you print this letter, you at least spell my name correctly!

(Editor's Note: We'd be happy to have you on the staff. We need someone of your caliber for efficient newsgathering, since frequently our reporters, who, of course, are enrolled in classes just like all students, and have to cover countless events in a day's time. Certainly, with added zeal such as Mr. Elsrode evidences, we're sure he'd be a definite asset—and then everything he said could go in print.)

Athletic Underwrite Endorsed By Apportionment Board Friday

By JOHN MITCHELL

A recommendation that the Kansas State athletic program be underwritten by a minimum of $5 and a maximum of $6 a year from each student went to President McCain Friday.

The recommendation, in the form of a letter from Neil Scott, Soc Sr, board chairman, to the President, was the result of Apportionment board action on the recent Student Council recommendation for a change in the present system whereby the activity fee includes admission to home football and basketball games. Council approved a $6-a-student-a-year fee, plus optional season football and basketball tickets. This year athletics got $8.80 from each student.

As approved by Apportionment board last week, the proposal now is for a $5 minimum and $6 maximum on the allocation to athletics from each student's activity fee next year, plus optional football and basketball season tickets at $5 each. In principle, this is in line with the plan originally suggested earlier this year by Athletic Director Bebe Lee.

The recommendation sent to the President Friday applies only to next year's activity fee, Scott said. Nothing in the recommendation suggests making it binding in the future, he pointed out.

He said it is understood President McCain will submit the recommended activity fee and optional season ticket plan to the Board of Regents for the board's consideration.

Proponents of the plan have argued it best combines necessary minimum financing for K-State's intercollegiate sports program and a solution to a ticket situation which has become acute for certain basketball games, especially.

Under the present plan, every student must pay the activity fee, which includes admission to all athletic events. Under the new plan, only those students who wish to would buy football or basketball tickets. This, it is argued, would mean the Athletic department would know exactly how many student seats to reserve and how many would be available for sale to the general public.

Scott said the board has received and considered budgets from 28 different campus groups asking activity fee allocations adding up to approximately $226,000. The only new group which has asked to share in the activity fee income is Chancery club, a prelaw students' organization which originated here and now is a national group. Its application has not yet been passed on and will not be until the new Apportionment board takes over.

Applications now are being taken for the three student positions on the new Apportionment board. Deadline for applications to be filed may be set at tonight's Student Council meeting. The board is composed of three students named by Student Council, three faculty members, and the president of the student body.

The present board will meet "once or twice" with the new board to fill in background on apportionment requests and recommendations before the new board makes its tentative allocations for the 1958-59 school year, according to Scott.

"It looks considerably better this year than last," Scott said in regard to the apportionment situation. Last spring the board had to dip into its reserve fund for $6,000 to meet a tentative apportionment of $211,383 against requests totaling more than $230,000. This spring, with total requests at about $226,000, the outlook is for some $213,000 being available, Scott said.

Major requests, he said, are approximately $65,000 for the Student Union operating fund, $60,000 for Student publications, and $40,000 (plus the income from season football and basketball tickets) for athletics,

READY FOR THE SNAP—Wildcat linemen are down and ready to charge in blocking drills yesterday afternoon.

Rifle Team Is Champ In Nebraska U Meet

K-State's varsity rifle team, with 1,429 out of a possible 1,500 points, took first place in the fifth annual Invitational Gallery Championship rifle match at Nebraska university Saturday. The team won a trophy and the first five shooters were each awarded gold medals.

In topping the 12 participating schools, K-State, Missouri university, Colorado School of Mines, and the host team, all broke the 1955 record of 1,415, fired by the Colorado School of Mines.

Each shooter fired in the team match with a possible 300 points and an individual match with 200 points possible. Totals of the two determined aggregate scoring winners.

Nebraska university's Gary Anderson was first in aggregate scoring with 488 out of a possible 500 points, and K-State's team captain Tom Banks fired a 480 for second place honors.

The first five members of the K-State team and their team scores were Tom Banks, 292; Bill Davis, 285; Larry Jeffries, 285; Fred Kohman, 284; and co-captain Bill Shilling, 283.

Wildcat grid coach Bus Mertes, unimpressed with the squad's performance in yesterday's practice, is still skeptical about the lack of depth and experience on the K-State roster this year.

"There are quite a few real good boys out there," said Mertes, "but there is not enough competition for the first-team spots and, consequently, quite a few of the guys do not feel they have to put out a lot of effort in practice."

Mertes thought the Wildcats' heavy scrimmage session Saturday was satisfactory, but was disappointed with the showing in yesterday's practice as the Cats went through passing and blocking drills and a short scrimmage.

Sixty men are still out for spring practice, although a number have been forced to work out without pads lately because of minor injuries.

The Wildcats, who have 13 practices left this spring, will have scrimmage Wednesday, light drills Friday, and a game scrimmage Saturday in Memorial stadium. The Saturday session will be open to the public.

Beta Sigs Register Win And Remain Undeclared

Beta Sigma Psi won its third game of the season, as Melvin Scheller pitched a one-hitter to lead it to a 10-0 victory over Phi Delta Theta in intramural softball action yesterday.

Gary Baker and Herb Haas hit home runs for Lambda Chi Alpha as they defeated Phi Kappa 4-2.

Tau Kappa Epsilon protested the 3-2 score Beta Theta Pi registered over the TKE's. The protest occurred in the third inning with Beta Theta Pi batting. Men were on second and third, and a fly to left field was caught by the TKE left fielder, but he overthrew to home plate, and both Beta Theta Pi runners scored.

Tau Kappa Epsilon protested that only one runner should be allowed to score. The protest must be submitted in written form to Frank Myers, head of mens intramurals, and acted upon at a later date.

In other action yesterday Alpha Kappa Lambda defeated Sigma Phi Epsilon 9-2, Sigma Nu and Delta Sigma Phi played to a 6-6 tie, Delta Tau Delta won over Alpha Gamma Rho 5-4, Sigma Alpha Epsilon defeated Theta Xi 12-0, as Bob Smith pitched a two-hitter for the winners, and Kappa Sigma won over Sigma Chi 13-5.

Netmen To Meet Washburn Today

K-State's tennis team meets Washburn university today at 2 p.m. in Topeka. The Cats will go into the meet with a 3-5 season record.

Winston Tilzey, Keith Andler, Jim Holwerda, John Bird, and Ed Frankel will play singles matches for the Cats. Coach Karl Finney will not know until meet time who will play the two doubles matches for his team, but the four will be picked from those who play singles.

Cat Golfers Edged By NU Linksmen

K-State golfers were edged 8-7 yesterday by Nebraska university on the Manhattan Country club course. K-State's Charles Hostetler was the medalist with a 71. The Wildcat record is now 2-5. Both wins were over Washburn university.

The Wildcats will host Omaha university tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. on the Manhattan Country club course.

The results:

Dave Smith (KS), 72, defeated Tom Fulkerson (NU), 85, 3-0.
Mike McQuiston (NU), 72, defeated Jerry Smith (KS), 74, 2½-½.
Charles Hostetler (KS), 71, defeated Don Waltemath (NU), 76, 3-0.
Tom Kissler (NU), 84, defeated Jerry Hendricks (KS), 85, 2½-½.
Larry Romjue (NU), 81, defeated Max Richardson (KS), 88, 3-0.

KS Vet School Announces 2 Women, 43 Men Okayed

Two women and 43 men have been accepted for enrollment next fall by the School of Veterinary Medicine, according to Dr. E. E. Leasure, dean of the School of Veterinary Medicine. Twenty-five more students will be admitted at a later date, Leasure said.

The two women are Janice Lilly, Prv Soph, and Vera Polehna, PrV Soph. Twelve of the 45 pre-veterinary students admitted are out-of-state students.

Applicants accepted:

William Welty, George Phipps, Janver Krebbiel, Donald Lonker, Alfred Schuetz, George Ferguson, Lloyd Christie, Clinton Stalker, Maurice Hubbs, Tom Knappenberger, James Walker;

Bobby Trimmell, Luther Dunaway, Douglas Krous, Oscar Claiborn, Thomas Martin, Robert Crawford, Wayne Hill, Duane Cole, James Withers, Harold McCoy, and Joseph Gross;

Eugene Murphy, Donald Mosier, Robert Snyder, James Osborn, Merle Schnelle, Marvin Bowman, Harold Garner, Theodore Stolfus, Roy Drumright, Kenneth VanSickle, Paul Schilling;

John Dial, Robert Borne, Arthur Becker, Lewis Foster, Warren Babcock, Stanley Agenbroad, George Pierson, Frank McLaughlin, Mitchell Wolak, and Curtis Wong.

Two Appeals Ruled Guilty, One Upheld

Two students were found guilty, and one not guilty at the Student Traffic Appeals meeting yesterday.

Nancy Ross, EEed Fr, appealed her ticket, saying she had been given permission to park in a no parking zone on the north side of Dickens hall by a traffic officer. Miss Ross affirmed that she had seen the no parking sign, but had parked there before with no consequences. The Board found her guilty, 5-0.

Albert Jankowitz, NE senior, appealed a no parking permit. He explained he had had his car registered since the first of the school year, and the decals had either dropped off or been stolen, and he hadn't noticed the loss. The Board repealed his ticket by 5-0 vote.

Donald Schneider, AEd Jr, received a ticket for parking in a prohibited area when his car was found in a driveway by the ROTC building. Schneider said other cars had parked there and he had been gone only 20 minutes. The Board reminded Schneider a regulation explicitly states there shall be no parking in campus streets or driveways, and judged him guilty, 5-0.

WE MADE IT! This is the way Luke Dunaway, PrV Soph, and his wife, Pat, feel as they read the letter from the Vet department telling that Luke has been accepted for Vet School.

Home Ec Dean's Spouse Photographs Cuban War Scenes During Revolution

By GARY SETTLE

Photographing the Cuban revolution for the Columbia Broadcasting system has taken Wendell Hoffman, husband of Dean Doretta Hoffman, School of Home Economics, into some pretty exciting spots.

Hoffman spent most of his two-week-long assignment in Havana during the time Rebel Leader Fidel Castro threatened all-out war against the Cuban government headed by Fulgencio Batista.

Hoffman describes the fighting in Havana as mainly unorganized "hide and shoot" sniping by hidden rebels. "Actually, the rebels are poorly armed. They are fighting modern weapons with shotguns, pistols, 22s, and homemade bombs."

The rebellion in Cuba is not being fought like the rebellion in Hungary a few years ago, according to Hoffman. "The action is very real, but it is a sporadic, hit-and-run affair."

Hoffman photographed the explosion of a rebel bomb in downtown Havana and had the film rushed to Miami, Fla., for processing. Within five hours after the explosion the pictures were seen from coast-to-coast on CBS television.

Some fast news work was involved when he was one of the first men to enter Havana radio station CMQ only minutes after it was raided by a band of rebels. "They had poured gasoline on the control panel and lit it. Within a very few minutes we got there—even before the police."

Several months ago Cuban President Batista did not permit newsmen to enter or leave his country, as a means of keeping reports about the unrest in Cuba from the rest of the world. On his first assignment to cover Cuba's internal trouble, Hoffman and other newsmen found it necessary to slip in and out of the country.

It was on this first trip that, for two weeks, Hoffman lived with Rebel Leader Fidel Castro.

"Batista had no intention of letting anybody tell the true story of Cuba," Hoffman said. "At one time all of the news correspondents in Santiago were thrown into jail, then they were released and warned to get out of the country."

"The Cuban government does not release figures, but I would say that a minimum of 50 rebels were killed in Castro's strike against Havana April 9," he said.

Hoffman described Castro as a fanatic who, if he should gain control of the government, could possibly turn into another dictator like Batista. Both men right now are radicals on opposite sides of the fence. "What Cuba needs," said Hoffman, "is a committee of moderates."

Griffiths' Talk On Tap Friday

Martha W. Griffiths, congresswoman from Michigan, will speak at the Hospitality Day assembly Friday, 9:30 a.m., in the College auditorium. The title of her speech will be "As I See It from Here."

Another highlight of the assembly will be the presentation of Distinguished Service awards in home economics to Mrs. Julia Kiene, and Elizabeth Perry, both Ohio women who received their home economics training at K-State.

Mrs. Griffiths is a member of the Banking Currency committee and the Government Operations committee. She is now serving her second term in the House of Representatives. She previously served as judge and recorder of the Recorder's court in Detroit.

The Congresswoman was cited by Redbook in 1956, as one of ten outstanding Congressional leaders who have done the most for young people.

Mrs. Griffiths was selected as

UGB Topic: Problems Of Y-Orph

Discussion of Y-Orpheum organization was on the agenda at Union Governing board last night. UGB appointed a committee to meet with YMCA officers this week to discuss problems involved.

The committee, whose members are Lowell Novy, VM Soph, Larry Foulke, NE Jr, Max Bishop, ArE Soph, and Larry Edwards, PST Sr, hopes to have concrete proposals to bring before the Governing board meeting next Monday.

UGB was in favor of using excess money made by the co-sponsored show to set up YMCA scholarships to be handled by the Endowment association.

UGB's tentative plan is to give 75 per cent of Y-Orpheum's profit to the Endowment association and split the other 25 per cent between the YMCA and the Union.

K-State, 10 Schools Join Social Science Seminar

K-State and 10 other midwestern colleges and universities will participate in a three-year social science faculty seminar, "Urbanization in the Missouri River Basin Area." Headquarters will be at Kansas university.

From one to three faculty members from each school will attend. Prof. Louis H. Douglas, Department of History, Government, and Philosophy, is the only K-State participating member who has been named.

The other participating schools are KU, Colorado university, Iowa university, Missouri university, Nebraska university, North Dakota university, South Dakota university, Washington university of St. Louis, St. Louis university, and Wichita university.

The seminar will consist of three-day quarterly sessions. It was made possible by a Ford Foundation grant of $39,600, and part of this money will be available for research, according to Douglas.

Congratulations Due Several KS Groups

CONGRATULATIONS are again in order—to K-State's jazz group, the Dale Norris sextet, for its tie at the Big Eight Jazz festival—to Larry French on being picked Council chairman—to Panhel for the four new scholarships which it has established—to the Senate for planning what looks like a highly educational Faculty Day.

Who says we never say nice things about people?

FOOD FOR THOUGHT: in four weeks the two days from now, classes are over for the semester. Not counting Saturdays this boils down to 22 class days, and of course this isn't 22 session in every class. Foreboding, isn't it?—Sue Goss.

Deported Ex-Communist Waits Return to U.S.; Senator Charges Act Discredit to Concepts

Compiled from United Press
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Helsinki—William Heikkila, a one-armed Finnish ex-Communist who was deported from San Francisco last week, waited jubilantly here today for his return ticket to the United States.

Heikkila was overjoyed when he was told the U.S. authorities have decided they were wrong to deport him so swiftly because of his past Communist associations.

"This is the most wonderful thing that ever happened to me in my life," he said.

The deported Finn arrived here by air last night, hatless, coatless, and without baggage in freezing subarctic weather. He checked in at a hotel while he pondered his future in a strange country whose language he does not speak.

In San Francisco his wife Phyllis, 38, said she was "elated" at news her husband would be returned to San Francisco. Her eyes were heavy with fatigue but she smiled to express her joy.

Sen. Thomas C. Hennings Jr. (D-Mo.) said in Washington yesterday he is drafting a bill to prevent "the type of abduction" used in deporting Heikkila.

Hennings said such "insensitive and less than human practices" serve to "discredit traditional American concepts of fair play." He said no matter what the reasons for deporting Heikkila "this was a highly uncivilized way for the American government to behave."

Heikkila was arrested by immigration officers in San Francisco Friday and flown under guard in a U.S. border patrol plane to Vancouver, B.C. He spent most of the weekend in a Vancouver jail, then on Sunday was put aboard a Canadian airliner bound over the North Pole to Amsterdam.

Money Bills to House

Topeka—The Kansas House headed for a showdown vote today on three of Gov. George Docking's revenue proposals, but a knotty problem emerged with another Republican bid for a sales tax boost.

The governor earlier vetoed two other sales tax proposals offered by the GOP majority in the Legislature and has said flatly this special session that he would veto one again.

The latest try is to raise the sales levy from 2 to 3 per cent.

The three measures headed for a showdown totaled $13,380,000 out of Docking's tax-raising proposals of $17.1 million.

They are Docking's proposals to raise the personal state income tax from 1/2 to 1 per cent in all brackets, change the state inheritance tax laws, and change income tax laws on corporations.

Aid Restrictions Heard

Washington — The House faced the threat of a fight over school segregation today. It called up a bill continuing federal aid for schools crowded by children of military and government workers.

Politicians at California University Stage Fund-Raising Liquor Party

By Jerry Ratts

IF THE STUDENT political parties on the K-State campus run short of ideas on how to raise campaign funds, they can always resort to the tactics used by the Slate party at the University of California.

According to the Daily Californian, the political party held a liquor party to raise funds. The liquor party was run along the lines of a nightclub, with bourbon selling for 30 cents a shot, scotch 40 cents a shot, and a specified time in the evening was designated bargain time with three shots of scotch for a dollar.

A 50 cent admission was paid by all who entered the party. The party was in the apartment of the editor of the Slate newspaper, and over 200 persons attended.

Only the door receipts were used for the Slate party fund, a spokesman for the party said. The liquor proceeds went to cover costs of the party newspaper.

Instructors, Students Interviewed Divided on Question of Activities

By Jerry Ratts

OPINION SEEMS to be divided between the students and the instructors as to whether there are too many extracurricular activities on the K-State campus at the present time.

When asked the question, "Do you think there are too many extracurricular activities on the K-State campus at the present time?", the following answers were given:

FLORENCE MONTGOMERY, HEA Gr—"I don't think there are too many extracurricular activities on the campus at the present time. The increased number of students calls for an increased number of activities to satisfy all their needs."

BERT HOSTINSKY, Ed Gr—"No, I don't think there are too many extracurricular activities. It's up to the student to decide for himself what he should do."

JIM WHITFORD, BA Sr—"No, I don't think there are too many activities on the campus. The student can budget his time for his own use better than anyone else."

LOUIS DOUGLAS, professor of history, government, and philosophy—"Yes, I think our college activities are overemphasized in the respect that they lead the student to forget the essential thing in college which is studies. I feel too much pressure is applied on the students in that they are required to participate full time in extracurricular activities, with sometimes, much damage resulting. This year, especially, is one of the worst in that respect."

CHARLES JOHNSON, AgE Sr—"I don't feel there are too many extracurricular activities on the campus. It's up to the individual student to decide how much time he wants to spend on extracurricular activities and how much on studies."

MARY CHANCE, Sp Jr—"I feel, in a way, there are too many extracurricular activities on the campus. I feel they are pushed a little too far above studying, and more important things. A certain amount of extracurricular activities is good for the students, but they are overemphasized at the present time."

DON GOOD, associate professor of animal husbandry—"Yes, extracurricular activities have piled up too much. Fraternities and sororities are requiring students to take part in many extracurricular activities. There is a trend toward students striving for a long list of activities on their slate, which they feel will help them achieve a particular goal. This is causing many of them to concentrate on too many activities, and not do enough work in any one activity."

Stater Corrects Factual Errors

Dear Miss Goss,

I would like you to correct a few errors and possibly misleading statements that appeared in the Friday and Monday issues of the Collegian. Probably the most important fact is that the trophy for the most original chariot was won by Phi Kappa fraternity and not Pi Kappa Alpha.

Second is the fact that an incorrect statement appeared in the Friday, April 18th, issue of the Collegian in regard to the recipient of the scholarship which is provided by the proceeds from the relays. It stated that "This scholarship is presented by the K-State Endowment association to anyone the fraternity designates." I would like to correct this because the decision as to the recipient of the scholarship is left entirely up to the Endowment association.

I would also like to mention the fact that, had the person who reported on the relays taken the time to attend, a small matter of two hours, he would have had the correct information to put in print. An even less time-consuming process would have been to read the information as it appeared on the front page of the Sunday issue of the Manhattan Mercury.

However, I would like to thank you for the coverage you have given the Chariot relays.

Kansas university's new grid coach Jack Mitchell is wasting no time getting into his work. Mitchell, who had previously coached at Wichita and Arkansas before assuming duties at KU this year, sent his squad through a rugged, controlled scrimmage Monday, the opening day of the Jayhawk's spring practice.

Twenty-one lettermen were included in the 64-man squad which greeted the new coach for opening drills, but Mitchell is concerned with the apparent inexperience and lack of speed of his forces.

"We're awfully green and slow," Mitchell said in appraising the Jayhawks, "but the team is making a good effort. Right now we're too slow to play anyone."

Mitchell's main job appears to be filling the Jayhawker quarterback slot. Wally Strauch, a capable passer, was lost through graduation, and his heir-apparent, Bob Marshall, is out of spring drills with a knee injury that might also keep him out next season.

Mitchell is also concerned about halfback Homer Floyd, who pulled a leg muscle while running last week. The injury may slow the Hawks' leading ground gainer all spring.

Nebraska university, with probably the toughest schedule of any Big Eight football team facing it in the fall, is in the midst of spring practice, which will end with the Alumni game May 10—the same weekend in which the K-State Varsity plays the Alums.

Along with the regular conference competition, the Cornhuskers will have to play Penn State, Purdue university, Syracuse university, and Pittsburgh university this season.

Nebraska Coach Bill Jennings has but 12 lettermen returning from a team which finished in the Big Eight cellar last season and ended the season with a 1-9 record. Uh... the only NU win was against K-State 14-7.

If anyone has any gripes about inexperience, Jennings is the man. The 68-man Nebraska roster lists only seven seniors and 13 juniors, with 48 sophomores making up the bulk of the squad.

Cats Sweep Tennis Dual From Blues

K-State defeated Washburn university in a dual tennis meet at Topeka 7-0 yesterday. The Cats lost only one set in the entire meet in registering the fourth victory of the season against five defeats.

The K-State line-up was juggled a bit, as Jim Holwerda moved up to play the number two singles match, with John Bird playing number four singles. Bird and Ed Frankel teamed for the number two doubles match for the first time this season.

Singles results:
Winston Tilzey (KS) defeated Mike Riesner (W), 6-3, 6-3
Jim Holwerda (KS) defeated Vrej Keotunian (W), 4-6, 6-2, 6-4
Keith Andler (KS) defeated David Junge (W), 6-2, 6-0

NUMBER 131

Members Chosen For Grad Council

Members of the Graduate council for the term beginning September 1, 1958, have been elected, according to Dr. Harold Howe, dean of the Graduate school.

The members are chosen from nominees representing six groups. They are Dorothy Harrison, head of the Department of Foods and Nutrition, from the School of Home Economics; G. E. Fairbanks, associate professor in agricultural engineering, representing the School of Engineering and Architecture; M. J. Twiehaus, head of the Pathology department, from the School of Veterinary Medicine;

E. G. Heyne, professor in agronomy and P. E. Sanford, associate professor in poultry husbandry, from the fourth group, consisting of animal husbandry, dairy husbandry, poultry husbandry, agricultural economics, horticulture, entomology, flour and feed milling industry, and agronomy;

From group five, A. M. Guhl, professor in zoology, and D. B. Parrish, associate professor in chemistry, representing the group of chemistry, physics, mathematics, geology and geography, bacteriology, botany, zoology, and psychology;

L. L. Hodgson, associate professor in sociology, and Fritz Moore, head of the Department of Modern Languages, representing the group which includes English, music, modern languages, speech, technical journalism, general studies, education, physical education, economics and sociology, business administration, history, government and philosophy.

Those members of the graduate faculty who have acquired tenure and who were stationed at Manhattan on September 1 of the academic year in which the election is held are eligible for election to the Graduate council. The elections will be held in the spring of each year and members selected in this year's election will serve terms of one, two, or three years, the distribution to be determined at the first meeting of the Graduate council.

Sophs, Architects H-O To Full Cards Today

Sophomores and second year architects whose last names begin with letters H-O are scheduled to pull class cards for pre-enrollment today between 1 p.m. and 4:30 p.m.

Students with last names beginning with letters P-Z in the same classification as above will pre-enroll tomorrow.

Eight Frosh Go to Finals On Tuesday

Finalists for the Larry Woods memorial speech contest were announced yesterday by John Keltner, head of the Department of Speech. Eight K-Staters were chosen for the 14th annual event, with finals scheduled Tuesday evening.

Those selected were chosen from all classes in oral communications, which include more than 700 students. They are Carol Ross, BMT Fr; Jim Farris, BPM Fr; Janet Applebee, BMT Fr; Norman Pfeifer, ME Fr; Sandra Brantley, HT Fr; Wanda Durnil, Sp Fr; Frances Marvin, Phy Fr; and Carolynne Manka, PsP Fr.

The finals will be in the little theater. Judges, who have been selected, are Orval Ebberts, assistant dean of the School of Arts and Sciences, and three Manhattan businessmen.

Wunderlich Breaks Sod For 11 Units

Ground was broken Tuesday by Herbert J. Wunderlich, dean of students, who initiated construction for an additional 11 married student apartment buildings.

The 11 new buildings, which are expected to be completed by the fall of 1959, will add 264 Jardine Terrace apartments.

Three Manhattan firms received the contracts for construction. The general contract was given to Hunter & Lundberg for $1,350,850; White-Layton has the plumbing and heating contract for $315,487; and Williamson Electric will do the electrical work for $169,869.

Campus Needs Housing

"If future enrollment meets the estimated number, Kansas State will be unable to house all who may wish to attend, unless more money is made available for dormitory expansion," says A. Thornton Edwards, director of housing.

For many years K-Staters have been able to depend on Manhattan apartments and the various organized houses for housing, but the situation is changing rapidly.

Enrollment estimates for 1972 are 15,500 and figuring a 75 per cent increase in sororities, a 50 per cent increase in fraternities, and a 40 per cent increase in private off-campus accommodations, 3,300 students would have to be turned away. A smaller increase of the facilities would mean turning away many more.

K-State now has facilities to house 1,013 students or 15 per cent of the student population.

Manhattan's residential area houses 3,733 students and 600 of these students are living in cellars and attics.

K-State's housing policy contemplates providing on-campus facilities for housing and feeding all minor undergraduate single women and all first year single men. Housing is an educational service. The environment in which a student lives and studies is a prime factor in his success in college, Edwards said.

KS, KU, Washburn Host Sport Car Meet Sunday

Sports Car clubs from three Kansas colleges will join Sunday for a combined clubs' sports car meet, according to plans disclosed Tuesday by presidents of the clubs from Kansas university and Washburn university and the K-State Sports Car club.

The meet will be the first intercollegiate competition of its kind in this area.

A rally will start at 10 a.m. Sunday from the city park in Wamego, following an approximately 120 mile course, to the State fairgrounds in Topeka. The rally, being planned by the K-State club, will count two-thirds of the total points in the meet.

Immediately following the rally will be a gymkhana, a sports car obstacle course, on the Topeka fairgrounds. The gymkhana will be laid out by the KU club and will count one-third of the total points.

After the meet the participants will have an informal dinner in Topeka, according to Don Wester, GA Sr, K-State Sports Car club president. At the dinner five trophies will be awarded to drivers with the best individual total scores. One trophy will go to the club that has the best average score.

Wester said he expected a total of about 40 sports cars will be entered in the events. "We'll enter about 15 cars. KU will have about 15, and Washburn should have about 10.

"Winning the rally will depend on the navigator riding with the driver and on how well he determines when to arrive at each check point along the route," said Wester. "The gymkhana will be a timed obstacle course to test the abilities of the driver in handling his car."

The clubs plan to have a similar meet at least once a year.

Stalled? Doubtful—Two Cars to a Stall

FINDING A PLACE to park in the Union lot sometimes requires much time, patience, and luck on the part of the driver, since obviously there just aren't enough spaces!

Are you one of the chronic grippers about parking problems on campus? Well, you really aren't imagining things, since there are 4,500 student automobiles and 1,650 staff cars registered at the Traffic Control office as of March 21.

And the problem arises when, excluding special parking spots for student housing, there are a total 3,437 parking spaces in the 17 lots on campus.

Of these spaces, 1,894 are general parking spaces (for student, staff, and visitors), 235 are exclusively for student parking south of the Union, 931 are reserved for staff members, and 377 off-street spaces may be used by anyone.

"Our problem is trying to get 6,150 cars into 3,437 parking spaces," says R. F. Gingrich, head of the Physical plant. There was no problem prior to 1946, but since that time, the number of automobiles on the campus has steadily increased.

Another problem—even more knotty—is the expense of maintaining campus parking facilities. This problem, of course, is directly related to the first mentioned.

Money from automobile registration and misuse fees is used to cover the expense of construction, maintenance, and repair of parking facilities. Special items in the maintenance budget include the blacktopping of the Union parking lot and of some streets. The budget set aside money for these same projects last year, according to Gingrich.

Additional expense has been incurred this year because of adverse weather conditions affecting parking facilities, according to Gingrich. Alternate freezing and thawing has been particularly hard on the parking lot surfaces.

Maintaining the College's parking lots is a full-time job. In addition to the usual work necessary, Gingrich mentioned that he hoped all parking lots would be outlined in the near future.

Outlining the lots, similar to the situation in the Union lot, would make parking more uniform. Cases of parked cars blocking parking stalls would be less likely to occur, Gingrich pointed out.

Students Questioned Favor Pre-Enrollment, But Faculty Members Turn Thumbs Down

By Wesley Shoup

ALTHOUGH the pre-enrollment program has undergone some changes since last semester, the Faculty Senate has appointed a committee to investigate the advantages and disadvantages of the program. Some say it is more trouble than it is worth, and chances are it could be eliminated completely.

The program is primarily for the benefit of the students, but the bulk of the work rests on the shoulders of the faculty advisers.

A RECENT SURVEY shows that all the students asked were in favor of the program, but none of the faculty members asked were in favor. It appears to be a situation of, "Is it really worth it?"

The question was, "Do you like the pre-enrollment program? Why or why not. Can you suggest improvement?" The opinions:

SHELBY REAUGH, FN Soph—"Yes, I like it just as it is, and I certainly don't think it should be discontinued."

RUSSELL M. KERCHNER, professor and head of the Electrical Engineering department—"No, we have difficulty in controlling our sections. All the students want the same sections, and this causes confusion as to who is going to get the Saturday and Monday morning labs and recitations."

RICHARD BARTEL, ChE Sr—"I like the program. I know many students change after they have pre-enrolled, so I think that if a student pre-enrolls in a schedule, it should be compulsory to complete that schedule. Flunking the previous semester should be the only reason for him to get out of it."

ORVAL EBBERTS, assistant dean of the School of Arts and Science—"I don't approve of parts of the program as it now stands. The objective should be to give a better distribution of classes, not for a student to try and get a better schedule than the others. Air Force Fires Forerunner of Moon Rocket; Officials Believe Missile Short of Target Area

By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Cape Canaveral — The Air Force blasted the towering forerunner of its moon rocket spectacularly into the sky last night, but there were indications today it fell short of its target area in the ocean 6,300 miles away.

Scientists were still trying to determine from electronic data received during the flight of the missile—a combination of the Air Force Thor and a modified second stage of the Navy Vanguard—just where it landed.

But there were preliminary unofficial estimates that the 90-foot missile, put together in this test to try out a new idea for getting a ballistic missile nose cone back through the atmosphere from space, may only have gone about 600 miles.

There was also some apprehension about chances of recovering the nose cone if it landed that far from the planned impact area, it was learned. If the nose cone separated successfully from the second stage of the missile, it could probably be recovered, but whether it did was in the "area of doubt," sources said.

This was not official, however. The Air Force only announced that the Thor-Vanguard combination was launched as "a new Air Force advanced re-entry test vehicle," and that attempts would be made to recover the nose cone.

A&S Council Is Nerve Center Of Varied Department Events

"The primary purpose of the Arts and Sciences council is to co-ordinate and direct various activities of the School of Arts and Sciences. "Our main activity is the annual Arts and Sciences Day for prospective K-State students," said Bill Schicktan, Arts and Science Council president.

The Council is divided into nine different departments, each department representing a different branch in the School of Arts and Sciences. There is one member of the Council for each 150 students in each particular department. The departments: Humanities, Social Sciences, Geology, Biological Science, Business Administration, Technical Journalism, Physical Education, Music, and Physical Science.

In the SGA constitution the definition of the Arts and Science Council is, "Each school of Kansas State college shall elect, in accordance with its charter, a body to act as its council. The duties of the school councils:

1. To present two nominees to the President of the College for appointment to the Tribunal positions.

2. Residual legislative powers shall be left to the school councils.

Members of the Council are chosen by general elections in which each student votes for the candidates from his department only. Candidates wishing to run may do so via petition; campaigning is unusual.

"Most of our time is taken up by the Arts and Science Day. It gives the prospective students of K-State a good overall picture of the various departments in the School of Arts and Sciences," said President Schicktan. The Council meets every Thursday in the Union at 5 p.m.

Minor Injuries Hinder Cats In Spring Football Practice

Spring football progress for the K-State Wildcats has been slowed down as 14 of the 60 men on the Cats' roster are hampered with minor injuries after yesterday's scrimmage session.

Coach Bus Mertes said the attitude is still very good and the players are still hitting hard in scrimmage, but the injuries are hurting team development.

END JIM LUZINSKI, 6-3 182-pound senior, is recovering from an ankle operation and is not working out with the Cats this spring.

"A lot of the boys have been getting minor injuries from scrimmage," said Mertes, "but we will still have a heavy contact workout Saturday. After the basic fundamentals have been taught, scrimmaging is the only way to learn anything."

Only one first stringer, 6-6 sophomore right end Ced Price, has been forced to see limited action. Price, who has a groin injury, will probably be back in action Saturday.

John DeCaprio, 6-2 201-pound sophomore, has been doing a capable job of filling in at right end and may be hard to replace.

John French, 6-4 195-pound junior, is working at the first-team left end spot.

Two other highly regarded K-State ends, Joe Vader and Jim Luzinski, have not been working regularly with the Cats. Vader, 6-3 211-pound junior, is out for varsity baseball, and Luzinski, 6-3 182-pound senior, had an ankle operation between seasons and will probably not engage in any contact work this spring.

The rest of the Wildcat lineup has Ralph Peluso, 5-10 209-pound junior, and Gene Meier, 6-1 210-pound senior, at tackles; Don Miles, 5-9 187-pound junior, and Jim Mills, 5-8 170-pound sophomore, at guards.

Dick Boyd, 5-10 177-pound senior, at center; Les Krull, 6-0 172-pound senior, at quarterback; Max Falk, 6-1 180-pound junior, and Tony Tiro, 5-11 190-pound junior, at halfback; and Terry Lee, 5-10 182-pound senior, at fullback.

Falk and Lee have been pleasant surprises to Mertes, as both have looked very good running in the first-team backfield.

Mertes was quick to point out that no player has his position clinched. "We are still experimenting and there are a lot of guys on the third and fourth teams who want to play football."

"Our squad is not especially a large one and we can give a lot of individual attention to everybody."

The Cats will have a game-condition scrimmage in Memorial Stadium Saturday which is open to the public.

LES KRULL, 6-0 172-pound senior, has been working at the first-team quarterback position for the Wildcats in spring grid drills.

Pitching Still King In Intramural Play

Intramural softball play yesterday featured three no-hitters and a one-hit game. All but one of the eight games were in the fraternity division.

Larry Larson pitched a no-hitter as Farm House defeated Phi Kappa 4-0.

Another no-hitter was pitched by Don Argabright as Sigma Phi Epsilon blanked Delta Sigma Phi 4-0.

Pi Kappa Alpha beat Alpha Tau Omega 6-0 with Pi Kappa Alpha's Bob Roelofs pitching a no-hit game.

Delta Upsilon routed Phi Kappa Tau 16-1 as Bill Davis pitched a one-hitter.

Beta Sigma Psi edged Alpha Kappa Lambda 5-4 with Beta Sigma Psi getting all five runs in the first inning.

Beta Theta Pi defeated Lambda Chi Alpha 7-4 giving the Betas a 3-0 record. OK House downed the Vets 7-2 in the only independent game played yesterday.

Today's games:
City park—Sigma Alpha Epsilon vs Alpha Gamma Rho, 4:15 p.m., southeast corner; Delta Tau Delta vs Sigma Chi, 5:15 p.m., southwest corner; Theta Xi vs Kappa Sigma, 4:15 p.m., northwest corner; and Sigma Phi Nothings vs Jr. AVMA, 5:15 p.m., northwest corner.

Military drill field—Disciples Student Fellowship vs House of Williams, 4:15 p.m., west field; Agricultural Economics Club vs Hobos, 5:15 p.m., west field; Westminster Foundation vs YMCA, 4:15 p.m., east field; and Alley Rats vs Rho Alphas, 5:15 p.m., east field.

A's To End Home Stand

Kansas City, Mo. (U.P.)—The Kansas City Athletics will end the year's first home stand today as Jack Urban (1-0) was named to oppose the rampaging Detroit Tigers.

Former Tiger Duke Maas was the victim last night as Detroit took an 8-2 victory in the opener of a two-game set. Billy Martin blasted three straight hits against his former mates as Detroit moved to within a game of the first place New York Yankees.

Kansas City dropped to third on the setback, a half game behind Detroit. Paul Foytack went the distance for the Tigers, spreading six hits, one a solo ninth inning homerun by Hector Lopez.

Detroit scored four runs in the third inning to hand Maas the loss in a three inning starting assignment.

Golfers Win Over Omaha

Although hampered by a strong wind which kept scores high, the K-State varsity golf team managed to defeat Omaha university, 9-6, Wednesday on the Manhattan Country club course. K-State's Dave Smith was medalist with a 73.

Pacing K-State were Smith and Max Richardson, both of whom blanked their opponents, 3-0. Jerry Hendricks was the only Wildcat who lost 3-0.

The Wildcats will try to better their 3-5 record when they host Wichita university's Wheat Shockers Saturday at 10:30 a.m.

The results:

Dave Smith (KS), 73, defeated Merle Bolte, 89, 3-0.
Jerry Smith (KS), 85, defeated Ron Gunia, 88, 2-1.
Ron Sprandel (OU), 81, defeated Charles Hostetler, 83, 2-1.
Bob Matthews (OU), 79, defeated Jerry Hendricks, 84, 3-0.
Max Richardson (KS), 78, defeated Jack Bennett, 86, 3-0.

Cat Golf Coach Has Molded Varied Athletic Background

By TERRY KNOWLES

K-State's golf coach, Col. William Harvey, has molded an all-around athletic and coaching background before coming here to serve as professor of military science.

Harvey, a graduate of Missouri university in 1940 with a business administration degree, was an all-conference cage selection as a forward. He was a starter on the Tiger squad for three years. During his basketball career there, Missouri won the Big Six championship once and tied for the crown another season.

Harvey was later an all-Brazilian pick when he was stationed in South America while in the Army. He has also played on numerous military teams since graduation.

Harvey's golf experience is also wide spread. He has been playing the game for 27 years. Most of his golfing opportunities have come during his term with the Army.

During the various golf tournaments in which he has participated, Harvey won the post championship at Fort Knox, Ky., was runner-up in the Brazilian Amateur Open, and semi-finalist in the Portuguese-International Amateur tournament. Harvey has competed in various tournaments with several National Open contestants.

Harvey has also coached practically every type of athletic team possible. In the service he has coached football, basketball, baseball, and tennis.

He has been stationed in Washington, D.C., Fort Knox, Fort Leavenworth, Kans., Europe, North Africa, Brazil, and Portugal. During his three years in Brazil, Harvey was head of the Army training mission. In Portugal, he spent three years as a member of the military advisory group.

LA Outfielder On Suspension

Los Angeles (U.P.)—Duke Snider, veteran hitting star of the Dodgers, was on suspension today as punishment for straining a tendon in his elbow while engaging in a bit of horseplay last night prior to his team's game with the Cubs.

Manager Walt Alston, fired because the injury forced him to remove Snider from the lineup and change his batting order after he had announced it, ordered Snider taken off the payroll "until he is in condition to play again."

Dr. Hal Wendler, team trainer, said the injury was a minor one that should not keep Snider out of the lineup for more than a day or two.

"I'll admit Don Zimmer and I were horsing around," Snider said after learning of his suspension, "but I hardly expected this sort of punishment."

League Named For Dope Use In Mag Article

Names of former coaches in the Big Eight are used in a recent article in True magazine, "The Pill That Can Kill Sports." The article tells of the widespread use of amphetamine, a powerful stimulant which affects the heart and nervous system.

Also included in the article is a quote from a professional football player who said he received his first taste of amphetamine in the Big Eight.

K-State athletic trainer Por-ky Morgan said he thinks very little "dope" of any kind, if any at all, is used in the Big Eight today.

"I believe most of the trouble with this stuff in college athletics is located in the eastern section of the United States," Morgan said.

Morgan noted that the National Trainers association has passed a code in their association making it unethical to use amphetamine on athletes.

"If college athletics are games, I see no need for the use of such things as amphetamine," Morgan said. "I feel it's like whipping a tired horse when you use it, for it may make the performer play better for a short time, but you can't tell what his reactions will be later."

K-State Cagers To Play Three Western Powers

K-State's 1958-59 basketball team, which meets six squads that were not on the Wildcats' schedule this year, will face a three-game road trip against western powers in December.

The Cats play California university at Berkeley, December 12; San Francisco university at San Francisco, December 13; and Brigham Young university at Provo, December 15. California is the defending Pacific Coast conference champion, San Francisco is the 1958 West Coast conference champion, and Brigham Young tied for second this year in the Skyline conference.

In the K-State-Kansas university doubleheader, K-State plays North Carolina State at Manhattan, December 19, and St. Joseph's college at Lawrence, December 20.

Oklahoma State university will meet K-State twice—February 14 at Manhattan, and February 21 at Stillwater. The Wildcats host South Dakota State January 31.

K-State opens play December 1 against Purdue university.

Oriental Gardens Theme Of Southeast Hall Formal

More than 100 couples attended the Southeast hall spring Cotton Ball last Friday from 9 p.m. to midnight in the dorm recreation room. The ball is an annual affair and the coeds all wear spring cottons.

The theme, "Oriental Gardens," was carried out by an oriental scene at one end of the room and trees with pastel paper buds. The scene showed a bridge leading to mountains, and in front of it the women had placed stepping stones and a wishing well.

Entertainment for the dance was furnished by Carol Korinek, MGS Soph, who sang several solos, and the Chiodettes, a vocal group.

Members of the group are Marsha Legg, MGS Fr; Dolores Kranz, EEd Fr; Paula Lehmann, EEd Fr; and Mary Jo Cochran, SED Fr.

The Quintones provided the music for the dance.

Chaperones were Mr. and Mrs. Charles Guthrie and Mr. and Mrs. Robert Smith. Mrs. Guthrie is assistant director of Southeast, and Mrs. Smith is director of Van Zile hall.

Bouffant Petticoats Still Rate In Coeds' Spring Wardrobes

By MAGGI SULLIVAN

Flowers aren't the only things that bloom on K-State's campus in the spring, judging from the way fluffy petticoats have blossomed out with the first real warm weather.

Even though chemises and trapezes seem to be here for awhile, many girls like full skirted dresses, underscored with two, three, or even more petticoats, for school and for casual dates.

The petticoats themselves are of many materials and colors. For a real bell-shaped silhouette, wire or plastic hoops in the underskirt do the trick. For a limited amount of stiffness, nylon horsehair, nylon net, and paper taffeta are among the best materials.

Soft taffeta and unstarched cotton provide the necessary buoyancy for dresses of softer materials.

Some girls prefer all white petticoats; others prefer a color to match the costume; still others use a contrasting color which may also be used in the accessories. Some very dainty petticoats are trimmed with colored ribbon, or are white with tiny pastel flowers scattered over them.

Storing petticoats is a big problem in the average college girl's life. With limited closet space, they must often be rolled up and stored on shelves or kept in formal closets.

Keeping them stiff is another problem. Some girls use cold starch, but this makes ironing difficult. The new plastic starches are good for stiffening petticoats, as is epsom salt. Sugar stiffens them well, but is quite sticky in hot weather. Also, petticoats stiffened with sugar cannot be ironed as can those which are starched. A cool iron is best for pressing the synthetic fabrics.

As more and more petticoats hit campus, classes will become more and more crowded, but perhaps young men who criticized them a year ago will breathe a sigh of relief when he sees petticoats rather than "sacks."

Tribunal Rules in Case, Asks Meier's Expulsion

Expulsion of Gene Meier, PE Jr., and disciplinary probation for Don Miles, ME Soph, were recommended by K-State's Tribunal in action taken yesterday.

The decision followed five hours of debate last Monday and an additional two-hour discussion yesterday on the case, in which the two men, both starting players on the varsity football team, were accused of causing a disturbance and striking the two houseboys who were on duty at the Northwest hall carnival last Friday.

Meier has been on disciplinary probation since last spring when he was found guilty of a charge brought before Tribunal. Miles was not on probation.

Tribunal's decision:

"The Tribunal recommends that Donald W. Miles be placed on disciplinary probation for the remainder of his undergraduate career.

"It is the opinion of Tribunal that Donald Miles violated the following parts of the Kansas State Honor Code: section four, he committed an irresponsible, destructive, or riotous act; section five, he committed acts reflecting adversely on Kansas State college; and section six, he violated the rights of fellow students.

"Be it further recommended that he make personal apologies to Laurice Margheim, AE Soph, John Hassler, Chm Jr, and to the dormitory council, and upon any further serious violation of the Honor code, Tribunal will recommend immediate dismissal from Kansas State college.

"Tribunal recommends that a letter be sent to the parents of this student informing them of the circumstances of the case and penalties recommended. Tribunal will also recommend to the general scholarship committee that an athletic scholarship to Miles will not be given for (Continued on page 3)

Arts, Sciences Majors Elect Council Monday

Elections to determine the members on the School of Arts and Sciences Council will be Monday and Tuesday. Voting will take place in two booths in the Union from 8 a.m. 'til 5 p.m. each day. Students will be required to show their activity ticket before voting.

The school is divided into the following branches: humanities, education, biological sciences, physical sciences, business administration, and social sciences. Each student will vote in one of these sections.

Three members will be elected in the humanities section, two in the biological science section, five in the education branch, two in the physical sciences, four in the business administration division, and two in the social science branch.

One representative is elected for every 150 students in the division. This is the first year the election is being divided into sections of this type.

Curriculums that fall under the humanities division are journalism, English, art, modern languages, philosophy, speech, and free law. Under biological sciences are bacteriology, botany, entomology, zoology, medical technology, pre-medicine, pre-dental, and pre-vet medicine.

Secondary education, elementary education, physical education, and music education are listed under the education branch.

Curriculums that are listed under physical sciences are chemistry, geology, geophysics, and physics. Under social sciences, history, psychology, sociology, economics, geography, and government are listed.

The candidates:

Education—Nora Crocker, SED Soph; Julie Wilks, Eng Fr; Monne Kay Wills, EED Soph; Nancy Payne, EED Soph; Lois Larkin, EED Fr; Karen Herthel, EED Soph; Rosalie Austin, EED Soph; Kathy Horridge, PEW Jr; Bob Sanders, EED Soph; Betty Jean King, MGS Fr; and Nancy Irvine, MEI Jr.

Physical Science—Ann McMillin, Mth Soph; Richard Kail, Geo Jr; and Jodie Goetsch, BMT Soph.

Business Administration —

John Nelson, BAA Fr; Jack Hamilton, BA Jr; Robert Annan, BA Soph; and Allan Rader, BA Jr.

Social Sciences—Carol Manka, PsP Fr; Barbara Huff, Gvt Soph; Mary Sue Schroeder, Gvt Fr; and Jan Stewart, Psy Fr.

Humanities—Clenece Roberts, Sp Soph; Jeanne Hill, Sp Soph; Patricia Myers, Sp Soph; Susan Miller, SED Fr; Carolyn Moriconi, Eng Fr; Alyce Lambert, ML Fr; Norman Hostetler, Chm Soph; and Charlotte Strah, ArG Jr.

Biological Sciences — Carl Mentgen, ChE Fr; Fran Swartz, ChE Sr; Galen Winegardner, BPM Soph; Carolyn Keane, Zoo Soph; Jean Wisecup, BMT Fr; Sharon Weigand, BMT Fr; and Marjorie Suelter, BMT Jr.

Hospitality Day On Tap Saturday

The "Home Economics Universe" at K-State will be explored by Hospitality Day visitors tomorrow at the annual Home Economics open house.

Visitors began their exploration by registering in the Union from 8-9:30 a.m. Home ec teachers registered in their groups of students. Programs, badges, lunch tickets, and identification bracelets bearing the letters "KSC" will be given to each visitor.

A review of Hospitality Day was given at the assembly at 9:30 a.m. in the College auditorium. Darlene Larkin, TxC Sr, chairman of Hospitality Day welcomed the visitors, and Home Economics' Dean Doretta Hoffman spoke.

Guided tours will be conducted through the exhibits in Nichols gym, the classrooms on display, the fashion shows in the Union ballroom, and the careers program in the Union little theater.

A cafeteria lunch will be served at Van Zile, Northwest, and Southeast halls from 12:45-1:15 p.m. Tickets are 75 cents each. At the luncheon the visitors will receive information on Kansas State, the School of Home Economics, the lunch preparation, and the coeds who prepared the lunch.

Free time for tours of the residence halls, home management houses, and the child development laboratory has been set aside from 1:15-2:30 p.m. Tours of the exhibits in Nichols gym can still be made at this time.

Hospitality Day will conclude with the K-State Hour, a new feature of the open house. The program is slanted to give visitors a picture of College life as a whole.

Barbara Lowe, FN Sr, will be the narrator of the program which will depict various phases of campus life. The script was written by Barbara David, HDA Soph, chairman of the program.

Associate Dean of Students

Margaret Lahey will speak to the visitors. Patricia McDermott, BA Sr, will represent the woman leader of campus. Bob Boozer, ArG Jr, will be interviewed by David Hill, Sp Fr.

Entertainment will be provided by the Four Delts, a vocal group, and a dance team of Linnea Brown, Ar 04, and Ron Leslie, Ec Jr.

KS Engineer Names Staff For '58 Mag

Heading the new staff of the K-State Engineer magazine are Bob Baldwin, CE Jr, editor, and Allen Hjelmfelt, CE Jr, business manager. Both are members of the Engineering council.

Other new staff members are John Kennedy, CE Jr, feature editor; Ken Ingram, EE Fr, news editor; Edith Winter, Ar 05, art editor; Ruth Collins, Ar 04, copy editor; Rex Uhler, ME Soph, advertising manager; Jerry Brickell, CE Sr, circulation manager; and Ardis Ellis, IE Jr, secretary.

Persons interested in working on the magazine staff should apply in Seaton 207, according to Baldwin.

The magazine, distributed free to all K-State engineering students, has won Engineering College Magazine association awards the past three years. In 1957, the Engineer received third place in the ECMA best overall magazine category. The magazine was awarded second place in the best editorial category in 1956. In 1955, the magazine placed first for the best cover.

Republicans Should Face Facts—Hall

FORMER GOVERNOR FRED HALL (left) points out the highlights of the speech he delivered last night to the Collegiate Young Republicans in the Union to Keith Landis, Gvt Sr, and Sharon Nuttle, PrL Soph.

"Republicans should face up to the fact that they are in serious trouble, not only in Kansas but throughout the country," stated former Republican Governor of Kansas Fred Hall in a prepared talk last night at the Collegiate Young Republican club meeting.

A major portion of his remarks concerned taxes and the proposed methods of raising money to meet the $17 million to $20 million deficit facing the government of Kansas today.

Hall pointed out that he does not specifically advocate any one tax nor is he against any, but he feels now that an increase of one per cent in the state sales tax is the most logical and fair way of balancing the Kansas budget. With the deficit so large at the present time, an increased sales tax would provide quick relief without placing additional burdens on industry and property holders, he said.

"An election of survival" was what Hall termed the coming 1958 election. He said further, "We cannot win this election by high sounding platitudes about our glories of the past. We have been and are the party of progress in Kansas, but in this election against the Democrats we must come to grips with the issues."

Education was another issue Hall stressed. He said, "No program is more vital to the future of our state and our country than education. I have always so contended and will stand on my record as a Governor who worked hard for education."

Examples he mentioned were the enactment of state aid for high schools, continuance and expansion of state aid to elementary schools, special educational programs for the handicapped, and social security laws to supplement the teacher state retirement system.

On the subject of severance tax, the former governor said that he would not object to the tax as such, but felt it was only a drop in the bucket. He stated that the severance tax would only raise about three million dollars.

In closing Hall said, "My only purpose in becoming a candidate was to volunteer for service to my party and my state. We must all profit from our mistakes of the past and reunite the party to win in November."

KS Stands To Gain by Noting Comment Of High Schoolers Here Hospitality Day

HOME EC HOSPITALITY is on tap for tomorrow, inaugurated by today's assembly, and the campus will once more be swarming with young visitors viewing the situation.

These same young visitors—all 1,300 of 'em—may be next year's freshmen, so it might be interesting to listen to comments while you're exhausting that last nickel's worth of coffee in the Union. Frequently we may find ourselves just growing a little stale as we embroil ourselves in our individual curriculums, problems, and generally ego-guided endeavors.

THESE GUESTS are young, but there's no accounting for youth, you know. Undoubtedly a good number of them will offer a great deal to some campus—to some school—to some department.

And we might as well get our share of the most promising, hm? We're glad to see schools promoting such activities—which are most valuable if they educate the visitors and the Staters doing the work simultaneously.

IF YOU'VE BEEN at all observant recently, you'll have noticed the increasing number of scholarships which are offered each year—and this, too, is highly commendable. Many of the better, most aspiring students may be hindered by financial limitations, and it is good to see so many organizations rising to meet this lack.

The shame of our colleges is not nearly so much the poor graduates they turn out, as it is the good students which are kept from coming in. A state school is required to take anyone who pays tuition—and with the tremendous amount of deadwood that sometimes comes its way, it's nice to know that there are those endeavoring to get at least an equal amount of the more capable students.

A YOUNG football player is packing his bag following Tribunal's recommendations, and unfortunately his deeds and past record were such that the court had no choice.

Unfortunately, most of all, we're afraid, for Tribunal. In acting in the best interests of the school, the students, and the individual's own good, it has taken a brave and commendable stand against much opposition. The most pitiful part of the case is that many will refuse to recognize the fairness on the part of Tribunal.

Miles is here to testify to that, however. If he hasn't already, he should be. He has escaped by a thin margin—he was not already on scholastic probation. We're sure he'll keep his new status in mind.

The shame of the College: that we must force Tribunal to take a stand on such matters of personal integrity, honor, and behavior.—Sue Goss.

Chairmanship of H.E. Hospitality Day Involves Co-ordination, Work—Larkin

By MAGGI SULLIVAN

Being general chairman of Hospitality Day is a big job, says Darlene Larkin, TxC Sr, who is this year's chairman. Darlene, with the aid of Margaret Raffington, assistant to the dean of the School of Home Economics, has been working on this year's Hospitality Day since last spring. Her job is overseeing the 17 steering committees and co-ordinating the entire program.

Darlene has been meeting with the steering committees since December. Their aim has been to improve the Hospitality Day program by centralizing all exhibits in one building, by serving lunch for the guests in the residence halls, and by adding the "K-State Hour"—an hour in which college life as a whole is explained—to the program.

According to Darlene, emphasis is placed on student-faculty co-operation in working out the Hospitality Day program. This year's theme, "In the Home Ec Universe," was suggested by the current interest in space travel, she said.

The objectives of Hospitality Day as presented by Darlene:

1. To interest high school girls in home economics.
2. To provide opportunities for students and teachers to work together to explain home economics.
3. To provide opportunities for leadership experience in planning and carrying out a big project.
4. To publicize home economics on campus and in the local community.

In connection with these objectives, Darlene said many girls now in the department of home economics once attended Hospitality Day as high school students and became interested in the field in this way. She said, "Hospitality Day is what first interested me in both Kansas State and home ec."

The Home Economics department expects approximately 1,200 high school guests will attend Hospitality Day. This number attended the program last spring.

Besides the other aims and objectives of Hospitality Day, Darlene feels there is one aspect which the program helps clarify. She said, "We want people to know that home economics consists of more than just cooking and sewing."

Laurie's 'World in Hands' Retains Record Limelight

By Don Veraska

BOTH MANHATTAN record sales and jukebox plays are dominated by Laurie London's record of "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands" again this week. The 14-year-old English lad's disc is in the top spot in record sales for the third consecutive week, and has made it two in a row in the jukebox department.

"Twilight Time" by the Platters remained in the No. 2 position in record sales, but climbed from No. 8 to the runner-up spot in jukebox plays this week.

"All I Have To Do Is Dream" by the Everly Brothers, a song which is destined to become a big record, is in the No. 6 position in record sales this week. The smooth ballad is certainly as good as any the two recorded and is a departure from their normal hillbilly style.

The TOP 10 RECORDS in Manhattan sales this week:

1. "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands," Laurie London
2. "Twilight Time," the Platters
3. "Wear My Ring Around Your Neck," Elvis Presley
4. "Witch Doctor," David Seville
5. "Believe What You Say," Ricky Nelson

6. "All I Have To Do Is Dream," Everly Brothers

7. "Book of Love," the Monotones

8. "All the Time," Johnny Mathis

9. "Wishing for Your Love," the Voppers

Revenue Bill to Senate After Passage in House

Compiled from United Press
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Topeka—A bill to collect more than $10 million in new income taxes headed for the Senate today after passage by the Kansas House.

It was the second proposal of Gov. George Docking to be considered by both houses as the Legislature's special session moved into its fifth day.

The Senate's Assessments and Taxation committee scheduled a meeting for 8 a.m. today to consider the income tax measure.

The House yesterday amended the Democratic-sponsored bill to increase corporate income tax as well as personal levies; then passed it 91-28. It is one of Docking's key proposals.

House members tacked on a 1 per cent increase on corporate taxes after killing an administration plan to raise the tax by disallowing federal income taxes as a deduction. The corporate levy would be 4 per cent, according to the House amendment.

A controversial plan for a 1 per cent gas-oil severance tax moved back to House floor debate today after pros and cons bounced the issue back and forth before a joint committee for more than two hours.

A public hearing yesterday brought about 100 oilmen from gas and oil producing counties. At least 10 of them voiced opposition to the bill.

Oilmen pleaded their industry was in a period of economic doldrums in Kansas, and a severance tax would be added burden at a critical time.

Tribunal Recommends Expulsion, Probation

next year for reasons of gross misconduct.

"The Tribunal recommends that Gene R. Meier be expelled until Sept. 1, 1958, and that he shall receive no credit for the spring semester of 1958. It is the opinion of Tribunal that Gene Meier violated those same sections of the Kansas State Honor code as did Donald Miles."

Athletic Director Bebe Lee had no comment this morning on the Tribunal action because he said he had not yet officially been notified of the decision.

However, Athletic department members said unofficially that it appears Meier is now ineligible to play football next year. Big Eight rules require that players complete two semesters preceding the season.

Complaints against both Meier and Miles, accusing them of assault and battery, were signed yesterday by Margheim. The County Attorney's office reports that warrants have not been issued yet, however.

$2 Million To Vets In U.S. Aid at KS

Federal scholarship programs for veterans and war orphans will mean more than $2 million to students attending K-State this school year.

Wendell Kerr, veterans service officer, reports there are 1,370 veterans now enrolled, while 19 other students are receiving help under the War Orphans' Assistance act of 1956. Regular monthly payroll now runs at more than $185,000 a month.

Of the 1,370 veterans, all but 20 are studying under Public Law 550 (Korean GI Bill). There are 18 under the Vocational Rehabilitation Program for Disabled Veterans (Public Law 894), and two World War II veterans still with benefits from Public Law 346, an extension of the World War II program.

Kerr says veteran student enrollment will be down to approximately 1,000 by the beginning of the fall semester. All veteran educational benefits will end January 31, 1963, but benefits for war orphans will continue for many years.

Wildcats To Battle Tiger Baseballers

K-State's baseball team—in the league cellar with a 1-5 conference mark—takes on Missouri university in a three-game series here today and tomorrow. The Tigers are second in the Big Eight with a 3-1 record. Oklahoma State university is leading with a 4-1 standing.

The single game will be in Griffith field at 3 p.m. Friday, and a pair of seven-inning contests will start at 1:30 p.m. Saturday.

The probable K-State starting lineup:

K-State To Meet Sooner Netmen

K-State and Oklahoma university meet here tomorrow at 2 p.m. in a dual tennis meet. This will be the first meeting of the teams this season. The Cats will go into the meet with a 4-5 season record.

Singles matches will be played by Winston Tilzey, Keith Andler, Jim Holwerda, John Bird, and Ed Frankel. The two doubles team members will come from this group, but coach Karl Finney is not yet certain just who they will be. In the last outing the Cats defeated Washburn 7-0.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian classified.

The probable Missouri starting lineup:

Coach Ward Haylett has split the K-State track team in order to have representatives at the Drake Relays in Des Moines and the Colorado Invitational in Boulder today and tomorrow.

Coach Haylett will take a seven-man team to the Drake Relays. The Wildcat mile relay team of Dave Burton, Gene O'Connor, Jim Vader, and DeLoss Dodds will get another chance to catch the fastest mile relay team in intercollegiate history, Texas university. Texas ran a 3:09.1 mile at the KU Relays to set the above record. K-State finished second with a 3:10.4, a new school record.

The foursome will have to contend with one of the fastest quarter milers in history, Eddie Southern. He was clocked at 44.6 while anchoring the Longhorn relay team last Saturday.

O'Connor, besides running a leg on the mile relay team, will also compete in the 440-yard hurdles. He won the event during his sophomore year but was beaten last year by Notre Dame's all-American football star, Aubrey Lewis.

Other Wildcat participants at the Drake Relays include Jim Cain, shot put; Steve French, high jump; and Al Hamilton, javelin.

Larry French, middle distance runner, and Ralph Willard, javelin thrower, will not make the trip because of injuries. French injured a knee at KU and Willard is out with a sore shoulder.

Assistant coach Don Blow will take two-mile, mile, and distance medley relay teams to Boulder for the Colorado Invitational. The teams will be composed of Chuck Burgat, Lawrence Brady, Jesse Unruh, and Tom Rodda, two-mile relay; Arlan Stackley, Unruh, Terry Turner, and Duane Holman, mile relay; and Bobby Jones, Unruh, Rodda, and Holman, distance medley relay.

The field entries at Colorado include Lowell Renz, javelin;

Dick Johnson, broad jump; Jerry Hess, pole vault; and Darrel Rosenow and Ray Winegardner, discus. Jones will compete in the 100-yard dash.

Next weekend the Wildcat tracksters will host the powerful Kansas university team. It will be the only outdoor home competition for K-State this year.

Softball Meet on Tap For Gal IM Managers

Managers of girls' intramural softball teams will meet Monday at 5 p.m. in Nichols 104. The first games will be Tuesday. Entries for teams wishing to participate in intramural softball are due in the office of Katherine Geyer, professor in the department of women's physical education, today.

Hitters Have Heyday In Intramural Activity

Two no-hit performances highlighted intramural softball action yesterday, but the hitters were not far behind as two ball games were won by over 20-run margins.

Jr. AVMA defeated Signa Phi Nothing 24-0 as Wayne Randall pitched a no-hitter for the winners. Russel Bieri, Dick Hilmer, Harry Lange, and Calvin Glenn had home runs for Jr. AVMA.

The other no-hitter was thrown by Darrel Rosenow as YMCA defeated Westminster foundation 16-0.

Bob Smith pitched a one-hitter as Sigma Alpha Epsilon defeated Alpha Gamma Rho 3-0.

In other games Sigma Chi won over Delta Tau Delta 23-3; Theta Xi defeated Kappa Sigma 10-9; the Hobos defeated the Ag Econ club 17-1, and the Alley Rats won over the Rho Alphas 6-1.

O'Connor Has Long List Of K-State Track Marks

Gene O'Connor, Wildcat track captain and ace hurdler, has compiled a long list of conference wins and school records during his college cinder career. O'Connor, a senior, is the present holder of five K-State indoor and outdoor hurdle records while winning four Big Eight conference races.

O'Connor's athletic feats are equalled, though, by his various activities and awards received at K-State. He is senior class president, a member of Blue Key, Arnold Air Society, Phi Epsilon Kappa (physical education fraternity), Student Council, and K-Club. He was also selected as the K-State Athlete of the Year for 1957.

"Gene is one of the really great athletes in Big Eight and K-State history, but he is no better an athlete than he is a man," commented Wildcat track coach Ward Haylett. "He is a great performer, a great competitor, and a great individual."

The senior hurdler is the holder of the school outdoor high, low, and 400 meter hurdle marks. O'Connor's 120-yard high hurdle record is 14.1, with the 220-yard low hurdle mark set at 23.0, and the 400 meter hurdles 51.3. He holds the indoor high hurdle record at 7.4 and shares the low hurdle standard with Corky Taylor at 6.9. He is also a member of the record-holding mile relay team.

In conference competition, O'Connor won the outdoor high and low hurdle championships as a sophomore and captured the conference indoor and outdoor high hurdle championship as a junior. He did not compete in this year's indoor meet because of a pulled leg muscle.

"If I had to single out my sweetest victory it would probably be last Friday's win at KU in the 400 meter hurdles," stated O'Connor. O'Connor completed his triple crown at the KU Relays last weekend with that particular win. The victory, which set a meet hurdle record at 51.3, re-vengeed an earlier loss to Cliff Cushman, Kansas university, who defeated O'Connor during the 1957 Relays. Cushman finished second this year.

O'Connor cited Glen Davis, Eddie Southern and Josh Culbreath as the three top performers that he has competed against. The trio finished in that order during the 1956 Olympics in the 400 meter hurdles. Davis, Ohio State, is the world record holder in that event with a time of 49.5. O'Connor competed against each of the three periodically during the summer of 1956 at the national AAU meet and the Olympic tryouts.

Following graduation, O'Connor will enter the Air Force as a commissioned officer and then he plans to either go into private business or become a coach. He is a physical education major.

Cat Golf Team Will Host WU

K-State's golf team will host Wichita university tomorrow at 10:30 a.m. on the Manhattan Country club course. The Cats will be out to better a 3-5 season record.

The Shocker linksmen humiliated K-State earlier at Wichita by tromping the Wildcats 17 1/2-1/2.

Probable competitors for K-State are Dave Smith, Jerry Smith, Charles Hostetler, Jerry Hendricks, and Max Richardson.

The next golf match for K-State will be Thursday when it meets Nebraska university at Lincoln. The Big Eight conference meet is scheduled for May 16-17 at Ames.

Fashion Note Top In Ballroom Show

"New Fashions, New Horizons" will be the theme of the four fashion shows in the main ballroom of the Union tomorrow morning.

According to Alberta Timm, TxC Jr, chairman of the shows, there will be 35-minute shows at 10:10 a.m., 10:45 a.m., 11:20 a.m., and at 11:55 a.m. All of the clothes to be modeled were made in clothing classes at K-State this year.

Kathleen Shultis, HEJ Jr, will narrate all four shows. She also wrote the script for the shows. Background music will be provided by Kay Reboul, MEI Jr, and Nancy Irvine, MEI Jr.

As a special feature at each of the shows, a foreign student will demonstrate how her native dress is worn.

Clothing modeled will be plaid sport blouses made in pattern study, suits made in tailoring, coats and skirt ensembles from tailoring, and before and after five dresses made in draping and flat pattern. The dresses made in draping and flat pattern were also designed by the students.

Nichols Gym To House Hospitality Day Exhibits

The 16 departmental and club exhibits for Hospitality Day tomorrow are centralized in Nichols gym. Until this year the exhibits had been in each building that housed the department.

According to exhibits chairman Carol Wilkins, HT Sr, one of the main criticisms of Hospitality Day has been the walking required to see all exhibits. The steering committee decided to put all of the exhibits in the gym to solve this problem.

The guides will direct the visitors to the exhibits in Nichols, to the careers programs, and to the fashion shows. Several of the classrooms are opened for inspection. These tours are scheduled so that there is an equal number of visitors at each event.

The visitors will also be guided to the morning assembly, to the lunch in the residence halls, and to the K-State Hour program.

After the luncheon the dormitories will be toured. The home management houses and the child development laboratory will be opened during the afternoon.

Home Ec Art Displays

"Explorer" will be the theme of the five exhibits of the Home Economics Art department, according to committee chairman Carol Lala, HEA Soph.

The interior decoration exhibit centers around a model room arrangement. Upholstering from the home furnishings class will also be on display.

Color plates of costumes will be shown in the costume design exhibit.

A demonstration of the workings of a potter's wheel will be the center of the designing crafts exhibit. Pottery made by students will be exhibited.

Plates done by students will be featured in the drawing display. The elementary arts and crafts exhibit will also display the students' work.

Textiles Display

"Miss Sputnik Tours the Universe" is the theme of the Textiles display, one of two featuring space women.

The Home Economics Teaching group has the theme "Izora, the Space Girl, wants to be a Home Economics teacher, too."

Home Ec Faculty Have State Offices

Home Economics faculty members are active in both state and national organizations, pertaining to their various departments, as evidenced by the offices which they fill in these groups, according to Doretta Hoffman, dean of the School of Home Economics.

Dr. Grayce E. Goertz, associate professor in foods and nutrition, is secretary of the research section of the American Home Economics association.

The new treasurer of the Council of Consumer Information is Dr. Richard L. D. Morse, head of the Family Economics department. He is also chairman of the Consumer's Interest committee of the American Home Economics association.

Dr. Dorothy L. Harrison, head of the Foods and Nutrition department, is the secretary of the Home Economics Research Administrators of the North Central region of the Association of Land Grant Colleges and Universities.

Dean Hoffman is chairman of the College and University section of the Kansas Home Economics association.

Head of the Family and Child Development department, Ruth Hoeflin, is a board member of the Kansas Family Life association.

The secretary of the Regional Research committee on Child Development and Family Living is Leone Kell, professor in the Family and Child Development department.

Coral Aldous, associate professor of Family and Child Development, is vice president of the Kansas Family Life association.

H.E. School Grows In 85 Year History

The School of Home Economics at K-State is evidence of how much a department can grow in 85 years.

Home economics had its beginnings at K-State when classes in sewing and millinery were held in the chapel of the original arts building in Anderson. Later this was moved to Kedzie. The School of Home Economics will occupy a new building, costing $1,900,000, in 1959.

Calvin hall is the present Home Economics building. In 1905, an appropriation of $70,000 was made to build Calvin. It was named in honor of Prof. Henrietta Calvin, dean of Home Economics from 1903 until 1905.

The new building was named in honor of Dr. Margaret Justin, former dean of the School of Home Economics. Dr. Justin originated Hospitality Day.

Dean Justin started the Home Economics open house in 1931, as an all-day program with exhibits. In the last 27 years it has changed from a campus to a state wide event. The purpose of Hospitality Day is to show what the K-State School of Home Economics can offer high school girls.

Until 1937 the open house was called Hospitality Week. The Hospitality Hop was later replaced by the Snowball, now held in the fall.

Themes for Hospitality Day vary. During the war, military themes were featured. "We also Serve" told of training in war and post-war service. Last year's theme was "Alice in Home Economics Land." "In the Home Economics Universe" is the theme of the 1958 Hospitality Day.

The first style review was added to the 1940 Hospitality Day. Until last year only one show was held.

Exhibits were not judged until 1951. The award for the best exhibit was presented to the Nursing department last year.

A new feature has been added to the 1958 Hospitality Day in the K-State Hour. A picture of College life as a whole is the purpose of the program.

"In the Home Ec Universe"

'Home Ec Universe' Tomorrow's Theme

 Darryl Heikes

Emphasis goes on hospitality tomorrow, as the 27th annual School of Home Economics Hospitality Day climaxes long months of planning and work by faculty and students. Expecting 1,300 visitors, home ec majors, who number 460 this semester, have taken care of preparation, keyed to "Home Economics Universe," under the guidance of Margaret Raffington, assistant professor and adviser, and Darlene Larkin, TxC Sr, general chairman. These coeds are working for degrees in home ec and journalism, and home ec and nursing, under the guidance of approximate 75 faculty members.

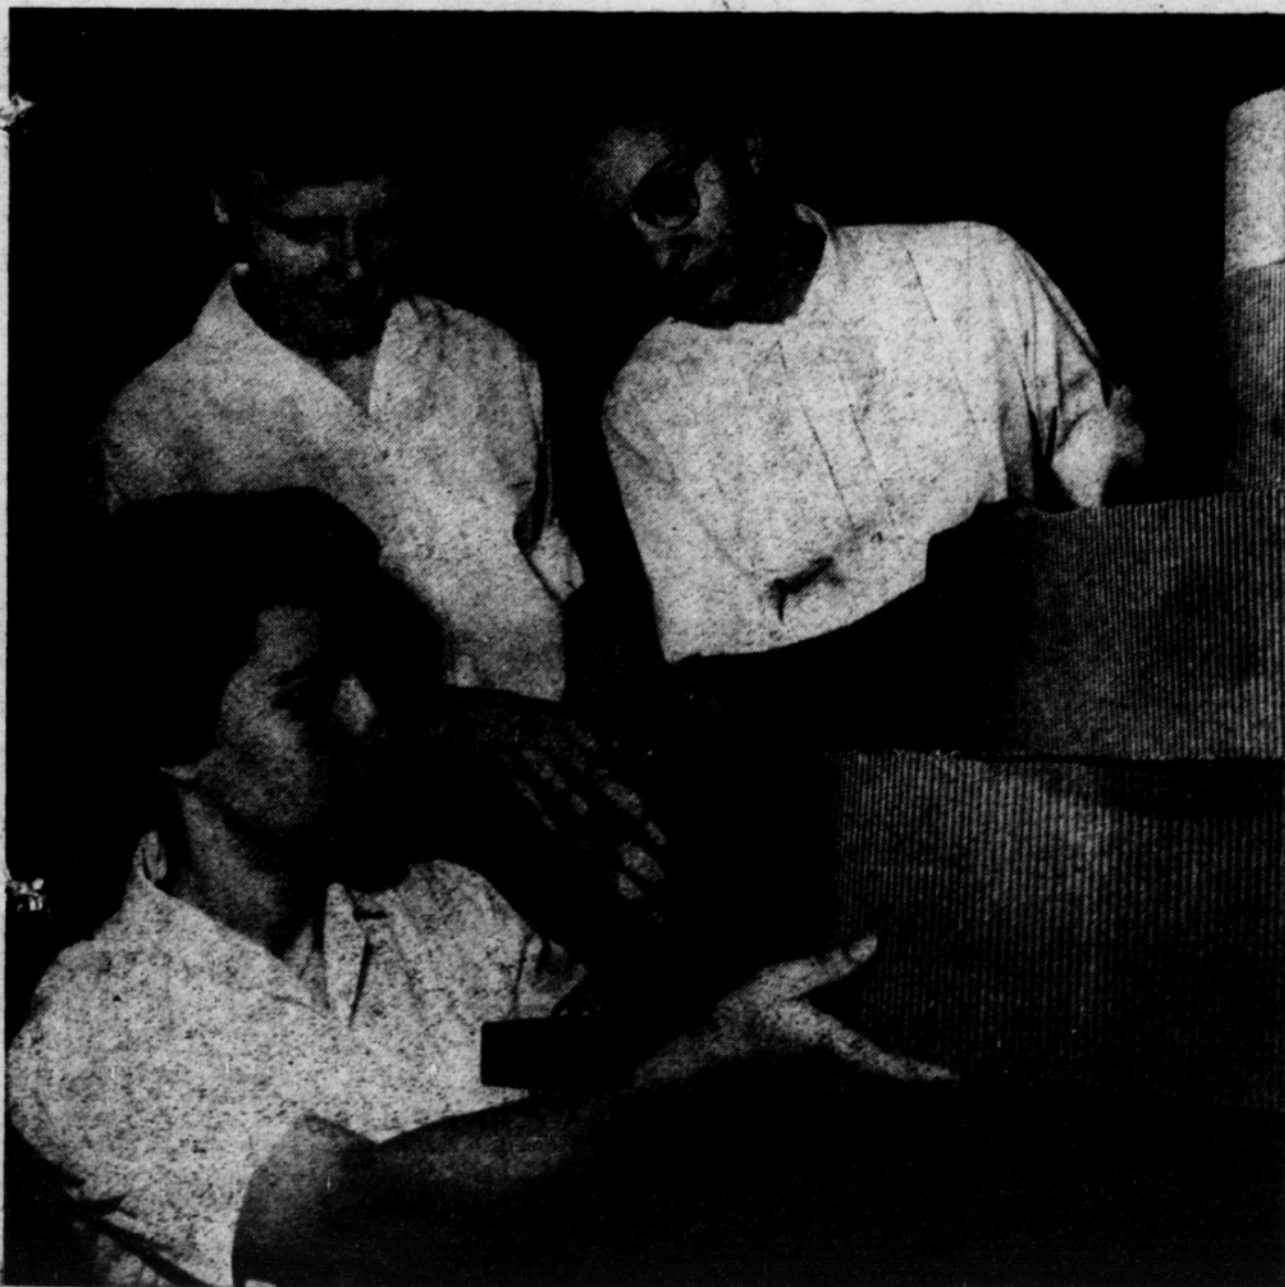

COOKING LUNCH for the Hospitality Day guests sounds like a big job—and this is just what is planned tomorrow. These coeds practice up, before time for the big feast comes. From left are Carrilee Whittaker, HT Sr, and Jean Koerner, DIM Jr.

FITTING CLOTHES for the home ec style show is done as part of classwork, since all the clothes to be modeled were made on class assignment. From left, chairman Alberta Timm, TxC Jr, lets Mary Beth McCoy, HT Jr, and Bonnie Hafford, TxC Sr, help her with her 2-piece costume.

Busy Weekend Ahead For Organized Houses

Six formals and many smaller parties are planned this weekend by K-State's organized houses. The Phi Kappa and Pi Beta Phi formals are planned for tonight and the Chi Omegas, Sigma Nus, Delta Tau Deltas, and Alpha Kappa Lambdas will have theirs tomorrow night.

The Phi Kappa Phi formal will be preceded by a banquet at the Wareham sunflower room. The 65 couples expected to attend will then dance at the fraternity house. A queen will be crowned at the dance where the Dreama-ires will provide the music. Special guests will be Mr. and Mrs. John Schnittker and Mr. and Mrs. Ted Johnson.

The Pi Beta Phi spring formal, at Pottorf hall, will be preceded by a dinner at the Country club. Dance music will be provided by The Five Guys of Emporia. About 100 couples will attend. Special guests will be Prof. Ralph Nelson, head of the Mechanical Engineering department, and his wife; and Mr. and Mrs. Ward Keller Jr.

Chi Omega will have its annual White Carnation ball in the Student Union. The Dreama-ires will play for the 100 couples expected. Chaperones will be Alberta Curry, instructor in clothing and textiles; John Peterson Jr, instructor in agricultural engineering; and Joseph Wood, professor in mechanical engineering, and his wife.

The Golden Pernet Rose ball of Alpha Kappa Lambda will begin with a banquet in the Student Union. The dance, at which a queen will be crowned, will be at the fraternity house. The Bill Bryan band will play for the 55 expected couples. Chaperones will be Robert Anderson, assistant director of admissions and registrar, and his wife; and Thomas Hamilton, graduate assistant in mathematics, and his wife.

The Sigma Nu White Rose formal will be in the Wareham terrace room. Buddy Brown's band will play for the 50 couples. A queen will be crowned at the dance. Chaperones include Dean of Students and Mrs. Herbert J. Wunderlich; and Gerald Scheufler, assistant professor of air science, and his wife.

Rainbow ball and banquet of Delta Tau Delta will be at the Delt chapter house. Rainbow Queen of Delta Tau Delta will be crowned at the dance for which the Carrol Jenkins orchestra, Kansas City, Mo., will play. Chaperones will be Dr. John W. Keltner, head of the Speech department, and his wife; and William R. Fischer, associate professor in music, and his wife.

Besides the formals, many houses are planning rush weekends, Mothers' weekends, little sisters weekends, and alumni banquets.

Sigma Alpha Epsilon is having an alumni banquet tonight at 6:30 p.m. in the Wareham terrace room. Thirty-two Manhattan alumni are expected to attend.

Ten K-State Sigma Phi Epsilon members and their dates will attend a Sig Ep All-State dance at Meadow Acres in Topeka tomorrow. The dance is an annual event.

A Hospitality party for high school girls attending the Home Economics Hospitality Day, will be given by Clovia. The 19 high school girls will be entertained at the house from Friday night until Sunday morning.

Theta Xi will have a founders day banquet at the chapter house Sunday. Twenty-five alumni and their wives are expected to attend.

Delta Delta Delta will have its Mothers' weekend. The mothers will have a full schedule including bridge parties, shows, a dinner at Kecks, and church.

Alpha Chi Omega is having Parents' Day Sunday. Nearly 80 parents are expected. The parents will be honored at a buffet dinner at the chapter house.

Sunday will also be Parents' Day at the Tau Kappa Epsilon house, with about 150 mothers and dads as guests. Parents and Richard Hall of Kansas of Kansas City, TKE executive secretary, will be honored at a special dinner.

Alpha Delta Pi is having a Little Sisters' weekend. The younger sisters of the ADPIs will be treated to horseback riding, a softball game, hamburger fry, and a movie.

You'll be pleased with a Collegian classified.

The Social Whirl...

Kappa Delta sorority had its annual Emerald Ball Saturday night at the Manhattan auditorium. The Quintones provided the music. A banquet in the Union west ballroom preceded the dance.

Chaperones for the evening were Dr. Richard Morse, professor and head of the Family Economics department, and his wife; and Dr. George Olson, professor of education, and his wife.

Phi Delta Theta will entertain rushees and dates with a Casino party Saturday evening at the chapter house. The house will be decorated as a gambling casino. There will be blackjack and poker tables and a soft drinks bar. All winners will be paid in play money.

Alpha Chi Omega sorority had its annual scholarship dinner Wednesday, April 16. Members with a grade average over 2.0 wore bermudas, those between a 1.5 and 2.0 wore school clothes, and all below a 1.5 wore dress clothes. A special dessert was served to each girl who had raised her grades during the past semester.

Mrs. Carol Cottner, scholarship adviser, awarded scholarship bracelets to Joy Allen, HT Jr, active with highest grades, and Janet Scott, HT Soph, who had the highest average for the first semester pledge class.

A trophy for the greatest improvement in grades went to Emma Lou Douglass, PEW Jr.

Lutheran Students Journey To Nebraska for Meeting

Approximately 12 to 14 K-Staters are expected to attend the annual Lutheran Little Ashram at Bellevue, Neb., April 26 and 27.

Ashram, which means "spiritual retreat" is a two-day camp period in which Lutheran students "quest for the deeper and better things in life," according to Tom Johnson, Lutheran Students Association president. The Little Ashram, a regional event for Kansas and Nebraska Lutheran students, as compared to the Ashram, a national event, has been in operation since 1938.

K-State students going to the conference will leave Manhattan at about 3 p.m. today, by car. They expect to arrive in Bellevue, at Camp Brewster, at 8 p.m.

After registration, the students will hear the keynote address of the convention on "The Fellowship of the Concerned," by the Rev. August Hoeger, professor of Christianity at Dana College.

They will then be served coffee by the LSA members from the University of Nebraska, one of the participating schools, and will attend vespers conducted by Midland college, another participating school.

Saturday morning there will be four classes—introduction to Bible study, individual Bible study, group Bible study, and Bible study review. During the afternoon, the students will review LSA action, have a business meeting, and compete in a basketball game between the states of Nebraska and Kansas.

That evening participants will hear another address by the Rev.

Hoeger, and attend a campfire service conducted by the K-State group. Campers will attend church services Sunday morning, and then start home at noon.

Schools participating in the Conference are Kansas university, K-State, Emporia State Teachers college, Bethany college, Ft. Hays State Teachers college, Pittsburg State Teachers college, Nebraska university, Omaha university, Dana college, Midland college, Luther college, Peru Teachers college, and Wayne State.

Gamma Delta Means Service, Knowledge

"Christian knowledge" and "Christian service" are the two aims and purposes of Gamma Delta, the international association of Lutheran college and university students of the Missouri synod. Gamma signifies "gnosis" and means "Christian knowledge." "Diakonia" meaning "Christian service" is signified by Delta.

The K-State chapter of Gamma Delta is one of the 118 chapters in the country. Gamma Delta was organized in 1934. Prior to that time the students' organization was called the Student District of the International Walther League.

Gamma Delta had an exchange meeting at K-State with the chapters from Lawrence and Salina in March. Approximately 70 students attended the meeting. According to Neal Meitler, ME Soph, Gamma Delta president, the group will have an exchange meeting at Sunset park with the Lutheran student association later in the semester.

All of the Gamma Delta chapters contributed funds to build a Memorial chapel at the University of Alabama. Gamma Delta also recently collected $5,000 for medical missions scholarships, and approximately $2,000 toward furnishing the student center at the University of Toronto.

Gamma Delta groups are now collecting $1,050 rent for a one-year period for the Lutheran Student center in Manila. A scholarship of $1,000 for a student attending the Lutheran Seminary in Nagercoil, India, will be paid by Gamma Delta.

Rev. Rempel Awarded Methodist Scholarship

The Rev. Warren Rempel, associate director at Wesley Foundation, has been awarded a $1,000 scholarship for work towards a doctor of philosophy degree at Boston university. The scholarship, one of four given, is awarded by the Methodist General Board of Education.

The scholarship, for the 1958-59 school year, is the annual Bishop James C. Baker graduate award, said Dr. Everette L. Walker, Nashville, who announced the award. He is associate director of the Department of Secondary and Higher Education of the Methodist Board's Division of Educational Institutions.

The award is named for retired Methodist Bishop James C. Baker, San Marino, Calif., who organized the first Wesley Foundation in 1913.

Funds for the awards come from contributions made on Methodist Student day, which is observed annually by Methodist churches. They are a part of the national Methodist scholarship program.

Mr. Rempel, who formerly lived in Albuquerque, is a graduate of the University of New Mexico with a bachelor of arts degree. He has a bachelor of sacred theology degree from the Boston university School of Theology and has attended the University of California and Iliff School of Theology, Denver. He is now a ministerial member of the Kansas Methodist conference.

Dinners, Banquets Popular Among Religious Groups

Sunday night suppers, banquets built around religious themes, and fellowship breakfasts, all play an important part in many campus religious organizations' schedules of activities.

An unusual type of supper will be held this Sunday night, given by Gamma Delta, Lutheran religious organization. It is called a "Poor Man's Dinner" with everyone wearing old clothes. Spaghetti and meatballs will be served and eating utensils will be large spoons, pan lids, and other such items. Potato chips will be scattered down the middle of the table. Dessert will be peaches served in glasses and eaten with knives.

Picnics are also popular on Sunday evenings. Westminster Fellowship, Presbyterian religious organization, has patio picnics when the weather is pleasant.

Some church organizations plan dinners around religious holidays.

B'nai B'rith Hillel, Jewish organization, celebrates the Passover with a special Passover dinner.

Kappa Phi, Methodist women's student group, has a dinner called the "Meal in the Upper Room." The dinner commemorates the Last Supper and is eaten in silence except for reading from the words of Jesus Christ. Foods similar to those probably eaten at the Last Supper, lamb, figs, and dates, are served.

Kappa Phi also has the Philita breakfast, taken from an old Hebrew custom of eating together for friendship's sake.

Although the themes and feasts may be different, these meals have one element in common. They promote fellowship among members of the groups, promote spiritual growth, and in many cases, provide fun and entertainment for all who attend.

Staters Attend Wesley Retreat Over Weekend

"Search for Spiritual Selves" was the theme of a weekend retreat for about 50 Methodist students, held at Camp Mary Dell near Abilene this past weekend. The Rev. Bob Simpson was the principal speaker and resource leader for this spiritual life retreat sponsored by Wesley foundation.

In a series of three fireside talks, Mr. Simpson explored the problem of "self-understanding" from many angles; what the self is, where and how one discovers the self, how the self is related to other persons, and how the self is related to God.

The students pursued the main job of the weekend retreat in their small quest groups, or "skull cracking sessions."

Worship periods were designated by the term "search alone," and during these quiet periods each student found a secluded place where he might search alone, in meditation and prayer. After an evening campfire, each person lighted a candle and found his place of solitude and prayer.

In a closing service of Holy Communion, a service of dedication and commitment, each person found himself in living relationship to God.

Council To Select New Apportioners

Student Council will appoint three new Apportionment board members at its regular meeting this evening.

Student Council — newly elected in the recent SGA elections—will be convening in its first regular session. The three new student members of Apportionment board will be picked from six applicants.

Two representatives of the Manhattan Junior Chamber of Commerce—Bob Heikman and George Bishop—will attend the Council meeting to discuss the possibility of K-State and Manhattan jointly sponsoring a representative to the Miss Kansas contest.

In other action, Student Council will appoint members to the KSU Name-Change committee, the Artist Series committee, and SGA Assembly committee. Liaison members will also be appointed to Union Governing board, Student Activities board, Homecoming committee, and Parents' Day committee.

The Council will hear a report from the Traffic Control board which will present an idea concerning the traffic problem. A constitution for the Arts and Sciences council will be presented to the SC for approval. The school council submitted a constitution to Council a year ago and it was rejected. This constitution represents a revision of the rejected version.

UPC Gives 'Chow Dine-asty' Banquet

"Chow Dine-asty," an Oriental theme, set the mood for the annual Union Program council awards banquet last night in the Union.

On the menu were sweet-sour pork over rice, chinese vegetables, spiced crabapples, orange soup, caramel crowns, raspberry sundaes, and tea.

Guests wore Oriental costumes and ate the Chinese food with chopsticks while seated at low tables. Chinese students presented a program of Oriental songs, an Oriental opera, and a fashion show. Also on the program were the Four (Imperial) Delts, a vocal group. Master of ceremonies was Ollie White (Velly Sage Proverb Quoter), Union program director.

Speaker was Dr. Charles (Confucius) Goetzinger, assistant professor of speech. Awards were presented to the 1958-59 Program council and Union Governing board by Union director Loren (Buddha) Kottner. Other recognitions were made by Lowell (Nu Lu) Novy, VM Soph, past Program council president.

A "velly funny play" was presented by the Peking Players and Larry (Fu Yu) Foulke gave the "velly closing remarks."

The past Union Governing board: Dixie Brown, HDA Sr; Dr. Linwood Hodgdon, professor in the Department of Economics and Sociology; Dr. Thomas Keim, head of the Department of Business Administration; Ward Keller Jr., alumni representative; Lynn Mechesney, Gvt Jr; Ray North, PrL Sr;

Extra Credit Available At KS Evening College

Feel like picking up a few extra hours before school is out? According to Benson B. Poirier, co-ordinator of K-State's evening college, you can earn five hours credit in five weeks, starting Wednesday.

Courses will be offered on a Monday-Wednesday-Friday sequence. Offered from 4 to 6 p.m. will be two-credit hour courses—Personal Typing, Geography of Kansas, and Storytelling.

Classes from 7 to 10 p.m. will be Modern English Grammar and American Government, three credit hours, and Oral Reading, two credit hours.

H.E. Visitors Total 1,500

Approximately 1,500 visitors explored the "Home Economics Universe" at the Hospitality Day Saturday.

According to Darlene Larkin, TxC Sr, Hospitality Day chairman, 1,207 high school girls and 105 teachers registered Saturday morning. Other visitors were parents and Manhattan residents.

"From all indications the visitors liked the exhibits centered in Nichols gym much better," commented Miss Larkin. In the past years exhibits were in Calvin, Anderson, and Kedzie.

Hospitality Day began with an assembly in the auditorium at 9:30 Saturday morning. Miss Larkin welcomed the visitors to K-State and Dean of Home Economics Doretta Hoffman told of the past history of the Day and its purposes.

Annual FFA Meeting Attracts 1,000 Guests

More than 1,000 Future Farmers of America will be on campus today and tomorrow. They are here for the 35th annual State High School Judging and Farm Mechanics contest and the 30th annual Kansas FFA meeting.

The judging began at 7 a.m. in the Animal Industries building. Contestants will judge dairy cattle and score dairy products. Other FFA boys will compete in contests in farm power machinery, welding, and other farm mechanics. Still other students will enter the poultry and livestock judging.

Thirty-five will compete in the state-wide FFA speech contest.

This evening the boys will assemble in the Auditorium to elect officers for the Kansas FFA association. A Kansas "Star Farmer" will be named at the meeting.

K-State students from many departments will assist with the various contests.

The climax of the two-day event will be a banquet tomorrow night. Winners of the contests will be announced at that time.

Five of the six state officers who will preside over the FFA meeting are K-State students. Bob Krehbiel, AH Soph, is president; John Baird, AE Fr, vice president; Gary Cromwell, AEd Soph, secretary; Don Huntington, FT Fr, treasurer; and Bernard Owen, AEc Fr, sentinel.

Deadline Is 5 p.m. Today For Directory Position

Applications for advertising manager of the 1958-59 Student Directory will be accepted until 5 p.m. today, according to George Hooper, chairman of Campus Industries, Inc.

Anyone interested may pick up an application in the activities center at the SGA office of the Union.

Jazz Affair Comes Off; Three Combos 'Cool It'

"A Jazz Affair," featuring three modern jazz groups from Kansas colleges was presented in the Union main ballroom yesterday afternoon. The groups performed before an audience of 100.

Groups performing were the Dale Norris Sextet from K-State, the Don Conard Quartet from KU, and the Five Guys from Emporia State.

The KU and K-State groups tied for first at the recent Big Eight Jazz festival at Lawrence.

Don Conard and his group started the concert. The group consisted of a bass, piano, drums, saxophone, and a female vocalist. The vocalist, Patty Tucker, is a professional performer from Kansas City, Mo., and was well received by the audience.

The Five Guys, actually six performers, were next on the program. The group consisted of a bass, drums, piano, trumpet, saxophone, and guitar. "Hersey Bar" and "Bernie's Tune" were two numbers the group played.

The Dale Norris Sextet was the last group to perform. This group consisted of a bass, piano, drum, two trombones, tenor saxophone. Dale Norris doubled on a baritone saxophone.

Norris and his group played the arrangement of "A Foggy Day" which won first place for the group at the recent Big Eight Jazz festival. He also played two other arrangements of the same number. All three of these arrangements were arranged by members of his group.

The concert was sponsored by the K-State Jazz club.

JAZZ FANS enjoyed an afternoon of near-professional entertainment yesterday at the inter-school "Jazz Affair" in the Union ballroom.

Home Ec Council Is Co-ordinator Of Varied Club Work, Activities

By PAT ROBERTS

"The purpose of the Home Economics Council is to co-ordinate the work and activities of the eight various home economics clubs," said Sylvia Gaddie, president of the council.

The House Economics Council is composed of all presidents of the various home economics clubs, two Student Council representatives, and three executive officers that are elected at large from the Home Economics school.

The eight clubs concern art, child development, clothing retailing, dietetics and commercial demonstrations, extension, journalism, nursing, and teaching. These individual clubs have their own activities. A good example was the style show sponsored by the Clothing and Retailing club. Many have banquets and special vocational trips included in their activities.

"The Snowball and Hospitality Day are the two main activities of the council," said President Gaddie.

The council has recently worked on several rule changes in connection with the annual Favorite Man on Campus contest and will present them to the Student Activities board soon for next year's Snowball.

"We think the new rules will help the Snowball a great deal," said Miss Gaddie.

The president of the Home Economics Council said she thought Hospitality Day was a huge success. Over 1,200 high school students attended the activities.

"Hospitality Day is to encourage high school students, especially juniors and seniors, to come to K-State and to get a good look at our Home Economics department," she said.

Every phase of home economics is put into play for the annual Hospitality Day. It is not only a device for interesting high school girls in home economics, but an excellent opportunity for students and teachers to work together.

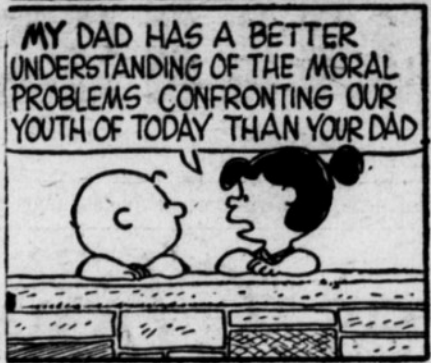

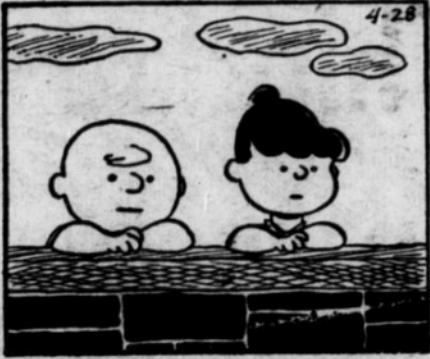

An example of the type of participation which takes place in the carrying out of Hospitality Day are the dietetics students who prepared the luncheon for the over 1,200 guests.

The Snowball is also one of the Council's activities that encourages participation by many home economics students and provides opportunities for leadership experience.

Financially the council is dependent on the Snowball for all income for activities other than Hospitality Day. The Apportionment board takes care of the Hospitality Day bill. Expenditures include two home economics scholarships and sending a representative to the National Home Economics meeting—plus activity costs. Dues from the various clubs also help balance the budget.

The Council meets every first and third Tuesday of each month in Calvin hall. However, a big change is due as soon as the new Home Economics building is completed.

Schweitzer Urges Suspension Of Nuclear-Testing Explosions

Compiled from United Press

By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Oslo, Norway — Dr. Albert Schweitzer, in a series of three lectures made public today, appealed for an immediate, unconditional suspension of nuclear test explosions before the world's atmosphere is poisoned fatally by radioactive pollution.

The Nobel Peace Prize winner, humanist and philosopher, also urged the United States "in this hour of fate," to abandon atomic and hydrogen weapons as the only way to prevent a nuclear war.

Schweitzer called for a top-level conference of the world's three atomic powers—the U.S., Britain and Russia—to agree on abandonment of nuclear tests and weapons.

Jewish, Negro Sites Hit

Jacksonville, Fla.—Explosions rocked a Jewish center and a Negro school within a period of three to four minutes early today, apparently set off by a group identifying itself as "the confederate underground."

It was the third time this year that Jewish installations have been bombed in the South.

Readers' Forum

Reader Defends K-State Players

Dear Editor:

Unfortunately the reporter whom the Collegian assigned to the K-State Players production "The Time of Your Life" is still in diapers. Had she been a character in the play, she would have portrayed the shallow, barren minded, immature individual with "no foundation," who has not taken time to study life. A character who would have drawn from the audience a feeling of pity mixed with scorn—but no laughs. She would not understand that much of the unhappiness in the world is caused because so many have "no foundation."

Perhaps one should explain that William Saroyan is not referring to a garment worn next to the skin.

Your reporter has not yet learned that there are two kinds of laughter—one loud audible—and the other a quiet laughter inside one. The latter was more the type which "The Time of Your Life" offers. Perhaps the biggest mistake the Players made was in advertising their fine production as an "uproarious" comedy.

For a better understanding of the play I refer you to the article in the Tuesday Manhattan Mercury.

Lois Eaton, Sp Sr.

(Editor's Note: Oddly enough this same person has done all our play reviews—and only on "Time of Your Life" has she received vicious complaints. We're interested in hearing "Life" explained so easily. And as for your enlightening information as to the kinds of laughter: agreed, but the K-State Players themselves advertised this as an "uproarious new musical comedy"—check Webster if you don't understand uproarious. The Collegian does not print advertising on its front page. In all fairness to the other 6,699 students, Miss Eaton, we call 'em as we see 'em... or as they've been billed.)

Screen Scene

Film Version of 'Young Lions' Outdoes Novel; 'Bonjour Tristesse' Rests on Superficial Plot

By LANCE GILMORE

A new twist: Hollywood has brought a novel to the screen and turned out a more creative product than the original.

"The Young Lions," showing at the Wareham, is a war picture exploring the personal motives of the Young Lions (Marlon Brando, Montgomery Clift) of Germany and America in World War II.

The title is from a quote appended to the book, "And the sword shall devour thy young lions," and in Nazi officer Brando's case the plot is concerned with his conflict in justifying killing while wielding the sword for a cause in which he believes.

Clift, Brando's American counterpart, and a shy Jew who in turn represents the finest qualities in the American soldier, is not so much concerned with killing as his problems in "fitting in."

The plot interweaves Clift's story in America and Brando's developments in Europe, until the pair cross paths in a climactic scene on the European war front.

The two stories are alternated skillfully as the plot switches back and forth at the right moments in lean, suspenseful filming.

The authentic war scenes sweep across a sort of panorama of the war—Normandy, North Africa, France, etc.—in an apparent attempt to create a framework of the most telling Second World War events.

Brando's story is much more interesting because Clift's is nothing new to an American audience. Clift portrays again the sensitive soldier trying to get along with his unit he played in "From Here to Eternity."

Brando believes in what he considers the basic premises of the Nazi cause, but cannot reconcile them with senseless killing. His superior officer unsuccessfully attempts to make him a "creative soldier," and Brando also refuses to accept the idea he has "contracted for killing in all its forms."

He remains a soldier to the end but realizes finally he is a simple tool of a destructive machine.

Hope Lange plays Clift's girl-back-home and Lilliane Montevecchi is the French girl Brando falls in love with—and leaves "because I am a German soldier," as he puts it in his parting message.

Unusual light intensities and sometimes breathtaking scenes of war's ravage heighten the picture's effect.

Biggest disappointment in an otherwise mature film is the last few minutes things begin to smack of the typical war movie, and Clift and wife have a typical reunion.

This defect may arise, though, from the fact no ending is necessary. By this time the point has already been made and the fate of the characters determined.

The Campus theater also features a converted novel, Francoise Sagan's bestselling first book, "Bonjour Tristesse."

The picture captures all the racy glamour and colorful living of Riviera life which spiced the book, and rests on the same superficial plot. Though depth is lacking, it is often an intriguing tale.

The film follows the book virtually to a T and casting is appropriate (who else would play a 40-50-year-old father cavorting around the Riviera irresponsibly but David Niven?).

Jean Seberg for the most part clicks as Niven's daughter (identifiable with author Sagan), who wants to spend the rest of her life in a round of partying with her father, but is finally forced to examine herself as the rather shallow child she is.

Deborah Kerr, playing a charming and mature woman who loves Niven and thinks she can do something with this mad-cap family, forces the recognition on the daughter's part. But Seberg, though she is quite fond of Kerr, is having no part of this reform and resents the intrusion in the happy father-daughter relationship.

In a state of rebellion Seberg decides to get Kerr out of the picture. Her plan gets out of hand and results in a tragic climax, leaving herself and her father the prospect of a life of sadness (tristesse).

Seberg often seems younger and less perceptive than the daughter of the novel. She narrates most of the plot in simple sentences which fail in their attempt to echo the writing style of Sagan.

The film employs spectacular color with the exception of several sequences where it switches to black and white, an effective aid in identifying flashbacks.

It is doubtful the film would create much interest were it not under the "Bonjour Tristesse" label.

Thinclads Claim One Victory In Meets at Drake, Colorado

K-State's track team split forces for competition at the Drake Relays at Des Moines and the Colorado Relays at Boulder over the weekend, winning but one event as the Cat alternate mile relay team took first at Colorado.

K-State finished high in three relay events at the Colorado Relays as Colorado university won its own meet.

The Wildcats won the mile relay in 4:26.2. The foursome was made up of Duane Holman, Terry Turner, Arlan Stackley, and Lawrence Brady. K-State also finished second in the two-mile relay and third in the distance medley relay.

The 49th Drake Relays appeared to be a re-run of this year's Kansas Relays as the meet was dominated by relay teams from Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma State, and Nebraska, with each winning a pair of races during the two-day meet.

Only four meet records fell during the meet which was run off in cloudy 46-degree weather. An estimated 15,000 fans witnessed the track festival.

Texas university mile relay once again outran K-State's speedy foursome in the time of 3:11.9. This marks the fourth time that Texas has beaten K-State in the mile relay event with the Wildcats finishing second three times and third once. Texas also won the distance medley relay event.

Oklahoma State, paced by Orlando Hazley, Bob McFarling, and Vernon Haddox, captured the 440-yard relay and the half-mile relay. The trio ran on both winning teams. Nebraska won the 280-yard shuttle high hurdle relay and the sprint midley relay. Kansas university walked off with the two-mile and four-mile relays.

K-State's Gene O'Connor was edged by Cliff Cushman of Kansas in the 440-yard hurdles. O'Connor defeated Cushman at the KU relays last weekend in the time of 51.6. Cushman's time at Drake was 52.3.

Robert Henry of Minnesota was first in the shot put with a toss of 55-9. Oklahoma's Dan Erwin finished second in that event and Oerter of Kansas third. Jim Cain, Wildcat shot putter, placed fifth in that event. Oerter set a meet record in the discus with a mark of 185-7 1/2, wiping out his own mark of 177-10.

Cat Nine Wins One Tilt, Loses Pair to Missouri

Surviving a 24-2 shellacking Friday afternoon, K-State's baseball team came back to split a Saturday afternoon doubleheader with the Missouri Tigers at Griffith field. The Cats lost the first 5-0, but, with Wally Carlson's hitting and Mike Lair's pitching, won the second seven-inning tilt 6-3.

Carlson hit a three-run homer in the third inning and a two-run double in the fifth to account for five of the six Cat tallies. Lair picked up his second win of the year by hurling a six-hitter.

K-State was blanked in the first game of the doubleheader 5-0, with Missouri's John Donaghy throwing a one-hitter. Paul Bader had the only Cat hit.

The guest team collected 24 hits and four home runs in Friday's one-sided contest. A home run by Carlson with one on in the sixth inning gave the Wildcats their only score.

K-State's record is now 2-7—all in conference play. Missouri is 5-2.

Golfers Win Over Wichita

K-State defeated Wichita university, 7 1/2-4 1/2 in a dual golf meet at Manhattan country club Saturday. The win was a reversal of the 17 1/2-1 1/2 drubbing the Cats absorbed from the Wheatshockers at Wichita earlier this season. The Cats now have a 4-5 record.

Dave Smith from K-State was medalist as he carded a 38-33-71 over the par 36-34-70 course.

Results:
Dave Smith (KS), 71 defeated Duke Evans (W), 75, 3-0
Tom Vickers (W), 72 defeated Charles Hostetler (KS), 76, 2-1
Tony Amend (W), 75 defeated Jerry Smith (KS), 78, 2 1/2-1 1/2
Jerry Hendricks (KS), 79, defeated Tom Schmidt (W), 81, 3-0

OU Net Team Whips K-State

Oklahoma university defeated K-State 6-1 in a dual Big Eight tennis meet here Saturday. The only winner for K-State was Jim Holwerda, who won over Bill Lackey 6-2, 6-1 in a singles match. The loss gives the Cats a 4-6 season record.

Kansas university and K-State meet here today at 2 p.m. in another dual tennis meet. The Cats defeated Kansas earlier this season.

Singles results:
Joe Harris (O) defeated Winston Tilzey (KS), 6-3, 6-3
Don Cross (O) defeated John Bird (KS), 6-2, 6-1
Dennis Cross (O) defeated Keith Andler (KS), 6-1, 6-0

Ag Econ Club Stages Speech, Debate Contest

Jerry Karr, AE Sr, Leo Mayer, AE Jr, and Sy Nyhart, AA Sr, were winners in the first Ag Economics club speech and debate contest Saturday.

Karr and Mayer won the debate contest on the subject, "Resolved: that a two-priced system for the disposal of surplus agricultural products at home and abroad contribute to a stable domestic agricultural economy."

Nyhart won the individual speech contest with a speech on "New Horizons."

The three winners are eligible to represent K-State at a national contest sponsored by the American Farm Economics association at Winnipeg, Canada, August 20-22.

Council Says 700 Ballots To Be Cast

"Possibly 700 students will vote in the Arts and Sciences Council election," Bill Schick-tanz, GA Sr, Council president, announced last night. Schick-tanz made the statement after unusually heavy voting had been encountered in Monday's voting. Schick-tanz expects the amount to be considerably over the 200 votes of last year's election. He explained that there are nearly 2,500 students in the Arts and Sciences school.

VOTING TIME again sees Dee Baker, EEd Soph, casting her ballot in the Arts and Sciences election, which began yesterday and continues today. Voting ends at 5 p.m.

Coeds' Closing Hours Extended May 7 Until 11:15 p.m. by AWS

Closing hours for all women students have been extended to 11:15 p.m. on May 7, it was announced at last night's meeting of the Associated Women Students council.

AWS President Virginia Taylor, SEd Soph, said, "Since it's about the end of the year, and spring is in the air, we got the extra time as a sort of present for the women." The AWS Judicial board set up the extended time with the approval of the College administration.

The AWS Queens committee, headed by Dee Oberg, Eng Jr, is working out plans in cooperation with the Manhattan Chamber of Commerce for a candidate to represent the Manhattan area in the Miss Kansas pageant at Pratt in June.

New members of the AWS Judicial board were announced last night: Sally Carney, Eng Jr, chairman; Sonja Hanson, EEd Jr; Janet Scott, HT Soph; Donna Stratton, HE Fr; and Monne Wills, EEd Soph.

The AWS council has sent a recommendation to the College administration requesting that all women students at least 21 years old recognized by the College as fifth year students be permitted to live off campus.

New FMOC Rules Approved by SAB

Student Activities board yesterday approved rules governing the 1958 Favorite-Man-on-Campus contest, which were submitted by the Home Economics council.

There will be no campaigning for candidates during College assemblies. This includes flash card sections, banners, posters, and cheers. The Snowball Dance Steering committee will set up a schedule prior to the contest telling when fraternities and organized houses can present their skits to each sorority and dormitory. The schedule will include a designated date, time, and duration of the skit.

There will be a limit of twenty-four posters a candidate for advertising on campus, houses, and dormitories. These must be stamped by the activities center. No campaigning may be carried on in the Union and Anderson hall during election days. This includes posters. The Snowball committee will have a picture of each candidate at the election tables.

No microphone campaigns may be carried on the campus during school hours—8 a.m. to 12 noon and 1 p.m. to 6 p.m. weekdays, and 8 a.m. to 12 noon Saturdays. No favors may be given to girls for campaigning. This includes cards, flowers, matches, and dinners. Posters and such campaigning on campus will begin a week before the Snowball.

Review of these rules will be presented to Inter-Fraternity council and Independent Student association a month before the contest begins. Printed rules for the representatives of the various houses will be presented at this meeting. A copy of these rules will be mailed well in advance of the contest to the candidates campaign manager and to the candidate for FMOC.

The Home Economics council and Snowball Steering committee will determine if the candidate should be disqualified.

Council Appoints Staters to Board

A rash of appointments was made at Student Council's regular meeting last night in the Union—probably the most important were the three student positions on Apportionment board.

In other action, the Council appropriated an amount not to exceed $200 to help finance a Miss K-State-Manhattan contest in conjunction with the local Junior Chamber of Commerce. A constitution for the Arts and Sciences council was approved after some revision, and the Council listened to some proposals from the Traffic Control board to revise the present parking situation.

Sam Strahm, VM Jr, Betty Britton, EEd Jr, and Norm Hostettler, Chm Soph, were appointed to Apportionment board.

Three members of Manhattan's Junior Chamber of Commerce attended the session, spoke to Council, and answered questions. The Jaycees have dates and other tentative arrangements already made for the queen contest. They will work with Associated Women Students on the project.

Bill Schick-tanz, GA Sr, and Ron Molinari, Gvt Sr, represented Arts and Sciences council at the meeting. They presented their constitution and answered questions from Council members. It was approved unanimously, after minor corrections were made.

The Council briefly discussed a variety of proposals from Traffic Control board concerning what could be done to lessen parking difficulties next year.

French appointed Council members to SGA standing committees and a liaison members to four other committees. Kathy Schultis, HEJ Jr, will be liaison member to the Union Governing board; Lynn Martin, EEd Soph, will be liaison member to Student Activities board; Phil Wright, GA Soph, will be liaison member to Homecoming committee; and Linda Merritt, EEd Soph, will be liaison member to Parents' Day committee. French also appointed Council members to six standing SGA committees.

Applications were opened for positions on seven committees, for editor of next fall's K-Book, and for positions on the SGA secretarial staff. Applications for the Committee Co-ordinating staff are due in the SGA office at 5 p.m. Friday. Applications close at 5 p.m. a week from today for the KSU Name Change committee, the Public Relations committee, and the Book Exchange committee. Applications for Student Activities board, Traffic Control board, and Traffic Appeals board close at 5 p.m. a week from tomorrow. Prospective K-Book editors must apply by 5 p.m. this Thursday, and applicants for four to six positions on the SGA secretarial staff must apply before 5 p.m. a week from tomorrow.

Rush Booklet Group Effort By Greeks

Tentative plans were made for the Panhellenic council summer rush bulleting at a meeting of sorority booklet editors last night.

The Council is planning a booklet combining all sorority bulletins into one. Before this year each sorority has sent a separate booklet to all prospective high school senior rushees.

Plans for the booklet, still in a tentative stage, include an allotment of about six pages for each sorority, a budget, and complete freedom as to what goes into each sorority's pages.

Frosh, Architects, H-O Will Pre-Enroll Today

Freshmen and first year architects whose names begin with H-O will go through pre-enrollment today from 1 p.m. until 4:30 p.m.

Wednesday all students in the same classification as above whose names begin with P-Z will enroll at the same time.

Thursday those whose names begin with A-G will enroll. Friday all students who failed to enroll earlier will be accepted for early assignment.

Mel Eaton Takes Miss Football Contest In Last Night's Competition at KS Union

Mel Eaton, EEd Jr, Gamma Phi Beta, was named Miss Football of 1958 last night to represent K-State in the annual Miss Football contest at Berkeley, Calif., September 15 to 21. She will spend a week in California with her expenses paid by the Berkeley Chamber of Commerce.

Lois Bones, EEd Jr, Chi Omega, was named alternate for the September contest.

The girls were selected from 16 candidates at a fashion show, a tea, and a series of interviews sponsored by AWS last night in the Union.

Judges were Bus Mertes, head football coach; Alpha Latzke, head of the Department of Clothing and Textiles; A. D. Miller, associate professor in the Department of History, Government, and Philosophy; Charles Gotezinger, assistant professor in the Department of Speech; and Walter Smith, of the Union business office.

K-State's Miss Football last year was Connie Morgan, EEd Soph, Pi Beta Phi.

Retiring Profs Get Certificates From McCain

Ten retiring faculty members will be presented certificates by President McCain in honor of their service at a faculty meeting Monday, May 12, in the Memorial Chapel auditorium at 4 p.m.

The retiring faculty members are Prof. Hilmer H. Laude, Agronomy department; Prof. Floyd W. Bell, Animal Husbandry department; Prof. Ralph L. Parker, Entomology department; Prof. Roger C. Smith, Entomology department; Prof. Allen P. Davidson, Education department; Merle R. Dodge, instructor in the Industrial Engineering and Arts department; Associate Prof. Coral K. Aldous, Family and Child Development department; Prof. Lee M. Roderick, Pathology department; Prof. Georgiana Smurthwaite, Home Economics Extension department; and Associate Prof. Elizabeth H. Davis, library.

Dean Makes Farce Of Tribunal Decision

SO—WE CAN EXPECT Gene Meier back next fall, and most of all, on the football team, since the administration—through Dean of Students Wunderlich—has rejected Tribunal's recommendations to expel him until September 1, 1958, and instead will allow him to return to the summer session.

In speaking to Dean Wunderlich, we heard various comments—including that: Meier was a minor factor in the fracas, hence, he shouldn't be punished very seriously. We figure Meier has sympathy coming—even pity, perhaps—but, after all, would just any student be given the chance he has been? We've heard Assistant Dean Jacot explain that Meier has been in trouble every year—all three of them—he's been in school. Why should Tribunal be overruled in his case?

IF HE WEREN'T captain of next fall's football team, would the administration have so decided?

We honestly doubt it.

We just would be willing to think there had been some pressure exerted somewhere—not that we're accusing the Athletic department of anything, of course!—and certainly in the right spot.

Tribunal's recommendations to the administration are rarely overruled—although we suppose that we can't be quite so idealistic where the football team captain is involved.

TO BE QUITE FRANK—we're sick of this kind of thing.

We don't like the school to be made to look foolish—we don't like student government overruled—we don't approve of the administration being belittled. And that's just what we think has happened.

Certainly, the Scholarship committee has refused an athletic scholarship to either man for next fall, but this doesn't mean they'll be refused in the spring. As Chairman Max Milbourn commented, it will be determined on their conduct and grade averages during the fall term.

But does this really mean anything?

WE DOUBT IT—because this principle isn't the basic issue. It's commendable that the Scholarship committee didn't endorse what has already been an obvious faux pas.

The basic issue is the Tribunal recommendation, and whether or not SGA has reason to exist.

If not—we're wasting an awful lot of state money.

If so—why don't we trust in its decision? Or didn't it give proper consideration? We understand the dean of students sits in on those meeting; why doesn't the decision—via him—from the administration come then? Why delay the situation, if it's only a matter of time?—Sue Goss.

Navy's Vanguard Fails In Satellite Launching; Third Stage Failure Drops 'Moon' Into Sea

By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER
Compiled From United Press

Cape Canaveral—The Navy flung its Vanguard into space last night, but the rocket's third stage failed to ignite and crashed back into the ocean still clasp the hoped-for fourth U.S. satellite.

Today, undaunted by its failure, the Navy pushed plans for launching another Vanguard carrying a similar 20-inch artificial moon in less than a month.

"We will go right at it," said John P. Hagen, Vanguard project director for the Naval Research laboratory in Washington. He admitted, however, last night's unsuccessful flight "was a disappointment."

Had the Vanguard satellite, rigged to send back scientific data about the sun's x-ray output and micrometeorite activity in space, gone into orbit it would have joined the two Army explorers and the 6.4-inch moon the Vanguard put into orbit March 17.

Spokesmen said preliminary data received during the Vanguard's flight indicated all went well for about 10 minutes—until the crucial instant some 300 miles above the ground when the solid fuel third stage was scheduled to ignite and kick free of the second stage.

What went amiss would not be known until data received here and at the Air Force's down-range tracking stations was sorted through by technicians of the Naval Research lab and the Martin company, prime contractor for the Vanguard.

'Clean' Bomb Dangerous

Washington — The way Dr. Linus Pauling sees it the "clean" H-bomb does man more dirt than the "dirty" bomb.

Atomic authorities have put the chief blame for long-term radioactive contamination on strontium-90, a product of "dirty" fission but not of "clean" fusion.

These authorities stress that the U.S. Pacific tests starting this week are designed to clean up weapons by reducing their fission charges in proportion to fusion.

But Pauling says carbon-14, created by both kinds of reaction but in greater amounts by fusion, is "the worst culprit" among the various radioactive products of nuclear explosions.

It is a comparatively weak emitter of radiation but it is much longer-lasting than the bomb's more highly publicized menaces.

"The danger to the race over 5,000 to 10,000 years, if the race survives," he said, "is on the order of 200 times as great from carbon-14 as from strontium-90."

British Fallout Light

London—Britain claimed success today in its latest Pacific test of a "clean" nuclear device—believed to be a missile warhead with the punch of a hydrogen bomb.

Supply Minister Aubrey Jones announced that the device was exploded over Christmas island last night in the first Western nuclear test since Russia's conditional offer to halt its testing program.

"Scientific measurements are being collected for accurate evaluation," Jones said. "Early indications are that fallout will again be negligible."

K-STATE'S FOOTBALL SQUAD tapered off slightly in practice yesterday as the Cats worked on blocking drills and pass defense after a rugged scrimmage session Saturday. Coach Bus Mertes was pleased with the Saturday showing, but was rather concerned about the injury problem as many gridders have been forced out of practice because of minor ailments.

Wet Fields Hinder IMs

Only the four games scheduled for the military drill field were played in intramural softball yesterday, with the other four scheduled for the city park being postponed until Wednesday due to wet fields. K-State defeated Kansas university 5-2 in a Big Eight tennis match here yesterday. It was the second time this season the Cats have defeated KU. The K-State season record is now 5-6.

John Bird played one of his better matches this season as he defeated Bob Peterson of KU, 5-7, 6-3, 6-1, in the number one singles contest. Peterson played number one man against the Cats at Lawrence earlier this season, but was edged out of that position for this meet by Lynn Sieverling.

K-State swept both doubles matches and three singles matches in registering the victory.

Singles results:

Lynn Sieverling (KU) defeated Winston Tilzey, 6-2, 4-6, 7-5

John Bird (KS) defeated Bob Peterson, 5-7, 6-3, 6-1

Ed Frankel (KS) defeated Gene Kane, 6-4, 4-6, 6-2

Cats' Matuszak, DeWitz Honored at Cage Party

K-State's basketball team, at an informal post-season basketball awards party Sunday, selected Don Matuszak as the "most inspirational player" and Roy DeWitz as honorary team captain.

DeWitz, who was the "inspirational" player last year, was also presented a trophy as the leading free thrower for the past season. The 6-3 senior guard hit 74 of 100 attempts at the charity line, and scored 216 points, averaging 8 a game.

DeWitz was an all-conference and all-NCAA Regional selection. Although he was the third round draft choice of the Detroit Pistons, DeWitz will coach basketball at Manhattan high next season.

Matuszak, a 6-0 junior guard, got off to a slow start at the beginning of the past season but finished strong, scoring 192 points for a 7.1 average.

The Cats also chose an all-opponent team, which consists of Oscar Robertson of Cincinnati, Wilt Chamberlain of Kansas, Elgin Baylor of Seattle, Guy Rodgers of Temple, and Archie Dees of Indiana.

K-State Bacteriology Prof Gets Guggenheim Fellowship

Abraham Eisenstark, associate professor of bacteriology, has been awarded a $5,000 Guggenheim fellowship which he will use for nine months of study and research at the University of Copenhagen's new Institute of Microbiology.

He will be studying action of viruses that attack bacteria while at the institute.

Guggenheim fellowships go to persons who have demonstrated unusual capacity in research or creative ability.

Eisenstark joined the K-State staff in 1951. His research has been in bacterial viruses, animal viruses, and in the genetics of micro-organisms.

He will leave Manhattan January 1 and will return in September of 1959.

History Seminar

Michel K. Newton, British information officer, and guest of the Political Science club, will speak at a history and government, student-faculty seminar today from 3-5 p.m., in Eisenhower 225, according to Joseph Hajda, assistant professor in history and government.

Newton will be a luncheon guest of President McCain, faculty members, and members of the Political Science club.

Newton will remain until Wednesday and meet with classes in the History and Government department.

Block and Bridle

May 10 is the date of the annual Block and Bridle livestock judging contest, according to Ben Handlin, AH Sr chairman of the contest. The contest will consist of 12 classes, with four classes of written reasons for the junior division and eight classes of oral reasons for the senior division.

Winners will be announced at the Block and Bridle steak fry that evening and the winners' names will be inscribed on a plaque in the Animal Industries building.

Development Fund

The 1958 K-State development fund is 277 per cent of what it was this same time last year and

"it keeps on climbing," said Kenneth M. Heywood, director of the Endowment association.

Gifts in the fund total $37,130 up to April 25, compared with $13,387.96 up to April 25, 1957.

The total received into the fund throughout 1957 was the greatest up to that time.

Bacteriology Trip

"Six faculty members and four graduate students will attend the national meeting of the Society of American Bacteriologists April 27 to May 1 at the Hotel Morrison, Chicago, Ill.," said Alfred F. Borg, professor and head of Bacteriology.

Bacteriology faculty members attending the meeting are John O. Harris, professor; Vernon D. Foltz, professor; William A. Miller, associate professor; Abraham Eisenstark, associate professor; and Louis R. Fina, assistant professor.

Graduate students attending are Carl E. Kirchner, Emilio C. Mora, Richard M. Kline, and Joseph Schleicher.

Two Upheld, Six Denied In Traffic Appeals Cases

Two appeals were upheld and six denied at the meeting of Traffic Appeals Board yesterday. Ralph Wilson, PrL Fr, appealed his ticket for parking in a loading zone. Wilson was parked west of the greenhouses in a circular driveway. He explained that he was not in front of the loading docks and not blocking the driveway. He was found guilty, 5-0. Kent Drew, HsP Soph, drew a ticket for no identification. Drew said that he was borrowing his parents' car for two weeks and had not gotten a sticker for it. The Board found Drew guilty, 5-0. Ralph Lambing, His Soph, received a ticket for the same offense as Wilson. He, too, was found guilty, 5-0. Bob Israel, Ec Fr, was ticketed for parking in the Student Health parking lot. He was acquitted, 5-0, because he was not blocking the drive there. Larry Kroeker, CE Jr, received a ticket for the same reason as Lambing and Wilson. He was judged guilty also.

Dick Johnson, NE Sr, received a ticket for parking in such a way that he blocked the fire escape and basement door to Van Zile. Johnson said that the place was not marked in any way as a no parking zone, the only signs being posted to the drive entering the lot. The signs simply say "parking lot." He was found not guilty, 3-2.

George Hamilton, Ft. Riley, received a ticket for parking in a prohibited area. The Board found Hamilton guilty, 5-0.

Robert Reid, MTe Soph, was ticketed for parking in the drive at the east end of ramp one of the Union parking lot. Reid explained that he didn't know the spot was not a parking lot. He was found guilty, 3-2.

Union Won't Cosponsor Y-Orpheum

The Union Governing board voted Monday night not to cosponsor the Y-Orpheum with the YMCA next year, according to Loren Kottner, Union director.

According to Kottner, the Board discussed the cosponsorship of the Y-Orpheum with representatives of the YMCA and the three members of the Y-Orpheum committee. After the discussion a motion was made to continue sponsoring the Y-Orpheum on the same basis as this year. The YMCA received 90 per cent of the net proceeds this year and the Union received 10 per cent. The motion lost.

Kottner gave several reasons for the Board's action. "The UGB felt that it should not be in the position of subsidizing a small organization. Any group could then use the Union to assist in fund raising."

Another objection to cosponsoring the Y-Orpheum was that the committee of non-YMCA members did a majority of the work while the YMCA received a major portion of the proceeds.

"The Governing board is hopeful that Y-Orpheum will be a successful venture next year," said Kottner. "An all campus show of the quality the Y-Orpheum has been the last two years is an important part of a quality activities program."

The Board will meet every Monday night during the rest of the semester. A new chairman and a new faculty representative will be selected this semester. The new faculty representative will replace Margaret Raffington, assistant professor in home economics.

Blue Key Members Choose 13 New Men

The names of thirteen new members of Blue Key, senior men's honorary, were announced this morning by John Watt, VM Sr, president. The new members were present at a breakfast this morning in the Union walnut dining room.

Twenty-six candidates attended the Blue Key smoker last night in the walnut dining room. The candidates are recommended for Blue Key membership by deans of schools, department heads, and students.

New members are Gary Rumsey, ME Sr; Bryan Barr, AH Jr; Dwight Glenn, DM Jr; Dick Corbin, ChE Jr; Ray Serpan, EE Jr; Dwight Bennett, Ar 03; Charles Moggie, BAA Sr; George Hooper, BA Sr; Leland Reitz, BPM Jr; Chuck Wingert, His Jr; Sam Straham, VM Jr; Bill Patton, VM Jr; and Andy Stewart, VM Jr.

Blue Key members, including new members, will attend a banquet at 6 p.m. Sunday in the Gillette hotel.

Chester Peters, Placement Center director, is the organization's faculty adviser. Dr. A. D. Weber, Dean of the School of Agriculture, is an honorary member.

Applications For Loans Taken Now

Applications for the F. W. Atkeson loan fund are now being accepted, according to Kenney L. Ford, alumni secretary. To be eligible for loan assistance a student must have taken or have plans to take, a course in feed technology.

The Atkeson fund was established by friends of the late F. W. Atkeson, head of K-State's Department of Dairy Husbandry, in gratitude for his service as chairman and "spark plug" of the Kansas Formula Feed conference.

The initial contributions to the loan fund totaled $1,100, and donors are expected to contribute additional money in the future, according to Ford.

Freshmen, P-Z, Enroll Today, A-G Tomorrow

Freshmen and first year architects whose names begin with P-Z will pre-enroll today from 1 until 4:30 p.m.

New Cheerleaders Selected At Yell Session Last Night

Cheerleaders and alternates for the 1958-59 school year were chosen last night at tryouts in Ahearn Fieldhouse.

New cheerleaders are Nancy Payne, EEd Soph; Corky Hudiburg, Sp Jr; Audrey Schwab, HEN Fr; Barbara Howard, EEd Fr; George Hooper, BA Sr; Dick Frank, Ec Jr; Ted Denesha, BPM Soph; and Norman Stockham, BAA Soph.

Alternates will be Linda Stout, Sp Soph; Linnea Brown, Ar 04; Charlotte Strah, ArG Jr; Julie Wilks, Eng Fr; Dick Streets, NE Jr; Larry Bilotta, BA Soph; Joe Nothern, ET Soph; and Joe Holbert, TJ Soph.

The new cheerleaders elected Hooper head cheerleader. The Union Games and Rallies committee had suggested earlier that future head cheerleaders be men.

Council Duped by Local Jaycees To Tune of $200—Student Fees

WE SIMPLY DON'T understand the action of Student Council, which yesterday voted to give the Manhattan Junior Chamber of Commerce $200—of student money!

Now as we understand it, the Jaycees will add another $200, in order to spend approximately $150 for advertising, $50 for renting the City auditorium, $5 an hour for practice sessions in the auditorium, and for other necessities in choosing Miss K-State, who will represent us in the Miss Kansas contest.

NOW WE'RE all for sending a candidate to the contest—just as we were quite proud when Georgia Rundle won last year.

But why must we go to the additional expense when a much simpler—and cheaper—arrangement could be made?

There is no need to open the contest to all of Manhattan. If she is to be Miss K-State, we're fooling someone if she's a high school girl—or even a young Miss Manhattan, aren't we? Certainly out of the countless females at Kansas State, we could find one suitable.

AND THE JAYCEES admit this. They said, in effect, that it's likely a K-State girl will always be chosen—but in all fairness, they couldn't guarantee that, could they?

And in further planning, the Jaycees suggest the winner receive a $500 scholarship. This is a nice added bonus, but, after all, wouldn't there be honor enough in being Miss K-State without having to give a $500 payment? The Council has always paid the $50 entrance fee for the contest—and we think this is sufficient expenditure when you stop to think it's your money with which they're dealing.

ADVERTISING, the auditorium, programs (which, by the way, the Jaycees ask SC to get through the College press), all of these are impressive—but unnecessary. It's the old story of Manhattan cashing in publicity-wise on a Kansas State college promotion.

We don't usually mind, and expect the situation as a manner of course, as we're sure you do.

But isn't it enough that these same Jaycee members get our money everyday in their stores, without getting in through the Council, too?

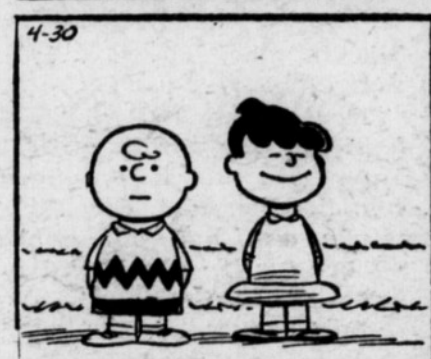

AS FOR PROMOTION and advertising—if our Council had thought a minute: such courses are taught on this campus, and we'd be willing to bet there are students who would have been willing to work on it for the experience.

We haven't checked, but we'd also wager that the Field House, the Animal Industries building, or the main ballroom could be rented at a lower total expense than will be that incurred by the use of the City building.

By the way—did you know the Jaycees will sell seats at $1 apiece (1,500 to 2,000 audience expected) in order to pay for their additional costs and the scholarship—but the remainder of the money will return to their treasury?

COUNCIL WAS generously told they could sell the programs which they are to get printed on campus—and hope that they make a $300 profit, to split in half with the Jaycees. (This means original outlay will be reduced to $50—if that many programs are sold.)

Unfortunately, our SC has been badly taken—to a tune of $200 of student activity fee money.—Sue Goss.

Hammaraskjold Appeals to Reds In Behalf of Arctic Skies Plan

Compiled from United Press
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

United Nations—Soviet diplomats were reported furious today because UN Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold intervened in the Security Council on behalf of an American proposal for an Arctic open skies inspection plan.

But Western diplomats said Hammarskjold's appeal to Russia to treat the U. S. proposal in good faith raised hope that a Soviet veto might be avoided.

Russia rejected the plan as a "diversionary maneuver" by the United States to detract attention from the Soviet charge that nuclear bomber flights by the U. S. Strategic Air Command across the Arctic menaced world peace.

Hammarskjold took the unusual step late yesterday of intervening in the debate with a personal statement.

Soviet Ambassador Arkady A.

Sobolev refused to comment at all on Hammarskjold's statement, but other Russians were furious.

They contended it would have been proper for him to have welcomed the U.S. initiative at a press conference, as he had earlier endorsed Moscow's nuclear test suspension, but that a statement in a formal meeting of the Security Council was out of order.

Nevertheless the secretary general's statement brought the Russians up short and gave rise to hope that Sobolev's position of unyielding denunciation would change by Friday.

Bill Goes to Docking

Topeka—A bill to clamp down on intangible assets and bring in about $30 million in undeclared holdings went to Gov. George Docking today.

The Senate late yesterday amended and passed the action, followed by quick House approval.

Many who favored the bill contended Kansas taxpayers were not reporting all their intangible assets under present law.

They said the bill would force out and put on the tax rolls the $30 billion, bringing an estimated $2 million to $4 million yearly for counties.

The measure would give taxpayers option of figuring their tax as either five mills on the dollar value of stocks and bonds or 3 per cent of the income of such holdings.

The present law taxes at a straight five mills per dollar valuation.

Under the proposal the state Revenue department would get a list of the taxpayer's holdings of securities at income tax time. The state would certify the list back to the counties, where the tax would be collected and dispensed.

Business Still Slides

Washington—A top-ranking administration economist said today April unemployment figures indicate business is still going downhill "but there has been some moderation in the downturn."

Organized labor reaction to Commerce department statistics showing a drop of 78,000 in unemployment for the month ended April 15 was that the recession "continues to worsen."

A business spokesman, Alan H. Temple, executive vice president of the First National City Bank of New York, told a U. S. Chamber of Commerce annual meeting here that "little in the current news suggests that the decline has yet been checked."

President Eisenhower was expected to give his appraisal of the latest unemployment report at his weekly news conference today. Expectations were he would cite the figures as proof no decision is warranted now regarding a tax cut.

Seven of Eleven Students Questioned Give Nod To Dean's Action on Tribunal Recommendation

By Don Veraska

SEVEN OF ELEVEN students polled favor the decision of Dean of Students Wunderlich to alter the recommendation of the Tribunal in the case of Gene Meier.

Wunderlich ruled that Meier could be admitted to summer school, while the Tribunal had recommended that he not be re-admitted until next semester.

Seven persons answered yes and four, no when asked, "Do you think Dean Wunderlich was justified in altering the Tribunal's recommendation?"

DON RODGERS, Eng Gr—"Yes, Wunderlich is the Dean of Students. Since the final decision is his, I see no reason for people to gripe about it."

Reader Questions Editor's Right To Position as Almighty Judge

Dear Miss Goss,

In reference to your editorial of April 29, I would like to ask one question. What makes an editor feel that he or she is the almighty judge on every situation that arises?

I can understand why people like Drew Pearson are supercritical of administrators. He wants to sell papers. But on a College newspaper, it seems rather odd that you should want to jump on the bandwagon everytime it appears the majority opinion is leaning that way. Perhaps it's a means of attracting attention.

About the specific article of today, I only know what I've read in the papers and the rumors that float about the campus. However, I imagine Dean Wunderlich put quite a number of hours of deep thought on the matter before he made his decision, and no doubt was doing what he thought would do Kansas State the most good.

And now, getting down to brass tacks. If those house boys at Northwest hadn't been seeing too many hero movies and hadn't tried to be the almighty protector, they would have called the campus police and saved everyone a lot of trouble. And I doubt very strongly if either football player had intentions of really harming any girls. If those house boys are stupid enough to fight with a couple of guys as big as Meier, it's about time somebody knocked some sense in their heads.

Dale Gallart, ME Jr.

GREGG WAKEMAN, PEM Jr—"Yes, people who don't think it's all right aren't interested in our football team."

R. L. TUCKER, Geo Soph—"No, the recommendation of the Tribunal should be followed."

CLANCY SLOAN, Psy Sr—"Yes, I think it's a good deal. Boys will be boys."

DIANE LEECE, HE Fr—"No, if we have a Tribunal, I feel that we should stick by its decision. Why have a Tribunal at all if we don't?"

BILL BRANDENBURG, EE Fr—"No, there's no reason for bringing him back to school except for football."

DICK CORBIN, ChE Sr—"Yes, Wunderlich was right in lessening the punishment, because Meier was really sorry for this act in which he was involved."

RALPH AYERS, ChE Soph—"No, I think it was because he was a football player that he was admitted to summer school."

BILL HARRISON, NE Sr—"Yes, I respect Wunderlich's decision, as he is closer to the problem than I am."

FRED TOPLIKAR, AEd Sr—"Yes, the Tribunal was too rough on Meier in the first place."

ALLEN HJEMFELT, CE Jr—"Yes, we need the football players. Most of them come here not for an education, but to play football."

Rho Alphas Beaten By No-Hit Pitching

Yesterday's intramural softball games, all of which were in the independent division, featured one no-hitter and one tie game.

The no-hit game was pitched by YMCA's Darrel Rosenow as his team defeated the Rho Alphas 9-0. The Newman Club and the Vets battled to a 2-2 tie. Newman Club's Dick Matthews hit a home run.

South Jardine beat AIA, 7-3. AIA forged ahead 3-2 in the bottom of the third inning. In the fourth inning, South Jardine scored five runs in the fourth inning to win.

West Stadium edged OK House 3-2 with Bob Boozer hitting a home run for the winners. In another close game, the Alley Rats beat the Kasbah 5-4. The Ag Econ Club forfeited to DSF and Westminster Foundation topped the 357 Club 8-3.

Four games, all in the fraternity division, postponed Monday because of wet fields in the city park, will be played today. A tie game between Pi Kappa Alpha and Delta Upsilon will also be played off today.

Today's schedule:

City park—Beta Sigma Psi vs Sigma Nu, 4:15 p.m., southwest corner; Alpha Kappa Lambda vs

Delta Sigma Phi, 5:15 p.m., southwest corner; Phi Delta Theta vs Sigma Phi Epsilon, 4:15 p.m., northwest corner; and Alpha Gamma Rho vs Sigma Chi, 5:15 p.m., northwest corner.

Military field—Pi Kappa Alpha vs Delta Upsilon, 5 p.m., east field.

Pi Phis Win In Gals' IM's

Both Van Zile (B) and Pi Beta Phi started off the women's intramural softball season with wins in their games yesterday.

Van Zile (B) beat Gamma Phi Beta 11-7. Van Zile (B) will play on May 6 the winner of Thursday's Alpha Delta Pi-Chi Omega (B) game. Gamma Phi Beta will play the losers of Thursday's game on May 12.

Pi Beta Phi beat Chi Omega (A) 4-0 on the south diamond. Pi Beta Phi will play the winner of Thursday's Alpha Chi Omega-Northwest hall game on May 6, and Chi Omega (A) will play the losers on May 12.

Van Zile (A) will meet Kappa Delta tomorrow at 5 p.m. on the south diamond of the women's playing field, and Van Zile (C) will play Delta Delta Delta on the north diamond.

Heavy Contact Drills Slated For K-State Football Squad

K-State football coach Bus Mertes is throwing the work to his squad hot and heavy, with scrimmages being on tap for most of the nine remaining Wildcat practices.

Mertes will put the Cats through a short game scrimmage today and possibly Friday, with a full-scale game practice set for Saturday in Memorial stadium.

"Saturday's practice was one of the best we have had," said Mertes, "but we didn't have enough of a squad to work with Monday. We are still bothered with a lot of injuries."

"If we can keep working hard enough we'll have a pretty good squad. We're going to try to have as many game scrimmages as we can, for it is only in game situations that a player can learn a lot."

"We're starting to juggle our lineup a little more now, finding out where some of these boys can play their best football. We are also finding out who wants to play football and who doesn't."

"We hope to keep changing the first club until we get the combination that can work."

"The big thing we'll find out in spring practice is who will play next season and how our offense will function. However, we have been stressing pass defense and protection lately."

sophomores has been very encouraging for Mertes. Mertes named Ced Price, 6-6 198-pound end; Ed Harr, 6-0 195-pound guard; Dave Noblitt, 5-8 205-pound guard; Dale Evans, 6-3 185-pound quarterback; Ron Blaylock, 5-10 170-pound quarterback; Ray Kovar, 6-0 193-pound end; Blaine Corrick, 5-11 177-pound end; and Art Grob, 6-3 234-pound tackle as outstanding freshmen.

Corrick has been moved into the first-team left end slot, replacing John French who was shaken up in Saturday's drills. Kovar was recently switched from fullback to end.

Mertes is also pleased with the

KS Rodeo Planned May 11, 12 in Griffith Stadium

Kansas State's annual all-college rodeo sponsored by Chaparajos club will be in Griffith stadium May 11 and 12, according to Tom Watkins, BA Soph, historian.

The rodeo will present five major competitive events plus some added attractions. The major events are bareback bronc riding, calf-riding, saddle bronc riding, bulldogging, and bull riding.

Extra events which may be included are a wild horse race, girls' barrel racing, and girls goat tying.

Feature attractions include Marilyn Trent and her Roman team, Rumford's little boy, and the rodeo clown, Toramy Miller and his mule. Miller's motto is "Have mule will travel."

There will be three shows this year. Two shows are scheduled for Sunday, one at 2 p.m. and one at 8 p.m. The last performance will be Monday at 7:30 p.m.

Trophy buckles plus cash prizes will be awarded each winner in a major event. A best all-round cowboy will be selected also, according to Watkins.

4-H in Review

The special edition of the 4-H journal has been changed from the 4-H Who's Who to "4-H in Review" according to Anna Eklund, HDA Sr, who is one of the members of Collegiate 4-H club who are working on the publication.

"This book is slated to come out in September," said Miss Eklund. The magazine is going to be a handbook for all of the 4-H members and also the leaders. "We are also going to use the book to encourage people to join 4-H," added Miss Eklund.

ASME

Darrell Hosler, ME Jr, won a $50 cash prize and an all-expense trip to Detroit for giving the best paper at a student branch meeting of the American Society of Mechanical Engineers at K-State yesterday and Monday.

Hosler will present his paper, "The Effect of Tail Fins on Automobile Stability," at Detroit in June in competition with winners from 10 other regions.

Eta Kappa Nu

Eleven students and two faculty members have been initiated into Eta Kappa Nu, electrical engineering honorary.

Dr. Charles Halljak, associate professor of electrical engineering, and Ugo Gagliardi, assistant professor of electrical engineering, are the new faculty members.

Other new members, all electrical engineering juniors, are Ralph Baker, James Bunyan, Max Entrikin, Alex Jones, James Lehr, Robb Minor, Jerry Neal, Edward Sanderson, Ivan Thompson, William White, and Bruce Irwin.

Prof. Milton Raville, head of the Applied Mechanics department, was the speaker at a recent banquet honoring the initiates.

Arab-American Club

The Arab-American club will meet in the Student Union, room 203, at 7:30 p.m. today. A discussion and talk on Lebanon is scheduled.

Phi Alpha Theta

Twelve students and one teacher will be initiated into Phi Alpha Theta, national history honorary, Wednesday. A dinner at the Student Union at 6 p.m. will precede the initiation.

The honorary has about 15 active faculty members on the K-State campus.

Phi Epsilon Kappa Award

George Hooper, BA Sr, received the Phi Epsilon Kappa scholarship key for having the highest overall grade point average in the mens' physical education honorary at a banquet in the Student Union Monday.

Awards also went to Thomas Starns, PEM Sr, organization president, for being the outstanding member of the year, and to Prof. L. P. Washburn, retired head of the Physical Education department for his 25-year membership record.

Clothing and Retailing Club

Alberta Timm, TxC Jr, has been elected president of the Clothing and Retailing club. Other new officers are Sheron Gould, TxC Fr, vice president; Harriet Tedrow, TxC Soph, recording secretary; Betty Jean Wehking, HE Fr, corresponding secretary; and Judy Young, TxC Fr, treasurer.

'It's About Over' Revealed By Class-Time Statistics

By GARY SETTLE

This is presented as a public service to save time for those K-Staters who would otherwise waste those precious final hours of the semester figuring how many days and hours of classes remain.

After today there are 21 more days of school this semester. This includes four Saturdays so it means there are just 17 more days for students who don't have Saturday classes. Students with no Tuesday and Saturday classes have 14 days left; students with no Tuesday, Thursday, and Saturday classes have just ten days left; students taking less classes than that have time to figure it out for themselves.

In short, it's about over.

But more precisely, the total remaining time consists of 152 class periods, including 16 periods on Saturdays.

Since the average class lasts 50 minutes, there is a total of 7,600 minutes of classes remaining. Since the average minute lasts 60 seconds, this leaves a grand total of 465,000 (count 'em) seconds in the semester.

Overwhelming, isn't it!

"Jockey brand T-shirts made me irresistible!"

"I was a Saturday night bookworm, and not because I liked books more than dates. To put it bluntly, I was resistible. Then my best friend told me I needed to make a better appearance—I needed Jockey T-shirts. I started wearing these good looking T-shirts, and girls started to call me for dates!

"Now, thanks to Jockey T-shirts, I'm dated weeks in advance. The twin stitch collar that fits so smoothly, the trim-fitting body of the shirt, these are the main reasons why I'm so popular and comfortable these days."

Jockey T-shirts are tailored extra long to stay tucked in. Free, comfortable arm movement guaranteed.

'58 Leaders Get Honors In Assembly

Senior leaders of 1958 and Distinguished Service alumni from the School of Arts and Sciences will be recognized at the annual All-College Honors assembly in the Auditorium Tuesday, May 6.

Guest speaker for the event is Mr. Herbert Cloith, director of the scholarship program of the Procter and Gamble company. The 1915 K-State graduate will speak on "Where Do We Go From Here?"

Senior students who have been selected for recognition were judged on the basis of scholastic standing and participation in student activities. Awards will be given by the Student Senior Honors committee, as part of a leadership recognition program begun six years ago at the request of students.

Mr. Cloith received his master's and doctorate from Ohio State university and was an instructor there. He has been Assistant Chief of the Chemicals branch of the War Production board and later Technical Investigator in Germany for the Department of Commerce.

At Procter and Gamble Cloith has been Associate Director of the Chemical division, Associate Director of the Product Development department, and now heads the Scholarship program.

The usual schedule of shortened classes will be followed for the 9:30 a.m. assembly.

H.E. Coeds with Honors Receive Awards Today

Home Economics women in the upper ten per cent and upper three per cent of their classes will be honored at 4 p.m. in the Union little theater.

Scholarships for next year will also be presented at an assembly.

Dr. Dorothy Harrison, head of the Foods and Nutrition department will present the Martha S. Pittman awards. The royalties from the "Practical Cookery" written by the foods and nutrition staff are contributed to this scholarship fund.

Two Danforth summer awards will be presented by Dean of the School of Home Economics Dorretta Hoffman. A junior woman will receive a four-week summer program with all expenses paid. Two weeks are spent in St. Louis where she will visit commercial establishments, and the remainder at Camp Miniwanca, Stony Lake, Mich.

The other Danforth award is given to a freshman woman, providing a two-week stay at Camp Miniwanca.

Ellin McCandless, HDA Sr, will present the Home Economics club award to a junior woman for use during her senior year.

The interest award will be given to one of the eight Margaret Justin Home Economics clubs by Diane Koon, TxC Jr.

Considered in making this award are programs, membership, project, and attendance of the Art, Clothing and Retailing, Extension, Dietetics and Commercial Demonstration, Family and Child Development, Journal-

FINALS ARE APPROACHING and spring is in the air so Bob Brown, BA Jr, and Nancy Howard, SEd/Sr, combine both. K-State's lawns such as this one in front of Anderson and the one around the Union offer a tempting place to study.

Dale Galliard Hanged In Effigy Last Night

Hung in effigy last night was Dale Galliard, ME Jr, on the north side of Anderson hall. A white, stuffed doll, about three and a half feet long and labelled with Galliard's name, was found hanging from a limb of a large tree.

Campus police found the effigy. An unidentified person called the Collegian late yesterday evening twice, once to explain what was planned and the second time to give the location of the effigy.

"About 15 people" took part, according to the informer, and he identified Galliard by "you know, the guy who had the letter in today's paper."

Galliard's letter is yesterday's paper questioned the Collegian editor's right to be "almighty judge," when she editorially upheld a Tribunal decision. The student went on to back Dean of Students Wunderlich's decision in the case of Gene Meier, PEM Jr, who had been expelled for being involved in a disturbance at Northwest hall.

Wunderlich had reversed the College Tribunal's decision recently, and had ruled that Meier could return to summer school, which will allow him to play football next fall.

ism, Nursing and Teaching clubs.

Sylvia Gaddie, TxC Sr, president of the Home Economics council will install the new officers of the Council. The newly-elected presidents of the eight clubs will be introduced.

KSC, Like City, Has Own Police Force

Whether you realize it or not, K-State has its own police force.

"We have a little city of our own," says Roger Ward, traffic security officer, referring to the campus. The married student apartments and dormitories fall under jurisdiction of the campus police.

The campus police force consists of five officers, headed by Ward. Each holds two commissions. They are deputized as campus police by the Board of Regents and as deputy sheriffs by the Riley county sheriff.

Their job is to enforce parking and traffic regulations as set by the Board of Regents and the City. The number of traffic tickets issued each month since last September averaged 100. All were for parking violations only. All moving violations are handled by the Justice of the Peace court.

The traffic security office has been in operation since last September. It first began operations in the Physical plant, moving in October to its new quarters in Anderson hall.

To add to the effectiveness of the campus police force, a new one-way radio system has been installed, as well as a highway patrol receiver. The two-way outfit is on the same frequency as the Manhattan police radio.

The patrol car also is equipped with a two-way radio and highway patrol receiver. A spare car is ready for use when the regular patrol car is being repaired.

With the new radio setup, people can call extension 332, except between 5 p.m. and 8 a.m. Monday through Friday, to get the campus police. During the 5 p.m. to 8 a.m. period, it is necessary to call through the Manhattan police department, according to Ward.

"All accidents should be reported, no matter how minor they are," stresses Ward.

TWO OFFICERS TALK to Roger Ward, center, head of the five man campus police force. Ward says the campus is like a city within a city.

Council Announces 1958 Subchairman

The 1958-59 Union Program council sub-chairmen have been chosen, according to Lyle Clum, EE Soph, personnel and research chairman.

The secretaries and subchairmen:

Art—Nancy Porter, HT Fr, secretary; Marilyn Summers, Art Soph, art lending library; Nina Jones, ArG Soph, art lounge; Dave Linstrum, Ar 01, publicity; and Jeneane Hubert, Zoo Fr, show cases.

Dance—Monne Wills, EEd Soph, secretary; Linnea Brown, Ar 04, dance instruction; Jack Robbins, Ar 04, decorations; John Nelson, BAA Fr, publicity; and Cherie La Framboise, TxC Soph, tickets and program.

Student Feels Meier Punishment Too Harsh Considering Offense

Dear Sue Goss:

After reading your inspiring editorial I feel required to state my opinion on the subject of Gene Meier.

I am not sure when you used the word we in your editorial if you were referring to the student body or the Tribunal. If you were referring to the student body, I wish to make it clear right here that the Tribunal decisions do not necessarily represent the student body.

You seem to think that Meier was given better treatment than other non-athletic students would have been given under the same circumstances. You may be right, but you don't even seem worried about whether the punishment was equal to the crime. I don't know Meier and my only interest in writing this is justice. Assuming that Meier is guilty, it seems to me that the punishment is plenty harsh, even considering the fact that he was on probation. To lose a semester's credit and several hundred dollars is pretty severe punishment for getting in a fist fight. Do you believe that a resident of Manhattan apprehended on a similar charge would receive as severe a punishment? I don't.

However, I do agree with you that an athlete should not be given special treatment. My point is—if students in the past have received worse treatment for such acts therein lies your injustice. Two wrongs will not make a right. In the future let's try to be more reasonable in punishing students.

Leonard E. Muir, His Gr.

(Editor's Note: Just to clear up a couple questions: Gene Meier, innocent though he may be, did not spend several hundred dollars for the semester. He, like many K-State athletes, was on a full scholarship, which paid his books, room and board, tuition, and $15 a month expense money. In repaying the College for its generosity—Meier has managed to have three eventful years as far as disciplinary measures were concerned. As for the injustice of which you speak—we feel that two wrongs do not make a right, and three wrongs in three years is too many.)

Dear Sue,

There once lived two emperors. The first, Yamac, had been very powerful until he was dethroned by the crusaders. Now he retained but few loyal subjects. The second monarch, Unioc, ruled an empire which had experienced phenomenal growth. Now old Yamac retained one possession that the crusaders hadn't plundered. This was a beautiful Golden Throat Nightingale and in the past many people brought gifts of honey and nectar just to hear the wonderful Nightingale's golden voice.

Now it came to pass that the old king lost interest in his bird, and although people still came to hear his song, the bird became weak and despondent through neglect and thus rarely warbled a note. The gift of honey, having once been used to benefit the community, now lies forgotten in a dark cave. Hearing of the Nightingale's plight, the young emperor persuaded Yamac to let him care for the bird. Yamac agreed only if he was brought all gifts the Nightingale received. Several years past; the bird was nurtured back to health and soon was singing more beautifully than ever. Gifts were brought and Yamac, still having no interest, salted them away with the rest.

In the mean time Unioc, having acquired a bird of his own, decided Yamac should tend his own bird. Alas, Yamac still cared not for the Nightingale or community and promptly forgot about the bird and honey.

Now what do you think happened to our beautiful Golden Throat Nightingale?

Bob Hofman, EE Soph.

(Editor's Note: In case you're not with Mr. Hofmann, some further identification is necessary. He was director of Y-Orpheum this year, as chairman of the Union Y-Orpheum committee. The Union has returned the production, after two years, to the YMCA.

Illinois Students Stage Water Riot, Soak City Police, College Officials

By Jerry Ratts

IT SEEMS some students at the University of Illinois have found a method of relaxing their nerves on these lovely spring days.

Over 2,000 of them hurled water, ripped down parking signs, and tipped over sidewalk waste baskets at Champaign recently.

They armed themselves with buckets of water and water bombs. They used these weapons to douse police and college officials as they marched from the campus toward the Champaign business district.

Dean of Students Fred Turner and Joseph Blace, university supervisor of security and traffic, were soaked to the skin.

To replenish their supply of water, the demonstrators turned on a number of fire hydrants along their route.

DREW PEARSON, syndicated columnist who visited Oklahoma university last week, made the prediction that Adlai Stevenson will be a candidate for president on the Democratic ticket in 1960. He also predicted that barring unforeseen political mishaps, Richard Nixon will be the Republican candidate.

Pearson noted should the present situation be altered to a marked degree, John Kennedy "has a chance but not a big one.

"Kennedy is a good senator, but not what I would call an outstanding senator," Pearson explained.

He also discounted William Knowland of California in the Republican race. "He will probably lose the gubernatorial race in California and that will kill him as a possible presidential candidate," he said.

Pearson also noted that he thought the current recession has been worse than the American people have read about in the newspapers.

He cited such possible action as loosening up the bank credit, sometimes lowering the taxes, and instigating a certain amount of government spending "as ways of improving the current recession.

OREGON STATE COLLEGE is having difficulty getting its students to turn out and vote at student elections. At the recent student elections, 1,630 students voted. This is a little over 23 per cent of the total enrollment.

TEXAS UNIVERSITY is celebrating its 75th year of existence, and this spring the 75,000th degree will be awarded by the university.

The Senior cabinet at the University is launching a search to find "the symbolic student." The student is supposed to be representative of the 1958 graduating class and will make a five-minute address of response at the Commencement exercises May 31.

U.S. Satellites Disclose Need for Heavy Radiation Shielding; Problems of Temperature Control, Meteors 'Extremely Small'

Compiled from United Press
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Washington—Data from U.S. satellites disclosed the possibility today that invisible and silent death await man if he ventures more than 1,000 miles into space without heavy shielding against radiation.

In the region beyond 1,000 miles, it was revealed, Explorers I and III ran into yet unidentified rays hundreds of times more intense than scientists had expected.

On the other hand, the chances of damage to spaceships from meteors turn out to be "extremely small" and problems of temperature control are easily licked.

The radiation was "so intense as to overwhelm cosmic ray counters" aboard the satellites. Explorer I's ray counts ran 30 to 40 a second 200 to 300 miles above southern California observing stations. But at the far end of their orbits above South America both satellites reported counts above 35,000 a second.

The instruments do not tell just what kind of radiation they ran into. But if the high rates were produced by X-rays from the sun, they represented a radiation dosage of six-hundredth of a roentgen an hour. Five hours of such exposure would be equivalent to the maximum permitted atomic workers for an entire week.

"This," the report said, "could mean that it would not be safe for a human being to remain more than 1,000 miles out in space for more than five hours—unless he could be adequately shielded with lead or other layers of enough mass and density to block such dangerous quantities of the penetrating invisible light known as X-radiation."

Russians Celebrate May Day

Moscow—Defense Minister Marshal Rodion Malinovsky appealed today to Soviet armed forces for vigilance against the "threat of a new war" by American Strategic Air Force bombers flying toward the Russian frontiers with nuclear weapons.

Malinovsky made the appeal in an order of the day to the Soviet armed forces as Russia observed its traditional May Day celebration with a parade of military might before the assembled Soviet leaders and visiting United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser.

The Russian marshal, standing in an open convertible before the tomb of V. I. Lenin on Red Square, ordered his troops to be "fully prepared to repulse the new threats of war. He cited specifically the SAC flights.

"This compels us to maintain a sharp vigil and be fully prepared to repel the threats," he said.

Leukemia Check Tested

Oak Ridge, Tenn.—A new, unproved, and hazardous treatment for dreaded leukemia is in the experimental stage at the Oak Ridge Institute of Nuclear Studies.

Leukemia—cancer of the blood—occurs when some type of blood-forming cell, usually the white one, multiplies to an excessive and abnormal degree. It is extremely variable, incurable, and "very deadly."

The treatment now being experimented with consists of total body radiation and transplanting of bone marrow.

The radiation is designed to destroy the leukemia victim's bone marrow, a spongy substance within the bones where most of the blood cells, healthy and unhealthy, are formed. Bone marrow is one of the most radiation-sensitive parts of the body.

The bone marrow is then transplanted from a healthy donor, preferably from a relative.

PREPARING FOR A TRIP to Europe this summer is Madelon Neff, DIM Sr, who will ride her bike around Europe with a youth hostel group.

Coed Practices Cycling For Tour of Europe

Bicycling two hours daily is a must for Madelon Neff, DIM Sr, who is planning to tour Northern Europe this summer with an American Youth hostel group.

Miss Neff has always had two goals. One was to be graduated from College, and the other to see Europe. Her trip to Europe this summer will be a graduation present to herself.

In less than a week after her graduation Madelon will fly to New York City to meet with eight other college students and their leader. On June 7, they will board the New York. This oceanliner will take them to Southampton.

Bicycles and trains will be the only types of vehicles used on this trip, which will include tours in England, Scotland, France, Belgium, the Netherlands, Germany, Denmark, Sweden, and Norway. The American Youth Hostel method of traveling is highly regarded in Europe because bicycling is the main way to travel there.

"I'm getting a new bicycle in Southampton. The one I have is eight years old, so I really need a new one," she laughed. Miss Neff is planning to sell her bicycle before she leaves for New York.

The final decision to take the trip was made during semester vacation. Since that time Miss Neff has had all her necessary shots. She also has her passport. Now that the weather is nice she rides her bicycle on campus one hour each morning and one hour in the evening.

"We have to carry all of our belongings in a knapsack on the bicycle," explained Miss Neff. This means that her wardrobe must be small and practical.

Miss Neff is planning to take two pairs of Bermuda shorts; two sweatshirts; and a black knit ensemble of a dress, a skirt, a sweater, and long slacks. No iron can be taken because the electric voltage is not the same in Europe.

The bicyclers will do some of their own cooking. "Since I'm a Dietetics and Institutional Management major I'll probably be elected chief menu maker," Miss Neff commented.

Every night is spent in an American Youth hostel. There is no certain pace set for the trip. The students may stop whenever they like because they do not have to stay with the others in the group. They must reach the hostel before nightfall though.

The tour is actually planned for 10 to 11 weeks, with 50 to 60 days on land. Miss Neff plans to stay in Europe for two or three weeks longer. During this time she will bicycle to Italy on her own. On September 29 she will begin her internship at the University of Washington.

Amateur Radio Club Cited For Service in 1957 Blizzard

A public service award has been presented to the Kansas State Amateur Radio club for "meritorious work" during the March, 1957, Midwest blizzard. The award—the second received by the club—is made spontaneously by the American Radio Relay league, national amateur radio organization, West Hartford, Conn.

The club's radio station, WOQQQ, located in the Military Science building, handled emergency messages during the storm—spending 40 hours, day and night, on the air in a three-day period, according to Cliff Chamney, Bot Jr, president.

A letter accompanying the award said in part: "The public service certificate is not the type of award that is specifically worked for, asked for, or expected. It comes as a spontaneous recognition of outstanding work during communications emergencies."

Music Library

A "Record Rendezvous," a record review by Bob Snyder, will be sponsored by the Music Library committee Thursday at 3 p.m. in the Union library. Refreshments will be served.

Young Republicans

Members and other interested persons are urged to attend a meeting of Collegiate Young Republicans today at 8 p.m. in room 208 of the Union. According to publicity chairman Nancy Paulsen, Sp Jr, this is to be a planning meeting to map out the activities for the coming year. There will also be a discussion of the campaign committee.

Engineering Council

Voting for officers of the Engineering council is scheduled today and tomorrow, according to Bob McFall, AgE Sr. The voting booth has been set up near the main entrance of Seaton hall.

McFall said the voting booths will be open from 8 a.m. until 5 p.m. both days, although they will be closed during the noon hour. Nominations were made at a meeting of all engineering students last Thursday in the Engineering lecture hall.

Alpha Phi Omega

A canoe race down the Kansas river from Topeka to Lawrence will be made by the Alpha Phi Omega chapters at K-State and KU Saturday. The race will begin at 6 Saturday morning and will probably last six to eight hours, according to Dave Linstrum, Ar 01, K-State member of the scouting fraternity.

Three canoes are being entered by each chapter for the race. Each canoe will have a three-man crew, two rowing and one resting. Rowing for K-State will be Dick Trentman, NE Fr; Ira Goldbach, PrV Fr; Dick Kice, ME Fr; Larry North, ME Jr; Al Swanson, ME Fr; Gary Manweiler, BPM Fr; Gary Keller, Bot Fr; Jon Trentman, Ar 01; and Jim Miller, PrV Fr.

Arrangements are being made to cover at least part of the race by WIBW-TV. After the race, a banquet will be given.

Publications Attract Various Reading Interests

Collegian

No wonder those journalism students emerging from the ancient doors of Kedzie date all their assignments a day ahead of schedule—for COLLEGIAN deadlines require that they plan work this way.

Every day, reporters and advertising salesmen cover the campus and the town, respectively. Both have been assigned beats by the editor and business manager, respectively, and must cover them as often as news or ads warrant it. Frequently this involves daily contacts with two or three individuals—none of whom are available!

All ads must be turned in by noon the day preceding publication, in order for the business manager and his assistants, who also work as salesmen, to "make up" the paper; that is, arrange the ads on the page.

After this arrangement is drawn on a "dummy page," the business manager turns them over to the daily editor, one of five, each of whom is responsible for an issue on a specific day of the week.

A second set of dummies is made here, after each story has been edited. As the stories are "dummied" on each page, a headline is written, and the copy is sent to the composing room where the linotype operators take over to set it in type on metal slugs.

By the next morning at 7 or 8 a.m., all headlines and copy are back, with the exception of the United Press wire news, which is taken off the wire and is usually back by 9 a.m.

Galley proofs are read for any factual, typographical, or style errors. After all have been read and corrections have been made, page proofs are taken, when the editorial staff double checks stories and sees the headlines and cutlines to make sure all are correct.

After all has been corrected, the forms (those metal forms which hold all the type, etc.) are sent to the basement in Kedzie hall, where they are put on the press.

So at noon a sigh of relief is heard 'round the building if the final deadline has been met—if the first paper will come off the press at 12:30 p.m.

How many many hours an issue? Inestimable, says this semester's editor, who averages 12 to 15 hours a day working on the Collegian Monday through Thursday, and possibly five hours on Sunday and Friday. Multiply the number of hours a student, which varies according to the job to which they are assigned, times the 22 editorial staff members, the 13 reporters, and the five ad staff members, and, obviously—it gets to be a pretty large number!

Royal Purple

Winner of 22 All-American college yearbooks award is the K-State annual, the Royal Purple. C. J. (Chief) Medlin, graduate manager of Student Publications, has been adviser of the yearbook 23 years.

Marcia Boyd, TJ Sr. is the 1958 Royal Purple editor and heads the editorial staff of nine students plus 22 students on the office staff.

The editorial staff members wrote the copy for the 496 pages of this year's yearbook which will be distributed May 10.

The office staff kept the files and student lists up-to-date.

The editor and her assistant, Charlene Strah, TJ Jr, edited copy, cutlines for pictures, made page layouts, and sent the final copy off to the printers for the final deadline, April 12.

The business staff consisted of Marcia Sowers, TxC Jr and manager, and three other members who took charge of getting additional revenue for the book besides the allotment from the student activity fees by selling advertisements.

Similar to the K-State Engineer setup, the Royal Purple operates from one spring to the following spring. Next year's RP editor, Charlene Strah, is gathering pictures and stories for the 1959 book.

Yearbook editors have many deadlines to meet just as newspapers and magazines do.

K-Stater

"We just want to put out a good, interesting and readable publication for the alumni," said Miss Helen P. Hostetter, professor of technical journalism, and editor of the K-Stater, quarterly magazine for K-State alumni.

Miss Hostetter has been editor of the magazine for five years, and is the third editor since its creation in 1951.

The K-Stater has won two awards since Miss Hostetter took over. The magazine took third place in one category of the annual American Alumni association publication competition "for excellence of handling of information articles about the institution."

In the summer of 1956 the K-Stater was rated as best looking of the alumni magazines published in colleges and universities in the 10,000 to 30,000 alumni class. No other Kansas alumni publication has ever received recognition from the American Alumni association.

Miss Hostetter collects, writes, and edits most of the material for the 32-page publication.

She receives help from Ilse Reiling, Art Sr, art editor; Bruce Given, PsP Jr, publication photographer; and Larry Patterson, Chm Fr, who writes the Coffee Break column.

K-State Engineer

Each month 27 students in the School of Engineering and Architecture write and edit the "Kansas State Engineer." These students, who have taken no journalism courses, receive one hour credit in engineering journalism for a semester's work on the magazine, according to managing editor, Bob Baldwin, CE Jr.

The magazine changes staff with the April issue because the Engineering Open House issue in March is the biggest issue of the year, and requires an experienced staff.

Both the editor and the business manager are elected by the staff with the approval of the Engineering council. The editor and the business manager automatically become members of the Council.

Business Manager Allen Hjelmfelt, CE Jr, oversees the financial business of the magazine. He is assisted by an ads manager, Rex Uhler, ME Soph; a circulation manager, Gerald Brickell, CE Sr; and eight students on the business staff.

Headquarters for the "Kansas State Engineer" is in Seaton 207. Baldwin spends approximately two hours daily in his office. The features editor, John Kennedy, CE Jr; the news editor, Ken Ingram, EE Fr; the art editor, Edith Winter, Ar 05; and the copy editor, Ruth Collins, Ar 04, spend about five hours a week on the magazine. Staff members average one assignment each month.

According to Baldwin, the "Kansas State Engineer" has four main purposes.

1. To inform high school students on engineering, particularly K-State's engineering school.
2. To inform K-State students on new engineering developments.
3. To give student staff experience in writing on engineering subjects.
4. To serve as the official organ of the Engineering association.

The "Kansas State Engineer" has won over 50 Engineering College Magazines Associated awards, according to Baldwin. Last year the magazine placed third in the all-round magazine division.

Ag Student

The staff of the Ag Student magazine is composed entirely of students in agriculture and home economics. Their duties consist of writing, editing, and layout. The Ag Student is circulated to paid subscribers, Kansas FFA chapters, and students in the School of Agriculture.

A wide range of subjects from men's fashions to how water tanks are heated are covered by 13 reporters.

The editorial staff edits the stories turned in by reporters, does layouts, and manages the magazine. Gary Yeakley, AgJ Sr, Loren Henry, AgJ Jr, and Harold Poland, AgJ Soph, are Ag Student editors.

Don Miller, AgJ Sr, and Lawrence Odgers, AgJ Sr, head the business staff with help from two other staff members working as advertising salesmen.

Two staff members are in charge of distributing the magazines into the various channels of circulation.

PASSING ON IDEAS to the new Royal Purple editor Charlene Strah, TJ Jr, is Marcia Boyd, TJ Sr, this year's editor. The K-State yearbook has won 22 consecutive all-American awards, and its adviser, C. J. Medlin, was recently named the first "Outstanding Yearbook Adviser."

WORKING ON THE AG STUDENT magazine are editorial staff members Larry Green, HSp Jr, Loren Henry, AgJ Jr, and Harold Poland, AgJ Soph. The Ag Mag, as it's best known, is published six times during the school year, now under the new editorship of Henry.

THE AWARD-WINNING K-STAT, alumni magazine, is in the proof reading stage, as Clyde Spring, composing room foreman, and Helen Hostetter, editor professor in journalism, discuss corrections.

DEADLINE TIME APPROACHES, and Nancy Molter Jackson, TJ Sr, Janice Graham, TJ Sr, Lance Gilmore, TJ Sr, and Jim Bell, TJ Jr, work at the busy news desk in the COLLEGIAN newsroom.

Quantity and quality are both available to students at Kansas State, with five major publications all known as award winners. All-Americans and national honors are enumerable when compiling a single list.

Editors work long hours to fulfill the demands of their "subscribers," although none of these are sold over the counter, but instead are supported by student activity fees and advertising.

Part-time advertising staffs, many who have not had any advertising background, quickly learn the work involved and find themselves racing against a deadline to get their ads in on time.

Editors, business managers, staffs—all play a vital and an integral part in preparing and publishing the five campus publications, one alumni-sponsored, two departmental, and the two all-College editions of Student Publications.

IM Softball Nears Finals

West Stadium plays Jr. AVMA at 5 p.m. today on the northwest field of the city park in the semi-finals of the independent division intramural softball. The winner meets YMCA Tuesday night for the championship.

Jr. AVMA was the winner of group one, YMCA the winner of group two, and West Stadium the winner of group three in the recently completed regularly scheduled games. YMCA received a bye.

In the fraternity division, things are not so simple, as the group three winner has not yet been decided. Beta Sigma Psi was defeated by Sigma Nu 5-3 yesterday, but the Beta Sigs protested the game on the grounds that Sigma Nu used a player that was recently on the baseball team. If the protest is allowed, Beta Sigma Psi will be the winner of the group, but if not it will tie with Alpha Kappa Lambda, both with 4-1 records.

If Beta Sigma Psi wins the division, the semi-finals of the fraternity division will be played tomorrow, but if a play-off is needed to decide the group three winner, it will be played tomorrow, and the semi-finals on Monday. The finals will be played Tuesday.

The other winners in the fraternity division are Delta Upsilon in group one, Beta Theta Pi in group two, and Sigma Alpha Epsilon in group four.

Delta Upsilon defeated Pi Kappa Alpha 4-1 yesterday in a play-off for the group one championship.

All intramural managers of the fraternity group winners will meet to draw for semi-final pairings in Intramural Director Frank Myers' office at 4 p.m. today.

In other games yesterday, Alpha Kappa Lambda defeated Delta Sigma Phi 5-4 Sigma Chi defeated Alpha Gamma Rho 10-1, and Phi Delta Theta won over Sigma Phi Epsilon 10-4.

Talented Jayhawk Thinclads To Meet K-State Saturday

Kansas university will bring one of the nation's best all-round track squads to K-State Saturday afternoon for a dual meet with the Wildcat forces. The meet is scheduled to begin at 4 p.m. following a practice football game at Memorial stadium.

Kansas coach Bill Easton will have such noted performers as Al Oerter, Olympic discus champion; Ernie Shelby, two-time NAAU broad jump champion with a top effort of 26-3 1/2; Charlie Tidwell, co-holder of the American indoor 60-yard dash mark of 6.0 seconds; Tom Skutka, winner of the 1957 Big Eight cross-country; and Jerry McNeal, who finished third in two-mile run at NCAA meet.

Only K-State's mile relay team will be listed as a favorite for the Wildcats. Dave Burton, Gene O'Connor, Jim Vader, and DeLoss Dodds turned in the school's best time at the KU Relays with a swift 3:10.4. The Jayhawker mile relay team, Mike Cummins, Verne Gauby, Bob Lida, and Charlie Tidwell, have not finished better than the Wildcat foursome this year but finished only yards behind it at the Drake Relays last weekend. KU's mile relay team has improved with the addition of speedster Tidwell as the fourth leg.

KU's Bob Cannon and Wildcat Steve French will stage a tight dual in the high jump event. French's high for the season is 6-5 while Cannon boasts a 6-4 3/4. Cannon finished third in that event at the KU Relays. French did not compete at KU because of an injury.

Coach Ward Haylett will be counting on the Wildcat quarter milers for a possible sweep. K-State will be represented by Burton, Vader, and Dodds in that event with Cummins, Gauby, and Lida running for Kansas. Dodds owns the best time in the 440-yard field with a 46.0, with Vader, a 47.7; Burton, 48.8; Cummins, 47.9; Gauby, 48.5; and Lida, 49.5. Ray Watt, 1957 conference indoors 440-yard champion, is out for the remainder of the season due to an injury.

Cat Netmen To Play NU

K-State meets Nebraska university here today at 2 p.m. in a dual tennis meet. The Cats have 5-6 season record. This is the first time this season the two teams have met.

Winston Tilzey, John Bird, Jim Holwerda, Ed Frankel, and Keith Andler will play singles matches for K-State. Tilzey and Bird will team up for number one doubles, and Andler and Holwerda will play the number two doubles match.

IM Head Frank Myers In 50th Year at K-State

To countless young men—both graduates and present-day K-State students—the name Frank L. Myers is symbolic of intramural athletics at K-State. Myers has been director of intramural athletics since 1948, but his ties with K-State go back to 1908—half a century.

He received both his high school and college educations at K-State, working his way through school. He later served as assistant to three K-State athletic directors, serving a total of 22 years in that capacity.

Myers, now 65, was born at Wilsey, Kan., March 17, 1892—St. Patrick's Day. As a boy, he worked as a shoeshine and newspaper boy in Topeka.

When his family moved to Manhattan in 1908, he enrolled in sub-freshman work in agriculture at the College. The three years he spent in the School of Agriculture were equivalent to a high school education.

Myers then took a six-month business course at a Topeka business college and went to work for the Santa Fe railroad as a stenographer.

In 1917, he began two years of service with the Army as a first lieutenant. He immediately entered officers' school where he received his commission. He trained World War I troops until he was released in 1919.

Following the War Myers returned to K-State, this time seeking a college education.

"President Jardine was head of K-State at the time, so I went into his office and told him I wanted to go to school but didn't have any money. He told me to report Monday morning for work. That's how I got started working my way through college," Myers explains.

He attended K-State from 1919 until 1922, doing stenography work in the athletic department to pay his way. Although it may seem strange, he majored in music. He sang in the College glee club and was in various operas, one of which was "Mikado."

Myers' first coaching experience came when he coached the basketball team in 1921 and 1922. The 1922 Royal Purple said in part, "The team closed its most successful season . . . with less than a dozen candidates, several of whom had never played in a basketball game before, Coach Frank Myers whipped together a fast, clean-playing team."

In 1923 Myers left K-State to take a job at Junction City high school where he taught music, commercial subjects, and coached all sports for three years. His 1924-25 football team enjoyed an undefeated season.

During the summer vacations he attended summer school at K-State, and received a degree in 1925.

In 1926, Myers became assistant to athletic director Mike Ahearn, with whom he worked 20 years. He worked with Ahearn until 1946, but remained as assistant athletic director to Hobbs Adams one year and Thurlo McCrady one year.

Shortly before World War II, Myers worked with K-State's baseball team—two years as head coach and three years as assistant coach. While he was head coach, the team won the Big Six championship.

Frank Myers is in his tenth year as director of intramural athletics. He directs K-State's 13-sport intramural program, and admits that he has a busy job.

A genuine smile and warm greeting awaits those who walk into his office in Ahearn gymnasium. Ask him what he likes to do, and he'll reply, "I love fishing!" A diversion is "going on a fishing trip to Minnesota each summer."

But it is apparent that he also likes to work with and help young men in college. He is devoted toward that end.

"Every boy should have some activity in athletics. Intramurals offer that to boys who are not qualified for varsity competition," he says.

Well satisfied with his work, Myers says, "It is enjoyable working with young men. A person can stay younger himself that way."

Cat Golfers To Play Husker Team Today

Coach W. W. Harvey's golf team is in Lincoln today for a match with Nebraska university's golfers. The Wildcats are out to even their season record which now stands at 4-5, after trimming Wichita university 7½-4½ Saturday. The Cornhuskers previously edged K-State 8-7 in a match here.

Making the trip to Lincoln today were Dave Smith, Jerry Smith, Charles Hostetler, Jerry Hendricks, and Max Richardson.

The Wildcat linksmen have a heavy schedule this weekend, playing Oklahoma university tomorrow and Iowa State college Saturday, both on the Manhattan Country club course.

The Wildcats have two other dual matches remaining before the Big Eight championship tournament May 16-17 at Ames. The Cats meet Kansas university May 7 on the County club course and Missouri university at Columbia May 10.

William Thrall, swimming coach and instructor, joined the K-State staff in 1954. Thrall did his undergraduate work at Wisconsin State college, and has a masters degree from the University of Colorado. He guided this season's team to a 6-6 dual record.

Keady, Pfeifer To Join Pros This Summer

Two members of last year's Wildcat football team were drafted by professional grid teams and will report for drills in July. Gene Keady, halfback, was drafted by the Pittsburgh Steelers and Ralph Pfeifer by the Detroit Lions. Pfeifer is also a halfback.

Keady was one of the leading ground gainers in the conference last year before he was injured in the Colorado game. Pfeifer ended the year as the teams' leading rusher and scorer. He participated in the annual post-season Blue-Gray game.

Jack Keelan, all-conference tackle, was drafted by the Chicago Cardinals, but will have to enter the service.

What's in store for stocks?

That's never easy to answer, we admit.

But with the help of our Research Department in New York, we've just put together a two-hour answer that should make a lot of sense to any seasoned investor.

If you'd like to hear it—a thorough-going discussion of basic trends in our economy, a series of specific suggestions to meet various situations and objectives during the months ahead—then don't miss our Stock Market Forum.

We're holding it on Thursday night, May 8th, in the City Hall Auditorium (Poyntz and 11th Streets) starting at 8:00 sharp.

Bullish or bearish, we think you'll find these two hours well spent, think they should prove extremely helpful to even the most experienced investor.

There's no charge connected with the Forum, of course, but admission will be by ticket only.

If you'd like to come, simply call and tell us you'll be there, or just mail us the coupon below.

CADET COMMANDERS Phil Wright, GA Sr, and Pat Conlon, ChE Sr, discuss manual regulations, brushing up for the 1,500-man review next Friday.

Two Cadet Heads Named for Review

Cadet commanders for the K-State ROTC review were announced yesterday. Phil Wright, GA Sr, will command AFROTC, while Pat Conlon, ChE Sr, will head the Army ROTC.

Nearly 1,500 cadets will pass in-review for Gov. George Docking at 4 p.m. next Friday in Memorial stadium. The Governor and President McCain will inspect the cadets, present awards to outstanding cadets of both services, and receive the review by the Army cadet regiment and the Air Force cadet wing.

Angel Flight, 25-member girls' honorary sponsored by the Arnold Air society, will perform immediately preceding the review. The color guard will include members of Pershing Rifles, and music will be furnished by a 60-piece joint marching band.

Cadets will be excused from classes Tuesday from 3-5 p.m. in order to practice for the review. The public will be invited to the Friday performance.

KS Officials To Dedicate Ag Pavilion

K-State's $1,350,000 Animal Industries building will be officially dedicated tomorrow at the 45th annual Kansas State College livestock feeders' day program.

President McCain will receive the official presentation from McDill Boyd, Phillipsburg, chairman of the State Board of Regents.

Livestock men from all over Kansas are expected here for the two-day feeders' day program. Special programs are planned to explain the research and extension work being done in feeding livestock.

A special program is scheduled Friday night in the Animal Industries building. The K-State Block and Bridle club will have a banquet for parents and visitors Saturday night to climax the two-day event.

Rodeo Plans Hit Standstill: No Location

Postponement of the all-College rodeo, sponsored by the Chaparajos club, was announced following failure to secure a location for it, according to Tom Watkins, BA Soph.

The rodeo was canceled when permission to have it in the Field House or the Animal Industries pavilion was withdrawn. Plans to have it in Griffith stadium were canceled because of an agreement between the Athletic department and the City council which forbids rodeos in the stadium during K-State's baseball season.

Scholarship Grants Abound On Home Ec Honors Day

Three home economics coeds received scholarships, two were presented Danforth awards, and 50 others recognized for scholastic achievement at the Home Economics Honors Day assembly in the Union little theater yesterday afternoon.

Martha S. Pittman awards of $200 each went to Phyllis Viergever, FN Jr, and Kathleen Pile, DIM Soph. The scholarship awards were presented by Dr. Dorothy Harrison, head of the Foods and Nutrition department.

Kathleen Schultis, HEJ Jr, received the $150 Margaret M.

Justin Home Economics club scholarship.

Doretta Hoffman, dean of the School of Home Economics, presented Danforth summer grants to Betty Reusser, HT Fr, and Alberta Timm, TxC Jr.

Diane Koon, TxC Jr, presented the club interest award to the Home Economics Teaching club, with Carol Cotner, HT Sr, club president, accepting.

Dean Hoffman presented certificates to students ranking in the upper three per cent of their classes and introduced students ranking in the upper ten per cent of their classes.

Sylvia Gaddie, TxC Sr, Home Economics Council president, installed the four new Council officers and introduced new club presidents for 1958 and 1959.

New presidents of home economics clubs are Janet Garner, HEA Jr, Art; Miss Timm, Clothing and Retailing; Jean Koerner, Dietetics and Commercial Demonstration; Marjorie Roeckers, HDA Jr, Extension; Jane Stinson, HT Jr, Family and Child Development; Lynn Moxley, HT Soph, Journalism; Miss Cook, Nursing; and Adelia Johnson, HT Jr, Teaching.

Fall Semester Collegian Gets First Class Rating

A first class honor rating was given to the fall Collegian by G. D. Hiebrt, judge of the All-American Critical service of the Associated Collegiate press, Minneapolis, Minn.

The fall Collegian was judged excellent in news stories, news sources, features, sports writing, sports coverage, editorials, editorial page make-up, sports display, inside news pages, balance, headline schedule, typography, printing, and photography.

Roger Myers, TJ Sr, and fall Collegian editor, commented that he thought his staff had done an excellent job.

Jack Daniels on Call 24 Hours as Ambulance Driver

"Ambulance driving is very interesting work, and I have the satisfaction of helping people in need," says Jack Daniels, AEd Soph, about his job as an ambulance attendant and driver for Westland Ambulance service.

Jack, in his second year at the service, lives in the rear of the ambulance service at 116 Poyntz and thus can be ready for most emergencies when they arise.

He is on call 24 hours a day. When he goes out at night he wears his white uniform so he will be ready to go if and when a call comes through. He must leave a note where he can be reached at all times when he is away from the house.

He has been called out of class only two times this year, both times when more than one accident occurred in a relatively short period of time.

Among the duties Jack performs are stopping bleeding, preventing and treating shock, determining to what extent people are injured, administering oxygen, and keeping the ambulances clean. He must be conscious of personal hygiene at all times. He is instructed on these items by Westland.

"The training I receive here I'll be able to use whenever the case may arise," Daniels said.

The ambulance service has two ambulances, and Don Hoffman assists in the service. Westland or Hoffman usually drive, but when Jack is needed he has the proper credentials to drive.

When he is so called, Jack must be ready to take the patient and administer to insure the patient's comfort.

Questioned about having to work around some very uncomfortable surroundings at times when he attends badly injured people, Jack said he is too busy trying to do his job and help the person to think of the sickening aspects of the job until later.

The occasion Jack remembers most vividly is the time he attended the man who fell out of the third story window in Willard hall.

ROLLING OUT THE STRETCHER is Jack Daniels, AEd Soph, as he demonstrates one of his duties as an ambulance driver and attendant.

Dr. John Helm To Review Art

John F. Helm Jr., staff member of the Department of Architecture and Allied Arts, will review and attend the formal opening of the annual exhibitions of the Boulder Artists' Guild tomorrow in Boulder, Colo.

Mr. Helm will attend a Delta Phi Delta executive committee meeting Sunday. Helm is national secretary of the honorary art fraternity. Final plans for the national convention in Cincinnati will be discussed at the meeting.

Chaparajos Can Find No Place for Rodeo

A PITY that K-State is to have no rodeo this year. We can't seem to understand how it is impossible to find any place to have one, but after talking to Chaparajos club members, we find that this is exactly the case.

And stranger still, although these people are willing to pay for any damage done, take care of all arrangements, and have already planned it, they have run into impossible blockades.

And in this same line of thinking, we're so happy to see the formal dedication of the pavilion. When are we to be enlightened on its all-College use? Or is it strictly a No. 1 priority building?

WITH ALL the honoraries picking their members these days, plus assemblies honoring departmental scholars, K-State is fast becoming the most honorable school around.

All kidding aside, our heartiest congratulations to all who were so knighted, and applause to the new members of Chimes, Mortar Board, and Blue Key.—Sue Goss.

Reader Wishes To Clear Facts Concerning Writer's Identification

Dear Editor:

Concerning the letter printed in Monday's Collegian, in defense of the K-State Players production, "The Time of Your Life," could a couple of things be straightened out?

(1) I did not write the letter.
(2) I agree heartily with the sentiments expressed therein, and would be happy to have them credited to me. It is only because I do not wish my friends to think that I am such a coward as to not sign my real name to the letter (as many no doubt think, as there is not, to my knowledge, another Eaton classified as Sp Sr), that I wish this to be cleared up, in print.

The editor has done a good job in missing the point of Lois Eaton's letter, and has followed up a minor point. Assuming that the play was billed incorrectly, had the reporter shown more flexibility and looked beyond the trees to see the forest, she might have recognized a good play.

Thank you.

Virginia Eaton, Sp Sr.

Everly Brothers' Disk Goes Places, In Top Spot After Two-Week Climb

By Don Veraska

"ALL I HAVE TO DO Is Dream" by the Everly Brothers, a record for which we predicted big things last week, has become the No. 1 disc in Manhattan sales this week. It is not yet among the top 10 tunes in jukebox plays.

"Twilight Time" by the Platters, No. 2 in both listings last week, moved up to the No. 1 position in jukebox plays, but dropped one spot in record sales.

THE TOP 10 RECORDS in Manhattan sales this week:

1. "All I Have To Do Is Dream," the Everly Brothers
2. "Witch Doctor," David Seville
3. "Twilight Time," the Platters

4. "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands," Laurie London

5. "Wear My Ring Around Your Neck," Elvis Presley

6. "Believe What You Say," Ricky Nelson

7. "Chanson D'Amour," Art and Dotty Todd

8. "Oh, Lonesome Me," Don Gibson

9. "Johnny B. Goode," Chuck Berry

10. "Book of Love," the Monotones

THE TOP 10 on Manhattan jukeboxes:

1. "Twilight Time," the Platters

2. "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands," Laurie London

3. "Oh Lonesome Me," Don Gibson

4. "Return to Me," Dean Martin

5. "Chanson D'Amour," the Fontaine Sisters

6. "Witch Doctor," David Seville

7. "Tequila," the Champs

8. "Billy," Kathy Linden

9. "Who's Sorry Now," Connie Francis

10. "Wear My Ring Around Your Neck," Elvis Presley

New U.S. Pacific Nuclear Test Series Delayed by Weather; AEC Harassed by International Dispute over Fallout Danger

Compiled from United Press
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Washington—The first shot in the new U.S. nuclear test series in the Pacific is imminent, government sources said today. In fact, they said it was overdue.

The weather—presumably adverse winds threatening to carry radioactive fallout beyond the test zone—was blamed for delays.

Exact timing of the first test was not disclosed by the Atomic Energy commission (AEC). A brief AEC announcement, however, was expected to follow the first shot.

The new tests were readied against a backdrop of international controversy over the hazards of "fallout." Administration and AEC spokesmen have minimized test dangers.

They contend the tests are needed, among other things, to develop "clean" nuclear weapons free from fallout. About 40 per cent of the test series, the President said Wednesday, will be devoted to "clean" devices.

The U.S. spring series has been under policy attack from Russia, which March 31 announced a unilateral suspension of nuclear tests. Moscow reserved the right to resume them if the U.S. and Britain did not follow suit.

The suspension followed a Soviet series of nuclear tests in the Arctic area between last August and March 22.

The U.S.'s official position has been that a ban on tests must be accompanied by a ban on nuclear weapons production, along with adequate inspection and controls.

Honduras Protected

Belize, British Honduras—Four British Canberra jet bombers stood by to turn back a reported Guatemalan plan to "buzz" Belize when Princess Margaret arrives here today.

Prime Minister Harold MacMillan dispatched the speedy Canberras yesterday after he was told that Guatemala, a rival claimant to British Honduras, intended to try to spread panic among crowds greeting the Princess.

The planes were flown in yesterday and refueled for instant action should they be needed today.

British Intelligence agents believe the Guatemalans plan to send some or all of their "Air Force"—half a dozen obsolete U.S. Mustang fighters—to race at rooftop level over Belize.

Pressure Builds in UN

United Nations—Heavy pressure built up on Russia today to accept the American "open skies" Arctic inspection plan to prevent transpolar attacks, but the Soviets remained silent.

Their answer may come today when the UN Security Council meets for an all-day discussion on the American plan. The initial Soviet response was "nyet" but world leaders hoped to avert the 83rd Russian veto.

The American plan calls for setting up an inspection zone from the Arctic circle to the North Pole as a safeguard against surprise attack. The area would include Alaska, the Kamchatka peninsula, and the Aleutian and Kurile islands.

The strongest pressure—and the one calculated to have the greatest effect on world opinion—came from Secretary of State John Foster Dulles. He offered to call off American H-bomber flights toward Russia if the Soviet joins in an Arctic aerial inspection system.

Nasser Bargains

Moscow—United Arab Republic President Gamal Abdel Nasser interrupted three days of partying and sightseeing today and got down to hard bargaining with Soviet officials.

Nasser scheduled talks with Premier Nikita S. Khrushchev and other officials about possible Soviet aid to and co-operation with his new Republic.

The Arab leader planned to drop serious business again this afternoon to attend a sports rally at Lenin stadium and to go to the theater tonight.

Nasser stood with Khrushchev and President Kliment Y. Voroshilov yesterday to watch Russia's unusually peaceful May Day parade. He thus became one of the few non-Communist leaders to take part in the occasion. President Eisenhower was one of the others in 1945 when he visited Moscow as supreme allied commander in Europe.

KCMA Awards $150 For Staters' Designs

Carl Gaede, Ar 04, and Fredrick Smith, Ar 04, were both winners of a $75 cash award in the second annual Kansas Concrete Masonry association's prize completion.

Gaede received the top award in the Architecture Design II class for a social and religious center, while Smith had the best design for a small manufacturing plant in competition for students in the Architecture Design III class.

An additional $105 in prize money was awarded to students who worked on the social and religious center problem. These winners were Gary Carlat, Ar 03, second place and $50; Lynn Anduss, Ar 03, third prize and $25. Honorable mentions and $15 awards went to Gary Karst, Ar 04; and Gilbert Voconi, Ar 03.

Judgers Get $50 Tomorrow In Dairy Products Picking

A K-State student dairy products judging contest is scheduled Saturday afternoon, according to Tom Townsend, DM Sr.

A junior division is planned for students with no previous experience in judging milk, ice cream, butter, and cheese.

The junior division students will score five samples of each product. In the senior division judges will place 10 samples of each product.

Prizes worth $50 will be awarded to the winners.

The contest will begin at noon Saturday in room 28 of Waters hall. Registration will be Friday and Saturday morning at the Dairy department office.

Sigma Xi

Stuart M. Pady, head of the Botany and Plant Pathology department, has been selected as 1958-59 lecturer for the K-State chapter of Sigma Xi, honorary for encouragement of scientific research.

Pady is making an extensive study of fungus spores found in the air. He has done special research for the Canadian government to determine types and numbers of spores over ocean and Arctic areas.

He made numerous trips into the Arctic by air, including flights over the geographic and magnetic north poles, and has sampled air in flights between Montreal and London.

Alpha Kappa Psi

New pledges have been named for Alpha Kappa Psi, men's professional business fraternity, according to Roger Biddison, BAA Jr, publicity chairman for the organization.

SWEENEY IN THE TREES

Spring is here—the season of tree-sitting contests. This I applaud. Tree-sitting is healthful and jolly and as American as apple pie. Also it keeps you off the streets.

Tree-sitting is not, however, without its hazards. Take, for example, the dread and chilling case of Manuel Sigafoos and Ed Sweeney, both sophomores at the Nashville College of Folk Music and Woodworking, and both madly in love with a beautiful alto named Ursula Thing, who won their hearts singing that fine old folk song, I Strangled My True Love with Her Own Yellow Braids, and I'll Never Eat Her Sorghum Any More.

Both Manuel and Ed pressed Ursula to go steady, but she could not choose between them, and finally it was decided that the boys would have a tree-sitting contest, and Ursula would belong to the victor. So Manuel and Ed clambered up adjoining aspens, taking with them the following necessities: food, clothing, bedding, reading matter, and—most essential of all—plenty of Marlboro Cigarettes.

We who live on the ground know how much you get to like with a Marlboro. Think how much more important they must be to the lonely tree-dweller—how much more welcome their fine, mild tobacco; how much more gratifying their free-drawing filters; how much more comforting their sturdy, crushproof flip-top box. Climb a tree and see for yourselves.

"A TREE SITTING CONTEST"

Well supplied with Marlboros, our heroes began their tree-sitting contest—Manuel with good heart, Ed with evil cunning. The shocking fact is that crafty Ed, all unbeknownst to Manuel, was one of three identical triplets. Each night while Manuel dozed on his bough, one of Ed's brothers—Fred or Jed—would sneak up the tree and replace him. "How can I lose?" said Ed with a fiendish giggle to his brother Fred or Jed.

But Ed had a big surprise coming. For Manuel, though he did not know it himself, was a druid! He had been abandoned as an infant at the hut of a poor and humble woodcutter named Cornelius Whitney Sigafoos III, who had raised the child as his own. So when Manuel got into the tree, he found much to his surprise that he had never in all his life felt so at home and happy. He had absolutely no intention of ever leaving.

After seven or eight years Ed and his brothers wearied of the contest and conceded. Ursula Thing came to Manuel's tree and cried, "I am yours! Come down and pin me."

But Manuel declined. Instead he asked Ursula to join him in the tree. This she could not do, being subject to moperly (a morbid allergy to woodpeckers), so she ended up with Ed after all.

Only she made a mistake—a very natural mistake. It was Jed, not Ed, with whom she ended up.

Ed, heartbroken at being tricked by his own brother, took up metallurgy to forget.

Crime does not pay.

Cat Tracksters, Grid Team To Be in Action Tomorrow

A two-sport feature offers a special attraction for Wildcat fans here tomorrow when the K-State track team hosts Kansas university in the Cats' only home dual of the outdoor season and the football squad runs a game-length intra-squad scrimmage—both in Memorial stadium.

The football scrimmage begins at 1 p.m. with the track meet set to start at 3:30.

This will mark K-State's first track dual with Kansas since 1954 here when the Jayhawks took a 78-53 win.

This season the Hawks present a formidable lineup of track standouts, prompting K-State Coach Ward Haylett to see the Wildcats "struggling to get 30 points" in the 131-point affair.

"We are happy to host a team as great as Kansas," Haylett explained, "even though our prospects for a win in the meet are far from bright. We might collect two or three firsts—it's hard to see anymore."

The mile relay event shapes up as K-State's best hope in the 15-event program, since the Wildcat foursome has nosed out KU in all meets the two have entered this season. K-State ran a 3:10.4—second best time in the nation this year—at the Kansas Relays two weeks ago, and clocked a 3:13.4 in cold weather at the Drake Relays last week.

Although the Wildcats would appear to hold an edge in that one event, they fall far short of matching the Jayhawks in most others.

The Hawk squad is studded with such stars as Al Oerter, Olympic discus champion and record-holder; Ernie Shelby, two-time national AAU broad jump champion; Jerry McNeal, four-time Big Eight indoor and outdoor champion in the two-mile; Cliff Cushman, versatile sophomore who has exceptional talent in all events from the 220-yard low hurdles through the mile; and Charles Tidwell, who has stepped the low hurdles in 23.5.

Grid Coach Bus Mertes was pleased with the Wednesday practice, despite the fact that many Wildcats are still on the injury list. Mertes said the squad showed a lot of improvement.

The Cats worked on scoring from the three-yard line, blocking fundamentals, kick-offs and returns, and pass offense.

Mertes plans to put his grid-ders through a short scrimmage this afternoon, in preparation for tomorrow's big workout.

K-State's Baseballers To Meet Iowa State

K-State's baseball team and Iowa State's nine, both with 2-7 conference records, fight it out to escape from the Big Eight cellar with a three-game series at Ames today and tomorrow. A single nine-inning contest will be played today, with a pair of seven-inning tilts on tap tomorrow.

The two teams are now tied for last place, and the winner of two out of three games will take over seventh place. Colorado university is now in sixth place with a 4-5 record. Should Colorado drop three to Kansas university this weekend, three wins by either K-State or Iowa State would vault that team into sixth place.

K-State won one out of three from Missouri university last weekend—the second game of a Saturday doubleheader 6-3. Mike Lair picked up his second win of the season without a loss for the Cats.

The starting pitchers for both teams have not yet been named.

The probable K-State starting lineup:

Probable Iowa State starting lineup:

Golfers Lose To Nebraska

K-State's golf team yesterday was nipped 11-10 by Nebraska university at Lincoln, leaving the Wildcats with a 4-6 record.

The Wildcats will oppose Oklahoma university today at 1 p.m. on the Country club course. Tomorrow they will host Iowa State college.

Thursday's results:

Dave Smith (KS), 73, tied Mike McCuiston, 73, 1 1/2-1 1/2.

Larry Romjue (NU), 77, defeated Charles Hostetler, 79, 2 1/2-1 1/2.

Jerry Smith (KS), 79, defeated Tom Kisseler, 82, 2-1.

Jerry Hendricks (KS), 84, defeated Dennis Mullins, 87, 2 1/2-1 1/2.

Tom Fulkerson (NU), 84, defeated Max Richardson, 87, 2 1/2-1 1/2.

W-Stadium Gains IM Softball Finals

West Stadium yesterday downed Jr. AVMA 2-1 in the independent division semi-finals of intramural softball. West Stadium and YMCA will battle for the independent championship Tuesday at 5:15 p.m. at the city park.

Jack Marcoline, West Stadium's pitcher, hit a two-run homer over the left-fielder's head in the last half of the fifth inning.

An error by Marcoline permitted Jr. AVMA to score its only run.

A spectacular play occurred when West Stadium's Jorge Izaguirre, sliding on the ground, caught a short fly into right center field.

Semi-finals in the fraternity division will be played today with Beta Sigma Psi meeting Beta Theta Pi at 5:15 p.m. on the southwest corner of the city park. Delta Upsilon will play Sigma Alpha Epsilon at the same time on the northwest corner. Winners of both games will play in the finals Tuesday.

The late Mike Ahearn, for whom Ahearn field house is named, served as athletic director for K-State from 1920 to 1946. His coaching career began here in 1905 as football head, and before he left he had become head coach of every major sport.

Netmen Win

K-State defeated Nebraska university 6-1, in a dual tennis meet here yesterday. The win evened the Cats' season record at 6-6. Iowa State will be here tomorrow at 1:30 p.m. for the last home match of the season.

Singles results:

Winston Tilzey (KS) defeated Bill North (NU), 8-6, 6-4
George Fisk (NU) defeated John Bird (KS), 8-6, 6-3

Ed Frankel (KS) defeated Art Weaver (NU), 7-5, 6-0

Jim Holwerda (KS) defeated Bruce Russell (NU), 8-6, 6-2

Keith Andler (KS) defeated Charlie Kress (NU), 5-7, 6-3, 6-3

Doubles results:

Tilzey and Bird (KS) defeated Fisk and North (NU), 6-4, 6-0

Holwerda and Frankel (KS) defeated Russell and Weaver (NU), 6-1, 6-1

You'll be pleased with a Collegian classified.

JUNIOR JIM HOLWERDA has a singles match record of 5-2 for the K-State tennis team. Holwerda dropped his first two matches, but has come along in fine fashion for Coach Karl Finney with five straight victories, his latest coming against Nebraska's Bruce Russell yesterday. Holwerda is also a two-year letterman in basketball. He was the number one substitute guard for the conference champion Cats.

Football Squad To Play Against Standout Alums

K-State's varsity football team will have to face a number of the Big Eight's outstanding grid stars May 9, at the annual Varsity-Alumni game. The contest will climax spring drills for the Wildcat Varsity football squad.

Last year's game, won by the Varsity squad 26-13, featured two of K-State's all-time greats, Veryl Switzer and Corky Taylor. Taylor raced 105 yards for a touchdown last year against the varsity when he took a kick off deep in the end zone.

Switzer cleared the way for Taylor in throwing a key block at midfield. It looked like the same old combination which performed back in 1953. Switzer was an all-Big Seven selection in 1951-52-53 while Taylor was on the all-conference team in 1954.

Two all-Big Eight selections from the 1957 team will be on the alumni squad. They are Jack Keelan, tackle, and Don Zadnick, end.

The alumni squad will also be bolstered by last year's leading Wildcat rusher and scorer, Ralph Pfeifer. Pfeifer, who was a starter in the annual Blue-Grey contest, was drafted by the Detroit Lions and will report for practice during the summer.

Other starters from last year's team that will back the alum attack are Keith Wilson, halfback; Dick Corbin, quarterback; Ellis Rainsberger, center; and Ray Glaze, fullback. Gene Keady, halfback, and Wally Carlson, tackle, will not participate in the annual classic because of a conflicting schedule with the Wildcat baseball team. Keady is an outfielder and Carlson a catcher and first baseman.

The alumni squad will also be counting on such expected performers as Ed Linta, end; Larry Hartshorn, tackle; Doug Roether, fullback; Jim Rusher, end; Ron Nery, tackle; and Tom O'Boyle, tackle.

Shooters To Host Conference Match

K-State's rifle team will be host to the Big Eight conference match tomorrow from 7:30 a.m. through the afternoon in the K-State rifle range in the Military Science building.

The K-State team has been averaging about 381 points per man in recent meets. Captain Tom Banks has a 387 average at present. Other team members are Doug Erway, Doug Gunn, Charles Eustace, Earl Stevens, Tom Coblenz, Larry Jeffries, Bill Shilling, and Fred Kohman.

Trophies will be given to the top three teams, with a $125 watch going to the high individual scorer.

Alpha Xi Delta's annual scholarship dinner was Wednesday evening. The actives were honored at the dinner, a picnic at Sunset park, for winning in grade competition over the pledge class.

Kappa Sigma fraternity chapters from K-State, Kansas university, Washburn university, and Baker university met at Lawrence for a district conclave last weekend. Several K-State Kappa Sigs attended the conclave which included a banquet, houseparty, and meetings to discuss achievements of the fraternity and plans for the coming year.

Kappa Sigma fraternity will have a house party for members and their dates Saturday evening.

Kappa Sigma fraternity and Gamma Phi Beta sorority will have a picnic Thursday at 6 p.m. in Sunset park.

Kappa Kappa Gamma had its annual houseboy dinner Monday. Kappas waited tables and worked in the kitchen for the evening, and provided entertainment. Following dinner the group played cards.

Formals, Parents' Days Scheduled for Weekend

Seven spring formals and many smaller parties are on the social calendars of K-State's organized houses this weekend. The Gamma Phi Beta, Kappa Kappa Gamma, Alpha Chi Omega, and Lambda Chi Alpha formals are planned for tonight. Van Zile hall, Delta Delta Delta and Phi Kappa Tau will have theirs tomorrow night.

"Crystal Crescent" will be the theme of the Gamma Phi Beta formal at the sorority house. A banquet at the Skyline will precede the dance.

Kappa Kappa Gammas will have "Rhapsody in Blue" as the theme of their formal in the Wareham terrace room. Music will be by Larry Smith and his band. Associate Professor of Music William Fischer and Mrs. Fischer and Mr. and Mrs. Doug Russell will be guests.

Alpha Chi Omega's spring banquet and Paradise Prom will be in the Union main ballroom. The orchestra of Tommy Lee will provide the music.

The Lambda Chi formal will be in the Union west ballroom. Special guests will be Director of Student Counseling center and Mrs. Sumner Morris and Sgt. and Mrs. William Shepard.

"Shadows in the Garden" will be the theme of Van Zile's formal. Music will be by the Quintones. Mr. and Mrs. M. L. Hill will be chaperones.

Delta Delta Deltas will have "Delta Heaven" as the theme of their formal in the Union main ballroom. There will be a banquet preceding the formal. Music will be by Matt Betton. Special guests will be Union Director and Mrs. Loren Kottner.

Phi Kappa Tau's annual Red Carnation ball will be preceded by a banquet, in the Wareham terrace room. A preparty at the Skyline is planned.

Parents' Day activities are planned by many of the houses

Sunday. Alpha Kappa Lambda members will have an open house for their parents and Phi Kappa parents will be entertained with a buffet dinner. Clovia will observe Parents' Day with a dinner and program.

Acropolis will have a picnic for residents and parents and Alpha Gamma Rho members will observe the day with a special dinner at the chapter house. A party for the mothers will be given Saturday night by the AGR housemother.

Delta Sigma Phi, Acacia, and Pi Kappa Alpha fraternities will have special functions for the members' mothers this weekend.

'Cry, the Beloved Country' To Be Presented May 7

"Cry, the Beloved Country," a story of apartheid Union of South Africa by Alan Paton, will be presented by the Bishop's company May 7, at 7:30 p.m. in the All-Faith chapel.

"Cry," as author Paton describes it, is "a story, a prophecy, a psalm. It is passionately African, as no book before it has been; it is universal."

The Bishop's company, created by Phyllis Benhow Beardsley in 1952, was created for the purpose of returning professional drama to the church. It has conducted four national tours, and appeared in countless churches across the nation. The company offers seven plays in its repertoire.

"Cry" tells the story of the race war of South Africa. In the foreground of the novel are Reverend Kumalo, a black man, parish priest of a small, poor community of blacks; and James Jarvis, a rich, white man, lord of Kumalo's village.

The two men had never met until the time they are forcibly thrown together, when Kumalo's son kills the son of Jarvis. Jarvis' son, a worker for the cause of the blacks, is held in high esteem by the people of Johannesburg.

Jarvis, a segregationist, finds new life in his small grandson. In the youth Jarvis, Kumalo finds hope, and through the boy, Jarvis helps the Negroes out of their abject poverty, carrying on the work of his son.

In the background of the novel, Paton shows the fear, hatred, and ruin that are part of South Africa's apartheid system. He constantly interjects in almost dreamy language, scenes of black and white life, where the whites try to rule the blacks.

Paton shows the Dutch and English engaged in dispute among themselves, but united against the blacks. For, the only way the whites believe they can retain their rule and not be pushed off the continent, is by keeping the blacks in poverty and ignorance. This, Paton shows, is being fought quickly by both the more literary black leaders and those whites who disagree with the majority.

SU Schedules Activities For '58 Summer Session

The Student Union is in the process of scheduling entertainment for K-Staters attending the summer session.

The program will include popular movies and foreign classics. The most recent popular movies will be shown Monday and Tuesday, with the classics to be shown Thursdays. There will be a rotating series of art displays exhibited throughout the summer also.

One of the summer highlights will be an all-College summer prom, along with two other all-

College dances. Jazz concerts will be featured both live and on record.

A trip to the Kansas City Starlight theater is being considered. A bus or buses would be rented with those attending would split the bill. The group would leave in the early afternoon and return late the same night.

Bridge lessons may be offered during the summer session. Bowling leagues will be organized similar to those of the regular school year.

Family night for faculty and students scheduled every Friday is being considered. Everything from bridge, dancing, and group dinners to book reviews and activities for the children may be scheduled.

"It all depends what the people want," commented Loren Kottner, Union director. "We think it would be a good idea in the respect that it would make the Union a center for everyone, and give people on the campus an opportunity to get together informally."

The Union will also participate in a portion of the pre-enrollment program. "We plan to have groups of about 100 high school students here at a time," said Kottner. They will be here for two days in each group.

"After they get finished, we at the Union will take over and every evening during the month of July, we will have one and a half hour orientation sessions with each group. The purpose of this would be to familiarize them with all the school activities including the extra-curricular and Greek organizations," Kottner continued.

Harrison To Head Engineers Council

Officers for the 1959-60 Engineering council were elected Friday in an all-school election. Chosen president of the Council was Bill Harrison, NE Sr, 155 votes, over Frank Jurenka, ME Jr, 107 votes.

Other results include vice president, George Rood, ME Jr, 150, over Don Butel, CE Jr, 99; secretary, Kenneth McCoy, ME Jr, 109; Rhea Serpan, EE Jr, 53; and Mel Handkins, IE Soph, 28;

Treasurer, Gordon Carlson, EE Sr, 96; and Bob Main, IT Soph, 72; Junior representative, John Harri, ME Soph, 125; and Fred Gardenhire, 118;

Sophomore representative, Jay Knox, ME Fr, 144; and Dennis Zitterkopf, EE Fr, 95; Open House chairman, Ralph Scott, ME Jr, 136; and Duane Huber, ArE Jr, 111. Total votes cast were 269.

The new Engineering council will be installed by the out-going Council at a meeting next week. The new Council will then go immediately into effect.

The main purpose of the Engineering council is to plan and direct Engineering Open House, according to Harrison.

Student Council members representing the Engineering school are automatically members of the Council, and those departments not so represented elect Council members.

K-State Canoe First In Saturday's Race

K-State won a canoe race against Kansas university down the Kaw river from Topeka to Lawrence Saturday, covering the 43-mile course in five hours and 20 minutes.

Each school entered two canoes in the race, which was sponsored by Alpha Phi Omega, the national scouting fraternity. A KU canoe was second in five hours and 45 minutes. The other K-State entry was third in five hours and 46 minutes, and the Jayhawks' other entry was last in six hours and 15 minutes.

All the canoes left Topeka at 7:45 a.m. Saturday, and the winning team reached Lawrence at 1:20 p.m.

Politicos Will Plan Mock UN Confab

Members of the Political Science club will attend this evening's regular Student Council meeting to confer about the possibility of assuming responsibility for a Mock United Nations assembly.

The club is definitely interested in sponsoring a mock assembly, and if members can work out satisfactory arrangements with Student Council, they will begin organizing the project for sometime next year.

In other action, Tribunal chancellor Bill Patton, VM Jr, will swear in new Council Chairman Larry French, BA Sr, and a Swimming Pool committee will be established to work out details with Manhattan city officials for use of the municipal pool exclusively by College students during Rush week and Orientation week next fall.

Council will also discuss possibilities for a retreat next fall. A committee of three will be appointed to select a place, time, and agenda for the retreat. Student body president Chuck Wingert, His Jr, will announce the editor of next fall's K-Book.

Smith, Allen Top Judges In Ag Meet

Stan Smith, DH Soph, and Gene Allen, DM Jr, have won first places in the K-State inter-collegiate dairy cattle judging and the dairy products contest.

The winners were announced at the Dairy club's annual spring steak fry Saturday evening at the College dairy barn.

Gerald MacFee, PrV Soph, and Jack Carver, PrV Soph, won the junior divisions of the two contests.

In the senior division of the dairy cattle judging Doyle Neher, DH Jr, placed second and Chester Peterson, DH Jr, third. Second in the junior division of the cattle judging was Allen Millen, DM Sr, Harlan Janke, EE Fr, placed third.

Other winners in the senior division of the products contests were D. E. Glenn, DM Jr, second and John Milton, DM Sr, third.

About five Dairy club members, Dairy staff members, their wives, and friends gathered at the annual steak fry and square dance.

Panhel Day Draws 200 To Campus

A new method of pre-rush for high school senior girls by sororities was used Saturday, May 4, for the first time at K-State. Saturday was designated Panhellenic day, and prospective freshmen girls were invited to teas at nine sorority houses in Manhattan.

In spite of heavy rain which fell at times during the day, the rushees' spirits did not seem to be dampened. They made the rounds of the houses, chatted with sorority members, lunched at the Student Union, and toured the freshman dorms.

This new method replaces the former system of sorority rush weekends, in which six high school senior girls could be invited by a sorority to stay overnight in the chapter house.

The new rules allow no seniors except daughters and sisters of members to spend the night in chapter houses. The rules also stipulate that the daughter or sister may stay only in the house of the sorority to which her mother or sister belongs.

Although it is too soon to make a full evaluation of the new program, it has one point in its favor. It is cheaper.

The new system also allows sorority women to meet a larger group of girls, and the senior girls to see a part of each house while receiving a preview of rush week.

Over 200 girls attended the Panhellenic day, and represented towns from every part of the state.

New Pavilion Dedicated At Saturday's Ceremony

K-State's Animal Industries building was officially dedicated Saturday afternoon at the 45th annual Kansas Livestock Feeders Day.

About 2,000 persons were in the pavilion to witness the presentation of the building, given by McDill Boyd, Phillipsburg, chairman of the State Board of Regents. Pres. James McCain made the acceptance.

One of the speakers was Arthur D. Weber, dean of Agriculture, who said, "We can truly be proud of the new Animal Industries building and the fine facilities for research and education it provides."

It was especially fitting that the building was dedicated as a part of the Feeders' Day program, he said. The basic objective of research and education in the animal industries at Kansas State is to make available a dependable supply of high quality of meat and animal products at reasonable prices, from the standpoints of both producer and consumer, Weber commented.

Also speaking at the dedication was Oliver S. Willham, president of Oklahoma State university.

The dedication took place in the pavilion of the new Animal Industries building. The structure cost $1,415,000 including equipment, and contains 19 offices, five classrooms, and nine main laboratories, including complete slaughtering facilities. The pavilion seats 3,500.

VAUDEVILLE ENTERTAINERS at the all-College dance Friday evening were the Cundiff brothers, Larry, Ag Fr, and Jerry, MGS Fr. Other entertainers were vocalists Bob Sanders, EE Soph, and Judy Horn, EE Jr. K-Staters danced to music by the Skynotes, AFROTC jazz band, in the Union dive. The dance, sponsored by the student radio station, KSDB-FM, had comasters of ceremonies, John Barry, Gen Gr, and Ted McCoy, Sp Sr.

Reader Believes Dean's Decision May Hurt Football Player, Team

Dear Miss Goss:

I read your editorial about the football player who was given a chance to reinstate himself.

I was wondering if you had thought of the angle that this boy has been training for football on beer and the other times he has been in trouble he has been forgiven in the same way, the tragedy of this is he will feel his football fame will always somehow come to his rescue.

If this football player knows that he will always get out of his reckless acts in college, he will have a sad time when the fame of football is gone. There is a still more important point. Players of less importance to the team would very likely have been dropped from the squad and possibly from school for good, especially if it had been a repeat performance. Don't think these boys on the squad don't think of this. Especially the bench warmers and those left at home on trips.

My first thought when I read of this boy's antics was that the coach would have had him so afraid that he wouldn't have done it in the first place. Then if he did get caught, the coach should be the first man to announce that he was through. That is, if he wants to win a few games. So you might sum this up as an injustice to the football player because he has not been taught to curb his beer drinking, etc. Letting him get by with it is what weakens the whole structure of your squad.

I. H. Graham,
former K-State student.

Dear Editor:

Last week you wrote an article of misstatements concerning the Manhattan Junior Chamber of Commerce and the Student Council that I would like to correct.

The Council did pledge $200 toward the cosponsoring of a Miss K-State-Miss Manhattan pageant with only one member dissenting.

The cost of the pageant will be approximately $800 and K-State will be represented by 18 girls while Manhattan by four girls. How can you call that an injustice by the Council and AWS?

Plans for expenditures show

$500 for music, City auditorium, trophies, crown, and advertisement. The remainder will be used with door receipts, to pay the expenses to the Miss Kansas State pageant in Pratt. (Which Miss Rundle paid last year.) We hope sufficient receipts will be realized from the local pageant to establish a scholarship. Last year the only sponsor that did not present its winner with a scholarship was K-State and Manhattan, and we had the winner.

Use of the College auditorium is out of the question due to the accusation made by you concerning the use of the College printing press.

The Manhattan merchants have pledged gifts for the winner, whether Miss Manhattan or Miss K-State, to help make this something for a pretty and talented young lady to cherish.

Even after your wealth of incomplete statements, I feel Manhattan and Kansas State will still enjoy the finest pageant yet.

Kenneth Ingte, ME Jr,
Student Jaycee.

Dear Miss Goss:

We, as representatives of the Engineering school, wish to thank you for your "excellent" coverage of the ASME Regional conference, Engineering Council elections, and general Engineering school activities. At the ASME Regional conference for example, K-State students placed first and second in presentation of technical papers among the six schools of the region. We certainly appreciate the extended coverage received. The Engineering Council elections also were important enough to rate a full 14 lines on an inside page.

Since you seem to have an aversion to printing news from this part of the campus, it seems that a letter to the editor is the only way to receive recognition.

Melvin Schwartz, ME Sr.
James O. Moore, EE Sr.
Robert McFall, AgE Sr.
Archie J. Cornelius, ME Sr.
Thomas L. Alley, ME Sr.
Sydney Linard, ME Sr.

(Editor's note: We recently called the new editor of the Engineering mag and asked his help in keeping us posted on any events which we might not get through regular channels—unfortunately, since we don't attend every meeting on campus nor speak to every student daily, we don't claim to know-all, see-all, hear-all. We will refer these young men, however, who seem to want to cut themselves apart as from "the other side of the campus" to page one. Sorry if we are unable to give them full front-page coverage daily.)

Dear Sir (or Miss, as the case may be) . . .

As a former college student (Penn State '56), I have been following the Collegian and its editorials for quite some time.

Why is it some students at K-State openly admit their naivety in your "Letters to the Editor" column? College students, by nature, are expected to be inquisitive, analytical, intelligent, and what I think is more important, have at least a semblance of maturity.

But of late I have noticed letters commenting on anything from "for once, why don't you print something good about K-State" or "they sure did a dirty deal with the Meier case."

Perhaps many students don't understand the role of a college newspaper. Granted that by its very nature the staff is quite transient. But does that preclude its editorial board commenting on controversial issues?

Of course not. As a former member of the Senior Editorial board of the Penn State Daily Collegian, we never hesitated to criticize student politics, the administration, or anything we thought needed it. Our paper was decidedly liberal, and rightly so. College newspapers should be. If students want a high school "house organ" let them subscribe to one.

The K-State Collegian is a good newspaper. Students have every right to be proud of it. Evidently they aren't. People, quite naturally, believe only what they want to, and read only what they want to. A major premise of propaganda is based on this. If a paper is fair, objective, and above all, truthful, it is fulfilling a mission drastically needed in any community.

Starkweather on Trial for Life; Girlfriend Implicated in Killings

Compiled from United Press
By CHAS. H. SCHREIBER

Lincoln — Charles Starkweather, the redhaired garbage man who left a bloody trail of 11 bodies across two states, goes on trial for his life today just as evidence damaging to his 14-year-old girl friend was revealed.

Starkweather, 19, has confessed to all 11 slayings, but his lawyers produced photographs of a jail wall in Gering, Neb., where the killer was held shortly after his capture. He had scribbled on the wall:

"They got us January 28, 1958.
"Kill 11 persons.
"Charles kill 9—all men.
"Caril kill 2—all girls."

Caril is Caril Fugate, the overgrown schoolgirl who was with Starkweather on his rampage of terror. She is now in a state mental hospital pending a ruling whether she is to be tried for murder or as a juvenile.

Starkweather's murder chart was off, in any event. Only six of the victims were male. Four were women and one a baby girl.

His court-appointed attorneys, T. Clement Gaughan and William F. Matschullat, said they would enter a plea today of innocent by reason of insanity in the worst mass slaying since Howard Unruh took 13 lives in New Jersey in 1949.

A special guard of at least 25 deputies was posted around the Lancaster County courthouse to guard against an attack on Starkweather.

Statehood Bill Pushed

Washington — A determined new drive to make Alaska a state this year gained momentum in Congress today.

Statehood advocates in the House continued to push forward with plans to get the bill onto the floor for a vote within a week.

Simultaneously, a leading Alaska booster in the Senate called for an end to the "prolonged paralysis" that has kept statehood legislation "languishing" in both Houses.

In a full-dress speech prepared for delivery today, Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) said the congressional fear of changing the "status quo" of legislative representation is the "only real barrier" to statehood for the territory.

Church said the American people "so preponderantly favor Alaskan statehood . . . that our continued failure to grant it can only be regarded as a deliberate flouting of the popular will."

River Claims Clarified

San Francisco—Six states involved in a six-year-old battle over Colorado river water rights advanced a host of specific claims, but the U.S. government could teach them a thing or two about being specific.

Federal attorneys testified Saturday that their claims include water for 785 skunks, 463 coyotes, 57 cougars, 261 bobcats, and 112 gila monsters.

Hoover Criticizes Courts

Washington—FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover says recent court decisions have turned crime and subversion into "critical challenges" to law enforcement agencies.

Hoover told a House Appropriations subcommittee recently that the courts must "come to grips in a realistic manner with facts and join all forces for good in protecting society."

Hoover emphasized that he had "the utmost respect for the independence of the courts," which are not and never should be "a mere rubber stamp for the other branches of government."

He made no reference to a pending Senate bill to limit the jurisdiction of the Supreme Court and to nullify some of its decisions in the field of loyalty and security.

But he complained that "court decisions" have wiped out 49 of the 108 convictions of communists found guilty by juries of violating the Smith act's ban on teaching and advocating the violent overthrow of the U. S. government.

Screen Scene

'Bridge on River Kwai' Deserves Highest Praise; 'Morningstar' Inept Adaptation of Wouk Novel

We've seldom seen a picture which rates higher praise than "The Bridge on the River Kwai," now playing at the Wareham theater, which is amazingly non-Hollywood.

William Holden plays the American element, while Alec Guinness and Jack Hawkins offer the British aspect, in the major roles.

The most astounding point of the movie is its ending—when it becomes a typical war movie, but offers psychological problems in each of its main characters. The viewer will find the progress of the viewpoints is not only acceptable—but even logical.

David Lean, as director, has done a more than capable job as director of a vast number of elements, and has refrained from making any nationality represent the "bad" or the "good."

The plot involves British soldiers who find themselves prisoners of the Japanese in 1943. After enduring various forms of torture, their Colonel Nichols (Guinness) emerges triumphant, as does the British spirit, and the officers and men proceed to show the Japanese just how a good bridge is built.

Unfortunately for the bridge and the colonel's desire to leave a lasting mark of his existence, a British demolition squad intends to make short work of the bridge, with the help of Holden, who has miraculously escaped from the jungle-prison earlier.

The outcome of the struggle—mental and physical—of these men is quite un-Hollywoodlike, and leaves a rather ominous note. The last words—"Madness! Madness!"—and the vultures circling overhead leave food for thought, as does the final picture of each of the individual characters.

Photography is up to Hollywood's top standards, and the island of Ceylon has made beautiful background for the movie. By all means, if finals are not too threatening, Staters should make a real attempt to tour the Kwai, if only as a movie audience.—Goss.

"Marjorie Morningstar," playing at the Campus, has little to recommend it. The best element in the movie is the song, "A Very Precious Love," but after the 10th or 20th time it fades in, the viewer gets the idea Hollywood latched onto a good song and wrote a movie around it.

Based on Herman Wouk's bestseller by the same name, the picture is a long and inept adaptation.

Natalie Wood plays Marjorie and, for the whole of what seems a long, long picture, her role consists of looking wide-eyed, tearfully hurt at every new development, obvious to the viewer but a shock to the naive Marjorie.

Gene Kelly, between songs (always the same one), comes off very unconvincingly as Marjorie's lover, with a yen for Broadway and a talent for summer playhouse work.

The only bright spot in the acting is Carolyn Jones, who delightfully portrays a friend of Marjorie's with one ambition: to find a husband with money.

Although her role would be classified only as a supporting one, she has all the good lines in a movie which reeks of trite dialogue and cliches.

Attesting to poor quality of the dialogue are several lines spoken by Miss Wood and Kelly with serious intent which bring laughs from the audience.

All this happens near the climax of what by all logic should be an unhappy ending. Kelly loves Wood and wants to be on Broadway. He neither gets to Broadway nor gets Wood. Wood only wants Kelly but gives him up. Very sad.

But Hollywood is undaunted. It ends the picture with Wood getting on a bus to leave Kelly forever. But in the back seat is an old friend who has always loved her. He smiles through the bus mirror at her and she returns the smile. They ride off into the afternoon and judging from the smiles and music all's well that ends well.—Gilmore.

Golf Team Loses Two

K-State's golf team continued to take it on the chin over the weekend as it absorbed its second and third straight losses. All were by one-point margins.

The Cats lost to Oklahoma university 6½-5½ Friday and Iowa State 8-7 Saturday, both defeats coming on the Manhattan Country Club course. K-State had been beaten by Nebraska at Lincoln Thursday 11-10.

It was the fourth one-point loss for the Cats in five starts and gave them an over-all record of 4-8. K-State has three dual matches left on its schedule.

It hosts Drake tomorrow and Kansas university Wednesday, and goes to Missouri for a Saturday match. Action ends for the Wildcats May 16 and 17 at the Big Eight meet at Ames.

K-State's only consolation over the weekend was the performance of Dave Smith, who fired a par 70 Friday in defeating Sooner Tom Black 3-0 and a sub-par 69 Saturday in downing Dale Fridley of Iowa State 3-0. Black had a 74 and Fridley a 77.

Oklahoma results:

Dave Smith (KS), 70, def. Tom Black, 74, 3-0.

Bill Black (OU), 75, def. Charles Hostetler, 77, 2-1.

Butch Cahoon (OU), 76, def. Jerry Smith, 80, 2-1.

Leonard Smoot, (OU), 74, def. Jerry Hendricks, 75, 2½-½.

Iowa State results:

Dave Smith (KS), 69, def. Dale Fridley, 77, 3-0.

Dick Farwell, (IS), 74, def. Charles Hostetler, 76, 2-1.

George Turner (IS), 75, def. Jerry Smith, 80, 2½-½.

Jerry Hendricks (KS), 83, def. Phil Ritz, 84, 2½-½.

Dale Everds (IS), 74, def. Max Richardson, 78, 3-0.

Tennis Team Tops ISC For Third Straight Win

K-State won its third straight tennis meet as it defeated Iowa State 5-2 here Saturday afternoon.

The meet was played in Ahearn gymnasium due to poor weather, and 12-game sets were used to decide the matches.

K-State's only losses came in the third and fourth singles matches.

This victory put the Cats above the .500 mark with a 7-6 season record.

This was the last home competition for K-State as it will meet Missouri at Columbia May 10 and close out the season in the Big Eight conference championships, also at Columbia May 16-17.

The Cyclones now have a record of 6-3 for the season.

Singles results:

Winston Tilzey (KS) defeated Mike Hoffman, 12-2

John Bird (KS) defeated Dick Sahr, 12-4

Ed Frankel (KS) defeated Dan Larsen, 15-13

Rog Barney (IS) defeated Keith Andler, 12-9

Dick Olson (IS) defeated John Stone, 12-9

Doubles results:

Tilzey - Bird (KS) defeated Hoffman-Barney, 12-7

Andler-Frankel (KS) defeated Olsen-Sahr, 12-9

Inept Cat Nine Drops Two, Stays in Unchallenged Last

K-State's baseball team clinched last place in Big Eight standings for at least one more week by dropping a Saturday doubleheader to Iowa State at Ames. The scores were 5-1 and 3-0. K-State's cellar mark is now 2-9.

The single game Friday was cancelled because of rain.

The Cats committed three errors in the first inning of the opening seven-inning contest, permitting Iowa State to score three times. Two more K-State miscues in the sixth inning gave the Cyclones an additional two runs. Joe Vader was the losing pitcher, and Gene Flaherty won for Iowa State.

Mike Lair held Iowa State to three runs in the nightcap, but his teammates could not score. Lair holds K-State's only two victories, and lost his first game of the season. R. A. Locker was the winner.

In other league action, Missouri university, by winning just one game from Oklahoma university, moved from second to first place in league standings. Oklahoma by losing the one game dropped from first to fourth. Oklahoma had been on top with a 6-2 record, but after the loss to Missouri is 6-3. Missouri moved up to a 6-2 record and top spot in the Big Eight.

Oklahoma State university won three from Nebraska university, and is now second with a 8-3 record. Kansas university moved into third by winning three from Colorado university. Kansas is now 7-3.

K-State plays three games with Oklahoma next weekend at Norman, Iowa State will meet Missouri at Columbia, Colorado will play three at Oklahoma State, and Kansas meets Nebraska at Lincoln.

Thinclads To Host KU; Intramurals Postponed
